I say were. Most of them now are longing to go, and urge the owner of the only ferry in the canyon (my friend and Arizona partner, Mr. W. W. Bass), to take them over. This change of heart comes from two things. They see that Mr. Bass and others go over and return in safety, laden with the good things of the north side, and, more potent still, Chick-a-pan-a-gie (the one Indian we have taken over), has told them marvelous, but true, stories of the vast numbers of deer and antelope that roam through the dense forests on the other side. To prove his words he has twice brought back jerked venison enough to last his family for a whole winter, and such evidence is exceedingly powerful to an Indian, whose stomach is empty.

But as yet we have taken only the one Indian over. The others must wait awhile. Trails are expensive to build and keep in order, and Indians, like many white people, are willing to reap all the benefits of other people's labor without sharing in the work.

The Hopis have an interesting legend connecting Tiyo, their mythical cultus hero, with the Colorado river, a legend most beautifully told by Dr. J. Walter Tewkes in his monograph on the Snake Dance.

The Navahoes, too, have stories, as also the Chemehuevis, Mohaves and Zumas, which, however, I must tell at another time.

SPORTING NEWS

GOLF.

While a few wildly enthusiastic golfers visited the Park Golf Club course, Saturday afternoon, the number was not large enough to permit the holding of the regular weekly competition for the President's cup. The course had just recovered from the effects of former rains and was getting in fine condition for play.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Oct. 13—The only event on the Westfield Golf Club course, Saturday, was a ball sweepstake and there were only two contestants that turned in scores as follows: Joseph Sherman, 94, 10—84; J. A. Woodward, 101, 12—89. Saturday the golf team will play a match with the Suburban Club, of Elizabeth, and the following Saturday the Westfield Club will entertain the Marine and Field Club, of Brooklyn. Election Day there will be mixed foursomes in the morning. In the afternoon there will be a putting contest for women, to be followed by a tea at the clubhouse.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

The Orange Field Club football eleven will meet tomorrow evening for practice.

The Orange Field Club football team and the Somerset A. C. eleven did not play on Saturday. The latter team failed to show up.

Owing to the severe storm of Saturday Leal's football eleven did not go to Montclair to play the Montclair Athletic Association. Another date will be arranged later.

The Elks football team, Cranford, opened its season at Roosevelt Manor grounds, Saturday afternoon, by defeating the Roselle F. C. by a score of 5 to 0. Despite the sloppy condition of the field, the Cranford team put up a very snappy game. Roselle won the toss and secured the ball, but failing to gain the five yards lost the ball on downs. The Elks took the ball and had it within one yard of the Roselle goal when time was called. In the second half Cranford made an exciting touchdown in the last minute of the game, winning by a score of 5 to 0. The halves were only fifteen minutes, owing to the weather.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

Once more the matinee races were postponed on account of the rain. It was the intention of the Plainfield Driving Club to hold its matinee races Saturday, but the rain for the third consecutive week interfered. If the weather will permit the races will be held Saturday.

ON THE DIAMOND.

As was surmised early in the day, rain spoiled the benefit baseball game between the Hope and Scotch Plains teams, Saturday. As the season is now so far advanced it is doubtful if the game could be played the coming Saturday and it may be called off.

GERM-PROOF HOUSES COMING

FIRE AND WATER SAYS THEY MAY BE EXPECTED SOON.

Gives Some Idea of What Such a House Would Be Like—The Details in General.

Fireproof houses are claimed as accomplished facts. This next style of building to occupy the public attention is to be a germproof house, says Fire and Water. It is not yet actually in existence, but medical congresses are busily, even hopefully paving the way for its advent.

When it arrives and all are thoroughly scientific and uncomfortable their homes will be single-storied, without stairs, built on gravel soil, destitute of cellars, with concrete and blocks of earthenware "pieced for ventilation" placed under the floor, and the ordinary bricks "will be superseded by glazed and tightly-fitting hygienic bricks." The roof will be tiled, not slated, and the windows will reach from top to bottom of the walls. The dining table will be polished mahogany, the chairs cushionless or stuffed with medicated wool. The walls ought to be made of a cement that take a high polish, can be stained to any color and washed frequently.

Curtains and draperies of all kinds will be abolished; pictures will be permitted only when let into the cement wall; for artistic touches we shall be depending on "plants of the India rubber and eucalyptus type." In no room will there be corners to harbor dust and bacteria, and the skirting will always curve into the hardwood parquet floor, instead of striking them at right angles. A combination of fireproof and germproof house should secure owner and tenant a big reduction in fire and life insurance rates.

A house shown in a large picture recently printed is one of six for which prizes have been awarded by the Paris municipality, in the annual Concours de facades instituted by the town as an incentive to architects and house owners to do their best to improve the aspect of street fronts in Paris. The whole front of this house—at No. 29 Avenue Rapp, Paris—is constructed of enameled ceramic and stoneware materials, and the walls, floors, partitions and roof of the building itself are built on an essentially fireproof system of steel-colored re-enforced brick and re-enforced cement, called the Cottancin system. The front is also steel-colored, and is tied by this means to the basket core of the main building, thus permitting the architect to execute an original and very bold design with heavy projections, which would have been almost impossible with ordinary materials of construction.

Holy Name Society Met.

Following the regular service at St. Mary's church, last evening, the young men of the parish met and organized the Holy Name Society. Officers to serve until January were elected as follows: President, Arthur Boone; treasurer, John O'Keefe; secretary, William Birmingham. The charter list contains 100 names. Regular meetings are to be held once each month.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

LITTLE ONES GRADUATED

A FEATURE OF RALLY DAY AT THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Recitations and Songs Included in the Programme—The Size of the School.

Rally Day was appropriately observed at the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Sunday-school, the event marking the opening of the fall and winter work. The programme included two recitations, one by Miss Jessie Clawson and the other by Lawrence French. There were three songs by the primary department and a rally song by the intermediate department.

An event of special interest was the graduation of four girls and two boys from Miss White's baby class to the primary department. Mrs. Hannah Flanders will be the teacher for this class.

Some of the teachers in the main school spoke of the rally days in the Bible, beginning at the time of Noah, and Mrs. Powlison, superintendent of the primary department, taught the lesson for the afternoon.

The primary department has an enrollment of forty-seven, while Miss White's class is composed of forty children under six years of age. There are enrolled in the intermediate department sixty-three scholars and sixty were present yesterday. One was detained at home on account of quarantine, while the other two were out of town. The total number present was 354, of which number forty-one were teachers and six officers. The collection amounted to $22.38.

ARCHITECTS' EXAMINATIONS

WILL BE HELD IN JERSEY CITY BY THE STATE BOARD.

Semi-Annual Examinations Set for November 19, 20 and 21—Some of the Requirements.

The New Jersey State Board of Architects has arranged to hold its first semi-annual examination for those who desire to obtain certificates to practice architecture within the State Nov. 19, 20 and 21. The examinations will be held at the rooms of the Board, 1 Exchange place, Jersey City.

On the three days written examinations will be held, morning sessions lasting from 9:30 to 12:30; and the afternoon sessions from 1:30 to 5:30 o'clock. On the third day the morning session will last from 9:30 to 1:30 o'clock. The afternoon of the third day may be occupied with such questions as may be considered necessary in order to complete the examinations.

All applicants must be at least twenty-one years old and all applications for examinations must be made on the forms provided by the board, copies of which will be furnished at the office of the secretary, Hugh Roberts, 1 Exchange place, Jersey City.

Applicants will be expected to possess a proper knowledge of the ordinary constructive process in carpentry, masonry and steel work, with the ability to make such calculations as occur in ordinary practice, with the aid of such reference books as are usually employed in an architect's office, including the graphic analysis of trusses.

The subjects for examinations will be generally as follows: Under materials and construction—Foundations, stone masonry, mortar, brick masonry, cast-iron work, carpentry, joinery, tinners' work, plastering and painting. Under strength of materials—The candidate's knowledge of tension, compression, cast-iron columns, shearing, transverse strain, steel floor beams and roof trusses will be tested. Under supervision — The applicant should be prepared to pass an examination on excavations, stone masonry, brick masonry, roofing and plastering. The tests in draughtsmanship, rendering, design and the art of planning, will consist of the making of preliminary studies of a problem as if given by a client to an architect. This part of the examination will also be conducted with a view to demonstrating each candidate's "ability to make practical application of his or her knowledge in the professional work of an architect."

The examination in sanitation will be on any or all of the following subjects: Soil pipes and traps, plumbing fixtures, cold water supply and fixtures, hot water supply, hot air furnaces and pipes, steamheating and ventilation.

Any further information may be secured by applying to the secretary or any of the members of the Board.

The act forming the Board of Architectural Examiners was passed at the last session of the Legislature and was approved by Governor Murphy March 24, 1902. The Board is composed of five members as follows: Charles P. Baldwin, of Newark, president; Hugh Roberts, of Jersey City, secretary and treasurer; Arnold H. Moses, of Camden; Charles Edwards, of Paterson, and David E. Provoost, of Elizabeth.

DOUBLE QUARTETTE IN COURT

ALL HAD BEEN DRUNK AND WERE GATHERED IN SINCE SATURDAY.

Some Were Old Offenders—A Few Strangers Also Fell Into the Police Drag Net.

Eight unfortunates, who were picked up in a more or less degree of intoxication since Saturday night, lined up before City Judge Runyon, at this morning's session of the city court. They were as follows:

James Quinn, of Dunellen, found on East Front street, Saturday night by Patrolman Vanderweg; paid a fine of $5.

George Totten, of the borough, arrested Saturday evening by Patrolman Vanderweg; paid a fine of $3.

George Archbold and Charles Long, two husbandmen from Scotch Plains way, found helplessly drunk on East Front street, Saturday night by Patrolman Saffron. Long was fined $2 and sentence was supsended on Archbold as he had been confined in a cell while his companion was released on security.

Michael Gleason, an old offender, who was arrested on East Second street, by Patrolman Saffron, Saturday evening, was allowed to fix his own penalty to be imposed the time he comes before the court. He thought ninety days would be sufficient and he was released with that understanding.

Joseph Green, arrested last evening on Somerset street by Patrolman Quass, for disorderly conduct; paid a fine of $3.

Patrick Lawler and James Radin, arrested by Patrolman McCarthy, for fighting on Watchung avenue, yesterday afternoon, were each fined $3 or ten days. They took the former.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—All the apples sold by Neuman Brothers are hand picked. They have a nice lot of Northern Spies, Greenings, Baldwins and Kings.

—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Dunham, 510 Madison avenue, to discuss plans for the coming fair.

—Prof. Herman Hovemann, of New York, vocal teacher of the best known church soloists of this city, has resumed his instructions at 152 Park avenue. He is especially prepared for professional work.

A Horse Stolen.

Someone stole a valuable horse belonging to Stonewall Jackson, last evening. The animal was out at pasture and was taken to Stine's farm, where he was hitched to a wagon and driven away. There is not the slightest clew as to who took the horse, but the police have been notified and an effort will be made to get trace of the rig.

Too Much Gas.

There was some excitement in the Miller building in Park avenue yesterday when the place was found to be filled with gas. A persistent search failed to reveal the cause until last evening, when it was learned that one of the tenants had turned the gas in a range and had forgotten to shut it off. The trouble was soon remedied.

Timber Fell on His Back.

Walter Bennett, an employe at the Plainfield Electric Light Company plant, is detained at home, the result of a severe injury received last Friday afternoon. A heavy piece of timber fell on Mr. Bennett's back crippling him so that he is unable to walk. He will be detained from work for some time.

Michael Welch Arrested.

Michael Welch, a motorman on the local trolley line, was arrested this morning on a serious charge preferred by Miss Josie Luft. He will be released for trial as soon as a bondsman can be procured by his counsel, Francis J. Blatz.

Funeral of T. J. Cotter.

The funeral services of the late Thomas J. Cotter were held this morning from St. Mary's church. Rev. Father Egan officiated. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

No Clambake.

Owing to dampness of the ground the Gesang and Turn Verein did not hold its clambake yesterday as arranged. It will now be given up for this year.

Two Baptized.

Two children, one an infant, were baptized by Dr. Schenck at yesterday morning's service in Trinity Reformed church.

S. S. CHILDS FOR SENATOR

Democratic County Convention Reconvened and Recommended a New Ticket.

HELD AT SOMERVILLE

Childs Put Up for Senator, DeMond for Surrogate and S. S. Swackhamer for the Assembly—N. Y. Dungan Refused to Run for the Assembly Nomination.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, October 14—The Somerset Democrats formally untangled their troubles this morning and nominated a new county ticket for the coming election. The results were as follows:

For senator—Samuel S. Childs.
For surrogate—Wm. J. DeMond.
For Assembly—S. S. Swackhamer.

According to the decision of the Democratic county committee, the county convention was reconvened this morning at 11 o'clock at the Court House. James J. Bergen, chairman of the convention, called the meeting to order and explained the situation. After the convention of October 8, a misunderstanding had arisen which had resulted in the resignation of all the candidates on the ticket, he explained. The committee on vacancies didn't care to fill all these vacancies without consulting the wishes of the delegates so the convention was reconvened.

Major N. Y. Dungan was brought to the fore and explained his position. When he had accepted the nomination, he declared that he had supposed it came to him fairly. When he found that it had not, he refused to accept it. He denied that any pressure had been brought to bear to persuade him to resign.

By formal vote it was unanimously decided to recommend to the committee on vacancies that Samuel S. Childs be nominated for State senator. In the same way the convention made known its wish to retain Wm. J. DeMond as candidate for surrogate.

N. Y. Dungan was suggested for the Assembly nomination but he promptly refused to accept the place and E. V. Cruser, of Montgomery, presented the name of S. S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield, and his name was recommended for the place. The convention then adjourned at 11:20 o'clock. The committee on nominations will meet at J. J. Bergen's office tomorrow morning and follow the recommendations of the convention.

Samuel S. Childs.

William J. DeMond.

MADE NO FIGHT.

Mayor N. B. Smalley Did Not Contest for Chairmanship of Republican County Committee.

A mistaken impression was given in The Daily Press yesterday regarding the proceedings at the meeting of the Republican Somerset county committee at Somerville. There was no attempt made by Mayor N. B. Smalley to contest for the chairmanship of the committee although his name was presented for that office by a friend from Bound Brook. It was withdrawn almost immediately by Mayor Smalley himself who declared that he would not accept it now.

Mayor Smalley attempted to resign from the committee altogether but his resignation was not accepted. He said that he wanted it understood that even if it was not accepted he was doing no active work this campaign. He had done his best to promote harmony in the Republican ranks and his efforts had been thwarted.

Suit Against Trolley.

The suit of Mary L. Allen and husband, of Cranford, against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company, for injuries received, will be heard in the Supreme court, tomorrow. The demand is for $10,000. John P. Owens, of this city, is the plaintiff's counsel.

Welch Released on Bail.

Michael Welch, the trolley motorman, arrested by the local police, yesterday, on a serious charge, was released last night in $400 bail, through the efforts of his counsel. Francis J. Blatz. He will be given a hearing before Judge Runyon on October 27.

DRUM CORPS FAIR OPENS

ANNUAL EVENT OF INDEPENDENT F. AND D. CORPS BEGAN LAST NIGHT.

Dancing Was Chief Attraction—Those in Charge at the Various Tables.

More complete in detail than many of its predecessors, the annual fair of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps began in Saengerbund Hall, last evening. The initial attendance was very large and the indications point to a successful week for the organization.

As usual, dancing was and is to be the feature, but other attractions are numerous and are to be added to each night. A prominent part is the fancy donation tables at which handsome articles are sold and chanced off. This is in charge of Mrs. Samuel Terry, Mrs. C. Beekman, Miss Laura Miller and Miss Margaret Shepperd. A candy table where all manner of confections is being disposed of is presided over by Mrs. Frank Manchester and Mrs. A. Devine.

The "hit the baby" rack is much in evidence and the nickels are taken in by Ray Carver and Don Bechtel. Soda water is sold by D. V. Force, Samuel V. Terry and Frank March and the bowlers in the basement are taken care of by Charles Pawson and George Hermann.

The executive committee in charge of the entire affair consists of J. V. Beekman, chairman; H. G. Adams and J. H. Adams. It is assisted by the general committee consisting of D. V. Force, S. E. Terry, Frank March, Frank Manchester, M. H. Brokaw, Frank Carver and Ray Carver. William Kreitling has charge of the box office and Harry Elliott and Robert Alpaugh are taking care of the check room and door.

CALLED A PASTOR.

Trustees of the Swedish Lutheran Church Called Rev. A. Arens.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Swedish Lutheran church, held last evening in charge of Rev. Neilsonius, of Brooklyn, it was decided to extend a call to Rev. A. Arens, of Passaic, to fill the pulpit vacancy. Gustav Peterson was elected a trustee and a committee of three was appointed to look up sites with the intention of erecting a church edifice. The congregation is at present meeting in Grace church chapel.

GOING BY TRAIN.

Plans for Outing of Perseverance Lodge to Newark Next Week.

Failure to obtain a closed car for the purpose of going by trolley has altered the plans of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., to visit Covenant Lodge, of Newark, Monday evening. The members will instead be conveyed on a special car attached to one of the New Jersey Central's regular trains but will be returned at the convenience of the lodge. It is expected that seventy-five Knights will make the trip.

Distinction for Miss Shinn.

The American Baptist Missionary Union has made the regulation that missionaries in Burma, at the end of three years, shall pass examinations in the vernacular and English. Miss Julia G. Shinn, a teacher in the Burman School at Bassein, has the distinction of being the first woman to pass the examinations in both the Burmese and English languages. Miss Shinn has many friends in Plainfield, where she lived some years before entering on mission work in Burma.

Gifts of Coal.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Armstrong, of Brooklyn, celebrated the tenth anniversary of their marriage. Among the guests present were Miss Mary Brown, Arthur Denton, Miss May Brown, from this city, and Miss Nellie Brown of Dunellen. A feature of the affair was the fact that every one of the guests gave the celebrants a package of coal. A handsomely decorated coal scuttle, filled with coal, formed the center of the decoration on the table.

Social at Hope.

The Woman's Missionary Society, of Hope chapel, will give an entertainment and sociable this evening. A programme of vocal and instrumental music will be rendered after which refreshments will be served. The proceeds will be devoted to the society treasury.

Injured His Finger.

Charles Jeter, of Foss & Jeter, is suffering with a painful injury to his finger. A few days ago the fin from a blue fish got under the nail of the finger and after being extracted the flesh assumed large proportions and is very sore.

WILL SUPPLY COAL TO PLAINFIELD HOMES

Organized Aid Association Has Come to the Aid of Those Without Coal.

A SUPPLY IS EXPECTED

COMMITTEE APPEALED TO THE PRODUCERS WITH SUCCESS.

Arrangements Will be Made for Its Sale in Buckets or Very Small Lots at Cost Price Under the Supervision of Association.

Realizing the prospect of great suffering and sickness among the small wage earners in consequence of the continuation of the coal strike, the Organized Aid Association at a recent meeting appointed the president and the secretary, Supt. H. M. Maxson and W. S. Tyler, a committee to plan some way of relief. This committee has found that practically no coal is to be had in town and that the wood supply does not promise adequate relief very long. Great suffering is therefore inevitable unless householders and associations that have secured a supply are willing to give up a portion for those in need, or outside supplies can be procured at a reasonable price.

In searching for an outside supply, the committee has gone direct to the producer and has presented the case with such success that the members have strong hopes of receiving a consignment of a carload at an early date.

If they are successful in this, arrangements will be made for its sale in buckets or very small lots at cost price, under the supervision of the association. The aim will be to meet the needs of the small consumer, the family with no resources, and the charitable associations.

There will be nothing of charity in the matter, since there seems at the present time to be no lack of work but only a lack of purchasable coal, the effort of the Organized Aid Association being to furnish at cost what is now practically unattainable, to tide the people of small means along until coal is again in the market and thus prevent the suffering and sickness that must ensue unless some way of escape is provided for those who have no resources.

A BOLD BANDMASTER.

Such is Duss Who Appears Here October 23.

Duss, who with his great band, will be at the Casino, Thursday afternoon, October 23, is judged a pretty bold bandmaster by knowing music lovers who have seen but not heard his programme, for the new genius thinks nothing of attempting the most ambitious compositions, the heaviest works of the world's serious composers. The ordinary bandmaster confines his leadership to strictly band music, marches, national airs, patriotic melodies, etc., but Duss, the strange musical genius whose odd work astonished all New York for over one hundred consecutive nights, plays Wagner, Mozart, Beehoven, Mendelssohn, et al, with the same ease as he renders his encore numbers, light waltzes, serenades, polkas, etc. It was this daring attempt at heavy classical material by a band that brought Duss his first New York fame. Manager Johnston's preliminary programme announcements were laughed at, but the smiles of doubting Thomas were turned to strenuous shouts of praise when Duss skillfuly accomplished his bold undertaking. There are many musical experts here in Plainfield, and numbers of them have freely expressed their wonderment at the unusual programme played by Duss in New York, and now that we have Duss' announcement that he will render the same heavy pieces here, it will be interesting to observe the effect such an undertaking will have upon those who will hear the bold bandmaster for the first time.

Wedding at Marconnier.

Prettily decorated in an attractive dress of autumnal foliage, Marconnier chapel will be the scene of an interesting wedding on Wednesday afternoon, November 5, at 2:30 o'clock, when Miss Bertha E. Hansheer and William E. VanCourt, both residents of Oak Tree and members of the chapel, will be united in marriage. The affair will be attended by a number of guests from Oak Tree and vicinity.

—Neuman Brothers have an extra large assortment of fancy, handpicked apples. Special price by the barrel.

TO CARE FOR CITY PARK

THE TOWN IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION HELD A MEETING.

Going to Cut Up Old Trees—More Waste Paper Cans for the City.

The Town Improvement Association met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Craig A. Marsh, on West Eight street, to discuss several questions within the province of the association's work.

The question of fixing the city park, where the laying of the storm sewer has disturbed the sod, was conisdered and it as decided to fix it, as well as place a dressing over the entire park. It was also decided to place stone flagging around the foot of the public drinking fountain, where children and others have trodden the grass down.

Another matter decided was that of having four dead trees removed from the park to be cut up for kindling wood, and some shrubbery will be removed from a certain bed and placed in another one.

It was the unanimous opinion of all that the tin cans about the city used for the reception of waste papers, etc., are a good thing and it is quite likely that the association will buy two or three more cans, one to be placed on Watchung avenue near the trolley station. The association has written Street Commissioner Gavett concerning the matter and a reply is awaited before anything is done.

There was a good attendance at yesterday's meeting and much interest was shown in the various questions discussed. The association meets about once a year, when all matters needing attention are considered.

POLICE HAD SNAKES.

Edmund Scott Was Sure They Used Them to Frighten Him—Arraigned in the City Court.

Police persecution is not confined to the Metropolis, according to Edmund Scott, a much arrested colored man. He was arraigned before City Judge Runyon, this morning, on a charge of drunkenness, but Edmund insisted that he was only "cavorting" about because Patrolman Vanderweg scared him with snakes, a thing which he has been doing right along, despite his objections. The patrolman denied carrying snakes about with him, but Edmund was sure he did and as proof declared he had counted them.

At the judge's request, Vanderweg promised not to do anything to make Edmund suspicion he was annoying him with reptiles and Edmund also promised to refrain from drinking, after which he was released with a suspended sentence.

Death of Mrs. Albert Egan.

Mrs. Albert Egan, formerly Miss Mary F. Clark, daughter of the late John R. Clark, of Plainfield, died from accidental poisoning at her home in Elizabeth, on Saturday evening. She leaves a husband and a daughter. The funeral services will be held from her late home, 312 Franklin street, Elizabeth, this evening at 8 o'clock. Interment will be in the Methodist cemetery, this city, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

Ready for Veterans.

The mnmbers of the Women's Relief Corps have completed arrangements for the entertainment of the members of the Thirtieth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, tomorrow. It is expected that there will be a large attendance of veterans.

Among the Speakers.

Rev. Dr. Henson, the well-known Baptist divine, will be among the speakers at the sessions of the East New Jersey Baptist Sunday-school convention to be held in the Scotch Plains Baptist church, Tuesday, October 21.

They Entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. F. Randolph, of 10 Craig Place, entertained some friends at their home last evening. The evening was pleasantly spent in singing and recitations, after which refreshments were served.

Dancing Class.

Professor Finnigan, the well-known dancing instructor, will open a class in the I. C. T. Club rooms, tomorrow evening. He has engaged Suhr's Imperial orchestra for the season.

Missionary Meeting.

There will be a missionary meeting at the First Presbyterian church, tomorrow evening, when facts of interest in relation to mission work will be related.

Reception to Pastor.

The members of Grace M. E. church will give a reception, Thursday evening to their pastor, Rev. E. L. Earp and wife at the parsonage on Park place.

GOOD PROGRAMME.

Initial Star Course Entertainment Held at Y. M. A. Hall Last Evening.

The initial Star Course entertainment of the season was given at the Y. M. C. A. last evening before a good-sized audience. The programme was furnished by the John Thomas Concert Company, consisting of John Thomas, humorist; Annie Webster Thomas, violin; Lora May Lamport, soprano, and Clara Stone, pianist. The programme presented was a select one and was heartily appreciated. Every number was well given in a finished and acceptable manner.

John Thomas was exceedingly funny and with little effort convulsed the audience with laughter. The vocal selections by Miss Lamport revealed a carefully-trained voice of wide range and under perfect control, while the violin selections by Miss Thomas were delightful. She handled the instrument in a masterly way and every note was given with expression. The piano selections and accompaniment by Miss Stone were all to be desired. Her selections were popular and finely executed. Frequent and hearty applause was given each number, calling for encores.

NO CHANGE.

President Mitchell Has Made No Statement As to Terms of Arbitration Offered.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New York, Oct. 14—There is no change in the coal situation up to the hour of noon. The morning papers publish all that has been accomplished as yet. The coal operators, through Pierpont Morgan, have made an offer to President Roosevelt to appoint a commission to inquire into the trouble, both sides to agree to the decision reached. As yet President Mitchell, of the United Mine Worker's Association, has not given his decision, whether he will accept the offer. The question is now practically up to him.

Married in Newark.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Joseph Trainor and Miss Katherine Kelley, both of this city, which took place at Newark on August 5. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Oneill with no one in attendance but the necessary witnesses. The young people have been making their home on Richmond street.

Morgan Passed Through.

J. Pierpont Morgan, the financier, and his business partner, Bacon, went through Plainfield last evening between 5 and 6 o'clock in a special train of the Royal Blue Line, on their way to Washington to confer with President Roosevelt concerning the coal strike. They arrived at the Capitol about 10 o'clock.

No Polk Miller Concert.

Secretary J. H. Manning, of the Y. M. C. A., received word late yesterday afternoon that the Polk Miller concert for this evening could not be given as all his engagements had been cancelled. The reason was explained by Mr. Miller's manager to be a serious throat affliction, caused by appearing in a cold hall.

To Announce Baseball Dinner Day.

A special meeting of the Hope Y. M. A. will be held this evening at which time the date will be announced when the dinner to the baseball team is to take place. The committee in charge proposes making it an enjoyable affair and will have several prominent people present in addition to members of the team.

Home From Virginia.

Rev. George B. Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, who has been in Virginia for three weeks past in the interest of the Sabbath-school work of the Seventh-Day Baptist denomination is expected to return home this week. His pulpit, Saturday, was occupied by Rev. C. L. Goodrich.

Extenuating Circumstances.

John Slover faced City Judge Runyon, this morning, on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct preferred against him by Patrolman Vanderweg. He pleaded guilty, but extenuating circumstances resulted in his being released with suspended sentence.

To Pay Off Church Debt.

An effort is being made to clear off the indebtedness on the Crescent Avenue church before the departure of Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards. A collection was received Sunday for this purpose and it is believed that the amount, $5,000, will soon be raised.

I. C. T. Club Meeting.

An important meeting of the I. C. T. Club will be held this evening. Business that needs immediate attention is to be transacted and every member is asked to be in attendance.

ALL HARMONY AT PRIMARIES

The Republicans Nominated Ward Candidates Without Sign of Any Contests.

THE CANDIDATES NAMED

Ralph I. Tolles, Wm. A. Garrigues, Wm. Tyler and Frank D. Randolph, Were Nominated for Ward Councilmen—The Delegates to the City Convention.

Very different were the Republican city primaries of last evening from those held here a few weeks ago. Instead of a bitter factional fight in three of the four wards, harmony in large quantities prevaded all four wards. Ralph T. Tolles, William A. Garrigues, William Tyler and Frank D. Randolph were nominated for ward councilmen while sundry justices of the peace, constables, delegates to the city convention, and members of the city committee were chosen as well.

Not a fight developed in a single primary and the vote was light when compared with the figures of a few weeks ago. While the delegates to the city convention, which will be held Thursday night, were not pledged to any particular slate, it is generally understood that there will be a harmonious gathering on that occasion and that the candidates mentioned in last night's Daily Press will be unanimously elected.

FIRST WARD.

The First ward Republican primary was void of any sensational features, as was expected. There was no opposition to the regular ticket and this received 153 straight tickets, with no scratches. The business meeting was called to order by Horace G. Adams and Councilman J. F. Buckle was made chairman. Andrew J. Stiglitz was chosen secretary. The ward officers were judge, D. S. Dunavan; inspector, Andrew J. Stiglitz; clerk, Frank Smalley. The delegates to the city convention were empowered to fill any vacancies and the executive committee was empowered to fill any vacancies in the nominations.

The ticket elected at the primary is as follows:

For member of the Common Council, Ralph I. Tolles; for delegates to city convention, Harry C. VanEmburgh, C. J. Mackay, Jacob C. Dunham, Herbert D. Templin, Samuel P. T. Wilbur, Charles J. Newman, Casper Steadle, I. B. Hill, W. F. Dunn; for justice of the peace, U. B. Crane; for constable, David S. Pope; for members of the city committee, Olin L. Jenkins, Horace G. Adams, James F. Buckle.

SECOND WARD.

Harmony prevailed at the Second ward primary, held in the Bryant School building. Even the rumor that B. W. Mills might make a fight for the councilmanic nomination failed to bring out a crowd and fifty-six ballots in all were counted. The Mills boom did not materialize and there were but few scratches from the regular ticket which was the only one in the field.

Despite the pressure brought to bear upon Councilman George P. Mellick, he refused to accept a renomination and William A. Garrigues was settled upon to fill his place. Mr. Garrigues was nominated without opposition. The remainder of the ticket was as follows: For delegates to the city convention, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, Joseph E. Morse, F. K. VanAuken, Charles H. Hand, Edward Willis, George P. Mellick, Daniel F. Ginna, Charles C. Davis and Ralph K. Miner; for justice of the peace, Joseph E. Moslier; for constable, Stephen R. Hope; for members of city committee, Charles S. Foote, John E. Keely, J. Hervey Doane.

At the short business session, the delegates were empowered to fill vacancies. It was called to order by City Judge William N. Runyon. Charles S. Foote acted as chairman and Charles B. Morse secretary. The primary officers were: Judge, J. Hervey Doane; clerk, W. P. Spangenberg; inspector, Armstrong Mulford.

THIRD WARD.

The poll in the Third ward was remarkably light but a total of forty-seven votes being cast. But one ticket was in the field and this was voted entire with the exception of two cases.

Robert Rushmore called the meeting to order and B. Frank Coriell was

FASTER THAN THE MONMOUTH

A CRACK STEAMER TO BE BUILT FOR THE SANDY HOOK ROUTE.

Jersey Central Plans to Have a New Craft for Its Favorite Line.

The crack steamer Monmouth, of the Sandy Hook line, will have to take a back seat next summer, it is believed. She has for years had the reputation of being the fastest boat of her size in New York waters, and has been the pacemaker for many ambitious owners of new boats. Only two or three steam yachts, like the Arrow and Elida, have ever beaten her over the course between New York and Atlantic Highlands. Hundreds of others have tried and fallen astern after steaming a few miles.

Good as the Monmouth is, she is doomed to be beaten if plans do not miscarry. The Central Railroad Company is arranging to build another boat for this popular route, and the plans are nearly completed. It will be upon the same general plan as the Monmouth and Sandy Hook, with more powerful engines, bigger boilers and greater length of hull, while the beam will be about the same. It is hoped to finish the boat before the opening of the season of 1903. She will probably be built at a Delaware river yard, and no expense will be spared in the construction or fitting.

The hull will be of steel, with water-tight compartments, and the engines will be of the quadruple-expansion type, working twin screws. There will be two funnels and two batteries of boilers. It is expected that the new boat will make twenty-two knots an hour under natural draught. This would enable her to run from the wharf at Pier 8 to Atlantic Highlands in considerably less than an hour, the distance being 20½ knots. With forced draught she might be able to make the run in less than three-quarters of an hour.

When the new boat goes into commission the number of trips by boat and train will be increased, an hourly service being maintained throughout the day.

THEATRICAL.

All roads seem to lead to the St. Nicholas Garden, corner of Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue, New York, since the opening of the Bostock's Zoological Congress and Trained Animal Arena at that house. From the inaugural performance up o the present time the capacity of his auditorium, vast as it is, has been taxed to accommodate the crowds that have been astounded and thrilled by the sensationalism and novelty attending the exhibition. Truly has Frank C. Bostock, earned the synonym of "Animal King" andr oyally has he kept his word that he would present to Greater New York the most astonishing exhibit of trained animals the world have ever seen. Director Bostock has been especially fortunate in securing for the inaugural presentation of his huge entertainment in the city of New York, the St. Nicholas Garden which is centrally located and easily accessible from any part of Manhattan. The features that seem to have delighted metropolitan audiences the most, are those introducing Bonavita and his twenty-seven lions; Morelli and her group of performing panthers, leopards and jaguars; Prof. Weedon with his motley aggregation of animals that seem to be a modern reproduction of Noah's Ark galaxy; Prof. Miller and his elephants, Big Liz and Little Dot; and last but by no means least, Mr. Esau, the Man-Ape, who gives a performance so startling that he has amazed the most eminent scientists of New York and has been the occasion of more discussion by the savants, than any animal that has existed either in ancient or modern time.

Look Out for Fever.

Biliousness and liver disorders at this season may be prevented by cleansing the system with DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These famous little pills do not gripe. They move the bowels gently, but copiously, and by reason of the tonic properties, give tonic and strength to the glands. L. W. Randolph.

STATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL WORK

PREPARATIONS ARE BEING MADE FOR ANNUAL STATE CONVENTION.

Will be Held at First M. E Church, Trenton, on November 20 and 21.

Preparations are now being made for the annual convention of the New Jersey Sunday-school Association which will be held November 20 and 21 in the First Methodist church, Trenton.

The first meeting will be held at 2:15 o'clock Thursday afternoon, November 20. There will be a preliminary meeting held in the Third Presbyterian church, Trenton, Wednesday afternoon, November 19, for the elementary grade teachers. In the evening the New Jersey Superintendents' Union will hold a supper and conference in the banquet room of the Y. M. C. A.

State President James V. Foster, of Jersey City, has general charge of the arrangements for the gathering.

On the opening afternoon of the convention proper there will be brief addresses by Governor Murphy, Mayor Katzenbach, Rev. Mr. Robinson and others. Rev. Dr. Floyd W. Tompkins, of Philadelphia, will lead the devotional services.

Rev. Alexander Henry, of Philadelphia, Rev. Dr. Hurlburt, of Morristown, Rev. James Vance, of Newark, and Rev. Robert Doherty, of Jersey City, will deliver addresses at the closing session Friday afternoon.

The officers of the association are: President, James V. Forster, Jersey City.

Vice Presidents—First district (Atlantic, Cape May, Cumberland, Salem), William MacGeorge, Vineland; second district (Gloucester, Camden, Burlington), Walter M. Patton, St. Davids, Penn.; third district (Middlesex, Monmouth, Ocean), C. B. Parsons, Red Bank; fourth district (Hunterdon, Somerset, Mercer), Rev. Frank A. Smith, Somerville; fifth district (Sussex, Warren, Morris), Rev. Dr. Jesse L. Hurlburt, Morristown; sixth district (Passaic, Bergen, Hudson), Rev. Henry C. Cronin, Jersey City; seventh district (Essex, Union), Henry H. Dawson, Newark.

Recording secretary, Rev. Samuel D. Price, Shrewsbury.

Treasurer, William H. Heisler, Pemberton.

General secretary, Rev. E. Morris Fergusson, Trenton.

State primary superintendent, Miss Josephine L. Baldwin, Newark.

The work that has been done throughout New Jersey in the course of the Sunday-school has been stupendous.

The figures for this county are as follows: Number of schools, 114; officers and teachers, 2,128; scholars, 174,36; home department members, 1,369; total membership, 20,933; average attendance, 11,333; per cent. of attendance, 57.9.

PLEASANT FALL RESORT.

Social Life Is Still a Feature at Atlantic City.

In many ways Atlantic City is the most novel place in the world. Even though its a shore resort its season is twelve months long and at all seasons there is something doing. The great hotels, and there are many of them, are open all the year and the service is fine at all times.

Atlantic City is a city in every sense of the word, and every convenience is afforded, including golf, driving, theatres and similar diversions.

It is a particularly healthful place and the autumn months at Atlantic City are always charming. The famous promenade, the board walk, is ever interesting and no better season can be selected for visiting this famous watering place. The New Jersey Central operates 3-hour trains to Atlantic City from New York at 9:40 a. m. and 3:40 p. m. These trains are models in every respect, and the arrival at Atlantic City is in time for luncheon and dinner. The route is by far the shortest from New York and the general passenger agent of the New Jersey Central, has prepared an illustrated booklet on Atlantic City which upon application will be sent to any address.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

EMBASSADOR PRESENTED.

Sir Michael Herbert Received as Britain's Representative.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—According to appointment made Saturday, Sir Michael Herbert, the new British embassador, was presented to the president by Secretary Hay. The presentation took place at what is called the temporary White House, on Jackson place, and this was probably the first occasion since the White House has been occupied as the presidential mansion that the credentials of an embassador or minister have been received outside of its doors.

Instead of calling at the state department first, which is the usual course, the embassador proceeded directly to the temporary White House, with the full staff of the embassy in their diplomatic uniforms. Secretary Hay, meeting him at this point, presented him to President Roosevelt in the parlor, on the second floor of the house. The presentation was made in the usual form, with the important exception that the president, though progressing rapidly toward recovery, heeded his physicians' warning and remained seated, not undertaking to stand on his wounded leg.

The ceremony was brief, consisting in the presentation of the new embassador by Secretary Hay, delivery by the embassador of his credentials, a felicitous speech by the embassador expressive of the pleasure it gave him to return to Washington and an appropriate response from the president. That was all of the ceremony, and when it was over Sir Michael, who is a long time friend of the president, their acquaintance dating back more than ten years, accepted Mr. Roosevelt's invitation to be seated, and the two had a long personal chat.

The new embassador will take rank next after Signor Mayor des Planches, the Italian embassador. The foreign embassies here now rank in this order: Germany, Russia, Mexico, Italy and Great Britain, with Austria-Hungary next.

Macedonian Villages Revolt.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Volo, Greece, says twenty-two villages in Macedonia are in complete revolt and that half a battalion of Turkish troops has been annihilated by insurgents in the Krezna defile. This news, continues the dispatch, emanates from sources which have hitherto minimized the trouble. The situation consequently appears suddenly to have grown worse.

Serious Kerosene Launch Accident.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 14.—While giving a new kerosene launch belonging to William Commings its trial spin Commings, Scott Cross and John Commings were terribly injured as a result of the explosion of the boiler. The launch was demolished. Five other boys in the boat escaped with nothing more serious than a thorough wetting. William Commings is in a very precarious condition.

Prince Vajiravudh at the Play.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—The crown prince of Siam, Prince Chowfa Maha Vajiravudh; his first aid-de-camp, Colonel Phya Rajavallobh; the Siamese minister in Washington and members of the staff of the prince occupied two boxes at the New National theater last night at Anna Held's presentation of "The Little Duchess." It was the first appearance for the season for Miss Held.

Dillingham to Be Re-elected.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Oct. 14.—United States Senator W. P. Dillingham in all probability will be re-elected by the legislature this afternoon, the Republicans having majorities in both branches. Hon. Elisha May, who was the party candidate for lieutenant governor in the recent election, was elected in nomination as Senator Dillingham's opponent by the Democratic caucus.

Rumors of Strike Settlement In Circulation.

J. P. MORGAN MEETS THE PRESIDENT

Operators Hold Conferences In New York, but Refuse to Divulge the Results—Odell Predicts an Agreement.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—No settlement of the strike in the anthracite coal regions has been reached, and, according to the statements of three leading operators, no reasonable basis has yet been suggested to them. Any proposition embracing a 10 per cent increase will be ignored.

Yesterday was another busy time for the operators. Before noon all of them except President Baer were in conference at the office of the Erie road. Their talk lasted over an hour, but no statement was made for publication.

Following this conference Chairman Thomas of the Erie road and President Truesdale of the Lackawanna were closeted with J. P. Morgan at the latter's office. Mr. Morgan would not talk about the situation nor would he say anything regarding Secretary Root's visit to him last Saturday.

The last mentioned conference lasted until 3 o'clock, and an hour later Mr. Morgan and others took a train for Washington, going over the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

Out of this flitting of men of potent influence in the railway and coal industries there grew a more hopeful sentiment in the news centers of New York, and the prediction was confidently made in circles usually well informed that the end of the long strike was at hand.

Rumors that the strike was ended were heard in the financial district, and in the closing hour the stock market rallied very generally from its early depression. These rumors were circulated for the most part by brokerage houses with western connections. The conservative element paid little heed, and denials of a settlement were authorized by representatives of the Lackawanna and the Ontario and Western roads.

J. P. MORGAN.

Governor Odell made this significant remark at the Fifth Avenue hotel last night:

"I believe that the coal strike is nearer to a definite settlement than it has been since it started."

Besides this statement the governor would make no explanation of the reasons for his belief further than to say, "In my opinion this week will see an end of it."

Although no definite information can be obtained, it is believed that Governor Odell was in conversation with both J. P. Morgan and President Baer, to the latter of whom he so forcibly outlined his position Friday. It is furthermore the opinion that Governor Odell's recommendation of a 5 cents per ton increase for the miners and recognition of the union will be the basis of settlement, although the latter may be somewhat avoided by asking the men to come back to work at the advanced prices without any agreement that they must leave their organizations, but also without any stipulation that the union will be recognized as a body.

MORGAN IN WASHINGTON.

A Night Conference With the President on the Strike.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—J. Pierpont Morgan and Robert S. Bacon, one of his partners, arrived here over the Baltimore and Ohio railroad last night about 10 o'clock and were driven to the Arlington hotel. They refused to see any one and went at once to their rooms.

It was reported that Mr. George F. Baer, president of the Reading railroad, was also here, but he could not be found.

Shortly after going to his room Mr. Morgan came downstairs and left the hotel for the temporary White House, where he was at once shown upstairs and into the room where the president was, and a conference on the strike situation began.

Secretary Root a little later joined the party in conference at the White House.

So far as known only the four gentlemen heretofore named, the president, Secretary Root and Messrs. Morgan and Bacon, were present. After the discussion had lasted some time Secretary Cortelyou was summoned, presumably to take some directions or to reduce some matter to writing.

The conference broke up at 11:50. Secretary Root and Messrs. Morgan and Bacon on its adjournment at once left the White House and went to the Metropolitan club, a few blocks away. None of them would say anything except to refer all inquiries to Mr. Cortelyou, by whom they said a statement would be given out later.

Twelve Resume Operations In Wilkesbarre Region.

SOLDIERS GUARD THE APPROACHES.

Mine Workers Making a House to House Canvass to Keep Their Men In Line and Prevent Them Returning to Work.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 14.—What was looked upon as an important day in the matter of resumption of work in the coal mines passed without any serious trouble, and each side to the controversy is claiming a victory. Reports received here from coal companies all over the region are to the effect that at least twelve collieries and four washeries started operations yesterday. President Mitchell in a talk with the correspondents asserted that reports received by him from his lieutenants in the field showed fewer men were at work than last week.

It is quite evident that extra efforts were made on both sides to gain an advantage. The soldiers of the Third brigade were sent into the outlying mining towns in this region long before starting up time to patrol the roads leading to the collieries. In some places the soldiers were scattered in twos and threes along streets and on street corners, but they were not compelled to rescue any one from strikers.

The company superintendents are authority for the statement that for the past two days the mine workers have been again making house to house canvasses all over the entire territory, holding the men in line, and that if it were not for this method of keeping the men from work there would have been a large increase in the employees at work.

A superintendent in speaking of the situation as it exists said: "The number of men who returned to work was not very large, but the movement in that direction was gratifying. The companies did not make a great effort to break the ranks of the strikers, preferring to wait until the New York conferences are over. They have held out false hope to the men, and as soon as they are over the men who see that there is no use to hold out any longer will be glad to resume work."

Beaten by a Mob.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 14.—Orlando Schooley, who was taking a crowd of newly recruited men to work at the Edgerton colliery in Jermyn, was set upon by a mob of a hundred and beaten so badly with clubs and stones it is feared he will not live. When taken to the Emergency hospital at Carbondale, it was found that his back was broken. The crowd of recruits who were with Schooley were allowed to go unmolested upon agreeing to take a train out of town. They said they came from Noxen, Wyoming county, and that they were to be given jobs as firemen at $2 a day. A company from the Thirteenth regiment camp at Olyphant arrived at the scene of the assault in a short time after the mob had disappeared. According to the claims of the operators, work has been resumed at four collieries in this district—the Bellevue and Hyde Park of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company in this city and the Johnson Nos. 1 and 2 of the New York, Ontario and Western company in Priceburg.

Conference In Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14.—Numerous conferences have taken place in this city relative to the anthracite coal miners' strike, the more prominent of the participants being President Baer of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, President Cassatt of the Pennsylvania railroad and United States Senator Quay. The proceedings at the various meetings were not divulged, but it was evident that some new move is contemplated by the operators.

Welsh Coal Miners In Sympathy.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—At a meeting of the Rhonda Valley Miners' federation it was voted unanimously to ask the executive council of the South Wales Miners' federation to grant the striking coal miners in the United States a much larger donation than the $5,000 recently dispatched them by the South Wales federation. This sum was declared to be totally inadequate. Speeches were made praising the American miners for holding out for arbitration.

Much Coal Leaves Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 14.—Sixteen steamboats pushing 270 barges and twenty-four coal boats left Pittsburg yesterday for Cincinnati and Louisville. The total number of bushels shipped was 7,500,000. About 3,000,000 bushels additional went out during the night.

Paving Blocks Stolen to Burn.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—The prohibitive price of coal has resulted in rails being made on sidewalks and paving blocks in several sections of the city, and the police have been asked to stop the demolition. Three arrests so far have been made.

Aid For Strikers.

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—A check for $2,500, the subscription in part of the open air mass meeting in aid of the striking miners, has been forwarded to Indianapolis, the miners' headquarters.

Early Snow In Minnesota.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 14.—The first snow of the season has come and the coldest weather as well. It is the earliest snowfall in the last seven years. The minimum temperature was 34, the lowest since last spring.

BOERS IN PARIS.

Botha, De Wet and Delarey Warmly Welcomed.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—The Boer generals Botha, De Wet and Delarey have arrived in Paris. Senator Pauliat and the pro-Boer committee received them at the railway station. After speeches of welcome had been delivered the party drove to a hotel.

The precincts of the station and the route to the hotel were thronged with spectators who heartily cheered the generals, though the crowds present and the enthusiasm manifested were nothing like the assemblages and demonstration witnessed on the occasion of Mr. Kruger's arrival here two years ago.

The generals called at the Elysee palace, where they signed the register. From the palace they went to the residence of Premier Combes, where they were received by the premier. They explained to Mr. Combes that they had been greatly touched by the courtesy of the French people and that they considered it their duty to express their gratitude to the French government. M. Combes thanked the Boers. After these words and shook hands with them. The generals then proceeded to the foreign office, where they had a brief and similar interview with the foreign minister, M. Delcasse. Afterwards they visited the presidents of the chamber of deputies and the senate. As they drove about the city they were acclaimed by the crowds.

New Oil Tank Steamer.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The new oil tank steamer New York, which is the largest vessel of that type in the world, has arrived in port from Shields after a quick maiden voyage of thirteen days. The vessel, which was built for the American Petroleum company of Rotterdam, has a carrying capacity of 8,800 tons on twenty-five feet draft. The New York is 428 feet long, 54 feet 6 inches wide, and the depth molded to the upper deck is 32 feet. She is fitted with triple expansion engines, with cylinders 28, 46½ inches in diameter, with a 54 inch stroke. She has four single ended boilers, 14 feet 9 inches by 11 feet 6 inches long, having a working pressure of 200 pounds per square inch. The vessel has been built for the Atlantic oil carrying trade.

Methodist Ministers Oppose License.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14.—The introduction of a resolution by the committee on temperance urging the members of the National Association of Local Preachers of the Methodist Church "to separate themselves from all organizations and influences that aid or encourage the license system" provoked a prolonged discussion in the forty-fifth annual meeting of the association, now being held here. Several delegates opposed the resolution on the ground that it was an attempt to influence the convention in favor of the Prohibition party to the detriment of the Republican party. The suggestion of politics was repudiated by the supporters of the resolution, and it was adopted.

Large Sale of Coal Lands.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—The management of the St. Paul railroad has just completed the purchase of 25,000 acres of rich coal lands in Illinois at an expense of nearly $2,000,000 and is still holding options on several thousand acres more. The purpose of the management is to provide the St. Paul system with fuel for all time to come. The coal lands which have been acquired are located in Putnam, Lasalle, Bureau and Hennepin counties, west and southwest of the city of Lasalle. They are in what is known as the Lasalle coal district, which contains the finest grade of Illinois coal.

Labor Troubles In Sicily.

ROME, Oct. 14.—An agricultural strike has broken out in the district of Syracuse, Sicily. The carabineers who were sent to preserve order were received at Giaratana with volleys of stones. They fired their revolvers in the air, but this failed to overawe the rioters, who dragged one of the soldiers into a house and killed him. The carabineers then endeavored to retreat to their barracks to procure their rifles, but they were so closely pressed by the mob that they were compelled to fire their revolvers in self defense, with the result that two peasants were killed and others wounded.

Texas-Mexican Road Running.

LAREDO, Oct. 14.—The backbone of the strike of the Texas-Mexican and National Railroad of Mexico firemen now seems to be broken, and those roads are running on their regular passenger trains without any difficulty and also have handled several freight trains. Assistant General Manager Galbraith says that all the striking firemen have been discharged and that new men will take their places. Chairman Olson of the firemen's committee says that the strike is not off and will not be declared off at present.

Closed For Lack of Coal.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 14.—The Toledo plant of the Republic Iron and Steel company has been closed down owing to the fact that the company was unable to secure coal. Several other smaller institutions were compelled to shut down also for the same reason.

Woman Physician Dead.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Dr. Elvira Ranier, one of the most prominent women physicians in New York state, is dead at her home here, aged fifty-five years. She was born at Cold Water, Mich., and was a graduate of the University of Michigan.

Death Followed Bullfight.

TROOPS AWE INDIANS

Trouble Over Election of Chief of Choctaw Nation.

RIVAL FACTIONS ARE DISARMED.

Governor Dukes Held the Capitol With Armed Horsemen and Tried to Prevent an Honest Election.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—A serious conflict between partisans of rival candidates for the governorship of the Choctaw Indian Nation, in Indian Territory, has been averted by the presence of federal troops, according to dispatches received at the interior department. Governor Dukes, the outgoing governor, who is said to be a partisan of Hunter, one of the candidates, took charge of the capitol building, assisted by armed horsemen, and, according to Indian Agent Schoenfeld, arbitrarily permitted persons to enter and sit as members of the Choctaw council upon commissions issued by himself and refused to admit members having certificates from regularly constituted authorities.

Agent Schoenfeld appealed to Washington for troops. On their arrival the Choctaw council was permitted to enter the building and resume its sessions. The official dispatches received show that the vote of the council for the office of principal chief (governor) was counted. Green McCurtain had a majority of 680 and was duly sworn in. Agent Schoenfeld wires that the presence of the troops prevented a clash between contending factions and that he now anticipates no further trouble. All the armed men in the Choctaw capitol or capitol grounds have been disarmed or removed by the troops.

McCurtain also wired that by instructions of Dukes the latter's armed light horsemen posted in the capitol ordered many members and council officers from the building. "The horsemen," he added, "are appointees and bitter partisans of Dukes, with whom Marshal Hackett and deputies are cooperating. Openly stated, Dukes' purpose is to combine these conditions and prevent the counting of vote for chief until expiration of time fixed by law and thus continue himself in office."

No Danger of Cholera.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—The army medical officers say there is little danger of the bringing of cholera to this country by the army transports from Manila. The Sherman, which arrived at San Francisco last Thursday, reported that she had seven cases of cholera since leaving Manila. This fact gave rise to an apprehension that the disease might still have been active aboard ship when the Sherman arrived at San Francisco, but Surgeon General O'Reilly, after carefully looking over the dates, stated that the last case had occurred twenty-one days before the transport arrived at San Francisco. As the period of incubation of cholera is only five days the disease must have died out long before the ship arrived in quarantine.

Governor Odell Opens Campaign.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Governor Odell last night opened the Republican state campaign in Brooklyn by making a number of speeches. In the early evening he attended a dinner given in his honor by the Union League club of Brooklyn, at which members of the Republican Editorial association of New York were present and at which Senator Depew was one of the speakers. The governor was then driven to the Academy of Music, where he opened the Hebrew fair. After this Governor Odell was taken to the rooms of the Brooklyn Young Men's Republican club and thence to the Claremont rink, where he made the principal address of the night.

Work For Twenty Thousand.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 14.—Practically all of the window glass factories in the country started today for the season. The starting of the factories in Indiana alone means employment to nearly 20,000 men and boys. The men in all branches of the trade will receive higher wages than last year. The window glass combinations are scouring the country for enough skilled men to run their plants, but there will probably be a greater shortage of help than ever.

A Singular Fatality.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Isaac Price, a Russian, employed in an umbrella handle manufactory, was instantly killed while sharpening a small chisel on an emery wheel one foot in diameter. The wheel broke without a moment's warning, and the chisel was driven into the unfortunate man's heart. He was dead before any of his fellow workmen could reach him.

None Hurt In Guam Earthquake.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—The navy department is in receipt of many anxious inquiries from relatives and friends of persons on the island of Guam in regard to the recent earthquake there. The department wishes it to be known that none of its advices to date tell of a single casualty as a result of the shock.

One of the Light Brigade Dead.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 14.—James L. MacLaren, a veteran of the Crimea, is dead in this city, aged sixty-two years. MacLaren entered the British army service at the age of twelve as a bugler and lost a leg in the famous charge of the Light brigade at Balaklava. He had lived in Utah since 1869.

Gans Knocked Out McPartland.

FORT ERIE, Ont., Oct. 14.—Joe Gans, the lightweight champion, knocked out Kid McPartland of New York in the fifth round last night.

THE NEW HIGH SCHOOL.

While $125,000 does seem like a large sum for the city to expend for a new High School, the existing circumstances are such as to apparently justify the expense. The members of the City Board of Education first made the recommendation. Now the Board of School Estimate, composed of two members of then School Board, two members of the Common Council and the Mayor, has unanimously seconded it and prepared a resolution to that effect which will be presented at the November meeting of the Common Council. While the members of the School Board might, in their enthusiasm over the cause of education, make a greater demand than circumstances would warrant, it is not at all likely that such good business men and financiers as Councilmen George P. Mellick and Jan vanHerwerden would stand for any extravagance and the fact that they, too, have approved the project assures the public that it is a justifiable one.

A mistaken idea prevails with many in regard to the new High School which it may be well to explain so that the action of the city officials who have approved of it will be understood. It is a recognized fact that the present accommodations of the public schools of the city are insufficient to provide for all the children who are entitled to free education. A new building of some kind is therefore imperative. Then the facilities of the City High School are far behind the times when compared with those of other cities of this size. The plan of the School Board is to relieve the overcrowded conditions by providing a new and modern High School building and thus permit the use of the present High School for the lower grades.

The ordinary citizen cannot be expected to be fully acquainted with the local educational situation and appreciate its needs as well as those who are directly connected with that department of the city work. While, therefore, this expenditure of $125,000 for a new school building may seem a trifle large to some of us laymen, it must be remembered that the members of the School Board have been carefully studying this paricular problem for several years and that the results of their labors have now been approved by Mayor Jenkins and two of the most careful and conservative members of the Common Council who have carefully looked into the merits of the subject and have acted accordingly.

While there will undoubtedly be opposition to the plan on the part of a few, it is likely that a majority of Plainfield's citizens will be willing to accept the verdict of the Board of School Estimate and that the new High School will go forward as soon as possible. It has been a source for general satisfaction that both the members of the Board of Education and the Board of School Estimate have seen the wisdom of acting publicly and without haste so that the charge of "railroading" the measure through cannot be brought. The plan still lacks the formal approval of the Common Council but that will undoubtedly be granted at the November meeting of the local legislative body.

It was with great regret that those who have been associated with Councilman George P. Mellick in the Common Council learned that he had refused to reconsider his decision and stand again for election to that body. Those who have come in contact with Mr. Mellick since his membership in the Common Council have found him one of the most efficient public officials which Plainfield has been fortunate enough to secure. While always courteous and obliging, Mr. Mellick has been no figure head and his influence has been felt in many ways. Plainfield is fortunate, indeed, to possess men of the ability of Mr. Mellick who are willing to devote a portion of their time to public duties. Mr. Mellick has served the city well and the people of Plainfield, irrrespective of party, greatly regret to see him retire from public life.

The Young Women's Club is preparing to start classes for the benefit of the young women of the city. While there is a charge made, it is a nominal one and does not cover even the expenses of the organization. The Young Women's Club has already done a good work here and it aims to accomplish even better things in the future. It is an organization deserving the support of every one interested in the welfare of the young women of the city.

It seems strange that Staten Island has never before had direct railway communication with the rest of the world. This project of trains from the St. George terminal on the island to Plainfield should get considerable support from the public.

THEY APPRECIATE IT.

Plainfielders Abroad Glad to Scan Columns of Daily Press.

New York, Oct. 31, 1902.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Under the impression that you might be pleased to hear how the Plainfield Daily Press is appreciated by our people when sojourning abroad, I quote from a letter dated Berlin 30th ulto.

"We have thoroughly enjoyed the 'Plainfield Press,' you sent us, I guess we have read every word of it, and learned it by heart. Whenever your time will permit, send us additional copies."

The above was written me by a young lady, who with her mother, and younger sister, intend spending this fall and coming winter in Berlin.

I will not fail to comply with my friends' wishes, and continue sending your paper to Berlin. F.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Just stop a moment and consider how much nicer your home could be made to look with the addition of a few well framed pictures. The Plainfield Art Store, in the Y. M. C. A. building, is ready to provide them.

People desiring silver toilet articles will make no mistake in purchasing them from L. Moraller & Son, of 217 Park avenue. This firm is one of the leading jewelry esablishments in the city, and their optical branch is also first class.

S. Scheuer & Company, of West Front street, will still continue to do all in their power to give the best values in groceries and meats. They handle immense quantities of goods and will give their patrons the advantage of it.

Bear in mind the fact that Shaw, the West Front street druggist, gives Red Star trading stamps. For this week he is offering as a three-ply specialty, a bath brush, a bath thermometer and a cake of hard water soap for a price that would ordinarily purchase but one.

Charles Vail, the Park avenue jeweler, will be pleased at all times to show you his stock of silver and goldware, watches, rings, etc. It is probably the equal of any to be found in the State and Mr. Vail is a reliable man to deal with. His repair department is first-class.

The local store of the A. and P. Tea Company gave away an immense lot of wall pockets, last week. It was not only for the reason that the people realized they were getting a handsome ornament for nothing, but that as well they were able to buy the best of groceries at a price lower than any other store.

George Kirch, the grocer of 402 Liberty street is too well known to require extensive comment. He is noted for courteous treament of customers and the high class of goods that he sells. Shoppers should visit his store this week. They will be surprised by the splendid stock of moderate priced goods that he carries.

Dudley S. Miller, the Park avenue druggist, has had a long and wide experience as a pharmacist and is thoroughly capable in the compounding of prescriptions. He was engaged in the business in Newark for several years, and he was also head clerk at a local pharmacy for many years. He will be glad to see his friends and serve them.

It is not difficult to get cigars, but it is hard to procure good cigars. There are so many inferior brands exploited by unscrupulous dealers that, unless a man is a conneseur, he is apt to get fooled every time. There is one dealer, however, who can always be depended upon. This is M. C. Dobbins, of 108 North avenue. His Pinar Del Rio and Havana cigars make a perfect and satisfactory smoke.

PERSONAL.

Henry E. Needham, of the borough, spent Sunday with friends at Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Adam Young, of Whitehouse, is visiting friends in Plainfield for a few days.

N. Douglass Drake, of Duer street, has been enjoying a vacation at Pine Bush, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fulton, of Brooklyn, spent Sunday with Plainfield relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Milne, of Harrison street, have returned from a visit in Brooklyn.

Miss Cressler, of Chambersburg, Pa., is visiting Mrs. G. H. Babcock, of West Eighth street.

Miss Emily Manlo, of Monroe avenue, has gone to Worcester, Mass., for a stay with friends.

Postmaster and Arthur Stiles, of Whitehouse, are spending a few days with Plainfield friends.

William H. Crandall, of Alfred, N. Y., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Mosher, of West Fifth street.

While There is Life There is Hope.

I was afflicted with catarrh; could neither taste nor smell and could hear but little. Ely's Cream Balm cured it.—Marcus G. Shautz, Rahway, N. J.

Cream Balm reached me safely and the effect is surprising. My son says the first application gave decided relief. Respectfully, Mrs. Franklin Freeman, Dover, N. H.

The Balm does not irritate or cause sneezing. Sold by druggists at 50 cts. or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York.

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

Hon. Theodore B. Boormaen, of New Brunswick, the Republican candidate for surrogate, spent a portion of yesterday in town becoming acquainted with his constituents. Mr. Boormaen proved himself a man of very pleasing personality and by becoming acquainted has gained himself a number of friends in the borough. He impressed local politicians of being an ideal man for the position for which he is running. The rest of the day was spent in surrounding towns.

The citizens of this place were surprised yesterday to see a train composed of Staten Island Rapid Transit cars draw up at the station yesterday. The train goes to Staten Island and leaves here at 11 55. It is for the accommodation of Staten Islanders travelling west.

Mrs. Edward Lewis was so unfortunate as to step from her back porch yesterday sustaining a severe sprained ankle.

Preparations are well under way for the holding of the fair in the Presbyterian church the last of this month.

Mrs. L. Dunham and daughter, of Dunellen avenue, will shortly move to Plainfield.

Dealaman & Fenner have purchased a new horse for use in their delivery business.

Frederick Wilcox and family removed to Somerville yesterday.

J. M. B. Pyatt entertained relatives from out of town yesterday.

The pupils of Whittier School were let out early yesterday.

The cornet band will hold regular practice this evening.

Charles Wyhuskey has recovered from a slight illness.

The Juniors will meet in regular session this evening.

Justice Warden was in Plainfield on business yesterday.

Mrs. James Craig is spending today in New York City.

The banjo club met for regular practice last evening.

NEW MARKET.

Miss Elizabeth Carroll, missionary, but lately returned from the scene of her work in Burmah, delivered an interesting address in the First Baptist church, Sunday evening, before a large audience. The talk took in the objects and aims of the missionary work and the progress of the work in Burmah. The services were in charge of the Christian Endeavor Society.

John Schaffer and Miss Mabel Stults, two well known young people quietly betook themselves to the residence of Rev. Frank Fletcher Sunday evening and were made man and wife. The happy couple are at present receiving the congratulations of their many friends. They will go to housekeeping shortly.

Theodore B. Boormaen, the Republican candidate for surrogate, was in town yesterday and made the personal acquaintance of a large number of his constituents.

Stanley Day visited friends in Dunellen yesterday.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The public school will probably be represented upon the baseball diamond next season with a strong uniformed team. A meeting was held several days ago. Plans were talked over and an organization completed. Bryant Johnston was made captain and manager and Ameale Jahn, treasurer. The school has some excellent material for a strong team, but no attempt has been made before to organize a team only to play scrub games.

Efforts are being made by Manager Cose, of the Hope chaple team, to have Manager Johnston change his arrangement about Saturday's game and come to Plainfield and play last Saturday's postponed game.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grant, who have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Grant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, Sr., have returned to their home in Plainfield.

The teachers of the Baptist Sunday-school will hold their weekly meeting tomorrow night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Dunn, of Westfield avenue.

Roger Haskard, of Plainfield, who has been spending a few days with his grandmother, Mrs. John R. Haskard, has returned home.

Rev. G. M. Shott, secretary of the Ministers' conference, attended a meeting of that body held Monday morning in New York.

Mrs. Louis Morel, Sr., who has been seriously ill for the past two weeks, is improving and will soon be able to be around again.

James McDonough and daughter, of Montclair, have been visiting at the home of his mother, Mrs. Wm. McDonough.

Joseph Gray, a former resident of the village but now of Kearney, has been visiting at the home of friends in town.

Fanwood Council, R. A., will hold its semi-monthly meeting in the Library rooms tonight.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The auction sale of Peter Latourette's household goods took place this afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Latourette are going to Detroit and to Kansas to spend the winter.

The funeral service of Florence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Weaver, will be conducted this evening by Rev. J. A. Cubberley.

Miss Nellie Manning played the organ at Sunday evening's service in place of Mrs. Cubberley, who attended church at Plainfield.

Ephraim B. Boice, of Plainfield, was in town yesterday. He is now somewhat engaged in a real estate agency.

Miss Luella Derby, of Plainfield, went chestnutting with Mabelle Cubberley yesterday afternoon.

The pond which was lately drawn out has filled up again. Very few carp were found.

James H. Jones has been gathering quite a large pumpkin crop.

Quite a large quantity of soft coal remains at the coal storage.

THEATRICAL.

The third successful week at the Central Theatre was ushered in last evening, and was marked by another large audience. Every number on the programme was entirely new and novel. The bill includes Fostell and Emmett, German comedians; McGeehan and Welsh, Celtic wits; Mlle. DeForest, contortionist and dancer; Miss Langtry Gordon, ballad singer; LaToska, the trick bicycle rider and new illustrated songs. This bill will be changed entirely Thursday evening.

—John Goodman, of Liberty street, has given up his position with the Pond Machine Tool Company, to accept another position with Woodhull & Martin.

—Although the season is over, Neuman Brothers have a few choice peaches which they have just received. Don't let the chance slip by to get some.

elected chairman. The members at once passed a resolution asking the Common Council to investigate the merits of the voting machine and if found satisfactory to purchase a sufficient number.

The following is the ticket elected: For councilman, William S. Tyler; justice of the peace, John Nagle; constable, Amos Moffett; delegates to the city convention, Charles J. Fisk, E. R. Ackerman, J. E. Kimball, J. P. Mosher, T. R. VanBoskerck, O. G. Waring, William Leland, E. L. Finch and Harry McDonald; for members of city executive committee, E. R. Ackerman, J. E. Kimball and John H. Cose. The election officers were John H. Cose and Nathan R. Titsworth.

FOURTH WARD.

The heaviest vote was cast in the Fourth ward at the primaries held last evening, despite the fact that there were no contests. There was but one ticket and that received 499 votes, with three scratched tickets. Wm. Newcorn for member of the city committee, received 498 votes, while James Morrison for member of the same committee, received 497. Mr. Newcorn received a vote for constable and F. H. Smith received one vote for justice of the peace.

A business meeting was held at 8 o'clock which was called to order by Assemblyman William Newcorn, after which Walter C. Dobbins was made chairman, Robert Craig was chosen secretary. After the call was read, the delegates were empowered to fill vacancies and the executive committee was empowered to fill vacancies in the nominations.

The ward officers were inspector, Harry C. Runyon; judge, Fred Firstbrook; clerk, H. D. Thompson. The ticket elected is as follows:

PERSONAL.

Henry Seibrecht, of New Rochelle, N. Y., spent Sunday with Mrs. J D. Titsworth, of Madison avenue.

Robert Noble, of Putnam avenue, has returned home from a two weeks' stay with relatives at East Orange.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pease, of Brooklyn, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Worth, of Grove street.

Berthold Audsley, of Lowerie-on-the-Hudson, formerly of Grove street, spent Saturday in town with friends.

J. Whitney Baker and C. Ames Brooks, of Princeton University, spent Sunday at their homes in this city.

Miss Florence Dodge, of East Front street, is taking a course of instruction preparatory to kindergarten teaching.

A. J. Hackert, of New York City, has reurned home from a pleasant visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Moon, of Grandview avenue.

Grand Master Workman V. W. Nash left yesterday for Moorestown, where he will visit a lodge of A. O. U. W. He will be away two days.

Justice W. B. Mattison, of the borough, is expected to return this week from Washington, where he has been visiting for some time past.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Robertson, of Washington street, left yesterday for Glens Falls, N. Y., where they will spend several weeks with relatives.

Building Lots in Rural England.

"Rural England," a correspondent writes, "is in danger of being cut up into rectangular slices of 25 feet frontage and an average depth of 120 feet," to quote the language of the auctioneers. Almost daily throughout the summer a marquee is set up on some estate more or less contiguous to a seaside or other town, and here the plots are knocked down singly or in bunches to those who have partaken of the vendor's hospitality. The ease with which agricultural values can be converted into speculative building values is astonishing. Two years ago, while walking from Brighton to Newhaven, I passed through a place called Tolscombe Cliff. Here some almost waste land had been sketched out into a town site, and the turf cut off, revealing strips of chalk that signified roads. The nearest station and almost the nearest house were three miles away, and yet plots had been sold a few weeks previously at from £60 to £100 apiece. This means between £8,000 and £12,000 an acre, instead of the agricultural value of not more than £50."—London News.

Jupiter's Red Spot.

The planet Jupiter will be one of the astronomical sights of this summer, and the enigmatical "red spot" will again be a favorite object for amateur astronomers to point out to their friends who wish to see some of the things that telescopes reveal. This strange marking has now been continuously visible on Jupiter's southern hemisphere for 24 years, having made its appearance quite suddenly in 1878. There is reason to think that it had been faintly visible nearly ten years earlier. During the first two or three years after its discovery it was at times very bright, almost "fiery red" in color. It has faded since, but still shows a reddish tint. Its size has changed very little in 20 years. It covers perhaps 200,000,000 square miles, approximately equal to the entire surface of the earth. The spot shows a gradual shortening of its rotation period.—Science.

Waste of Jam in South Africa.

"From the facts which are gradually coming to light," writes a correspondent, "it would seem that although the waste of jam in South Africa was not so large as the lately reported waste of brass at Woolwich, it was none the less considerable. Allowing that scientific authorities are right in what they say respecting the nutritive properties of jam, the fact remains that there is nothing which palls more rapidly on the human palate. Butter is usually welcome to most people, and there are many, particularly in England, who will eat bacon every day of their lives without flinching, just as the Portuguese peasant eats bacalhao or dry cod. But jam soon becomes loathsome; even the child, who is always ready for 'sweets,' will often turn from it in disgust."—Westminster Gazette.

WINTER HOTEL FOR HORSES—

The Buena Vista Stock Farm.

I am prepared to keep a limited number of horses during winter on my farm of 150 acres, situated on road leading from New Market, N. J., to New Brunswick. I have recently erected two large barns especially for the care of horses, with well ventilated box stalls; also large sheds attached for the use of horses a little foot sore, or to be used for exercising during stormy weather. Buildings are all supplied with running water from a well over 200 feet deep forming a complete water supply. Yard for exercising enclosed with high board fence. Plenty of good wholesome food, with good care guaranteed at a reasonable price. All horses called for and returned free of charge. For terms call at farm or address C. F. Gulick, Manager, New Brunswick, N. J.; Rural Free Delivery No. 2, or J. F. McIntyre, Tel. 621, Plainfield, N. J. 9 23 1m

LOVES A FAIR FIGHT

Charles E. Littlefield, Maine's Favorite Congressman.

May Become President's Champion Against Unjust Commercial Combinations—Not a Slave to Party Discipline.

"Straight as the pine, knotty as the spruce, wholesome as the balsam and clean as the birch." This is a description by one of his admiring constituents "way down in Maine" of Congressman Charles E. Littlefield, who has swung into prominence through the announcement that he is to enter the legislative lists as administration champion in the contest with the trusts.

This hunter and challenger of the "octupus," as Jerry Simpson and the latter's old associates were wont to term combinations of capital, is a characteristic product of the Pine Tree state. He has helped to keep his native state prominent in the public mind, as have others of her celebrated sons, like Blaine and Dingley and Frye and Milliken and Boutelle and a goodly company of dead and gone statesmen. He has done it in his own way, without the fault of imitation and by presenting new phrases of the rugged New England character. Those who know him well would hesitate to call him a demagogue, although some of his performances have been almost as bizarre as those of men in congress and other public positions who are usually thought of as belonging to that class.

Mr. Littlefield, says the Chicago Daily News, stands six feet and over in his stocking feet. He carries no superfluous flesh, like his friend, ex-Speaker Reed, and is as quick and supple as a forest guide or a down-east sailor man. He has been in congress only three years, yet his figure is as familiar and he is as much of a public celebrity as many men who have sat in the house for a decade. The fact that he succeeded the late Nelson Dingley, author of the present tariff law, gave Mr. Littlefield a prominence from the first day he assumed his congressional duties.

Congressman Littlefield is just 51 years of age and bears the impress of one who has fought through his half-century of existence. He is a fighter by nature and training. It is this strenuous element in his character that has recommended him to President Roosevelt. It was not until Littlefield dealt the administration a solar-plexus blow in the Cuban reciprocity fight that the president's attention was thoroughly riveted on the man from Maine. It was then that Roosevelt remarked to a friend: "That man Littlefield—why, he is an off ox, but an off ox that must be reckoned with."

PIETRO MASCAGNI.
(Composer of Cavalleria Rusticana and Other Operas.)

Up in the Second district of Maine they tell you a good deal about Charles E. Littlefield and the way he has fought against adverse circumstances and men until he has compelled success.

He did not have time to go through college, but, having obtained a common school education, he took up the study of law and was admitted to the bar at the age of 25. He has a natural love for politics and entered public life as a member of the Maine legislature and was chosen speaker of the house while serving his second term in that body.

As attorney general of Maine for four years, from 1889 to 1893, Mr. Littlefield achieved his first national reputation by fighting railroad corporations that are so powerful in his state. It was then that he developed a taste for "octupus hunting" that is now making him a national figure. He compelled payments from the railroads of large sums in the way of taxes that had been refused for years.

Mr. Littlefield's record in congress shows that he is not an indiscriminate fighter of trusts and does not follow the Irish maxim of "when you see a head, hit it," with regard to these combinations. The second set speech he made in the house of representatives was on this very subject of the restraint of combinations and at that time he advocated an amendment to the constitution which would confer greater power on congress to deal with corporations.

The Art of Conversation.

Conversation should not be monologue. Do not start stories, which, like those in the "Arabian Nights," cannot be told in one evening. Suggestion in conversation is everything. The charm of conversation is the unexpected.

AGAINST TICKET SCALPERS.

Decision of Importance by a Washington Judge.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—A decision of sweeping importance to ticket scalpers and the railroad passenger business generally has been delivered by Justice Hagner of the equity court of the District of Columbia, who permanently enjoined thirty-three of the local ticket brokers from selling the Grand Army special excursion tickets issued by the Pennsylvania, Southern, Baltimore and Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio railroads. The defense of the brokers was that they were running a legal licensed brokerage business and that the railroads in combining in the establishment of a joint ticket agency here during the encampment for the vising of return tickets, etc., violated the Sherman antitrust law.

The court held that the tickets sold by the roads on account of the Grand Army encampment bore contracts signed by the purchasers in the presence of a witness and were absolutely void when used by any other than the original purchasers. The tickets distinctly read that any one except the original purchasers attempting to use them would be subject to prosecution for forgery. The contract signed by the original purchaser is absolute according to the court, and any violation of it constituted fraud, on which the suit at bar for the injunction properly was based. The court declared that the contentions of the complaining roads were tenable.

As to the claim of the defendants that the roads violated the antitrust law, the court held that the joint ticket agency could not be considered in that light, as the agency had nothing to do with the fixing of rates. Further, the defendants had shown that they were violating the law and could not press as a defense the violation of a law by another party.

General Grant Comes Home.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—The United States transport Logan has arrived here, twenty-nine days from Manila by way of Nagasaki. Brigadier General Frederick Grant is on board. The general is in excellent health. "It feels good," said General Grant, "to be at home with friends again. Three years in the Philippines, with only a two months' leave of absence, is long enough for me. Everything in the islands is quiet and peaceful. The big fighting is over. The work now consists of concentrating men and erecting forts. The beneficent results of education are rapidly clearing away the ignorance of the natives, which in reality was the principal cause of trouble." After a short stay in this city the general will leave for San Antonio, where he will command the department of Texas.

Deadly Mine Explosion.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 14.—Two men were killed, four fatally and others seriously injured in an explosion at Victor mine, Pawnee, eighteen miles from here. The explosion occurred just before the day force of 190 men went off duty and was caused by too much powder in a blast, the concussion causing coal dust which thickly overhung the mine to explode with great force. Some idea of the force of the explosion can be learned from the fact that all those killed and injured were about 4,000 feet from the place where the shot was being fired.

Molineux Trial Again Delayed.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Justice Lambert has ordered a special venire for a jury to try Roland B. Molineux. The trial has been adjourned until tomorrow to afford time for serving the summonses.

OLD LADY BANES

"AH, Dr. Preachwell, I'm so glad to see you, dear child! It's good of you to come to see me, for I can't go to church. Do you know why I can't go to church? Dear child, I'm that sick and growed together, and I'm in a heap and can't stand up much.

"You've been away only three months, Dr. Preachwell, but a many things has happened. 'Changes has come to all my three sons, Dr. Preachwell. There's Ned. He's been promoted to a hundred dollars a month; got a fine position in the Hog and Hominy Trust company. The dear lamb! The hog and hominy trust has got a monopoly of pigs' tails. It works them up into sweet pickles, and my little Ned has to see that nobody but his company gets any pigs' tails in its territory. It's hard work, but the dignitaries thinks a heap of Ned. The dignitaries of the trust all had their pictures taken a-settin' on ped-ess-tals in a group, and my Ned he was there among 'em, a-settin' on a ped-ess-tal, too, and he writes me, and he says, 'Ma, it made me feel like a dignitary too.' The dear lamb! He's a credit to the fambly. And my Ned he's got a sweetheart that writes for newspapers, the dear thing! And she sent me a letter; but, la, I ain't clever enough to answer it!

"Then there's Billy. You didn't know Billy? The dear thing! Billy's health was always delicate. I think he takes after me. He was always sick bad when he was little, and we used to have to give him brandy and sugar, and after he was a man he kep' on usin' the brandy without the sugar for bad spells, and somehow the bad spells keeps a-comin' oftener and oftener, and he ain't rightly at himself always, the dear child!

"Three months ago—it was the very day after you left, Dr. Preachwell—my Billy had one of his bad spells, the dear thing, and he took a little whisky, and, him bein' delicate, a teaspoonful of whisky settin' him off, it went to his head, and he goes into Mrs. Horton's greenhouse, and he smashes every flowerpot in it, from ferns to mornin' glories, the dear child! Then he goes home and goes to sleep. Mrs. Horton, she comes over to Billy's, and she says to his wife Becky: 'I can't stand this, Mis' Banes. Your husband has ruined my greenhouse. You support him, and I hold you responsible for his actin' up.'

"'How much's it worth?' says Becky, she says. 'I count it at $5, not addin' my distress of mind,' she says. Then Becky says, she says, 'Here's your money, Mis' Horton, but I'll take it out o' Banes.'

"And while Billy was layin' there a-sleepin' like an innocent babe, the dear child, his wife Becky, she ties him up with a clothesline, he bein' bad in his head and knowin' nothin', and horsewhips him till she thinks she's took her pay out, he wakin' up bimeby and bellerin' like all Niagry, the poor dear lamb! But he couldn't move hand or foot, and she lays it on to him hot and says:

"CHANGES HAS COME TO ALL MY SONS."

"'You'll smash flowerpots and ferns that don't belong to you for me to pay for ag'in, will you? That's for Mis' Horton's stag's horn fern, that's for her Philippine mornin' glory and that's for her Lilium auratum lancifolium!' And with that big word she lams him tremendous, and he squeals and begs for mercy, the dear child! I can't think of it without sheddin' tears, Dr. Preachwell. Forgive a mother's feelin's. But he ain't been drunk since!

"And my Tom's gone, doctor. They said it was alcoholism or some sich l'arned name. He was buried from his mother-in-law's, the poor dear, and she hain't got no discernment, doctor. Everybody knows a woman's crazy that don't put the window blinds down and turn the lookin' glasses face to the wall at a funeral, and she never done neither, she was that mad at Tom. The poor dear never done harm to nobody in his life. He wasn't like Billy. When he was drunk, he was always quiet and gentle as a lamb, the dear thing!"

KATE SHARP.

MYSTERIOUS MISS DACRES

By Mrs. Schuyler Crowninshield.

Copyright 1901, by J. B. Lippincott Co.

"Where Jim is!" I exclaimed—"your brother Jamie? He is dead. Sent where he is?"

"Jim dead!" she ejaculated breathlessly. "Jim dead! How do you know? Who—who—told you?"

"You told me yourself," said I, "when you came to me. You said—"

"I never told you so. I said that Jim was dead?"

"You said that Jamie had been taken off suddenly, that he had gone the way of his kind, that he——"

"Oh, is that where you got your information?" The flush left her face. She was calm again. "Haven't you learned yet not to believe one word I say? I never said Jim was dead. I did say that he had gone away. I told you he had gone the way of his kind. Oh Jim! Jim!" And now for the first time her voice rang true. If there was a creature on this earth whom my sometime boarder loved, it must have been her brother Jamie, serving a life-sentence for the very same sort of mistake which she had made herself.

"You were at liberty to put your own construction upon it. Dear old Jim! If I can get into the same four walls, no matter where they may be, no matter what partitions may be between us——"

"Don't you think we've had sentiment enough?" said Beldon sullenly.

"You were always jealous of Jim," she laughed. "And now good-by, Wibby—a long and last farewell." She began to color again and took a step towards me. "I think that perhaps had I really been little Amaranthe, or whether I was or no, I think that if I had had the kindness and love that you and the old ladies have shown me earlier in life, that something different might have been made of me." I pushed close to her; there was real moisture in her eye.

"What has she done?" said I to Jennings, "that you should take her away like this? Others may have put stolen articles in my cellar, but does it argue that because this girl lived in the room above the celler that she was guilty? They were in my house, but was I guilty? Why don't you arrest me."

"You hardly have the appearance of a 'fence,' Mrs. Brathwaite; besides which, your previous good character must testify to——"

"Thank you, dear old Wibby. You would save me if you could, but as you see, Mr. Jennings is prejudiced." She turned on Jennings then, and with a phenomenal change of voice and tone which held all that could be imagined of bitterness, helpless rage, anger, passion, and hatred, she shrieked:

"Oh you! How I should love to tear your sneaking eyes out of your coward's head! Coming into a house in a disguise to pry upon a defenseless girl——"

"I always wondered you and Parky didn't see through me, Josie," said Jennings, laughing carelessly. "You didn't know about the plug in the floor, did you? and how could you know of the keys that fitted every drawer and trunk that you possessed? When you and Parky and Lestrange went off on your midnight raids, then came my innings. Why, Josie, I've spent hours in your rooms, yours and Parky's. I even tried Lestrange's bed in the cellar, but I saw real rats where he sees only those that come from——"

"If we are going, let us go," said Miss Dacres, with a shudder. It seemed to me as if she might have been somewhat ashamed of these revelations before me. I have always hoped that there was that much good in her. A million thoughts rushed pell-mell through my brain. "Who is to tell the ladies?—the dear ladies!" was uppermost.

And now, with a lightning rip of her black nun's dress, Bob Jennings, the detective, cut open the girl's skirt. He drew something quickly forth and threw it into my lap. "They will be safe with you," he said, and turned towards the door. "We must go if we want to catch the 1:27 express," and he hurried my sometime boarder from the room and out into the night. The policeman arose. They dragged my lower-back to his feet and pulled him towards the door, and I sat there dazed, with the blue velvet case in my hands. I opened it slowly, though I needed not to do it, for I knew what a flood of light lay imprisoned within.

"My Lord!" ejaculated Margot, as she looked over my shoulder, blinded by the rays of the Darlington rubies.

If Not, What Better Proof Can Plainfield Residents Ask For.

This is the statement of a citizen.
The testimony of a neighbor.
You can readily investigate it.
The proof should convince you.

Mrs. M. A. Hall, of 219 Prescott place, says: "For several years I had a dull aching pain across my back, at times extending to my hips. I was compelled to lie in just one position all night and stooping, lifting or bending forward aggravated the pains. Although I used different remedies that were recommended to me I obtained little if any relief. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills highly endorsed in our daily papers and procured a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. It was not long before I felt great relief and I was surprised how quickly the pain in my back disappeared."

For sale by all dealers; price 50c a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

is the general term used to describe pain in the head. It may be either symptomatic or idiopathic, the latter being generally chronic and due to specific bony lesion, usually in the cervical vertebrae.

A large class of the latter come under Osteopathic treatment, generally in a very bad condition after having suffered far beyond the power of drugs to cure. The form embraces many of the kinds generally described under one or other of the usual classifications.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $500 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods. If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

THE CODFISH CAKE.

After a Visit to Gloucester a Person Is Likely to Have Increased Respect for It.

It is all interesting to the last degree to watch and see how the ingenuous cod, which a few weeks ago swam happily in his native waters off the banks of Newfoundland, is transformed before your very eyes—some of him into codfish cakes (they call the little squares, which are cut to fit the small boxes, "cakes") and the rest of him carefully preserved to make oil, glue and fish guano. Verily, as a witty summer boarder remarked, "every part of the cod is used except the smell."

Certainly, after a visit to Gloucester you have increased respect for the fish cake. You realize the part it has played in the world's history; how it has brought about treaties between great nations—for American fishermen had to get from England the right to fish off the banks—how it has erected lighthouses and placed buoys all along the cruel shore, says Leslie's Weekly. You realize, too, the tragedies it has caused, the widows and orphans it has made, the loving hearts it has broken—for the cruel reef of Norman's Woe, where the wreck of the Hesperus occurred, lies in plain sight just at the entrance to the harbor; and you hear heartbreaking stories of boats that have gone down with all on board, in the very harbor itself, before the eyes of loving ones on shore. Truly, the romance of the codfish cake is no idle sound—after you have been to Gloucester. But, all the same after you have made the acquaintance of the cod in the processes of its evolution, and with the recollection of its odor still in your memory, you are quite, quite sure that you will not want any codfish cakes for a very long time.

FRENCH WOMAN A POWER.

Countess de Loignes Wields as Great Political Influence as Did Mme. de Maintenon.

Mme. la Comtesse de Loignes still keeps up the only great political salon in Paris. She has a gorgeous home in the Avenue de Champs Elysees and her political power is as great to-day as ever was that of Mme. de Maintenon.

Count de Mun is the only member of the chamber of deputies who can afford not to attend her receptions. Ladies leave her severely alone, but men of power are forced to file before her every Thursday from four to seven and to offer incense to this political goddess.

Mme. Adam once wielded a similar power, but she has been politically deserted since Gambetta said he could not be seen in her salons again, and yet she retained her power for years.

But Mme. de Loignes controls them all. Waldeck-Rousseau consulted her before retiring; she told Paul Deschanel not to contest the presidency of the chamber of deputies. She advised the three Castellane brothers to stand for the chamber.

Such is her power that President Loubet calls upon her, to the great chagrin of Mme. Loubet, who is an excellent housewife but not a politician.

Frenchmen are superstitious about the political power of women, says the Detroit News-Tribune. White-haired senators fear her, with the possible exception of Mr. Clemenceau. With her will die the political influence of the French salon.

YOUR SHARE OF MONEY.

The Amount of Cash Each Person of Our Population Should Have to Be Even.

Have you $28.66? If you have not you are short your per capita share of the money circulation of the United States, and some one has what would be coming to you if the money that is in circulation were equally divided. This statement is made without reservation, on the authority of the latest report of the treasury department, says the New York Herald.

Another thing: you are entitled to seven cents more than you were one year ago, according to this same report, even though there has been allowed for an increase of 113,000 in the population, for in that same time there has been an increase of more than 65,000,000 in the money in circulation. So you see you are better off than you were a year ago—if you get your dues.

In fact, you are getting better off all of the time. What has happened since 1879? The population has increased 58 per cent., and the money in circulation has increased 176 per cent., and more than one-half of that increase in circulation has been in gold or in gold certificates.

Smelt the Mastodon.

A correspondent writing to the Chicago Tribune says: "A number of years ago the bones of a mastodon were found in a swampy farm near Three Oaks, Mich. The university was notified, and some men came to disinter the 'remains.' I was standing next to the old farmer who owned the land, when it suddenly occurred to him that he could throw light on the subject, and he remarked: 'Waal, naouw, I thought I smelt somethin' last summer when I was daoun here plowin'.'"

A Minister's Busy Life.

An Ohio minister traveled 300 miles to get home to vote at the local option election recently. He went 146 miles by rail, 17 miles by carriage, 130 miles on a bicycle and 7 miles afoot. He led the prayer meeting jollifying over the result.

SAVED BY OLD HORSE

Little Girl Rescued by Equine Friend from Serious Harm.

Stood Between Her and Kicking Colt Until Her Father Came and Carried Her Away from the Stall.

Small Hazel McDonough, an Ohio girl, owes her life to the sagacity and affection of a horse owned by her father.

The wise old horse, whose name is Prince, lifted the girl from under the hoofs of a fretful colt, placed her safely in the hay that filled his manger, and stood guard between her and the kicking colt until her father came and carried her from the stall.

William McDonough, a farmer near Toledo, O., has long owned Prince, who is 20 years old. Prince still does his full share of work, but he is a veritable "Old Dobbin" to the McDonough children.

Prince has shown particular fondness for little Hazel, who is supremely happy when her father seats her on the old horse's back and, holding her there, "gives her a ride." The horse, as if he knew that he bore what his master loves best, then walks slowly, carefully picking his steps.

In his age Prince has been given the luxury of a box stall. Lately Mr. McDonough bought a two-year-old colt, and having no other place for him, turned him into Prince's stall.

The horse bore with dignity the frisky colt's presence; tolerated him with the same air of difference as a celebrated trainer shows toward the newest apprentice in the stable.

A day or two ago young Hazel escaped from her mother's watchful eye and toddled to the barn to visit her very good friend. Missing her, Mrs. McDonough suspected where the child had gone, and pursued. Reaching the barn door, the mother saw Hazel enter the box-stall.

"Princey! Hello, Princey!" cried the child.

The old horse, which nowadays is never haltered, turned his head and looked at her benignly. The colt immediately recognized the child's presence, and, ill at ease, tugged at his halter and moved to and fro, stamping.

SEIZED THE CHILD'S SKIRT.
(How Prince Lifted Hazel from Under the Colt's Legs.)

"Hazel!" shrieked Mrs. McDonough, running as fast as she could toward the little one; "Hazel, come here! Come here, dearest. Merciful heaven, she's killed!"

For the child, if she heard her, did not heed her. Hazel took another step into the stall, when the colt, prancing about, struck her and knocked her off of her legs as easily as he would brush off a fly. She fell against his hind leg, and that seared him. He reared and plunged and kicked, but, as if by a miracle, his hoofs escaped Hazel's head and body for a moment.

The next moment old Prince proved how wise he is and how fond of Hazel. One jump landed Prince alongside the colt. The old horse thrust down his head, seized the girl's skirt in his teeth, lifted her from under the colt's lashing legs, turned, and with as much tenderness as the child's mother ever showed when she cradled her, laid her in his hay-filled manger.

The child, too young to appreciate the deadly danger from which she had been saved, smiled as if Prince had played new tricks for her amusement, stretched out her arms and exclaimed:

"Hello, Princey!"

But the thoughtful Prince knew that was no time for endearments. The frightened colt was kicking and rearing. Prince immediately took the most effectual means of quieting him by crowding him against the side of the stall and pinning him there with his own body.

By that time, says the New York World, Hazel's father and some farmhands came running into the barn in answer to Mrs. McDonough's shrieks. Her father clasped Hazel in his arms and carried her away. Whereupon Prince released the colt. Hazel was not hurt in the least.

Balloon Flees with Cupid.

J. W. Crawford, of Crawfordsville, Ind., and Miss Elizabeth Tyler, of Chicago, were carried away in a runaway balloon on the Tioga Valley fair grounds at Tioga, N. Y., the other day. They had made the ascent for the purpose of being married. Rev. J. F. Hamilton was with them, and 5,000 persons were present to witness the ceremony. There was a strong breeze, and the strain broke the rope, carrying the party northward. The balloon disappeared, and it was thought the occupants had been killed, but they were found in a patch of woods later, badly bruised by descending through the trees, but alive.

Leal's football eleven will play the Montclair Athletic Association at Montclair, this afternoon.

The I. C. T. Club football team expects to take a large crowd of rooters to Roselle, Saturday afternoon, when it goes up against the strong eleven of that place.

Captain Roy T. Phillips, of the Alis A. A. football eleven, is particularly fortunate in having two such coaches as Lewis E. Waring and C. Westley Abbott. Both have played football for many years and thoroughly understands the game. L. E. Waring was captain of the old Plainfield A. A. eleven, which was the strongest Plainfield ever put on the gridiron. Abbott has had the advantage of training with the Yale eleven and the coaching of some of the most expert players in the world.

Saturday's game of the Alis A. A. will take place on Hope Common with the eleven from the Roseville A. A. The Roseville team is a particularly strong one and one of the best that will visit the local gridiron this season. A heavy guarantee is paid this organization to bring it here and the managers of the Alis eleven have to depend on the people in order to meet these expenses. There is no grand stand or enclosed field and the amount collected at each game can be made more or less according to the courtesy of those in attendance. If strong support is given to the games, the Alis boys will be able to bring other strong organizations here and give the people of Plainfield as good football as can be seen anywhere outside of the most important college games.

HIS WIFE'S TRIUMPH.

An Example of Fortitude and Determination That Did Not Go for Naught.

It has been the fate of many men of letters to have ill health bearing them down as they struggled on toward literary achievement. Thus beset in recent times were Stevenson, Richard Jeffries and J. R. Green. Each of these, it happened, had a high-hearted wife to keep him up, even to help him with the actual labor of writing. "The Life and Letters of J. R. Green" show forth a great and sweet man; they show, too, a wife, whose sympathy and fortitude helped to make his accomplishment possible, says Youth's Companion.

In copying the vast amount of manuscript of her husband's books Mrs. Green contracted writer's cramp and was forced to stop using her right hand. This looked like a final obstacle in the way of the invalid, who did much of his thinking in bed, and could not write himself. But Mrs. Green set to work at once learning to write with her left hand.

One of her first practice pages, which she was about to destroy with the rest, her husband took quietly and put in his pocket. Years afterward, when ill health seemed unbearable and in discouragement he felt that he could not work, he used to take out that piece of paper, a living record of his wife's triumph over difficulty. When he saw the painful, patient strokes by which Mrs. Green had learned to write with her left hand, he could work on with something near to inspiration.

Knew What She Wanted.

The late Albert Craney, long time proprietor of the hotel at West Point, used to tell many amusing stories of the unsophistication and ignorance of some of the relatives of the cadets who visited there. Upon one occasion, when Mr. Craney was talking on the hotel porch with the then secretary of war, Robert T. Lincoln, a rural-looking woman interrupted them with the question:

"Where's the Epidemic building?"

"The what?" said Mr. Craney.

"The Epidemic building," she repeated.

"She means the Academic building. Right across the plain, madam," said Secretary Lincoln, indicating the way, and then he fled to hide his mirth.—N. Y. Press.

A Pair of Honorables.

The late Henry Clay Miner, theater owner, patent medicine manufacturer and congressman from New York city, once registered in this fashion in the leading hotel in Syracuse: "Hon. Harry Miner and valet." A delegate to the convention that accounted for Miner's presence there was Daniel Donegan, a big man in the Tammany wigwam. He followed Miner to the desk, looked at the register and, with a grumbled comment as to the excessive tone and formality observed in fashionable hotels, wrote: "Hon. Dan Donegan and valise."—Detroit Free Press.

NEW JERSEY'S FAMOUS GOOD ROADS SYSTEM

Great Work Accomplished by the State and Counties Throughout Jersey.

A GRADUAL ADVANCE

SYSTEM REACHES FROM ONE END OF STATE TO OTHER.

Old Troubles That Were Met With and How They Have Disappeared As the Value of Hard Roads Is Realized.

The development and increase of hard roads in New Jersey, says The Newark Call, has been so gradual that many resident of the State have quite failed to realize that there are few States in the union that can show such a universal good road system, reaching, as it does, from the northern boundary to Cape May, and from the Atlantic Ocean to the Delaware river. It is possible to drive for days upon excellent roads, through mountains and valleys, past fertile farms, showing that they, too, have participated in the general good, and through teeming towns where the produce of the country is easily transported.

Apart from the work accomplished by separate municipalities, each town paying for its own hard roads, the State road act has made it possible to build about 640 miles of hard roads since 1893, and of this allowance Essex county alone has fifty-eight miles. This may seem a small proportion, but throughout this county each municipality has seen the importance of providing proper means for traffice and the towns are largely macadamized. Newark, of course, has its Telford, belgian block, brick and asphalt, but other towns have confined themselves almost exclusively to macadam or Telford. Orange, East, West and South Orange, Montclair, Bloomfield, Franklin, Belleville, in short, almost all the towns have been uniform in their desire to show that they are a unit in wishing the State to stand foremost in this most necessary movement. In all, Essex county has about 300 miles of hard roads.

The last report of the State Commissioner of Public Roads shows remarkable discrepancies in mileage in many of the counties, this, of course, applying only to the roads built under the State road act. Sussex has only a trifle over half a mile of State roads, but Burlington has over 121 miles. Hudson county runs Sussex a close second, with two and one half, but there is no other county anywhere near the high water mark of Burlington, Middlesex coming second in the list, with about 72 miles.

There are, of course, a number of reasons for this variation in figure. In Sussex county there are not many important towns. Many small hamlets lie snuggled among the hills, and the residents seem content to travel as did their forefathers, up to the hubs in mud in wet weather, with a somewhat similar experience in dust throughout the dry. There are, however, a number of excellent gravel roads that for part of the year cannot be excelled for light driving. Down in the southern part of the State much the same condition of affairs prevails. The farmers fail to appreciate the fact that benefits might accrue to them from suitable highways, although the sandy soil makes farming more or less of an unknown quantity except for melons, etc. But in Burlington county the trend of travel is toward Philadelphia, as in Essex it verges to Newark. Here the soil is largely sand and clay, and after years of incessant traffic her roads have become vertible sand thoroughfares, thus making the question of market transportation a most real and vital one to the farmers of the section.

In spite of all the sentimental reasons for the need of good roads, when it comes right down to the question of saving good money, and ample reasons for construction based upon this factor clearly demonstrated, then the hard roads are usually found essential. Burlington keeps right along improving all the roads she can, both sone and gravel, raising the value of her outlying farms, as produce can be more easily transported to railroad or city on the new hard roads from a distance than from a short distance on a sandy or dirt road.

It can not be said, though, that all the roads in this State have been built without question. The old road wound in and out the country in order to connect various farmhouses. If the house was on the side of a hill, the road clambered up after it, even though a curve of a few hundred feet would have eliminated the heavy grade.

Up in Sussex county a narrow dirt road runs from Sparta towards Andover, through the Walkill Valley. The road goes up and down hill in a most surprising manner; now the horse seems ready to sit on the dashboard, and then the driver braces himself to keep from falling on the animal's tail, and all the while a few hundred feet away is the valley, where the road might have been comparatively level. It is many of these roads that the civil engineer is obliged to deal with, and the residents along the curving, bumpy way greatly resent any change. A cut of three feet is deplored as irremediable injury, and a fill is fatal to the prospects of ever disposing of the land.

A good instance of this was shown on Bloomfield avenue, in the town of Bloomfield, when, in 1872, the Freeholders decided to turn the turnpike into a county road as one of the avenues radiating from the city. A short way beyond the present Watchung Railroad crossing there was a heavy cut made, and the property owners were up in arms, morally and legally, and a number of law suits ensued. Today these houses present a most desirable front, with walled terraces, and the avenue is of an easy grade, where once the hill was very steep.

Everywhere the resident is quite ready for his neighbor to be a participant in these disagreeable features, but resents any attempt to raise or lower the grade of the street adjoining his land. Human nature, in its worst aspects, is apt to be displayed in the preliminary work of preparing a road, but occasionally the builders come across a property owner who can look forward a little and see the enduring good the change of grade will give against a transient discomfort.

"Where are the fights of yesterday?" might be asked of any community where macadam and Telford have become part and parcel of the town. Almost every highway of any length has seen a trifle of legal litigation, but the suit is speedily forgotten and the road continues, straight, level and a monument to the good sense of the community.

The Democrats of Somerset Have Finally Put a County Ticket in the Field.

MR. DUNGAN EXPLAINS

Some Details Concerning the Reconvening of the County Convention—Action Was Immediately Endorsed by the Committee on Vacancies.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 15—At last the Democrats of Somerset county have a ticket in the field and there seems to be general satisfaction among the rank and file of the party over the result of the reconvening of the convention in the Court House yesterday morning, a detailed account of which was given in The Daily Press of last night.

The reason the nominations made yesterday were not at once ratified by the committee on vacancies, appointed by the convention of October 8 last, was the absence of Christopher A. Speer, who was obliged to be away to attend a funeral. He returned, however, early in the afternoon, and, with the other members of the committee, approved the selection of the convention in naming Samuel S. Childs, of Bernardsville, for State senator, William J. DeMond, of Somerville, for surrogate, and Samuel S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield, for member of Assembly. The others on the committee were Peter B. Hall, of Neshanic, and Eugene V. Cruser, the Freeholder from Montgomery.

The convention yesterday was in the nature of a conference. When a nomination was called for the townships were not named, but anyone from anywhere among the delegates popped up and told his choice for the office in question. One delegate suggested that the delegates go into caucus before taking any action, but Chairman Bergen objected so strenuously to this that the idea was abandoned.

After Mr. Bergen had called the convention to order, explaining why the delegates had all been called back, he introduced Mr. Dungan, who, he said, wished to explain his position in the misunderstanding that had arisen. Mr. Dungan had prepared a written statement, which he read. It was as follows:

"As Mr. Bergen has stated it seemed to me only fair to you and to myself to make some statement giving my reasons for taking the step I have. In accepting the nomination for the office of Senator I expressed my pleasure at receiving the unanimous support of the convention, and I then expressed the sentiment that the only way to accomplish the election of the Democratic ticket was by the unanimous and enthusiastic support of every Democratic voter in the county. At that time I had not the slightest intimation that there was any misunderstanding or dissatisfaction because of the withdrawal of Mr. Childs' name by the Bernards township delegation, or that there was any reason why the whole ticket should not receive such support.

"Soon afterward and before the adjournment of the convention I was informed that the withdrawal of Mr. Childs' name had not been authorized by him, and I went at once to see Mr. Childs, who informed me that no positive instructions had been given by him that his name should be withdrawn, but that he had left it entirely to the discretion of the Bernards township delegation as to whether or not that action should be taken.

"That being the case, I could then see no reason for questioning the manner of my nomination, as just prior to the convening of the afternoon session of the convention I heard a rumor that Mr. Childs had withdrawn, and when I inquired of him as to the truth he gave me the same reply, that he had left the whole matter to the discretion of the Bernards township delegation. But up to the time Mr. Childs' name was actually withdrawn I did not know what action that delegation would take, and my unanimous nomination came as almost a complete surprise.

"I subsequently learned that there was a misunderstanding with reference to the withdrawal of Mr. Childs' name, and a general belief among the delegates who favored his nomination

HE TOLD MEN ABOUT JAPAN

REV. C. M. SEVERANCE ADDRESSED CONGREGATIONAL MEN'S CLUB.

First Fall Meeting Was Held at the Congregational Church Last Evening.

The first fall meeting of the Men's Club of the Congregational church was held in the parlors of the church, last evening, with a good attendance of members. The first business was that of the election of officers which resulted as follows: President, W. B. Wadsworth; vice president, Alex. Millar; secretary, A. A. Weeks; treasurer, Charles Steiner; executive committee, J. A. Powlison and Harold Tomlinson.

After the transaction of some minor business, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the church, introduced Rev. Claude M. Severance, pastor of the Port Morris, N. Y., Congregational church, who for nearly an hour gave a delightful talk about Japan, its customs, conditions, etc. The speaker lived in Japan for five years and during the first eight months learned to speak fluently 3,000 native words.

He exhibited a number of curios from Japan, explaining their uses. One thing of special interest was a Webster's dictionary, one book and very compact, containing about 100,000 words. Mr. Severance told many amusing incidents concerning his stay in Japan, including that of having a tooth pulled. The effort made to extract this tooth would do credit to a blacksmith. The local dentist used a pair of pinchers, when his own native extractor failed to work.

The talk was greatly enjoyed by all and afterward Mr. Severance kindly answered many questions put to him about his stay in Japan. The evening closed with a social time during which coffee and cake were served by a committee from the club.

FIRE ESCAPES IN THIS CITY

CHIEF DOANE SAYS PLAINFIELD IS WELL EQUIPPED.

How the Hotels of the City Have Provided Against Possible Fire.

No city in this country can boast of a better system of fire escapes than can be found in the public and private buildings of Plainfield. This, at least, is what Chief T. O. Doane says and he ought to know.

While Jersey and Plainfield laws do not provide for compulsory fire escapes, they do state that if a conflagration occurs in a building inadequately provided with escapes, and anyone is hurt, the owner of the building shall be liable for heavy damages. Means of egress are compulsory in but one respect. Every hotel shall have a rope or its substitute in each room. Two hotels here, Chief Doane says, have made particular effort to keep well within the spirit and letter of the law. These are The Plainfield—now The Rosell—and The Kensington. In both these buildings there are not only ropes but iron ladders in the rear as well. The Park Avenue Hotel is provided with ropes. The Chief has, he states, experienced some difficulty with some of the other hotels, and the law allows him so little power that he is unable to entirely remedy the evil.

AS SHE SAW THEM.

Dr. Alice B. Condict Lectured on the Philippines Last Night.

An illustrated lecture on the "Philippines" was given before a very large audience in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, last evening, by Dr. Alice B. Condict, a returned missionary. The lecturer dwelt particularly on places in which she had labored and from her personal observation was enabled to present a vivid picture of the life and customs of the natives in the smaller towns. The illustrations shown were from pictures taken by Dr. Condict and were excellent.

Crescent Division Growing.

At the regular meeting of Crescent Division, No. 13, U. R. K. P., held last evening, several propositions for membership were received. The division is undergoing an unusual period of activity and plans have been laid for a successful winter season. Within a short time it is expected to bring the membership up to a full company.

Reception to Rector.

The reception to Rev. W. M. Downey, rector of Holy Cross church, will be held at the rectory on Washington avenue, Tuesday evening, October 21.

CALL POLICE RESERVES TO QUELL A RIOT

Rioters Consisted of "Conjunction" Jones and "Handsome Harry" Anderson.

WERE BOTH ARRESTED

WORDS AND BLOWS WERE EXCHANGED AT HOME OF MRS. JEFFERSON.

Rev. E. E. Jackson Summoned the Police and Was Then Allowed to Pass Judgment on the Offenders in the City Court.

An excited voice at the other end of the telephone informed the police at headquarters, yesterday afternoon, that a riot was in progress at the home of Mrs. Charles Jefferson, of West Third street, near Liberty, and that the presence of bluecoats would relieve the anxiety of residents in the vicinity.

Roundsman Mattox and Patrolmen McCarthy and Higgins hurried to the scene, but on their arrival found the "riot" had narrowed down to a row between Professor Walter Jones, alias "Conjunction," and "Handsome Harry" Anderson, in which lots of cuss words were exchanged and two blows had been planted on the professor's exaggerated lips. The call for the reserves had been sent in by Rev. E. E. Jackson, who did so because he thought "the officers might hurry up a little more."

When arraigned before City Judge Runyon, this morning, Harry admitted drinking but he was positive the professor was "sure enough" drunk.

The professor said three drinks was all he had taken and he was equally sure that Harry was a little "off color." Thus matters stood until John Taylor testified that both were obfuscated.

The two culprits listened with bowed heads while the court lectured them in scathing tones after which Rev. Mr. Jackson was empowered to impose sentence. He informed both men that on condition they remain away from Mrs. Jefferson's home he would let them go and as they promised readily, the professor even agreeing to join the church and help keep other people from the house. His Honor allowed that disposition to be made of the case.

RASORES CLUB MET.

First Fall Meeting Held at Home of Mrs. Henry Lapsley.

The first fall meeting of the Rasores Club was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Henry Lapsley, on First place, when a large number of the members were present. The meeting was of special interest for the members gave a recital of their summer experiences. Some were exceedingly funny, while most of the experiences proved to be helpful as well as of an entertaining nature. The first regular meeting of the club will be held next week Tuesday, when the work for the fall and winter will be taken up.

PUSHING WORK.

Progress on New Factory Building for Pederick-Ayer Company.

The contractors in charge of the new Pederick-Ayer buildings at Clinton avenue have been rushing matters to such an extent that some idea of the plant's size can now be obtained. The boiler room is completed and the metal smoke stacks are up, while the main building is assuming its complete form. Before cold weather arrives it is possible the exterior will have been entirely completed.

Col. Collins Expected.

Colonel Collins, commanding the Second Regiment of the State Militia, will attend the drill of Company K, this evening, at Saengerbund Hall. He will be present on a tour of inspection and a full attendance of the members is desired.

A Last Chance.

In view of the fact that Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards will preach his farewell sermon Sunday at the Crescent Avenue church, there will be no meeting at Warren chape at that time, thus giving the members a chance to hear Dr. Richards.

Addition to Choir.

Miss Ida Tallamy, of West Front street, is now a member of the First Baptist church choir, joining the soprano voices.

Military Dance.

Company K's military dance and reception will be held at the Casino, Thursday evening, October 30.

CARLOAD OF COAL COMING

RESULT OF EFFORTS OF ORGANIZED AID ASSOCIATION.

It Will Be Distributed From E. H. Holmes' Coal Yard at a Low Rate.

The Organized Aid Association has the assurance of the shipment of a carload of coal for the working people of Plainfield this week. The coal is obtained direct from the Central Railroad of New Jersey through the general sales agent, Mr. Heilner.

In justice to the railroad, it should be said that the request of the committee was met with cordial sympathy with the purpose expressed and with the assurance that the utmost would be done to grant it, although the road has hitherto been driven hard in its efforts to supply the hospitals and other buildings of like importance in New York. The outcome of this promise is the carload of coal now on its way to the city. It is the plan of the railroad to provide the other towns along its line in a similar way at as early a date as is practicable.

The Organized Aid Association has, through the kindness of E. H. Holmes, arranged to use his coal yard at 208 Madison avenue for the reception of the coal and its sale to those who need. The coal will be sold at ten cents a bucket to all who apply at Mr. Holmes' yard. Public notice will be given through the papers when it is ready.

FELL ON KNIFE.

Oliver Peel Stabbed Himself in the Breast, Just Missing Windpipe.

Oliver Peel, a young lad, had a narrow escape from serious injury today noon. He was standing on a fence whittling a stick, when his feet slipped and he fell forward to the ground. The penknife in his hand penetrated his breast close to the windpipe. Edward Martin, porter at the North Avenue station, found the boy on Watchung avenue, bleeding profusely. He took him to Dr. Jenkins and one stitch was taken in the laceration. The doctor considered it a close call.

Wedded Quarter of Century.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dresselt, of Lincoln place, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding, yesterday, and last evening, a party of relatives from Jersey City gave them a surprise. The evening was passed with music, dancing and a general good time. The celebrants received a number of handsome presents as reminders of the happy event.

Constable Gjetelsen on Trial.

Constable John Gjetelsen was arraigned before Justice Huff, yesterday afternoon, charged by Mrs. Matilda Carlson, of Richmond street, with forcing an entrance to her home to make a search for some goods belonging to a boarder. The State withdrew the charge and he furnished a $50 bond.

JERSEY VETERANS MET TOGETHER ONCE MORE

Reunion of Members of the Thirtieth Regiment, N. J. Vols., Held Here Today.

BUSINESS SESSION FIRST

CAPTAIN J. FRANK HUBBARD RE-ELECTED VICE PRESIDENT.

Election of Officers Was Held This Morning—Thirteen Members Lost by Death During Year—Meet Next at New Brunswick.

A hearty welcome was accorded the veterans of the Thirtieth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, who arrived in this city, this morning, for their annual re-union. Ninety-two of them are in attendance and they are being extended every courtesy within the power of the reception committee, composed of Captain J. F. Hubbard, Peter V. Weaver, David Weaver and Charles Randolph.

The veterans adjourned to Reform Hall upon their arrival, where at 10 o'clock, they were called to order by President A. S TenEyck, of Somerville. Following prayer by Chaplain Janeway, of Pawling, Pa., considerable business of a routine nature was transacted.

It consisted of the reading of reports, one of which was from the memorial committee showing the regiment had lost thirteen members by death during the year. A committee was appointed to draft resolutions expressing sympathy in the death of Captain B. S. Totten, of Middlebush. It was voted to have the next meeting at Somerville the second Wednesday in October, 1903.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, A. S. TenEyck, of Somerville; vice president, Captain J. F. Hubbard, of this city; secretary and treasurer, Captain James Bowman, of South Branch.

At noon adjournment was taken and an hour later dinner was served in the lower part of the hall by the members of the Woman's Relief Corps. The meeting will be resumed at 2 o'clock this afternoon when speeches will be heard.

DOG IN SLUICEWAY.

Makes All Sorts of Trouble for Its Owner in His Endeavors to Get Canine Out.

A large Newfoundland dog, owned by William Schorb, of East Front street, and weighing nearly 160 pounds, was the innocent cause of a lot of excitement in the rear of French's mill, yesterday morning.

The animal was walking across a plank over the sluiceway leading under the mill, when it slipped and fell in. Enough water was in it to make it swim to keep its head up and its howls soon attracted its owner and a crowd. Schorb was at a loss as to the best way to get him out and several attempts with planks signally failed. Every newcomer to the crowd had a different suggestion to make and while they were being considered, the canine became exhausted and nearly drowned.

Schorb finally rigged up a small block and tackle and in this way hoisted him out. The dog is a valuable one and beside is a great pet with the family, despite the immensity of his size.

NEW SANITARY CODE.

Adopted by City Board of Health on Its First Reading.

The City Board of Health held an adjourned meeting yesterday afternoon for the purpose of continuing the reading of the new sanitary code, which the board hopes to adopt within a short time. Yesterday the code was adopted on its first reading. It will have to be adopted on a second reading, then advertised according to the State laws, after which it will go into effect.

Want a Settlement.

At the regular meeting of Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., held Monday evening, resolutions deploring the present struggle between the coal operators and miners and praying for a speedy settlement, were passed. The first degree team performed some practice work in anticipation of initiating several candidates.

Pastor to Entertain.

The members and congregation of Grace M. E. church have been invited to attend a reception given by the pastor and his wife at the parsonage, 20 Park place, tomorrow evening from 8 to 10 o'clock.

SOMERSET'S BOARD BUSY

AWARDED CONTRACT FOR A BRIDGE TO W. T. KIRK COMPANY.

Authorized the County Engineer to Survey Roads Which Have Been Applied For.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 15—The Somerset county Board of Chosen Freeholders did a great amount of work yesterday. All the members were in attendance. The County Collector was authorized to borrow $20,000.

The claims of Asbury and Rachel Varlow for damages for having fallen through a bridge in Franklin township were settled.

T. E. Gibson, E. B. Hoagland, R. W. Hoagland and Wm. J. Logan were appointed as a committee to confer with the Middlesex Board about the improvement of a line road.

Bids for the construction of a stone road from Woods Tavern to Flaggtown will be received December 6.

County Engineer Doughty was authorized to survey for the following roads that have been applied for: From Millington to Far Hills; from Gladstone to Far Hills; from Davidson's bridge to Blazure's corner; from Peter's Brook in Somerville to Wagoner's corner.

The following are the bids and bidders for the construction of the Leuff bridge in Franklin township: W. T. Kirk Co., $498; F. R. Long Co., $745; John W. Scott, $565; Levering & Garrigues, $720, $714 and $664; Canton Bridge Co., $566, $480 and $430. Several bids were rejected. The contract was awarded to the W. T. Kirk Co.

During the meeting, the project to build a macadam road from Stirling to the North Plainfield borough line was discussed. It was put to vote and defeated six to four, the votes against it being from the other end of the county.

FIRST SOCIAL OF SEASON

GIVEN BY THE WOMEN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY OF HOPE CHAPEL.

The Programme Included Musical Selections and Recitations—Committee in Charge.

Unqualified success attended the first entertainment and social of the year given by the Woman's Missionary Society, of Hope chapel, last evening. The attendance was extremely large and the pecuniary results far exceed the expectations of the committee.

The programme rendered during the fore part of the evening consisted of piano solos by Fernando Cortright; vocal selections by J. Stockbridge Daysdale and Thomas Muir; recitations by Miss Clarina Weber, of the Stanhope-Wheatcroft School of Expression; cornet solos by Edward Young; piano selections by Herr Gustav Maller and a piano monologue by William N. Runyon.

Following the entertainment many of those in the audience adjourned to the gymnasium where some daring feats on the flying rings were given by George Fritts. The serving of refreshments brought the affair to a close.

The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. George Radford, Mrs. Fred Wharton and Mrs. W. G. Gray.

A STRANGE CHARACTER.

Something About Duss, the Great Band Master, Who is Coming.

Duss, the musical genius who has been the fad of New York's polite set all summer, comes to the Casino with his band of sixty pieces Thursday afternoon, October 23, and it is safe to say he will be welcomed by a large gathering of our finest people. Every theatre-goer has a desire to see and hear this strange character—this suddenly-made-famous man who has sufficient magnetism to appeal to Gotham's fickle audiences every night for nearly a half year. Last spring when Manager R. E. Johnston announced the coming of Duss, the people and press of New York asked: "Who is Duss—what is Duss?" A night or two later every newspaper in the great city took up the new musical star and praised his genius to the skies—praised him with an earnestness that made it possible for him to give nightly concerts in New York City for one hundred and twenty-eight consecutive nights, which is a remarkable accomplishment since other bandmasters are proud of playing a hundred minutes in the great city.

JOINED IN WEDLOCK AT THEIR NEW HOME

Marriage of Miss Charlotte DeMeza to Hugh H. MacMurray Yesterday.

A PRETTY CEREMONY

REV. CHAS. E. HERRING OFFICIATED AT THE MARRIAGE.

Couple Was Well Remembered by a Host of Relatives and Friends—Have Gone to Washington and Niagara Falls.

A nuptial event of much interest was that of yesterday afternoon, when Miss Charlotte Louise DeMeza, daughter of Mrs. Charlotte DeMeza, of West Second street, and Hugh Henry MacMurray, formerly of Mountainside, but now of Plainfield, were married at the new home of the groom, 1039 West Seventh street, by Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. The affair was witnessed by the relatives of the contracting parties and the near friends. The handsome new home was tastily decorated with plams, roses and smilax, the color scheme being white and green. In the parlor, hallway and dining room these decorations were very attractive and much admired.

The event was celebrated at 5 o'clock, at which time the first notes of the wedding march, played by P. Ludwig Conde's orchestra, announced the appearance of the bridal party. The bride, gowned in white silk moire, trimmed with real lace and wearing a veil, was accompanied by her brother, William G. DeMeza, who gave her away in marriage.

The bridemaid was Miss Florence Robinson, of Paterson, cousin of the bride, who wore a gown of white mousseline de soie, trimmed with lace. She carried pink roses, and the bride carried a shower bouquet. Miss Rebecca Gibson, of Paterson, also a cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She was gowned in white and carried a basket of flowers. The best man was Louis Geary, of New York, and City Judge William N. Runyon and City Clerk J. T. MacMurray, of this city, were the ushers.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held until 8 o'clock, the bride and groom leaving soon after that time on a wedding tour to Washington and Niagara Falls. Before their departure they were showered with congratulations and best wishes from all. The guests endeavored to learn which way the couple was going, but they cleverly eluded them.

Mr. and Mrs. MacMurray were handsomely remembered by their relatives and friends and a great wealth of presents was received, including a dining room suit from the groom's mother and sister, a bedroom suit from the bride's mother, a Morris chair from the groom's associates in business and a handsome piano lamp from the employes at Hill & Shupp's, where the bride was engaged for a number of years. The groom's gift to the bride was a piano and to the best man and ushers stick pins of lover's knots set with pearls.

The bride is a most estimable and popular woman. As stated she was with the house now conducted by Hill & Shupp for a long time and she made many friends. The groom is employed at the Pond Machine Tool Works, where he has a lucrative position. He is a brother of City Clerk James T. MacMurray.

Addition to Silk Mill.

A second story addition thirty feet deep has been built on the rear of the Watchung Silk Company mill on Chatham street. It rests on heavy timbers and will be used for the use of additonal looms. There is an outside stairway on the south-side front, which gives all the room possible in this addition.

New Lease of Life.

There will be an effort made to revive the Board of Trade Monday evening, October 20, when the first fall meeting will be held. From present indications the coal strike will be settled before that time so that it will not be necessary for the board to take up this question.

Private Dance.

Harry Blimm and Harry DeMeza will conduct a private dance in the I. C. T. Club rooms on the evening of November 13. They have issued a large number of invitations and the affair promises to be an event of the season. Westervelt, of Newark, will furnish the music.

LITERARY.

The history of the industrial changes which have of late been occurring with such rapidity is to be found in its most interesting form in the careers of the "Captains of Industry" now before the public in connection with the larger interests of production, transportation and finance. A knowledge of these men, their derivation, their leading characteristics, weaknesses and abilities, throws much light upon the news of the day in which their names constantly recur. In making the effort to present a fairly complete series of studies of these men The Cosmopolitan Magazine has furnished the public with one of the most interesting serials ever published. In the October number H. C. Frick, Cyrus H. K. Curtis, David H. Moffat, Woodrow Wilson and H. H. Vreeland furnish interesting studies.

In the October number of McClure's Magazine appears the introduction to Miss Ida M. Tarbell's long announced "History of the Standard Oil Company." The first chapter of the history will appear in November. This not only will be Miss Tarbell's most important work since her "Life of Lincoln," it is also the first piece of historical writing of its kind—a dramatic narrative of the most momentous episode in our industrial development of the last quarter century. As is stated in the introduction, Miss Tarbell has chosen the Standard Oil Company as the typical trust because it was the first in the field, because its organization is the most perfect, its monopoly the securest, and in particular because every step of its history can be fully traced by documentary evidence of unimpeachable authority. It is because of the great mass of this evidence that Miss Tarbell has been so long in getting her history into its final form. The first paper will deal with the "Birth of the Oil Industry." Miss Tarbell is herself a native of the oil regions, and in this part of her narrative, as also in her account of the great Oil War of 1872, she will write of men and events she has personally known and witnessed.

THEATRICAL.

Keith's Union Square Theatre, New York, retains its headliners, the Fadette's woman's orchestra of Boston. The Pony Ballew, an English dancing act, comes back to New York after a long tour of the other cities and will, without doubt, receive an enthusiastic welcome from the patrons of the Union Square. Hugh Stanton and Florence Modena, offer their immensely laughable sketch "A Bargain Fiend," one of the most popular mediums these thoroughly competent artists have ever found. R. J. Jose, the famous contra-tenor, is another of the popular favorites who are sure of a warm reception after a long absence, has a good place on the bill. Roberts, Hayes and Roberts, in their eccentric comedy sketch, are making a pronounced impression wherever they have been seen, and now have the best act of the kind that is seen in the varieties. Aurie Dagwell, the gifted contralto, adds another to the list of vocal turns that will be appreciated by lovers of good music. Burke's musical dogs are a novelty act that pleases everyone, appealing to the children with especial effectiveness. Murphy and Slater, the colored comedians; Reed and Shaw, in a ring act; Eddie Mack in his dancing specialties; and Doyle and Juggler, are but a few of the many good acts which Mr. Keith offers. Of course, the biograph and stereopticon figure on the programme.

Rev. Dr. Buchanan, of Pemberton, has been visiting his son, Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, of Duer street.

Mrs. Perrine, of New York, has returned home after a visit with her mother, Mrs. Edward Thorn, of East Second street.

Richard VanArsdale, of Orchard place, has returned home from the hospital, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

STRIKERS DYNAMITE

Trolley Car Blown Up In Saratoga Springs.

EXPLOSION SHAKES THE TOWN.

Motormen's Strike on Hudson Valley Railway Assuming a More Threatening Aspect—Mayor Finnegan to Arrest Guardsmen.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Oct. 15.—The motormen's strike on the Hudson Valley railway is assuming a more threatening form. Dynamite was used in Saratoga Springs early last night, and a riot is feared at Mechanicsville. A trolley car passing through Hamilton street near the Clarendon hotel and only a short distance from the passenger trolley station on South Broadway was partially wrecked at 7:30 in the evening by the explosion of dynamite that had been placed on the track. The car windows were broken, the track torn up and the windows of a nearby saloon shattered, but no one was injured. The explosion was heard in every part of the town and created much excitement.

Major Andrews of the Third battalion, Second regiment, on strike duty at Mechanicsville, in the southern part of Saratoga county, has been officially notified by Village President Finnegan of Mechanicsville that he had sworn in a large force of deputies and proposed to arrest and lock up every national guardsman discovered doing patrol duty in Mechanicsville. As the Second regiment is doing strike duty by orders from Governor Odell any attempt on the part of Finnegan to carry out his threat may lead to serious consequences. Major Andrews has three companies under his immediate command.

Odell Orders Troops Home.

BALLSTON, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Lieutenant Colonel Lester, commanding the Second regiment, New York national guard, has received orders from Governor Odell withdrawing Companies I, K and L from further strike duty along the line of the Hudson Valley railroad and returning them to their homes at Whitehall, Glens Falls and Saratoga respectively. The other nine companies remain in the field.

Germans Cool Toward Boers.

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—The government is discouraging the Boer reception committee in various ways. The police will not permit the proposed procession to pass through the Brandenburger gate, doubtless because it is near the British embassy. The billposters who have the monopoly of the city's advertising on the pillars have broken their contract and refuse to put up any more placards advertising the reception of the Boers. It is intimated that the reason for this action on the part of the billposters is that they received a secret hint from the police to cease advertising the entertainment. The government seems determined to prevent the slightest demonstration that might be construed as offensive to Great Britain.

Death of Noted War Surgeon.

DENVER, Oct. 15.—Dr. William Riddick Whitehead, a distinguished physician and author of many works on medicine and surgery, is dead, aged seventy years. He was made a Knight of the Imperial Order of St. Stanislaus by the czar in recognition of services during the Crimean war. He served with distinction during the civil war.

Paul Lessar Very Ill.

THE PLAN NOT LIKED

Miners Will Doubtless Reject Operators' Proposition.

OUTLOOK FOR SETTLEMENT DARK

President Mitchell Issues a Statement Which Throws Little Light on Strikers' Intentions—Miners' Union Slighted, He Says.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 15.—From a thorough canvass of the situation as it exists there is every indication for believing that the new arbitration plan proposed by the presidents of the coal companies for ending the miners' strike will not be accepted in its present form. There is a division of opinion among the strikers, but there is no doubt that a majority feel that the offer to have the president of the United States select an arbitration commission along the lines suggested by the operators is not fair and that it unduly limits the president in making up the board. The miners, it is safe to say, will abide the advice of their national president, in whose judgment they have the utmost confidence. President Mitchell declines to say how he personally looks upon the proposition.

Mr. Mitchell made a statement last evening after a silence lasting all day. He had no intention of making it until the correspondents representing the newspapers all over the country called on him in a body and informed him that the general public desired to have an answer to the proposition of the operators. After giving it he was asked many questions regarding the attitude of the men and the probability of the acceptance or rejection of the new offer, but he had no reply to make to any of these questions. He denied that he had any knowledge of what the new offer of the operators was until it became public property, and also denied that he was in telephonic communication with President Roosevelt. His attention was called to the fact that most of the information from Washington indicated that the proposition would be accepted and that the strike was near an end, but he stoutly maintained that neither his officers nor the rank and file of the men had done anything to cause such an impression to go out.

President Mitchell's statement to the press was as follows: "I fully appreciate with what anxiety the people of our country are awaiting the end of the coal strike. The coal operators have not addressed the miners' union or its officers in making their public statement. It is therefore impossible for me to state the attitude of the miners at this time. I am now, as I have always been, deeply solicitous of the interests of the public and the welfare of the mine workers, who have been on strike for the past five months. A formal statement defining our position and intentions will be issued just as soon as we are in possession of the full meaning of the proposition of the operators."

The district presidents also maintain silence as to their personal opinion on the proposition excepting President Fahy, who after he arrived from Boston gave an inkling as to how he viewed the new turn of affairs. In reply to a query he said: "The strike cannot be settled without the consent of the men. We are not dealing in gold bricks of any kind, and you can make any deduction from that you want."

There will be a conference today between Mr. Mitchell, the three district presidents and Secretary-Treasurer Wilson. It is fully expected that the sentiment of all the strikers will be known and that action will be taken accordingly. There is talk of a convention being called, but there is nothing definite on which to base this talk. When Mr. Mitchell was asked if he and the district officers had power to end the strike, he said that it is a rule of the organization that no settlement can be made by the officers of the union without the consent of a delegate convention. It is practically certain that Mr. Mitchell's advice will be followed in the conference. While he has not said a word as to what he will do, it is freely predicted by those who understand the situation that he will advise a refusal of the proposition.

A great many of the strikers think the proposition should be accepted and that the miners should trust to President Roosevelt to do the best he can under the conditions laid down by the coal road presidents. An argument was made by one miner at the Hart hotel that Mr. Mitchell could not well afford to turn down the proposition after already offering to permit the president to select the members of the commission. He thought the president would appreciate the trust put in him and see that the miners had fair play. Others in the same class thought that not much harm could be done by accepting the proposition, but that in the end much good will result.

The situation around the collieries has been partially lost sight of because of recent developments, but there is no material change. The arbitration talk has acted as a check upon the movement of men returning to work, and it is probable that there will be no great movement in this direction until some definite conclusion is reached in the arbitration scheme. The prospect for a coal supply to meet the rapidly approaching cold weather is by no means bright. If the miners should accept the arbitration plan of the operators, it would take at least two weeks before the details of sending them back could be worked out. As the outlook for arbitration is rather dark, it can be safely said that there will be little more coal on the market for some time to come than there is at present.

PRESIDENT TAKES COUNSEL.

Preparing to Appoint Commission When Plan Is Accepted.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Frank P. Sargent, former grand master of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, was called into consultation with the president yesterday, and Commissioner of Labor Carroll D. Wright went to the temporary White House at the same time. The conversation related chiefly to the appointment of the commission of arbitrators proposed by the coal mine operators.

Mr. Sargent, after leaving the temporary White House, said:

"I have heard nothing from Mr. Mitchell. If the conditions regarding the personnel of the commission do not meet his views, I presume that he will suggest changes, and that through negotiations the matter will be compromised to the satisfaction of both sides. I believe that we have seen the beginning of the end of the strike."

Commissioner Wright expressed the same opinion regarding the good result likely to follow the proposition of the operators, and although he declined to discuss the rules prescribed by the operators to define the eligibility of appointees it was evident that Mr. Wright believed this matter would be made the subject of negotiations. These views, although privately expressed, may be accepted as representing those of the president.

President Roosevelt, according to all that can be learned in Washington, has yet no knowledge as to whether or not President John Mitchell will advise the miners to accept the operators' proposition for resumption of work at the coal mines and the submission of the controversy to an arbitration commission.

When this has been done, the president will announce his purpose to set to work to arrange the personnel of the commission. This will not be accomplished without considerable further negotiation, as it is well understood that the president is not altogether pleased with the restrictions placed upon him with regard to the class of men to be appointed, as it implies a lack of confidence in his fair mindedness and judgment.

It is probable that the provision regarding the appointment of these arbitrators will be materially changed by consent of both parties to the proposed agreement, so that the president will be free to select the men he prefers. This will result in the commission which the president had intended to appoint on his own motion before last night's proposition was submitted to make an investigation as a basis for his recommendations to congress.

THE OPERATORS' PROPOSAL.

Plan For Settlement of Strike by Arbitration Submitted.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The operators have agreed to the appointment of a commission to be appointed by the president of the United States to whom shall be referred all questions at issue between the companies and their own employees whether they belong to a union or not, and the decision of the commission shall be accepted by the operators.

The commission is to consist of an army or navy engineer officer, an expert mining engineer not connected with the coal mining properties, one of the judges of the United States court for the eastern district of Pennsylvania, a man of prominence eminent as a sociologist and a man who by active participation in mining and in selling coal is familiar with the practical physical and commercial features of the business.

The operators also make it a part of their proposition that the miners shall return to work as soon as the commission is constituted and cease all interference with nonunion men. The commission to name a date when its findings shall be effective and to govern conditions of employment between the companies and their own employees for at least three years.

The statement was submitted to the president by J. Pierpont Morgan in the course of a conference held at the temporary White House.

The Mining Outlook.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 15.—The superintendents of the local mining companies say that as far as this region is concerned the majority of the mines could be worked to their fullest capacity within a week after the strike was off. With the exception of a few places men have been at work right along cleaning up falls, keeping the timbering repaired and otherwise preparing for the day when work would be resumed. All the mines, with one or two exceptions, have been kept free of water and gas and inside of ten days could be in full operation. One of the exceptions is the Hallstead colliery of the Delaware and Hudson company at Duryea, at which pumping operations were abandoned. This mine was nearly "worked out" and will probably never be reopened. No

Nonunionists Mobbed.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Oct. 15.—While John Shipman and David Hewitt, nonunionists, were returning home from the Henry Clay shaft last evening they were held up by a mob of 500 men, women and children and pelted with tomatoes, clubs and stones. Shipman and his companion were knocked down a number of times before they escaped. On the approach of the soldiers the crowd dispersed. Opinion grows more prominent here among the strikers against returning to work before they know what concessions will be granted them, and in the opinion of many the strike is not yet in its last stages.

Will Not Accept.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Oct. 15.—The opinion of the strike leaders here is that Mr. Mitchell will not accept the proposition submitted to President Roosevelt by the mine operators. P. J. Sweeney, a prominent leader, said: "The proposition is not fair, and I don't think Mitchell will accept it, and if he did the mine workers would not. It is a ruse of the operators to try to divert public sympathy from the miners, but it will fail of its purpose because our cause is just."

Coal For Railway Men.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 15.—One hundred and fifty tons of anthracite coal have been shipped here from the Shamokin district by the Philadelphia and Reading Railway company for sale to its employees in Harrisburg.

POLICEMAN WAS RICH.

A Fortune Found in Desk of Captain Donohue After Death.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Over $100,000 in cash, diamond jewelry and securities were found in the desk of Police Captain John J. Donohue, who dropped dead in his station house last week.

Here is the list of the property: Cash, $34,000, found in a small iron box, unlocked, in a drawer; diamond jewelry, $11,000, including two solitaire men's rings, each set with a single diamond worth $1,500, found in a drawer under the roller top; steel trust stock, $15,000; gold mining stock, $1,000; Metropolitan Street railway stock, $15,000; five life insurance policies, each for $2,000, making $10,000. Each was made payable to the "heirs of John J. Donohue."

There were numerous certificates of stock and notes of men well known which are said to be valuable.

The finding of this treasure was a surprise and makes the value of the estate nearer $200,000 than $75,000.

In the safe of the station was found a deed showing that Captain Donohue owned the apartment building at the northwest corner of One Hundred and Thirty-first street and Seventh avenue, valued at $35,000.

The appearance of the $34,000 in cash in the desk was such as to indicate that most of it had been there a long time. It was packed in packages of $1,000 and $5,000.

Methodist Women Meet.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 15.—Delegates from every portion of the United States are here to attend the twenty-first annual session of the national board of managers of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church, whose deliberations opened this morning, to occupy an entire week. A notable event will be a dinner given to Mrs. Clinton B. Fiske of New York, president of the national board, tomorrow evening at the Fiske Training school, Kansas City, Kan. This school is named for Mrs. Fiske and is maintained by the board.

Prince Henry's Auto Failed.

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—Prince Henry's new automobile, in which he started from Hamburg Oct. 9 via Dusseldorf for Darmstadt, where he will spend his vacation with the princess and their children, broke down in the country before he reached Dusseldorf, and the prince was compelled to stop all night with the proprietor of a repair shop. He is traveling under the name of Von Achenbach, but at Osnabruck, where he stopped for benzine, he was at once recognized by the townspeople, who made a demonstration in his honor.

Engineer Stricken at His Post.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Oct. 15.—While approaching Sioux Falls with a Rock Island passenger train Engineer Chauncey J. Fox of Estherville was stricken with apoplexy. Although dazed and scarcely able to retain his seat in the cab, he succeeded in running his engine for a mile until the Sioux Falls station was reached. He died at the City hospital last night.

O'Donnell Sent to Prison.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—John O'Donnell, Nationalist member of parliament for the south division of County Mayo, has been sentenced by the crimes act court at Birr to three months' imprisonment at hard labor and to an additional three months in default of bail for good behavior. Mr. O'Donnell was convicted of intimidation and inciting to boycotting.

Flowers For Washington's Tomb.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The crown prince of Siam and his brother placed two handsome wreaths on the tomb of Washington during their visit to Mount Vernon yesterday. One of these was of orchids and violets and the other of oak leaves and white chrysanthemums. The party left here today for Wilmington, Del.

Kruger Goes to France.

CASTRO'S FORCE WON

Rebel Army Overwhelmed at La Victoria.

EARLIER REPORTS UNFAVORABLE.

President of Venezuela and His Army Were Said to Be Surrounded by Revolutionists and Position Critical.

PUERTO CABELLO, Venezuela, Oct. 15.—According to an official report received here, the battle fought between the Venezuelan revolutionists and the forces of President Castro near La Victoria has resulted in a complete victory for the government army. The announcement has caused great enthusiasm here.

Earlier advices from Willemstad, island of Curacao, reported that President Castro was surrounded by revolutionists and that his position was critical.

The government of Venezuela, owing to the fear that the revolutionists might make a night attack on Caracas and in view of the fact that Vice President Vincente Gomez left that city Monday morning with all the troops available, 800 men, to re-enforce President Castro, has been transferred to the "provisional capital" of Venezuela, in the Guacaipuro district, surrounding Los Teques, without any town or village being stipulated as the headquarters of the ministers.

Consequently the seat of the government may be in a railroad car or in some other place unknown to the general public. The Venezuelan government was also actuated in this matter by a desire not to reply to the questions of the foreign ministers, who have been daily asking for redress as the result of injuries inflicted on the persons or properties of citizens of the countries which they represent.

The revolutionists now have 10,000 troops cantoned at San Sebastian, San Juan de los Moros, Cua, Ocumare and Villa de Cura. On the other hand, desertion has played havoc with General Castro's army, and, apart from his 4,000 to 5,000 Andine troops, he has no one to rely on. Betrayals, so frequent in these latitudes when governments are threatened or doomed, have begun.

It is now said that if the president is defeated in a decisive battle he will endeavor to reach La Guayra and flee to Maracaibo, from where he will continue the struggle, having already prepared the way by sending there large quantities of arms and ammunition.

Brisk Dead Letter Business.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The annual report of the dead letter office for the last fiscal year submitted by Acting Postmaster General Wynne shows total receipts of 9,300,351 pieces of mail matter of all kinds, an increase of 9 per cent over last year. The ordinary unclaimed letters numbered 6,446,000; ordinary unclaimed returned from foreign countries, 620,235; letters and parcels held for postage, 156,831; domestic letters undelivered at hotels, 396,232; letters and parcels with fictitious addresses, 150,307; bearing no address, 81,068; originating in foreign countries, 838,805. The total number of pieces of mail matter opened was 8,216,407 and the total number delivered unopened 1,183,231. Of the letters and parcels opened 50,869 were found to contain money to the amount of $48,438 and 50,874 commercial papers with an aggregate face value of $1,399,926.

Registration Day In Porto Rico.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Oct. 15.—Yesterday was the first registration day for the coming elections in Porto Rico. Few serious conflicts have thus far been reported, but thousands of protests have been lodged. In all parts of the island members of the Federal party refused to register. The Federals of Cayey, where there have been many election conflicts, made no attempt whatever to register and telegraphed Acting Governor Hartzell that the party would retire from the election.

Yellow Fever at Guayaquil.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Oct. 15.—The board of health at a meeting declared this city to be infected with yellow fever. There have been many cases lately, chiefly among Germans. A Jesuit priest named Guerrero, who was educated in the United States and who had been administering to the sick, has died of yellow fever.

Admiral Schley In St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 15.—Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley and Mrs. Schley on their arrival at St. Louis were escorted to the Planters' hotel, where after dinner they were tendered a reception and a drive about the city. They left for Fort Smith, Ark., last night.

Renewed Disorder In Geneva.

GENEVA, Oct. 15.—There were renewed disorders here this evening on the part of street car line employees who had not been reinstated in their positions. Troops restored order, and the ringleaders of the rioting were arrested.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The presbytery of Chicago voted in favor of creed revision.

New England Christian Endeavorers began a three days' session in Boston.

Lightning struck a Texas church and killed one and injured five of a funeral party.

The freight steamer C. B. Lockwood has been lost in Lake Erie off Ashtabula. Ten of the crew are missing.

THE CITY ELECTION.

It may have been that the factional troubles, which raged in the Union county Republican ranks so fiercely when the county primaries were held, attracted so much interest in Plainfield that the coming local election was almost forgotten. Either for that or some other reason, there has been unusual apathy apparent in this city as to the choice of city officers despite the fact that some very important places are to be filled. Even the holding of the city primaries Monday night has failed to attract more than a passing interest.

Despite the fact that the public has seemed indifferent to the election which will take place in three weeks, the election promises to be an important one. Under the provisions of the Meeker Election law, the Congressional, county and city elections are all held on the same day and the voter is almost dazed by the long list of candidates that faces him. Last year, although the general and local elections were held together, the interest in the local fight did not suffer. The state of affairs should be the same this year as it is even more important than was last year's election.

Troubles in the Republican ranks have greatly increased the general interest in the county campaign. It should not be allowed, however, to detract from the city election. If such a thing is going to happen then the sooner the Meeker act is repealed the better it will be for all concerned.

Plainfield has long been noted for the excellence of its local government. This will not be possible unless the voters take and continue to take an active interest in the election of the city officials. Any influence which threatens to change the existing conditions along those lines is one to be guarded against and any combination of happenings which may be responsible for such an influence should be prevented at any hazard.

The Somerset Democrats came very close to "putting their foot in it," as the saying is. Even their action of yesterday will not entirely recover the ground they have lost. It can be truthfully said that their chances of carrying the county are the best this year that they have been for a long time. Therefore it was all the more unfortunate from a Democratic standpoint that the convention should have ended in general dissatisfaction. They have settled upon a ticket which now seems likely to rally the Democratic forces together once more. Its chief strength lies in its candidate for State senator, Samuel S. Childs, and it is probably there that the hottest fight will be made.

From the reports that are going the rounds of Union county, it looks as if Assemblyman William F. Hall would not be returned to the State Legislature this fall. Certain it is that Mr. Hall is going to be cut badly in this end of the county. It is not the result of the factional troubles but good Republicans of both factions are lining up in open opposition to the Cranford nominee. It is extremely doubtful if he can carry Plainfield and it is said that Elizabeth will turn him down by a large majority.

Great pressure was brought to bear upon Councilman Ralph I. Tolles before he would permit his name to go before the Republican primary Monday night. Now, however, that Mr. Tolles has decided to run for re-election it seems likely that he will be returned. He has been a valuable and efficient councilman and it will require a very strong candidate indeed to win out from him when he is so well liked throughout his ward.

It is pleasant to note that the Organized Aid Association is able to assure the people of Plainfield that there shall be no suffering here this winter on account of the lack of coal. Sufficient pressure was brought to bear to get a small supply which would tide over the time until the mines are running full force again and supply the small householders who might otherwise be left in very serious straits.

Governor Odell's speech to the coal operators won for him a host of friends. A prominent Democrat was so pleased that he declared that he believed New York's Chief Executive was a Democrat at heart after all. When it comes to a pinch there is not a great deal of difference between Democrats and Republicans, they are both Americans and that is what Governor Odell has shown himself to be.

Advertising has been called the life-blood and again the nervous system of business, remarks the Philadelphia Record. Now it is described as "the force which makes commerce go at a modern pace, just as electricity does the work of the car horses." The author of this phrase finds two sources of advertising waste—"the use of too little space and the use of newspapers which lack a large circulation."

Never has a baseball season been so long drawn out as this one. September usually sees the end of the National game until the coming spring but the game has attained such popularity this year that its friends seem loath to let it go, particularly when so many promised games have been missed on account of rainy weather.

Athletics at Hope.

At a special meeting of the Hope Y. M. A., held last evening, reports showing great progress in the formation of the football and basket ball teams were rendered by the committees appointed for the purpose. Uniforms for the football team were ordered to be secured at once. Ten new members were elected and several new propositions were received.

DUNELLEN.

Unlimited amusement was afforded all who were present in the Borough Hall last evening and attended the trial of the three little negroes, "Buck" Pernell, "Muddy" Pernell and John Clay for the charge of breaking a window in a building occupied by some Italians on North avenue. Recorder Warden tried the culprits who were in a very undecided state as to their actions before the breaking of the window, which they denied doing. They said that they had been throwing corn at one another and had not been near the window. Several witnesses were on hand who were not sure that the lads had broken the window and for a time nobody seemed to know what the trouble was all about. Finally as the Recorder could make nothing out of the jumble he remanded the prisoners until this morning.

Hugh Hughes, the great trans-continental walker, is making his regular stay at the home of Geo. W. Churchill, of Washington avenue. This is the twenty-fourth time that Hughes has walked across the continent from ocean to ocean. He claims that in his youth he was bitten by a certain kind of snake which left him with an insatiable desire to walk and ever since his youth he has been tramping across the country. This place is one of his regular headquarters in this end of the trip.

PERSONAL.

Joseph Muir, of East street, is confined to his home by a light attack of erysipelas in the foot.

Miss Mabel Turner, of Germantown, Pa., is spending several weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Abram Tuttle, of Grant avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Guilford, of Mercer avenue, who have spent the summer at Far Rockaway, have returned home and are stopping at the Park Avenue Hotel.

Miss Condit, who gave a charming illustrated lecture on the Philippine Islands, last evening, in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, was the guest of Mrs. Samuel Milliken, of Central avenue.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

The tapestry painting by Miss Phelps, in Woodhull & Martin's window, is attracting a good deal of attention. It is entitled "The Awakening of Summer."

There is a great difference in drugs, both as to quality and price. E. S. F. Randolph, the druggist at the corner of North and Watchung avenues, will give you some valuable pointers on this subject if you consult him.

Some very fine fall apples are now being received by T. L. Walsh, the North avenue produce dealer. He is also making a specialty of pears, both Bartletts and Sickles, oranges and other fruit. All goods are delivered free.

Plants and shrubbery of every description and variety are to be found in abundance at the Belleview Avenue Nursery. A postal to the firm will be the means of bringing direct to your door, anything you desire in this line.

These are the days of economy and there is no better place to practice it than at F. H. Firstbrook's grocery on Liberty street. He helps his customers to save money in the purchase of every article and his goods are of the standard quality.

There is economy in the goods that Peck sells. A fair price is asked for them and in the wearing the quality is far superior to other goods which sell for more money. When you wear Peck's goods you need never be ashamed of your attire.

A sweet-toned piano such as G. H. Kenyon, of West Front street, sells, will do a great deal in helping one to forget his many troubles. Such a piano is a joy and comfort in any home and when you examine these instruments and learn of the low price, you will want one.

Any person who cares at all about his linen will tell you that hand laundry work is the best and cheapest. It does not wear the goods out so fast and more care is taken in doing the work. Meissner's hand laundry on Watchung avenue is a good place to have your work done.

For many years it has been the aim of the Rogers Seafood Company to provide its patrons with the best seafood to be obtained. To gain that end they have engaged some of the largest fishing firms on the coast to send part of their catches direct to this city. The result is fish at Rogers' that is strictly fresh.

While one's mind is engaged in thinking about the coal situation it won't pay to forget the many bargains being offered at Woodhull & Martin's store. The place is filled with seasonable goods and as the winter approaches it will be necessary to provide one with good warm clothing of the right material and price. The housefurnishing and carpet departments are offering attractive lines of goods and it will be well worth your time to inspect them.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Plainfield Business College has enrolled seventy students, representing several different counties.

—Charles Henry, of West Front street, has secured the position of steward at the Park Club on Washington avenue.

—No other coffee on the market surpasses Neuman Brothers Mocha and Java, for delicacy of flavor. Once tried it is always used.

—Grand Chief Thomas B. Seals, of Annandale, visited Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, last evening. The second degree was worked on one candidate.

For Young Men.

There will be a meeting at Democratic headquarters, East Second street, this evening, at which time a Young Men's Democratic Club will be organized. All young men interested are cordially invited to be present.

Junior Anniversary.

Although the fifteenth anniversary of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., fell on October 6, the regular meeting night of the council is Thursday. For this reason the event will be celebrated tomorrow evening.

City Convention Tomorrow Night.

The Republican city convention will be held tomorrow evening, when a Republican ticket will be nominated for the city offices.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Haney, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph

PICTURE OF LAURIER

How the Canadian Premier Impressed T. P. O'Connor.

Irish Journalist and Parliamentarian Considers Him a Briton in Patriotism and a Frenchman in Sentiment.

That acute observer, Mr. T. P. O'Connor, has been printing estimates of the three leading colonial premiers who have been in London throughout the coronation season. Of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, head of the Dominion government, he says:

"Here is a man who is a British subject to his finger tips; who has shown a very ardent form of British patriotism; whose every word is intended to cement in closer bonds the different races of his own country; and yet never was there a man who was more unmistakably un-English. Wherever you saw him you must have recognized in him the strain of that brilliant race across the channel, whose sons have done so much for letters, liberty and civilization. The long hair, the long, clean-shaven face; the forehead extended by the slight baldness in the front part of the head; the mobile and pursed mouth; the full nose—could there be anything more truly and primordially Gallic? I hope the comparison will not be considered unflattering, but somehow or other I could not help thinking of Claude Frollo—that doomed and haunted monk in Victor Hugo's greatest story—as I watched Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Perhaps it was that bald and high forehead — as though there had been a tonsure there; perhaps it was the slightly clerical expression that was suggested by the clean-shaven face; perhaps it was the high-bred, discreet, benignant air of a confessor who had been a man of the world—whatever the reason, the association of the great Canadian statesman and the obscure and passion wrecked friar of the romance was an obsession to me so long as I found myself opposite to Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

"The difference between the French and the English physique is not that the one is strong and the other weak; it is that their strength takes a different shape. The Frenchman, with his thin and spare frame, has often muscles of iron and nerves of steel; and yet to look at him is to be struck with a certain daintiness of shape, as well as of manner, which marks him out at once from an Englishman. But Sir Wilfrid Laurier is French rather of the eighteenth than of the twentieth century. Like his own people, who still retain their language expressions that are archaic to the ear of the modern Parisian, Sir Wilfrid strikes one as rather an old world type of Frenchman.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER
(Canadian Premier Who Is Immensely Popular in England.)

"He has less ebullient vivacity, less expansiveness, more slowness of movement and ceremoniousness of manner than one finds in the present day Frenchman. You think of him rather as the companion of Talleyrand and Chateaubriand than of Waldeck Rousseau and M. Henri Rochefort. 'Nobody,' said Talleyrand, 'knew the real charm of life in France who did not live before the revolution.' What, doubtless, he was thinking of was the statelliness of manner, the brilliancy of conversation, the romance of gallantry, the ease of fortune, and superiority to ordinary cares which were the characteristics of that wonderful aristocracy that robbed and enslaved and trampled on France, but meantime enjoyed itself in a grand manner, and did everything with a noble air. One thought of the France of the pre-revolutionary times as one gazed at the long, beautiful fingers of the delicate hands of Sir Wilfrid Laurier—at the perfection of every little gesture—at the apparent ease and open frankness, and yet the unmistakable tact and discretion with which he discussed everybody and everything. It is no wonder that he has such hold over the hearts of his people; he is the flower of their stock."

The Salt Eating Habit.

A new habit has asserted itself which suggests a curious train of thought as to the direction in which human aberrations in the matter of personal habits may eventually tend. It is said that the new habit, that of salt eating, is not only greatly on the increase, particularly among women of all classes, but that it is in many cases a most serious disease. It begins with a desire for large quantities of salt with the food, and if not checked, reaches a stage in which the patient carries salt crystals about with her wherever she goes, and is continually dibbling at them. The symptoms are a peculiar yellowness and shrinking of the skin, which is followed by the loss of all the hair, even that of the eyelids.

DR. LORENZ LICENSED.

Illinois Compels German Surgeon to Obey State Law.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—The Illinois state board of health has served a summons on Dr. Adolf Lorenz, professor of orthopedic surgery in the University of Vienna, to appear before that body and state why he should not be made to comply with the law regulating the practice of surgery in this state. The trouble has arisen from the fact that since the operation upon the young child of Mr. Armour last Sunday for a congenital dislocation of the hip Dr. Lorenz has been besieged with appeals to operate on others afflicted with the same disease. The state board of health holds that the doctor should take out a license if he intends to remain here and practice his profession.

Said Dr. Egan, the secretary of the state board of health: "Dr. Lorenz's consultation in the Armour case was not in violation of the Illinois law, which does not prohibit physicians from other states or countries from coming into Illinois merely for consultation purposes, but the board understands that Dr. Lorenz intends to continue in practice here for some time. If this be true, he must conform to the state laws and secure a license, as all other physicians must.

"There is no clause in the state law regarding practice merely in consultation cases. Dr. Lorenz, as we understand it, came from Vienna to Chicago to operate on the child of Mr. Armour in consultation with Dr. Ridlon, and there was no objection to that, but now we hear that he means to remain here some time and continue practice. This is a different matter, for the medical laws of this state require physicians to get a license to practice in Illinois. We have no intention to impose any hardship, neither do we intend to make any exception to anybody. All must obey the law."

"How did the board get its information in regard to Dr. Lorenz which caused it to summon him to appear before the board?" Dr. Egan was asked.

"We got it from the press."

Dr. Lorenz later appeared before the state board of health and secured a license to practice his profession in the state of Illinois.

California Town Wiped Out.

ASHLAND, Ore., Oct. 15.—The most destructive fire in the history of northern California has visited the town of Klamathon, at the crossing of the Klamathon river, Siskyou county, and wiped out the entire business portion of the place, a new sawmill, a sash, door and box factory and more than 5,000,000 feet of sawed lumber and did damage estimated at $350,000. The Southern Pacific Railroad company's station, freighthouses, rolling stock and side tracks were also destroyed. Most of the dwelling houses of the town, which were situated on an elevation, were saved, as well as one hotel on a back street. A private car which was on the railroad tracks and which brought a number of western capitalists out a few days ago to inspect the building operations of the Klamath Lake railroad was saved, with its contents and occupants. The conflagration was visible eighty miles away.

Money Sent For Guam Repairs.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The navy department has cabled $15,000 to Manila, to be sent from there to the island of Guam for the rehabilitation of the naval station property which was damaged by the recent earthquake. The department has received a cablegram announcing the departure of the collier Justin from Cavite for Guam, and it is understood here that she carries the funds for the repair work. The money was taken from an emergency fund allotted to the bureau of yards and docks for the station at Guam. Orders have been issued by the navy department directing Commander W. E. Sewell to proceed to Guam and assume the duties of commandant of the naval station at that place, relieving Commander Seaton Schroeder, ordered home to await orders.

Minneapolis Banks Swindled.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 15.—Losses aggregating $40,000 are believed to have been sustained by Minneapolis banks through the operations of Edwin T. Blew and Thomas Armstrong, who have been arrested on charges of forgery. They have been passing as mill feed brokers and have negotiated drafts on faroff customers, bills of lading accompanying the drafts. It is now charged that these bills of lading have been forged, and in at least one case the men have admitted it. They are held to await the action of the grand jury.

American Generals at Aldershot.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Generals Corbin, Young and Wood and their aids-de-camp visited the British camp at Aldershot yesterday as the guests of General French and inspected all the soldiers' quarters, witnessed evolutions by a light horse battery of artillery and visited the gymnasium, where there was an interesting exhibition of the setting up drill, athletic exercises and swimming competitions. The officers offered to turn out all the troops for the Americans' inspection, but the generals declined to trouble them to that extent.

Two Fatally Scalded.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Oct. 15.—The bursting of a tube in the boiler at the power station of the Connecticut Railway and Lighting power station fatally scalded two men, and factories receiving power from the electrical company were compelled to suspend operations. The electric light service of the city was also crippled for two hours, and trolley cars were stalled for the same length of time.

THE MARRIED PARTNERS.

A Good Husband Who Helps His Wife In Woman's Sphere.

The "gentle couple" is the name that seems to suit them best. At any rate, that is what I always call them in my mind when the husband and apparently the junior partner of the firm comes to our door twice a week—the first time with his clothes bag for the wash and the second time, on Friday evening, with crisp, snowy linen and smooth, perfectly ironed shirt waists—blue, white, pink and lavender—all done in neat paper parcels. He is a small man, rather timid and hesitating in manner, but the manner is that of a gentleman.

The little man is our wash lady. He is not a Chinaman, but an intelligent white, Anglo-Saxon man. He and his wife operate a laundry in partnership, and it is the best laundry I know of. His wife is taller than he and not so sweet tempered looking as he; still she is not a soured woman. She is shrewder than he and attends to the mathematical end of the enterprise. She keeps the books, irons the starched things and wraps up the parcels of shining clean clothes. He goes after the linen, carries it home when it is ready and does the washing. Yes, he does. He has found his niche and fills it well. He wrestles over the washboard as cheerfully and effectively as though he had not invaded woman's sphere at all, but was doing man's work. Perhaps he is.

Everything is very quiet in the little laundry shop. Across its plate glass window is stretched an ivory white Japanese silk curtain upon a brass rod. It looks really æsthetic, especially as the window shines like a diamond, it is so clean, and the walls and shelves of the place are spotless and sweet smelling. When the silken curtain becomes dingy, it is taken down and washed.

The gentle couple do not speak of themselves or their history. They have little to say to their neighbors, though they are civil and polite to all. They have never quarreled even with the people who live upstairs over their heads. Who they are or whence they came few in the neighborhood know. They are well bred and intelligent, and their silence and their appearance and manner tell a story in spite of them, and the story is true.

It is that they began life in a so called higher station than that which they occupy now and that they had some money. They lost it and slid down, down by degrees to the bottom of the ladder. The mild little man attempted to get work to support them. In the wild whirl of American city life he was tossed and dashed hither and thither and finally hurled upon the shore, out of the swim. He was inefficient, helpless. He lost his grip. Then the second act in this little human comedy suggests itself, and this part of the story is true too.

The wife takes the steering gear into her hands. The husband's voice is mild and atonic. There is a ring of aggressiveness in hers. She is naturally the strong, pushing one. The little man is as good as gold, but he cannot make a living alone. He is too light in weight to shovel sand, he is too weak to force himself into a place for which half a dozen stronger, more capable men are already tussling. Madam decides she will start a laundry and that her husband shall help her with it till something else offers him better employment.

The laundry is started. It is very popular because everything is done so satisfactorily. Linen is called for and delivered promptly, even handkerchiefs are scarcely ever lost or misplaced, the garments are as clean and odorless as if they were done in a home laundry, as they are really. The married partners have all the business they can attend to.

Year after year has gone by. There is now no suggestion that the mild mannered little man shall seek employment elsewhere. That has been given up. The partners have a snug sum in the savings bank; they have insured their lives—each for the other. Every holiday, like Christmas or Thanksgiving, they give themselves the afternoon and go out somewhere to take the air together or attend some place of amusement. They have no children, so are all in all to each other. And, really, thinking over the married folk I am well acquainted with, this masculine wash lady and his partner wife seem to be the happiest couple I know.

MARCIA CAMPBELL.

Simplicity In LIVING

"I AM about to lecture before our club on the subject of simpler living," remarked Mrs. Up to Date.

"Dear me!" exclaimed little Mrs. Housekeeper. "I wish I could make it work! I have so much to do. I can hardly snatch a moment to pay you people a call."

"And yet there are only three of you, and your house is small! What would you do if you had to change places with me?" Mrs. Largefamily sighed.

"You may think my responsibilities don't amount to anything," put in Miss Bachelorgirl, "but between my invitations and my charities and the magazine articles I write in order that I may eke out my income and the dresses and hats I evolve in order that I may present a decent appearance on the said income I assure you my life is a burden. At times I am worried to death. Oh, by all means let's hear about simpler living!"

"It's one of the crying needs of the age. I can tell you that," returned Mrs. Up to Date. "Charles Wagner says, 'Nothing is simple any longer—neither thought nor action nor pleasure; not even dying.' And he is right. Time to think is what we need—time to read, to improve ourselves, to enjoy the real things of life."

"I'd like to know how you're going to do that when you have a whole house to take care of and haven't the means to keep an army of servants," retorted Mrs. Housekeeper indignantly. "I like things artistic, too, but it takes a lot of trouble to keep them just so."

"Then don't have so many of them. That master of interior decoration, William Morris, used to say, 'Have nothing in your house that you do not know to be useful or believe to be beautiful,' and he was wont to advocate the simplest possible furnishings in a room. It is the bric-a-brac, the tortured moldings and chair legs, the heavily carpeted floors and the clumsy upholstered furniture that waste all the housekeeper's time and energy. Simple lines in furniture and decoration are far more artistic, even leaving out of consideration their practical qualities. Study the empire rooms, with their plain, beautifully tinted walls, their hardwood floors and their few pieces of furniture, each piece being chosen for its simple elegance, and then turn your eyes back on our own overcrowded museums of rooms"—

"So much for the housekeeping end of it, but what if you have a whole lot of children?" interrupted Mrs. Largefamily.

"Bring them up simply. Dress them sensibly—plain little frocks of good, durable materials, which can be run up by a family seamstress and which don't need tiresome frills or accessories. Give them wholesome food, teach them to enjoy nature, books, simple amusements. When you have rearranged their mode of life, you will find your own much easier. The trouble with modern youngsters is that they are miniature men and women, and it's all this extra fuss which wears out the parents' lives."

"And where do I come in?" laughed Miss Bachelorgirl.

"You know, Dotty, you really ought to buy fresh white chiffon for the yoke of that gown you are wearing," was the lecturer's unexpected reply.

"Oh, I know! Isn't it a disgrace?" replied Miss Bachelorgirl lightly, but she flushed nevertheless and hid it with the front of her expensive fur coat. "The fact is, my dear girl, it 'll have to go that way for another week or so. I'm broke. I've just bought a dear of a pearl gray tulle boa, and my last article was refused. I sat up until 2 in the morning writing it too?"

Mrs. Up to Date smiled.

"A plain, well fitting tailor made, a smart, serviceable hat, good gloves, good shoes, a well made stock, the body clothed artistically and durably at comparatively small cost, peace of mind and pocket money to go to lectures, musicales, the theater, to buy new books—in a word, to feed one's soul; time to think also," she suggested softly.

MAUD ROBINSON.

WISE YOUNG MEDICS.

Had to Swallow a Pill That Was Hard to Digest.

For a Time They Had Everything Their Own Way, But in Wind-up the Old Guy Came Out Victorious.

In Chicago he was known as an eminent specialist on diseases of the brain and nerves. When his name appeared in print it was followed by an array of dignified-looking abbreviations which gave it a very imposing appearance. It lent importance to the faculty of a leading medical college and to the staffs of several big hospitals.

Ten months of steady work, the doctor considered, entitled him to a rest, and his method of resting was to throw off his work entirely. So that when he presented himself as a passenger on a lake steamer for an extended cruise he had dropped his title and was just plain "John Blank." Even his cards vouchsafed no further information. It was the cards which misled two young doctors from a small neighboring city who took passage on the same steamer. On the trip the two younger physicians discussed the latest medical discoveries daily with an erudition which secretly amused "John Blank." The conversation drifted one day to the subject of nerves, when, noting the Chicago man's evident interest in the discussion, they drew him into the conversation. Their criticisms of the specialists quietly offered opinions were made in terms intended to make their meaning plain to a rather presumptuous layman, but "John Blank" allowed the younger men to have the last word.

The young men landed at Mackinac island and the specialist, says the Chicago Daily News, lost sight of them until a few days before his return. He had passed most of his time far up in Georgian bay, and returning leisurely stopped off at Mackinac for a day or two. He walked right into trouble as soon as he stepped on to the hotel piazza. A Chicago acquaintance, quietly smoking on the piazza, gave him a hasty greeting and hurriedly plunged into the hotel. Presently a disheveled man rushed from an elevator and seized the doctor.

"Doctor," he exclaimed, "you're just the man I want. Our baby is sick—dying, we're afraid. Brain fever—unconscious; doesn't know me; telegraphed all over, but couldn't find you. We've had every doctor we could find up here, but none of them seems to think he's got any chance."

Swept along by this tide of explanation, the doctor finally stood in a darkened room beside a limp, unconscious child. Waving the mother and several attendants aside, he sat down close to the bed. Soon he motioned the father to accompany him from the room, but a voice from the foot of the bed interposed, "Speak right out, doctor; we will be glad to have your opinion."

The specialist hesitated in evident embarrassment. "If the child has had brain fever, doctors," he said, "you have cured him of that, but—" he motioned to the nurse to draw up the shades, and as the light streamed into the room turned again to the bed—"I find something in the mouth which may contribute to the trouble somewhat. A slight surgical operation will doubtless assist somewhat." He reached for a lance from one of the medicine cases at hand and lanced the child's gum, where several teeth were struggling through.

There was a sigh of returning consciousness and presently the child opened its eyes.

"He will be all right in an hour or two," explained the doctor to the astonished parents. Then he turned toward his audience.

"The pressure on the nerves—" he began with his usual eagerness to explain, but he stopped abruptly. Before him, reddening with confusion, stood the two wise young doctors.

Latest in Burglar Alarms.

An ingenious mechanic in Brooklyn, in a district where burglaries are frequent, has invented a novel burglar alarm. It consists of a pistol and a bell actuated by mechanism under the floor. As the intruder steps inside the door he treads on a platform, which sinks just sufficiently to start the alarm. The pistol goes off and shoots the intruder, while the bell rings until stopped by one who understands the device.

Suffering for His Dogs.

A tender-hearted man in Hoboken, N. J., pawned his only coat to enable him to pay for two dog licenses. Although lacking money enough to supply bread for himself, his kind heart would not permit him to part with his beloved dogs.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $300 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods if not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

HE SHOT THE HAT.

A Somewhat Risky Custom in Oklahoma That Saves Time on a Windy Day.

"A whole lot of ideas with which we grow up change when we get into another country," said a New York man who has just came back from a three months' trip in the southwest, according to the Sun. "Now, one of the things we have heard of all our lives is that if a man's hat blows off he is a fool to run after it, for there is always somebody around polite enough to pick it up and hand it to the owner, if he has to walk a block to do it.

"I have seen it done. I have read about it more times than I have had hats.

"But it is not the custom at Reno, Okla. I was sitting on the veranda of the hotel in that town, watching the various articles which one of those sandstorms whirled through the air.

"The hat of a citizen was raised and carried against a place on the other side of the street. A strapping fellow, who had been picking his teeth with a match as he sat near me on the veranda, got up, whipped out a navy revolver and fired a shot at the hat, nailing it to the fence.

"The owner came up, pulled the hat from its impalement, waved his hand at the man on the veranda and proceeded on his way.

"'It saves time runnin' after it,' said the man on the veranda, 'and it don't hurt the hat.'"

AMERICAN SURGERY PRAISED.

High Tribute Paid Our Doctors and Medical Men by the Late Professor Virchow.

The late Prof. Virchow, the eminent German physician and scientist, had a high notion of American doctors and American medical scientists generally, reports the Chicago Inter Ocean. When interviewed some time ago the professor said, in the course of the conversation, that several young medical students from the United States had passed through his hands whose attainments were certainly on a very high level and whose brightness and alertness could not be excelled.

"I have a great admiration of American surgery," he added. "The men in America are as good as any we have here in Europe and in some departments they are better. I do not think, though, that the American specialists are as good as the best men in London, Paris, Berlin and Vienna, but they are making big strides. No penurious spirit rules the United States. Everything is on a large, liberal scale, and the splendid university endowments there are bound to tell in the near future. The American laboratories are excellently equipped and the students have enormous advantages over those who study at some of the inadequately equipped schools in Europe."

MODERN CAVE DWELLERS.

Comfortable Villas Carved Out of Rock by Civilians at Kinver Edge, England.

Although there is nothing inherently improbable in the circumstance, it is not generally known that the race of troglodytes is not yet extinct, and that there are at least quite a number of cave dwellers in modern Britain. The inhabitants are by no means half savages.

At Kinver Edge, near Birmingham, are two rows of modern villas, formed mainly out of the "immemorial caves hollowed out of the hill," with stone-front projections. These dwellings are said to be "far more comfortable and luxurious than the less-original houses to be found in more pretentious neighborhoods." The rooms are "spacious and rain-proof" and the people of Enville, "as the village formed by these houses is called, are justly proud of their quaint homes, and speak with patriotic affection of Holy Austin rock, the stone from which their dwellings are hewn."

There are several remarkable cave dwellings in Knaresborough, in Yorkshire, says the Detroit News-Tribune, the "proprietor" of one of which has adorned the various levels of his hillside cave home with battlements and calls it Fort Montague.

SENATOR CLARK'S WIT.

How the Western Millionaire Got Back at a Tonsorial Artist Who Had "Nerve."

A story is going the rounds in Butte which quite aptly represents the business methods adhered to by United States Senator W. A. Clark, the multi-millionaire miner, banker and manufacturer.

Upon his return from the east the senator visited a barber shop for the purpose of having his hair trimmed. He inquired for a certain barber whose ability had been recommended to the senator by his son, Charles W.

Upon the completion of the job the senator inquired the amount of the bill, whereupon the tonsorial artist calmly replied:

"Charley usually gives me five dollars."

The senator was taken by surprise, but, regaining his wits, asked: "But what is the usual charge for such a service?"

"Fifty cents," responded the barber.

"Well," said Senator Clark, with a smile, according to the New York Times, "Charley has a rich father and I have not," whereupon he handed the barber 50 cents and departed.

WOMAN SAVES TRAIN

Her Cool Nerve at a Trying Moment Prevents Disaster.

Assisted in Her Heroic Effort by a Telephone and a Man with a Bicycle—How She Found the Danger.

A San Rafael (Cal.) correspondent writes that the cool nerve of a plucky woman and the speed of a man riding for life on a bicycle was all that saved the Ukiah express, bound from Ukiah to Tiburon on the line of the California Northwestern railway, from destruction late the other afternoon. Mrs. James Cochrane, wife of a well-known San Rafael attorney, was the heroine of the incident, and to her courage scores of passengers on the endangered train owe their lives.

On that afternoon a storm of wind swept over San Rafael. Near the outskirts of town and close to the residence of Mrs. Cochrane a huge eucalyptus tree, fully 100 feet in height, and two feet in diameter in its thickest part, was blown over so that the heavy portion of its trunk lay squarely across the tracks of the California Northwestern railway. Shortly after five o'clock Mrs. Cochrane, with a team of horses, started on a drive into the country. She passed close to the track in her carriage and saw the big tree lying across the rails. Suddenly the thought struck her that the Ukiah express was about due. She looked at her watch and it read 5:10 o'clock. A feeling of dread passed over her as she realized that the quick moving train with its long string of passenger cars was due at 5:15 o'clock.

Hurriedly jumping from her carriage, she ran down the track, hoping to flag the train. Then the full peril of the situation dawned upon her. The tree had fallen just at the end of a curve, which wound itself about a tall hill. At the beginning of the curve the track emerged from a tunnel, and it was evident that the engineer in his cab would not be aware of his danger until he was right upon it.

Mrs. Cochrane confesses that she grew sick with fear and the thought came to her that the engineer emerging suddenly from the tunnel would not understand her signal till too late. Then she remembered the telephone, and, turning back ran over the rough ground toward the house, where a line was installed. Once she stumbled, but the distance was short and in less than two minutes she was ringing for the railway depot. Train Dispatcher Force answered her message. All that he heard was: "Tree across the track near the tunnel; hurry; a train is coming."

Outside the station G. E. Gillbride, the baggage master, who is an expert bicicle rider, was standing. Force called to him the message, and with a jump Gillbride had seized his bicycle and was off. Force threw him a signal flag as he started and yelled a string of orders after him as he spurted down the street. The distance was only about a mile and the bicyclist rode like the wind. After he had gone a block he heard the shrill whistle of the coming train as it approached the tunnel. It was a race of man against a train with a hundred lives depending on the result. Gillbride reached the fallen tree, jumped from his bicycle, ran down the track away to the mouth of the tunnel, and as the engine emerged from the darkness flashed his red signal flag before the startled engineer. The whistles screamed "Brakes down," and, with the engine shivering with the exertion, the train came to a stop with the nose of the locomotive's cowcatcher scarcely two feet from the fallen tree. Engineer Lewis, his face white from the peril, jumped from the cab and hurried to the signalman.

"It was a close shave," he gasped, and as the questioning passengers and Conductor Crane pressed around him he could only repeat: "It was a close shave, a close shave."

Pretty soon a half hysterical woman came down the track. It was Mrs. Cochrane and she told of the finding of the danger. The crew and passengers thanked her over and over again.

Snails Delight in Music.

A German scientist recently pointed out that snails were able to draw immense weights, and now a French naturalist claims that there are few, if any, animals which have a higher appreciation of music than snails. Place some snails on a pane of glass, he says, and you will find that, as they move over it they will make musical sounds similar to those which a person can produce by wetting his finger and then rubbing it around a glass tumbler. Complete airs, he points out, have been played on tumblers in this way, and he expresses the opinion that quite as good results can be obtained by using snails instead of geese.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

During the late and early hours of the night while trains bearing soft coal are passing thruogh Plainfield, the load is considerably lightened before it leaves the city. It is said, that a few nights ago a gang of men boarded one of these trains and threw off a large quantity. Nearby were a number of men and women who quickly picked up the coal and put into bags. In this way enough fuel was obtained to last for a few days at least.

FOUND SKELETON.

Grusome Find of Small Boys in the Woods, Near Westfield.

Several boys hunting for chestnuts in the woods north of Westfield, this morning, found the skeleton of a man who had been dead, apparently, three months. It was brought to this city and a burial permit will be issued by the county physician. The man was evidently seventy years old and must have been badly emaciated as decomposition had been so quick.

HOW 'TWAS DONE IN SOMERSET

that it was unauthorized, and, while I have not heard that I am charged with having any previous knowledge of the circumstances occasioning his withdrawal, or of being in any way a party to it, yet many Democrats seemed to feel that my nomination was the result of that misunderstanding, and that it had not been brought about with the fairness with which a nomination should be secured.

"With such a feeling it will be impossible for me to receive the enthusiastic support of my party, without which I cannot succeed, and even though success were a possibility I would still be unwilling to be a party to or reap the benefit of such a serious misunderstanding. I therefore determined after the most careful consideration that my own interests and those of my party demanded that I should decline to be your candidate for Senator while existing conditions continued.

"In reaching this determination I was not influenced by any one person but by general sentiment regarding the situation which was expressed to me by persons from various parts of the county. The statements in the newspapers that I was forced by the leaders to withdraw and that there was pressure brought to bear for that purpose are absolutely false.

"I have only the kindest regards for the delegates who compose this convention, whether they favored my nomination or not, and I assure you I will do all in my power to aid in the election of whomsoever you may today nominate for the various offices, feeling, as I do, that the success of the party is of more importance than the advancement of the interests of any individual."

Before Mr. Swackhamer was named for Assembly Mr. Dungan was urged to take the nomination, although few believed he would drop from the top to the bottom of the ticket. Delegate Ballentine made a little speech, complimentary to Mr. Dungan, and insisted on his taking the nomination, but he positively declined.

Samuel S. Swackhamer, who was named, it is the general belief throughout the county, will prove just as strong, if not even a stronger candidate. He is well known all over the county and State, having "stumped" it during three Presidential campaigns for the Democratic nominations.

Borough Mass-Meeting.

There will be a Democratic mass-meeting in Saengerbund Hall, Thursday evening, October 23, at which time Colonel Perrine, the Congressional candidate; S. S. Swackhamer, candidate for assembly, together with Mayor Katzenbach and Judge Woodruff, of Trenton, will be present and speak.

Drum Corps Fair.

A still larger crowd was in attendance at the fair of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps in Saengerbund Hall, last evening. All the attractions received a large patronage and the dancing floor was occupied until a late hour. Music for this part of the affair is being furnished by Suhr's Imperial Orchestra. For tonight special attractions are promised.

LOST GAME BY ONE POINT

LEAL'S SCHOOL DEFEATED BY MONTCLAIR M. A.

Game Played at Montclair Yesterday Afternoon—Final Score Was 16 to 15.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Montclair, Oct. 15 — An exciting game of football was played here yesterday between the eleven from Leal's School, Plainfield, and the Montclair Military Academy eleven, the final score being 16 to 15 in favor of Montclair.

The home team scored first on a fumble by Leal. The latter then kicked to Montclair and Leal held for downs. The visitors then made long gains around both ends, with a touchdown by Lovell. Leal failed to kick goals, while Montclair kicked both.

A feature was the long run by Gordon Abbott. All the back field put up and excellent defence and the interference was all that could be expected of a school team. The home team held Morristown down to 6 points a week ago Saturday. This being considered, the visitors did remarkably well. The line-up of the visiting team is as follows:

Sauloff, of Princeton University, was referee, while A. Willis West and Prof. Fowler, of Plainfield, were umpire and timer.

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. Its attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquifies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures cough, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. F. S. McMahon, Hampton, Ga.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." L. NOT GUILTY OF KILLING LINDER

Union County's Murder Trial Ends in Acquittal of William Kessler, of Elizabeth.

CLAIMS SELF DEFENCE

The Shooting Affray in the "Glass Houses," at Elizabethport, Ended in Death of Frederick Linder—Jury Brought in Verdict Yesterday Afternoon—Other Details.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, October 16—"Not guilty" was the verdict returned by the jury, yesterday afternoon, which had wrestled from 10:50 in the morning until 3:30 with the problem as to whether William Kessler was culpable for the death of Frederick Linder, who he shot on May 19 last. His counsel entered a plea of self-defense and produced witnesses who presented straightforward testimony to bear them out. From the start the defendant's case was strong while that of the State was noticeably weak. Kessler's lawyer was former Governor Foster M. Voorhees.

Kessler, who is a cripple and rather eccentric, shot and killed Linder and seriously wounded Thomas Kiegel, on the afternoon of May 19 last, following a quarrel which took place in the "Glass Houses," a row of four dilapidated tenements on the line of the New Jersey Central's Newark branch. Kessler was an occupant and was at home on the day in question when the two men called on a resident next door and in the course of celebrating some event became drunk. A quarrel ensued between the visitors and Mrs. Margaret McCloud and she screamed for assistance. Kessler hurried to the door with a pistol in his hand and saw a tussle in the yard, with Kiegel holding the woman. He commanded them to stop when Linder approached as if to strike him with a brick which he had in his hand. Kessler attempted to retreat but his artificial leg failed him and in desperation he shot at Linder and then at Kiegel. The former died within a few moments and Kiegel recovered weeks afterward.

The contention of Kessler's counsel was that he acted simply in self-defense. The defendant went on the stand and proved a good witness for himself and with his other witnesses presented a strong argument. The only important witnesses produced by the State were Kiegel and a Mrs. Stuhepfarrier, an eye-witness, whose testimony had to be interpreted. The defense rested Tuesday at 12:40 and the afternoon was occupied in summing up.

Plans for Fair.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Dunham on Madison avenue, when plans for the coming fair to be given by the church were discussed. CANDIDATE FOR ASSEMBLY

CHARLES L. MOFFETT, OF THIS CITY, WHO IS ON DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

Something About the Well-Known Lawyer Who is Making His Second Run.

For the second consecutive time the Democrats of Union county have nominated Charles L. Moffett, of this city, to be their candidate for the Assembly from Plainfield. It speaks well, in political circles, for a man to receive this honor, showing that he is considered to be worthy of the support of his party.

Charles Leonard Moffett, the Plainfielder on the Democratic ticket, is a well-known lawyer in this city, where he was born September 24, 1865. He is of Scotch descent and some of his ancestors fought in the War for Independence. Mr. Moffett attended the Plainfield public schools and afterward entered Rutgers' preparatory school. He commenced the study of law under the Hon. John Ulrich and subsequently Nelson Runyon was his preceptor. He is a member of the Presbyterian church also Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M. While not in strict sense a politician, he has always been a staunch Democrat.

COAL STRIKE OVER.

Convention Called for Saturday When Strike Will be Declared Off—Commission Named.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New York, Oct. 16—The coal miners will go to work Monday. This was announced today by President Mitchell.

President Roosevelt has named the following persons to serve on the commission to adjust differences: Brig.-Gen. John M. Wilson, U. S. A., retired (late Chief of Engineers;) E. W. Parker, Washington, expert mining engineer; Judge George Gray, U. S. Court; E. E. Clark, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, grand chief Order of Railroad Conductors; Thomas H. Watkins, Scranton, Pa., expert in mining and selling coal; Bishop John L. Spalding, Peoria, Ill.; Carroll D. Wright to be recorder of commission.

The strikers' conference committee met today forenoon and called a convention for Scranton, when the strike will be officially declared off.

NEARLY LOST FINGER.

Little Incident Resulted Seriously For L. H. Battalia.

L. H. Battalia, the expert piano rebuilder, is recovering from an attack of blood poisoning, that came near being serious. About a week ago he picked a small gathering on one of his fingers and the next day his hand and arm swelled to large proportions. His family physician urged him to go to Roosevelt Hospital, which he did. Heroic treatment was at once adopted, and the member was saved from amputation. For the present Mr. Battalia is deprived of the use of his hand, but he will soon regain it.

Democratic Primaries.

The Democrats of Plainfield will hold their primaries in the various wards, this evening, and the city convention will be held at headquarters, East Second street, Monday evening.

Reception to Congregation.

Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Earp will give a reception at their home, this evening, to the members of Grace M. E. church. The affair will be an informal one.

MOON GOES OUT OF SIGHT THIS EVENING

Total Eclipse of Her Lunar Majesty is Scheduled for Late This Evening.

LASTS HOUR AND HALF

ALTHOUGH ECLIPSED MOON MAY BE FAINTLY VISIBLE.

Professor Snyder, of Philadelphia Observatory, Talks on the Scientific Importance of This Phenomenon.

A total eclipse of the moon will be visible in this city tonight if the weather is favorable. North and South America and the western portions of Europe and Asia are the bounds within which this phenomenon may be observed.

The moon enters the earth's shadow at 11:17 p. m., and the total eclipse begins nineteen minutes after midnight.

The middle of the eclipse is at 1:03 a. m., and the total phase ends at 1:48 a. m., although the moon does not quite emerge from the shadow until 2:50 a. m. In this lunar eclipse, occurring as all such do, at full moon, or when the sun is at a point in the heavens diametrically opposite, and due to the moon plunging into the great shadow cone of the earth, the moon passes completely within the conical shadow at a point where it is about one and one-half times the apparent angular diameter of the moon.

This accounts for the length of the totality of eclipse of 1 hour and 29 minutes. Whether the moon will disappear completely from view or not during the total phase will depend upon the general weather conditions in the portions of the atmosphere about the earth through which the sun will attempt to project its rays. It may happen as it usually does, that the unabsorbed red rays will be still bent into the shadow and be cast on the surface of the moon even during totality. The moon then assumes a peculiar copper color.

Regarding observations of the eclipse at the Philadelphia Observatory, Professor M. B. Snyder has said: "The eclipse will, of course, be utilized for interesting instruction of the senior class and of the special students in the subject of astronomy. So far also as the present conditions at the observatory permit, efforts will be made to secure scientific data concerning certain physical changes that are said to take place on the moon. It is agreed that the temperature of the lunar surface must be lowered during the eclipse, and it has been claimed that certain changes, delicate enough yet actual, may be traced by measures made before and after the eclipse.

"Through the recent investigations of Professor William H. Pickering, of the Harvard Observatory, important temperature changes have been brought to light, and it is an interesting question whether this total eclipse may not furnish some tests of the validity of previous observations and theories. There is no lack of variety of astronomical interest attaching even to a lunar total eclipse. The interest usually develops either by attention to studies such as mentioned, or to the shadow as it varies from geometrical conditions, or to the occultation of the faint stars which may at that time be so accurately observed."

Completing Government Work.

The Schepflin Clothing Manufacturing Company is completing its contract with the United States Government for clothes for all the Indians on the reservations. A few more weeks will see the entire contract finished. It has been necessary to push the establishment to its greatest capacity to do the work in addition to its other contracts.

Crowd at the Fair.

An attendance which crowded Saengerbund Hall to the doors was present at the Independent Fife and Drum Corps fair, last evening. It was one of the largest crowds the organization has ever had at any of its affairs. A special feature on the programme was selections by the Imperial Quartette.

Glad to Get Him.

Rev. M. H. Qual, a talented divine from Irvington, Essex county, spoke at a special service in the German Reformed church, last evening. The members of the church were much pleased in being able to get Mr. Qual to come to Plainfield, and a large number of persons enjoyed his address.

Y. M. C. A. PLANS WORK FOR WINTER MONTHS

Announcement of Advance Made in Different Departments of Association.

GROWTH IN ALL LINES

PROSPECTUS FOR THE COMING YEAR OUTLINES ITS PLANS.

What is to be Done in Physical Department—Classes in Educational Department—Spiritual Development—Boys' Work.

While the past years have seen many opportunities offered to the young men of Plainfield by the Young Men's Christian Association of this city, the plans of the association for the coming winter are on a more elaborate scale than ever before attempted. The association has just issued its annual prospectus which gives in outline some of the plans made in its physical, educational, social and spiritual departments. It is a neat little document and contains some very interesting information.

No changes are to be made in the policy of the physical department but its work will be somewhat enlarged. It is under the direction of the physical work committee and the personal supervision of Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood. Its object is the general all-round development of the members, rather than advancing any particular branch of sport. There will be the usual classes in the gymnasium on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings at 8:15, and special classes for business men Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons at 5:45 o'clock. The apparatus work in the evening classes is graded into four divisions. Promotion night comes every six weeks when those who pass satisfactory examinations are advanced. Classes for pupils in the Plainfield High School and Leal's School have also been arranged to be held afternoons.

There are two bowling alleys where an individual association tournament will be held during the season. Basket ball will also be a feature, the team from the association having entered the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League. Inter-association contests will also be arranged. In general indoor athletics, there will be an all-round contest once a month including all the following events: Running and standing broad jump, broad jump, pole vault, bar vault, running, putting the shot, obstacle race, potato race and high kick.

Dates of special interest in this department are:

October 4—Formal opening.
October 7—Opening of classes.
October 21—Class grading exercises.
October 31—Bowling tournament begins.
November 17—Handball tournament begins.
November 29—Contest night.
December 13—Contest night.
January 1—Open house.
January 17—Bombardment contest begins.
January 31—Contest night.
February 14—Aquatic contest.
February 28—Contest night.
March 28—Contest night.
April 24—Spring exhibition.
April 27—Gymnasium men's banquet.

So successful have the classes in the educational department been in the past that this branch of the association work has received even more attention than usual this fall. The curricum included courses in English, Spanish, bookkeeping, mechanical drawing, mathematics, stenography, typewriting and first aid to the injured. Then there is the orchestra and the debating club. The instructors announced are: Bookkeeping, Albert L. Schomp; mechanical drawing, Jos. F. T. Fuller and Geo. L. Eager; mathematics, Noble C. King, stenography and typewriting, J. D. Macnab; first aid, Dr. Norman H. Probasco. G. W. V. Moy is president and M. A. Korff leader of the orchestra and Charles M. Dolliver president of the debating club. The fall term began October 6 and closes December 24. The spring term opens January 2 and closes March 27. The international examinations and the closing reception will be announced later.

A reading room and a game room offers attractions of a social nature to those who visit the building. Then there is the Star Course of entertainments, the first of which was held Monday evening and proved so suc-

FASHIONABLE SOCIETY AT CHURCH WEDDING

Marriage of Miss Liefje de Ringh vanHerwerden and Balie Peyton Legare.

HELD LAST EVENING

CEREMONY AT THE CRESCENT AVENUE CHURCH WAS A PRETTY ONE.

Those Who Made Up the Bridal Party—Was An Alliance of Two Old Families—The Groom is From the South.

Before a brilliant assemblage of relatives and friends from far and near but principally society folk from this city and New York, Miss Liefje de Ringh vanHerwerden, daughter of Cornelius vanHerwerden, of this city, and Balie Peyton Legare, of Charleston, S. C., were united in marriage at 7:30, last evening, in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. Rev. George S. Clover, of St. Lukes church, New York, was the officiating clergyman. In every detail the event was complete and for beauty the ceremony surpassed many similar affairs which have taken place in the aristocratic church.

Miss vanHerwerden's attendant as maid-of-honor was Miss Edith English, a niece of Hon. Mr. Leischmann, minister to Turkey. She was gowned in pale blue crepe and carried white carnations. The bride's gown was of liberty satin and was set off by a Duchess lace jacket. She carried a beautiful bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley.

Harold Rankine, of New York, an intimate friend of the groom, was best man. The remainder of the party was made up of the ushers who were G. A. Magie, Duff Maynard and Charles Ward, all of New York, and Jan vanHerwerden, a brother of the bride, of this city.

While the party wended its way to the front part of the church, the Lohengrin wedding march was played by H. Hemingway Joy, organist. Miss vanHerwerden was given away in marriage by her father.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the vanHerwerden home on South avenue, which lasted until after midnight. Mr. and Mrs. Legare left late in the evening for their wedding trip which will embrace a number of points of interest in New England. At its completion they will make their home in New York City.

Both of the contracting parties were handsomely remembered in the way of gifts and numerous pretty mementoes were exchanged by the participants. The groom's gift to the bride was a bracelet studded with emeralds and amethysts. Gold cuff buttons were his gift to the best man and stick pins were received by the ushers. The bride gave the groom a pearl stick pin and to the maid-of-honor a gem encrusted brooch.

The bride is a decendant of Count Arnaud, second Count of Holland and Baron vanHerwerdon, of the tenth century. Her great grandfather was Jan vanHerwerden, chevalier of the Order of St. Stanlaus, at one time consul in Holland for most of the European governments. Her grand-uncle was Baron vanSteiger de Fraubrunnen, of Napoleon Bonapart's staff, who subsequently became commandant of the Dutch Army. Mr. Legare is of Huguenot ancestry. He is a son of Sydney Legare, of Charleston, S. C., and is a member of the St. Cecelia Society, of that city, the oldest club in the country. He is also a member of the Calumet and Reform clubs, of New York, and of the Engineers' Society, of London, Eng. In ante-bellum days his ancestors held office under State and Federal administrations.

Y. M. C. A. Orchestra's Season.

The orchestra of the Young Men's Christian Association will open the season with a concert November 20. Among the principal numbers will be: Haydn's "Symphony No. 1;" "Ernani," by Verdi; "Stradella," by Flotow, and other high-class numbers.

Last Chance to Register.

The last day of registry in this city will be Tuesday, October 28. Every good citizen should personally see that his name is on the registry list so that he can vote.

Somerset Teachers' to Meet.

The Somerset County Teachers' Association will meet at the public school in Watchung, Saturday, when a programme of interest will be presented.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS ORGANIZE

YOUNG MEN'S DEMOCRATIC CLUB FORMED LAST NIGHT.

Capt. Chas. Campbell and Chas. L. Sulzer Addressed the Preliminary Meeting.

The local Democrats held a mass meeting last evening at Democratic headquarters. The meeting was called for the purpose of forming a permanent political organization among the Democrats of the city and such an organization, known as the Young Men's Democratic Club, of Plainfield, was formed.

Andrew Nolan, a prominent figure in local Democratic politics, called the meeting to order shortly after 8 o'clock and after briefly stating its purpose, Herbert W. Stover was elected temporary chairman and Frank J. Shattle, secretary.

The chairman in a few words outlined the plans for the organization and introduced Charles L. Sulzer, of Elizabeth. Mr. Sulzer is a brother of Congressman Sulzer, of New York, and he spoke of the great need of an organized Democratic party in Plainfield and stated that the formation of a Democratic club would be necessary if the Democrats hoped to be victorious in the fall campaign. He outlined the Democratic platform and spoke very favorably of Mr. Flannagan, the Democratic candidate for Congress.

Captain Charles Campbell, the founder of the American Anti-Trust League in Elizabeth, next addressed the meeting and in a few words pointed out the evils of the existing trusts and urged the city Democrats into activity in fighting "this national curse."

After this Mr. Stover appointed a committee, consisting of Frank J. Shattle, Andrew Nolan and John H. Hillman, to draw up a constitution and by-laws and to act as a nominating committee. At the close of the meeting the majority of those present signed as members of the club and it was announced that there would be another meeting in the same place Saturday evening to elect officers and to adopt a constitution.

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARIES.

Will be Held Tonight to Nominate Ward Candidates and Elect Delegates to City Convention.

The call has been issued for the Democratic primaries to be held in this city tonight and considerable interest is being manifested in them. The First ward primaries will be held at headquarters, 117 East Second street, that being entitled to five delegates to the city convention. The Second ward, entitled to four delegates, will be held at the Bryant School. The Third ward, entitled to three delegates, will hold its primary in the High School, and the Fourth ward primary will be held in T. A. B. Hall and is entitled to nine delegates. There will also be chosen two members of the city executive committee from each ward, ward councilmen, justices of the peace and constables.

The Democratic city convention will be held next Tuesday evening at headquarters on East Second street, instead of Monday evening. The change is made that the Democrats can go to Elizabeth Monday evening and hear David B. Hill, who is to speak at a mass meeting.

TO MEET AGAIN.

Westfield and Plainfield Consolidated Have Arranged Another Game for Saturday.

Dissatisfaction over the result of the last Consolidated-Westfield baseball game has led to Managers McLaughlin and Denman agreeing upon a fourth contest between the two teams. It will take place at Westfield, Saturday.

Not being restricted to any certain players, Manager McLaughlin, of the locals, will place his brother, Warren McLaughlin, in the box. The latter has recently signed with the Pittsburgs, of the National League and is considered as good a slab artist as there is in the country. The remainder of the team will be altered slightly through the Hope nine playing the same day, which will make it necessary to place some one on second in Martin's place.

At General Office.

Oscar Freeman, who has been a conductor on the Jersey Central Railroad and made his residence in Somerville, has been appointed to a position in the general office of the Railway Conductors' Association at Cedar Rapids, Ia. He was formerly a resident of this city.

THOSE WHO FOUGHT REGALLED OLD DAYS

Annual Reunion of Thirtieth Regiment of Jersey Vols. Ended With Speeches.

FOLLOWED A DINNER

ASSEMBLED VETERANS WERE DINED BY WOMEN'S RELIEF CORPS.

President B. F. Coriell, of Common Council, Spoke for the City—Reminiscent Remarks by Veteran Chaplain—The Visitors Pleased.

The annual re-union of the Thirtieth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, which began in Reform Hall, yesterday morning, ended in the afternoon with a dinner and absorbing speeches. Plates were set for 100, the veterans having as their guests a number of city officials and men of prominence.

Members of the Women's Relief Corps prepared the repast, which was served in the lower part of the hall, and its excellence was attested to in many ways. When the last course had been served, Former City Judge Nelson Runyon called for order and acting as toast master introduced in his own pleasant vein, the members and guests who were to make addresses. These were given by B. F. Coriell, president of the Common Council, who made the welcoming address in the absence of Mayor Jenkins, the venerable chaplain of the regiment, William Janeway, of Pawling, Pa., Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, Rev. Cornelius Schenck and Charles M. Raybert, of this city, and Rev. J. B. Cleaver, of Bound Brook.

In all the remarks the surviving members of the regiment were warmly congratulated for the work they had done in the great struggle and those who died on the field of battle were enlogized in superlative terms. One of the most interesting speeches was given by Chaplain Janeway, and was the only one of a reminiscent nature. As the speaker remarked, he was over ninety years of age, and men who have seen nine decades come and go, love to look back on earlier days. His address was intently listened to and brought many fond memories to the old vets.

Following the speech making, several bouquets were presented by the Women's Relief Corps to Chaplain Janeway, Colonel TenEyck, of Somerville, and Captain J. F. Hubbard, of this city. For these the women were thanked and resolutions expressing the gratitude of the regiment for the work of the corps in preparing the dinner were passed.

After adjournment was taken, the visiting vets spent the remainder of the afternoon in walking or driving about the city. They were highly gratified with the hospitality accorded them by the local members of the regiment and thanked them individually. The next meeting of the regiment will be held at Somerville, the second Wednesday in October, 1903.

The Thirtieth Regiment was recruited in the counties of Union, Somerset and Hunterdon, the term of enlistment beginning September 5, 1862. The headquarters were at Flemington. Company H drew its quota largely from this city. When the regiment started for the front Colonel Alexander Donaldson was in command, but he subsequently resigned, and was succeeded by Colonel John Cladeck. These Jerseymen were at Fredericksburg with General Burnside and in the Wilderness with General Hooker. They also did duty along the Potomac. The regiment returned in September, 1863, its ranks somewhat depleted.

Old Pianos Made New.

L. H. Battalia, the expert piano rebuilder, 426 Watchung avenue, is receiving many flattering testimonials from Plainfield patrons, approving of his methods of making an old piano as good as new. To those who imagine Mr. Battalia's terms are high, he invites a call and examination of his work or he will call at the home of any person desiring his services. No extra charge for examining instruments. 10-15-2

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Senator Cross, of Union county, when asked yesterday what he thought his majority in that county would be at the next election, replied that he was not yet prepared to make even a guess at the result. He said, however, that he fully believed that Congressman Fowler would be re-elected in the Fifth district, and that the whole Republican ticket in Union county would be chosen by a safe majority. A comparison of figures shows that while Congressman Fowler's majority in Union county has never been less than 2,300, Governor Murphy's majority was between 1,300 and 1,400 a year ago. Several Elizabeth Republicans said yesterday that a line drawn between 2,300 and 1,300 probably would be a pretty accurate estimate of what Congressman Fowler's majority would be in Union county this year. Other and more sanguine Republicans said that Mr. Fowler's majority there would be a unit less than 2,000. All factional differences have apparently disappeared in that county, and the Republicans, with the expection of a few perennial kickers, are pulling together.—New York Tribune.

The Republicans of North Plainfield are said to be in open revolt against the platform adopted by the recent Republican convention in Somerset county, of which North Plainfield is still a part. The platform demanded the repeal of the acts which looked to the consolidation of North Plainfield with Plainfield, and to the annexation of the former to Union county. Ex-Mayor Smalley, one of the strongest advocates of consolidation and annexation, has openly revolted against the platform referred to, and with him are many Republican voters in North Plainfield. This is sincerely to be regretted. The county of Somerset is in doubt, this year, and the whole Republican vote may be necessary to secure the election of a Republican State senator and a Republican assemblyman. The latter, it will be remembered, was elected by only 41 majority two years ago, and at that time the Republican majority in North Plainfield was 90. It is to be hoped that the differences of opinion over this matter may be settled by election day, and that all the Republicans of Somerset county, North Plainfield included, will support their party ticket.—Elizabeth Journal.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

In connection with the reunion of the Thirtieth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, in this city, yesterday, there was one incident which occurred at these reunions before. John Weaver, Geo. Weaver, David Weaver and Peter Weaver, all brothers and members of this regiment, were present. The reunion for them had a double significance.

It is reported that several farmers living on the mountains back of Plainfield have large quantities of hard wood stored away to be sold in case the price advances. It was stated yesterday that one farmer said he would not sell his supply until he could get a good price for it. At present the price is $8 a cord. In various places along the mountain there are gangs of men employed cutting wood to send to market.

—Charles Conover & Company, painters and decorators, commenced the work yesterday of painting Joseph Randolph's house on Elmwood place.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

Miss Pearl Parcher, of Minneapolis, is a guest at the home of Charles Whitall, of East Fifth street.

Andrew J. Stiglitz, of East Front street, has recovered from his recent illness, and is able to be out again.

William Conolly, of East Fifth street, has returned to work after two weeks' confinement to his home by illness.

Miss Dora Wells and Miss Vina Wells, of Providence, R. I., will come to Plainfield next week to visit friends for a time.

Miss Adeline Leonard, of Montclair, has been spending several days as the guest of her cousin, Miss Alys Chandor, of East Ninth street.

Tenadore VanCleef, of East Millstone, spent yesterday with his daughter, Mrs. W. C. Dobbins, of Elmwood place. He came to Plainfield to attend the reunion of the Thirtieth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers.

Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen and family, of Washington Park, who have been spending the summer and fall at their summer home in the Adirondack Mountains, are expected to return home this month. Mr. McCutchen returned some days ago.

THEATRICAL.

Carl Hagenbeck's Trained Animals are drawing immense audiences to the New York Theatre, New York City. The entertainment gives entire satisfaction and everyone who sees it is enthusiastic in praise of this marvelous exhibition of animal subjugation and intelligence. In the act which presents lions, tigers, leopards, jaguars, pumas and other cat animals, three great German boarhounds appear in the cage. They take part in the performance of some feats, but most of the time sit on pedestals, quietly watching the manoeuvres of the other animals in this feature. Many people have wondered why the dogs were there. They really appear on the the stage as policemen to protect the trainer in case of attack. One of these dogs, during the rolling of a barrel by a leopard, shows great impatience and barks continuously. This is explained by the fact that in Berlin this leopard attacked his trainer, who was protected by this great boarhound. The wrestling match between Prof. Dudak and the great white bear, Muf'e, is very exciting. This powerful man throws this 700-pound bear in a Greco-Roman wrestling match twice at each performance. At the finale of this act, Dudak feeds these seven great bears 180 pounds of raw fresh beef from his bare hands. This is a daring feat never before attempted by any animal trainer. The performance is varied from time to time by the introduction of new groups. Everyone who delights in the strange and novel will see much to interest them among Hagenbeck's Trained Animals at the New York Theatre. The prices range from 25 cents to $1 for every performance except the Wednesday matinee, when 25 the 50 cents are charged.

LITERARY.

"The Story of King Arthur," by Howard Pyle, with his own illustrations, will begin in the November St. Nicholas. It is considered by those who have read the manuscript to contain some of Mr. Pyle's best work, and it will be a fitting companion to the same author's "Robin Hood." It is not a recounting of old tales, but an entirely new series of picturesque, romantic stories woven about the old legend of King Arthur. The conductors of St. Nicholas believe it will prove the most notable work for young readers published in the English language during the coming year.

MINE WORKERS MEET

Executive Board of Three Anthracite Districts In Session.

CONVENTION LIKELY TO BE CALLED

Public Kept In Ignorance of Exact Purpose of Conference at Wilkesbarre and of Mitchell's Visit to Washington.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 16.—President Mitchell returned from Washington at 1 a. m., and the executive board members of the three anthracite districts of United Mine Workers of America began a joint meeting here at 10 o'clock to consider a proposition for ending the strike which Mitchell has laid before them with a view of calling a delegates' convention of the striking mine workers to pass upon it. The call was sent out yesterday afternoon as a result of a telephonic message sent by Mr. Mitchell after his conference with the president at Washington. It is difficult to say what the outcome of the meeting will be, and no one here knows the exact nature of the proposition Mr. Mitchell brought back with him from the national capital.

There is a general belief that a convention will be called no matter what sort of a proposition is laid before the boards. Some of the miners are of the opinion that Mr. Mitchell may have offered a compromise proposition by which the operators and miners would have equal representation on an arbitration commission. A great majority of the rank and file are still opposed, like most of their board members, to accepting the operators' proposition as they now understand it.

The joint conference today is made up of thirty-seven persons. Those present are Mr. Mitchell, National Secretary-Treasurer W. B. Wilson, who arrived here yesterday; the three anthracite members of the national executive board, the president, vice president, secretary and treasurer of each district, the seven board members from each of the upper and lower districts and the six board members of the middle district. If a convention is held, it will probably be called together within four days. About 800 delegates would be in attendance. Mr. Mitchell, following precedence, will be elected president, with Mr. Wilson, if he remains in the east, acting as secretary.

The general strike situation is unchanged, few additional men having been recruited by the coal companies. The soldiers are having a quiet time.

How the Miners Feel.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 16.—The miners who will discuss the arbitration proposition at all are generally adverse to its acceptance, but, as in all other things, satisfied to do whatever President Mitchell thinks best. There is a strong hope prevalent among the people at large that President Roosevelt will show Mitchell that despite the limitations regarding the selection of the arbitrators a fair, just and impartial tribunal could be selected and that Mitchell will be induced to favor the acceptance of the proposition. There is no denying that a quiet feeling exists among a good proportion of the strikers favorable to accepting the proposition even though it is not all that the United Mine Workers would have it to be. As one miner put it: "We've been asking for arbitration. Now we have it. There may be some few flaws to the proposition, but we can't expect to get everything we want."

Two Mile Trotting Record Broken.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 16.—Onward Silver, the great chestnut son of Onward and Sylvan Maid, went two miles over the Kentucky Breeders' association track yesterday in 4:29½, breaking the American two mile record of 4:32, made by Greenlander in 1893. Hudson was in the sulky, and Onward Silver had a running mate. The first mile was reeled off in 2:14 flat. When he began the last quarter, with only 3m. 50s. consumed, excitement became intense. He had scarcely passed under the wire before the record time was posted, and round after round of cheers followed. J. L. Pruien of Bardstown, Ky., owns the horse.

Oklahoma Railroad Projected.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Oct. 16.—The Oklahoma Central and St. Louis Railroad company has been chartered here with a capital stock of $15,000,000. The estimated length of the road is 600 miles. Philadelphia capital is said to be backing the line, and all the stock is said to be subscribed by a Gates-Lambert-Mitchell syndicate. The line is to run from El Reno, Okla., where it will connect with the Choctaw and Rock Island, through Guthrie, to Joplin, Mo., then northeast to Jefferson City or St. Louis, crossing the Kansas City line of the Rock Island at Versailles, Mo.

The Davis Home Transferred.

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 16.—The formal sale and transfer of Beauvoir, the home of Jefferson Davis, by Mrs. Davis to the Sons of Confederate Veterans has been consummated at the opening session of the reunion of the Mississippi division, Sons of Confederate Veterans. The home will be used as a home for indigent Confederate veterans. Mrs. Davis received $10,000 for the home.

Murderer Escapes Lynching.

NACOGDOCHES, Tex., Oct. 16.—The excitement here is subsiding. The grand jury has indicted Jim Buchanan, the self confessed murderer of Duncan Hicks' wife and daughter, on three counts. Judge Davis fixed his trial for next Tuesday, when he will be brought back, 500 citizens of the county having guaranteed a fair trial and protection.

A LONG CONFERENCE

President Discusses Peace Plans With Mitchell.

SECRET NIGHT MEETING FOLLOWS.

Result of the Day's Efforts Is Not Announced, but It Is Believed That Strike's End Will Be Secured.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The prolonged anthracite coal strike is not yet practically settled, but some progress has been made, and, while there remain certain obstacles to be removed, these, in the language of Secretary Root, it is believed, can be resolved and a termination of the strike finally secured.

The principal of these obstacles is the opposition of the proposed commission or board to arbitrate the differences between the miners and operators. Mr. Mitchell indicated formally to President Roosevelt that the mine workers' union dissents from the restrictions placed by the operators on the choice of the proposed arbitration tribunal and desires the president to have an absolutely free hand in the selection of members of the commission to be charged with the adjustment of future relations between the employers and employed. He laid special stress in stating his objections on the proposition that one of the commission should be a judge from the eastern district of Pennsylvania. He was very insistent in some of his objections, which he voiced in what might be termed a counter proposition to that of the operators.

After the president and the head of the miners' union had exchanged views freely and gone over this counter proposition of Mr. Mitchell's a call was sent out by President Mitchell for a joint meeting of the executive boards of the mine workers' union for the three anthracite districts of Pennsylvania. At this meeting it is believed an agreement will be reached on a statement to be officially promulgated by the miners' union in response to the proposition from the operators.

President Roosevelt having ascertained the views of Mr. Mitchell at once communicated with the operators and initiated efforts to reconcile the differences developed and to have the operators make some further concessions, his aim being to reach a common accord between miners and operators whereby the labor dispute may be finally composed and mining of coal resumed.

At the conclusion of the conference Mr. Mitchell said that he had no information which he could give to the public. It was announced likewise at the temporary White House that no official statement of the conferences would be made at this time.

When the last conference had been concluded, Mr. Mitchell left the White House and after a brief conference with President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor and some other local labor leaders departed for Wilkesbarre.

Mr. Mitchell's visit to Washington was by invitation of President Roosevelt, who asked the miners' president to come to Washington in order that they might discuss the terms of the proposition submitted to the president last Monday night by the anthracite coal railroad presidents in the hope that the miners and the operators as a result of the conference might be brought into agreement as to the appointment by President Roosevelt of a commission to arbitrate existing differences between them.

While all persons having knowledge of the details of the conferences are extremely reticent, enough is known to justify the statement that, while they did not accomplish a settlement of the strike, they at the same time were not barren of tangible results. Some obstacles to a settlement remain. The discussion of the situation was entirely amicable. Mr. Mitchell was in a conciliatory mood, and the president was very zealous in his efforts to promote a settlement of the prolonged strike.

THE MORNING CONFERENCE.

At the first conference, which lasted from 11:50 a. m. until 12:55 p. m., the president and Mr. Mitchell discussed fully the proposition made by the operators for an arbitration commission. In a general way the miners' president indicated certain objections which he had to the proposition of the operators, but, it is understood, did not at that time present his objections in a formal statement.

At the conclusion of the first conference Mr. Mitchell walked over to the treasury department, where for two hours he remained closeted with Mr. Frank P. Sargent, commissioner of immigration, in the latter's office. During that time Mr. Mitchell communicated by long distance telephone with persons in New York and Wilkesbarre. It is understood that at that time he called a meeting of the district mine presidents to be held in Wilkesbarre today. It is believed that by this time Mr. Mitchell had formulated a counter proposition to that made by the operators. This he later presented to the president, going directly from Mr. Sargent's office to the temporary White House at 3 o'clock for that purpose.

While no authorized statement of the counter proposition could be obtained, it can be stated on excellent authority that Mr. Mitchell in criticism of the proposition of the operators took exception to the disparagement of the miners' union and to the limitation of the time in which under the proposed agreement there is to be no strike. His particular objection, however, was to the insistence of the operators that they should be permitted to designate the classes from which the arbitrators should be drawn by the president. It is understood that he took a firm stand against this proposition, saying that he was satisfied the miners would not submit to any arbitration which would not be arbitration in fact as well as in name.

A NIGHT CONFERENCE.

President Roosevelt last night resumed consideration of the strike situation, taking it up in the light developed as the result of his two conferences during the day with Mr. Mitchell, president of the mine workers' union. He went out for a long drive after those conferences and on returning met Mr. Carroll D. Wright, commissioner of labor, and Mr. Sargent, commissioner of immigration.

Later two strangers to those about the temporary White House called and were shown upstairs at once. It was reported that these gentlemen were Messrs. Robert Bacon and George W. Perkins, members of the banking firm of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co. The conferences with the four gentlemen named lasted from 7 to 8 o'clock, and then the president walked to Secretary Hay's to dinner, while his two visitors whose names were not announced went to the Arlington hotel. Messrs. Bacon and Perkins are stopping there, having arrived yesterday. They did not register, however, and no cards would be taken to their rooms, so it was impossible to learn anything of the situation from them.

About 10 o'clock President Roosevelt re-entered the temporary White House, accompanied by Secretary Root, and they immediately re-embarked on consideration of the settlement of the coal strike. Later a stranger called answering to the description of one of Mr. Morgan's partners and was shown at once into the room where the president was by Secretary Cortelyou. The three gentlemen were engaged in a discussion of the situation until a late hour.

The statements made by Mr. Mitchell were canvassed. While nothing was made public, the feeling seems to prevail in administration quarters close to the president that Mr. Mitchell is too stiff in his position and too insistent and that matters have been so shaped that he should accept the concessions that are open to him and not insist on the operators continuing to yield to the demands he is inclined to make.

TO PREVENT FOREST FIRES.

Government Urged to Make Stricter Rules For Yosemite.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The adoption of radical precautionary measures for protection from forest fires is advocated in the annual report of the acting superintendent of the Yosemite National park, which has been received at the interior department.

The report recommends that for this purpose stricter regulations be issued by the department regarding campers visiting in the park and that fallen and decayed trees and pine needles and other inflammable material in the forests be burned annually and systematically. It is also urged that stringent measures be adopted to prevent the constant trespassing of sheep herders with their destructive bands of sheep on the reservation, as no adequate punishment is now provided for such acts. It is proposed to ask congress to make trespassing in the park a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine or imprisonment.

Fatal Train Collision.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 16.—A fast westbound passenger train on the Vandalia railroad and the Terre Haute and Indianapolis accommodation train collided at Reelsville, eight miles west of here, late yesterday, killing one man and seriously if not fatally injuring three others. As far as can be ascertained the wreck was due to the failure of the agent at Harmony to deliver an order to the accommodation, which left there on the time of the other train. When the trains collided, both were running at full speed.

Noted Journalist Dead.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Oct. 16.—John A. Dillon, journalist and leading editorial writer on the New York Evening World, is dead at Chatwold, the summer home of Mr. Joseph Pulitzer. About five weeks ago Mr. Dillon, while riding in company with Mr. Pulitzer, was thrown from his mount, sustaining injuries which proved to be the indirect cause of death. At that time two ribs were broken and other internal wounds received. Pneumonia later set in, and this was followed by heart affection.

Molineux Trial Begun.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Unexpected progress was made in getting a jury to try Roland B. Molineux the second time for the murder, by poison intended for Harry Cornish, of Mrs. Kate V. Adams. Just one hour after the examination of talesmen was begun three seats in the jury box were occupied, and at the close of the first day six jurors had been secured. At the former trial it took twelve days to get the first juror.

Headless Body Found.

SPRINGFIELD, N. J., Oct. 16.—The body of a man with the head severed has been found in an open lot on the Baltusrol mountain near the Baltusrol Golf club ground, near this place. The body was that of a man about sixty-five years old and 5 feet 10 inches in height. He was poorly clad. The man had apparently been dead about two months. The head was lying a considerable distance from the body.

The President Has Recovered.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—President Roosevelt went out socially last night for the first time since the operation was performed on his leg at Indianapolis. It also was the first time he had walked in public. His leg apparently has recovered a large measure of its strength, and he no longer has to use a crutch. No limp is observable.

SCHOOL IN TROUBLE.

Government Officials Arrest Pittsburg Parties, Charging Fraud.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 16.—Postoffice Inspector Hugh J. Gorman has caused the arrest of the four principal officers of the Alt F. Clark company, which conducts what is known as the Correspondence Institute of America, with offices here. The four men arrested were Alt F. Clark, president of the company; Conrad Lotz, vice president and treasurer; Louis Conrad, secretary, and William N. Bingham, general manager.

The warrant upon which they were arrested charges them with using the United States mails for the purpose of defrauding.

It is set forth that the company has for some months been advertising in various periodicals and papers to furnish free tuition in the various branches of study in which it gives instruction, the understanding being that the student need not pay until he or she has secured a position paying at least $13 a week.

The information declares that T. F. Reddington, of 1003 Mulberry street responded to this advertisement and received notice that before he could take up a course of study he would be required to send on $15 for tools and supplies. The money was sent, according to Inspector Gorman, and the supplies received have an intrinsic value "of not more than a dollar." For this reason it is charged that the defendants have used the mails to defraud. The defendants were held in $1,000 bail for their appearance at a hearing to be held on Saturday.

The Clark company employs in its offices here about thirty persons. It was organized some two years ago. The International Correspondence school which has its headquarters here has no connection with the Clark company.

PRUSSIA TO BUY RAILROADS.

Principal Lines Now in Private Hands to Be Taken.

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—Prussia is determined to acquire six of the principal railroads remaining in private hands. The first is the East Prussian Southern, the second the Marienburg-Mlawa, the third the Altdam-Kolberg, the fourth the Stargard-Kuestrin, the fifth the Kiel-Flensburg and the sixth the Breslau-Warsaw, the whole amounting to 558 miles, with $19,250,000 capital, for which the government has offered a somewhat larger sum.

The effect on the boerse was to raise the quotations of some of the common stocks and to depress others. But the preferred stocks rose within a fraction of the government's offer. It seems certain that the propositions will be accepted in every instance. Only two important private lines are not included in the government's scheme, the Dortmund-Gronau and the Luebeck-Buernen roads.

The government's plan, which came as a complete surprise to the country, is one of the first energetic steps of the new railroad minister, Herr Budde, who is credited with the ambition to inaugurate a new era in Prussian railroads.

The Hudson Valley Strike.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Oct. 16.—The strike on the Hudson Valley railway threatens to become exceedingly protracted, as the recent acts of violence committed in Saratoga Springs, Mechanicsville and other places have greatly aggravated the general situation. The company is operating its regular schedule, but it is doubtful if this could have been accomplished had it not been for the presence of the Second regiment, N. G. N. Y., under command of Lieutenant Colonel Lester. Sheriff Carpenter of Saratoga county has officially notified the village presidents of Saratoga, Stillwater, Mechanicsville and Waterford, where there have been riotous disturbances, that the public peace must be maintained and property protected.

To Plant Catalpa Trees.

CARBONDALE, Ill., Oct. 16.—John P. Brown, secretary and treasurer of the International Society of Arboriculture, has contracted for the planting of 25,000 catalpa trees in southern Illinois. The growing of those trees is for the purpose of supplying telegraph poles, and the society has the contract with twenty different railroads to plant similar orchards. The Illinois Central Railroad company has arranged to plant 200,000 trees in different parts of Louisiana.

Dillingham Chosen Senator

MONTPELIER, Vt., Oct. 16.—W. P. Dillingham of Waterbury was formally declared re-elected United States senator at the joint assembly of the two houses of the Vermont legislature. The senator was escorted before the convention, and he addressed the members. He eulogized the late Senator Morrill and defended the position of those who oppose a constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States senators by popular vote.

BATTLE UNDECIDED.

Venezuela's President Hard Pressed by Revolutionists.

HEAVY LOSSES ON BOTH SIDES.

After Two Days' Heavy Fighting the Government Forces, Unable to Dislodge the Rebels, Retire to La Victoria.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Oct. 16.—News has been received here from Caracas, Venezuela, that the battle near La Victoria between the forces of President Castro, which were said to number 4,100 men, with fifteen guns, and the Venezuelan revolutionists, which began Monday morning, has so far been without definite result.

General Matos, leader of the revolution, and General Mendoza were not present. The only rebel generals engaged were Guevara, Torres, Crespo and Antonio Fernandez, who had with them about 3,100 men, representing the advance guard of the revolutionists.

President Castro twice led a charge in person and showed great courage and coolness. His lieutenant, General Alcantara, who was at one time at the West Point Military academy, was mortally wounded. The government forces had 247 men killed, while the revolutionists lost 310 men. Among the latter was General Guevara.

The arrival at the scene of battle at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon of Vice President Gomez with 800 men and a large amount of ammunition saved the situation for the government. At that time the odds were greatly against President Castro, but the arrival of reenforcements improved his position. Monday night the revolutionists still retained their positions.

The fight started again Tuesday, and at 10 o'clock in the morning President Castro retired to La Victoria. At 1 o'clock the fighting ceased on both sides.

News of the engagement having reached Generals Matos and Mendoza, they hastened to the scene and arrived at a point near La Victoria with the rest of the revolutionary army, which now numbers about 8,000 men. The reenforcements under Matos and Mendoza intended to take part in the renewal of hostilities.

President Castro appears to be surrounded by his enemies. The town of El Consejo, which lies back of La Victoria, is occupied by the revolutionists.

Valencia is believed to be doomed. The town was attacked by General Riera on Monday and Tuesday.

The government cannot receive reenforcements from Caracas, as the German railroad from there to Valencia is held by the rebels.

Those who were wounded in the fighting are still without medical assistance and care. They lie on the battlefield as they fell, and the scene there is one of great horror.

Warships Called For.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—United States Minister Bowen has cabled the state department asking that one or perhaps two more warships be sent to re-enforce the gunboat Marietta at La Guayra, in view of the present critical situation which has arisen at the Venezuelan capital.

Bacolod Expedition Delayed.

MANILA, Oct. 16.—It will be possibly three weeks before the American expedition against the sultan of Bacolod will leave Camp Vicars, Mindanao. The column will not be moved until General Sumner goes to Iligan, starts the work on the north trail to Lake Lanao and returns to Camp Vicars. General Davis is anxious to avoid bloodshed in Mindanao and has directed General Sumner to refrain from fighting until forced into active combat. When the expedition reaches Bacolod, the sultan will be given another chance to accept peace. General Sumner will not attack unless the Moros take the aggressive. The "Dios Dios" fanatics are again active in the western part of the island of Samar. They have gained in strength and have become more aggressive, levying tribute upon towns and driving the traders away.

Frisco's Mayor Coming East.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—Mayor Schmitz left today for New York, to be absent several weeks. The mayor is reticent as to the details of his visit, but he admits that he will participate in deliberations looking to the settlement of the labor trouble. He will arrive at New York Monday and on Tuesday night will address a mass meeting at Madison Square Garden under the auspices of the labor unions of the city. In the latter part of the week Mayor Schmitz will visit the center of the labor troubles in Pennsylvania.

We Get Work From Honduras.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The government of Honduras has decided to have its postage stamps and postal cards engraved abroad this year, and the work is to be done in the United States, according to a report from Consul W. E. Alger, at Puerto Cortez, dated Sept. 16, made public at the state department. The government has also arranged for a supply of silver coin to be minted in Philadelphia.

Whitney Confesses Murder.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 16.—Earl Whitney, the young man arrested here last Saturday charged with the murder of A. B. Chinn and with seriously wounding his son Asa, has made a complete confession here, admitting that he and Claude O'Brien, his pal, did the killing.

THE REPUBLICAN'S ACTION.

There seems little likelihood that the Republican city convention, this evening, will be anything but a most harmonious gathering. From the present appearance of things, there will be but a single candidate for each nomination and those candidates will be nominated without any show of opposition. If there is any trouble brewing in the local Republican ranks, it is so well hidden as not to be observable to the naked eye.

With very few exceptions, it appears to be the intention of the Republican party to nominate for office those men who are now filling the positions in question. It will be practically the continuation in power of the present administration. Whatever the Democrats think of the way in which the city's affairs have been conducted during the last two years, it is quite evident that the Republicans, a vast majority of them at any rate, are well pleased with the way things have been going and are perfectly content to see the same men returned to power again. It becomes an endorsement for the present administration at the hands of the local Republican party and a request that the voting population of the city express itself on the same subject.

If the ticket under contemplation is nominated tonight as it is very likely to be, it will practically fix the issues for the coming city election. With its proposition to return the same men to power, the Republican party publicly proclaims its satisfaction with the existing conditions and asks the people to continue it. The Democrats will naturally line up in opposition and the election will be fought on the question of the continuance of the present administration.

If this proves to be the case, it certainly looks as if Plainfield was likely to see little or no change in its municipal control. There have been no public scandals during the past year, city affairs have progressed without hindrance or unusual incident. There has been apparently little or nothing to change public opinion from last year when it voted by tremenduous majorities to sustain the present administration. It may be that the Democrats can discover something but, up to the present time, there is nothing to indicate that, as far as the city election is concerned, the result will be anything different from the past few years when the issue before the people has simply been a case of for or against the existing administration.

Company K may have to do duty because of the coal strike after all. With such a temptation as a carload of hard coal in one of the local yards, it may be found necessary to put a cordon of militia men around it to prevent its sudden disappearance. It is said that a loaded car was left in the Elizabethport yards a few weeks ago and was found empty when morning came despite the fact that it was guarded by two men. There may be some basis for truth in that report but it evidently grew as it approached this end of the county.

North Plainfield is going to have a candidate after all on the Somerset county ticket. It has fallen to the lot of the Democrats, however, to thus remember the largest municipality in the county. That fact promises to strengthen a cause which, for several reasons, already had attained much power. Unless the Democrats make some horrible blunder in their conduct of the campaign, it looks as if their opportunity in Somerset county had arrived.

Charles L. Moffett, the Democratic nominee for the Assembly whose picture appears in another column, is the young man on whom the opponents of Assemblyman William F. Hall, of the Republican ticket, have settled as the best one to encompass the defeat of Mr. Hall. Mr. Moffett ran well ahead of his ticket last year and received a large vote in Plainfield. If reports are to be believed, Plainfield will give him a majority at the coming election.

When the local Republicans hold a mass meeting and have the county candidates around to enable the people to get a look at them, they will do well if they manage to have Assemblyman Hall remain at home. Otherwise unpleasant complications may result as some of the most important local leaders are outspoken in their opposition to the Cranford man who wants to return to the Assembly.

For a time S. L. Bartlett, a wholesale merchant in Boston, advertised largely and exclusively in the magazines, but the results were far below expectations, relates the Philadelphia Record. He has abandoned the magazines almost entirely in favor of the newspapers, and finds the returns satisfactory. He uses some other methods, also, but his chief reliance is the daily newspaper.

The Democrats of Plainfield are conducting their campaign this fall on more aggressive lines than in several years. The Congressional and county elections have received the bulk of the attention so far while the city fight has been forced to the background. There is promise, however, that the latter will wake up when the Democratic city primaries are held.

A man eloped with his wife by mistake the other day. Forgetfulness on a man's part is apt at times to cause trouble. The next time that man eloped, he went alone so as not to make any mistake. They are still looking for him.

Neither of Sheriff Houston's possible successors need lose any further sleep over the fear of having to superintend the hanging of William Kessler. He was found not guilty yesterday afternoon.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

The Paris Cloak Store is the place to purchase the latest style cloak, suiting or shirt waist. A very large stock is carried and it is the aim and purpose of the proprietor to please every customer.

The best of confections to be found in the city are always on sale, fresh every day, at the store of John H. Tier, of Park avenue. Tier has made a specialty of all kind of fancy candies for many years and his cannot be surpassed. His store is headquarters for Tier's famous ice cream.

Before purchasing your fall or winter hat inspect the large assortment at Bonn's millinery on West Front street. Mr. Bonn is carrying an unusually large stock of fine hats this year, believing that the women of Plainfield and vicinity will appreciate this opportunity of securing a stylish hat.

The employes of the New York Painting and Decorating Company have an artistic way of painting a house or placing wall paper on a room. In other words they do the work in a first-class manner. The public is invited to inspect the stock of handsome wall papers of the latest design.

With every pound of Mocha and Java coffee that Neuman Brothers sell, they give their guarantee that it is the best on the market and will give complete satisfaction to the most exacting of coffee drinkers. The firm has been selling this coffee for many years and they have yet to hear from anyone who has not been pleased with it. Neuman Brothers sell another excellent coffee, Old Government Java, which is noted for its fine flavor.

cessful. Five others are announced, the next of which will be held on the evening of Thanksgiving Day.

One very important feature of the association is the spiritual development of the members. A number of different Bible classes are held and, while the attendance is entirely voluntary, they have attracted many. Physical Director Heywood has a gymnasium men's Bible class. The workers' Bible training class is taught by General Secretary J. H. Manning. Wm. D. Murray has a young men's Bible class. In connection with the Volunteer League, President Cahoone has a missionary Bible class. Gospel meetings for men are held every Sunday afternoon and made attractive by interesting speakers and good musical features.

Most radical of the changes made are those in the boys' department. Kenneth Robbie, of considerable experience in that kind of work, has been placed in charge as secretary and has already been found very popular with the youthful members of the association. All departments are provided for along this line and several rooms are devoted to the use of the boys alone.

Plainfielders will be interested to look over this little prospectus and see for themselves just what is being done for the young men of the city. They may be obtained by application at the building.

MISSION SOCIETIES THERE.

Women's Missionary Societies of New Jersey Synod in Session.

The twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Woman's Home and Foreign Societies of the Synod of New Jersey is in session in the First Reformed church, Morristown, today. The meeting of the foreign society began at 9:15 o'clock. Rev. C. A. B. Janvier addressed the meeting, as did also Miss Ellen C. Parsons, who has just returned from her missionary tour. Mrs. Henry Elliott Mott led the devotional meeting, from 12 to 12:30 o'clock.

The meeting of the Home Society will begin at 2 o'clock this afternoon, Rev. Sarah J. Elliott, from Utah, will speak of the work among the Mormons. Rev. D. Stuart Dodge, D. D., president of the Board of Home Missions, will deliver the anniversary address.

BRITISH OFFICERS COMING.

General Young Desires Exhibition Here of Their Gymnastic Training.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—General Young has secured the consent of Earl Roberts and Mr. Brodrick to a plan to send a dozen of the best British noncommissioned officers to America in order that they may give an exposition of their gymnastic training as an example of that which is now carried out in the British service. The war office will pay the expenses of the British soldiers. General Young hopes to be able to get the war department at Washington to send a dozen American noncommissioned officers to England so that they may investigate the developments of the setting up drill in its up to date form as it is practiced in this country. General Young said:

"The gymnastic exhibition we saw at Aldershot beats anything we have got in the way of smartness. The men who took part in it were noncommissioned officers qualifying as gymnastic instructors. It was the finest thing I have ever seen in that line, and I feel sure that an interchange of experiences in this branch of military training will be of mutual benefit to both countries. Earl Roberts received my suggestion with regard to the British soldiers going to the United States and picked out the team to go with the greatest enthusiasm."

General Corbin said his experiences of the British army so far led him to think there was but little difference between the American and British services. "They have their common joys and sorrows, perfections and defects," said the American general, "and in the administration of such a place as Aldershot I found everything much as I would at, say, Fort Leavenworth, but the personnel of the enlisted men is vastly different. The men in the British ranks cannot begin to compare from the point of view of brains, education and initiative with the men who compose America's noncommissioned army."

TRANSOCEANIC AIRSHIP.

M. Santos-Dumont Plans Trip From Paris to San Francisco.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Ex-Mayor Phelan of San Francisco, who has just arrived in London from the continent, says that M. Santos-Dumont, with whom Mr. Phelan dined Tuesday evening, is about to make an offer to travel from Paris to San Francisco by airship.

"Santos-Dumont," said Mr. Phelan, "asks that a prize of $200,000 be put up. This sum, however, will only be paid over in case the trip is successful. The aeronaut undertakes to pay all his own expenses, and he is already at work building a new airship for this purpose. He seems entirely confident of achieving his object. He poohpoohs the difficulties of such a lengthy trip and not only believes he has got a chance of completing this transoceanic and transcontinental air journey, but that there will be found a sufficient number of contributors to make up the purse that he asks as a reward.

"His earnestness and the apparent practicability of his plans greatly impressed me," concluded Mr. Phelan.

Bulgarians Defeated.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 16.—It is declared in government circles that the Bulgarian revolutionary bands have everywhere been defeated and that after a sharp engagement in the Krezna defile between a force of Turkish troops and insurgents the Bulgarians were dislodged and dispersed. According to official dispatches seventy Bulgarians were captured from one band in the Seres district and a number of others were killed or wounded. Smaller bands were scattered, and their arms were also captured. The villagers are returning and giving up their arms.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 19, "Self Mastery"—Text, I Cor. ix. 25; Gal. v. 16-26.

"I keep my body under lest * * * I should be a castaway." "Better is he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city."

It is one of the clearest of facts that we are spirit in a physical body. Each of these depends on and influences the other. Both grow and ought to grow harmoniously, the body ever more fully meeting the needs of the spirit and the spirit securing greater perfection and grace for the body.

This can be done only as the spirit rules itself and the body according to reason. The powers of both are so various and their interworking so complex that unless reason maintains its mastery and direction of all parts some faculty is overdeveloped, others underdeveloped and the whole nature and character distorted and unbalanced. Every appetite of both body and spirit expresses some need of the nature and should be satisfied at proper times in right manner and degree, having due regard to all other cravings and hungers of the different faculties. The craving for food and drink should not go unheeded, but should be met in such a manner as to aid and not to injure all powers of mind as well as body. This needs care and control of reason as to kind of food, quantities, to be taken and times when used. Exercise and sleep are similar in their need of rational control and direction. So of powers of mind and spirit; imagination, affection, hope, determination and every other activity of the inner self should be cultivated, fed and made to do its share as part of a unity in proper place and proportion.

The failures of life are most largely due to lack of self control. Men and women of middle age are common who have some one or two faculties developed out of all proportion to the rest. The result is in many cases most disastrous. In every community tragedies are enacted and lives wrecked because in childhood self control was not acquired. No position of wealth or advantage of any kind can make good the lack of this personal mastery of self. If one has never conquered control of appetite for drink, money but makes more easy the wreck in which all prospects end. At one of our largest eastern colleges a few years since a young man from one of the most aristocratic families in the land, who had an allowance of $2,000 per month, at the age of seventeen years was arrested in his rooms for disorderly conduct which had become unendurable, and he was expelled. The greater the opportunity and advantage the worse the disaster when the master hand no longer controls. The laws of God cannot be defied and disobeyed without disaster.

Every child has the right to be taught self mastery. If parents neglect the discipline and training, the young man and woman should take it up and persist until victory is secured by the help of God's Spirit.

Better Than All the Lecturing.

There are many men wonderfully able in telling other people that they ought not to have come into trouble. They point out where the man got wrong. They tell him with a tongue sharper than a two edged sword that he ought not to have got wrong at that point. They lacerate him, scalp him, vivisect him and turn him out in the cold. One little loaf of bread would have been better than all the lecturing. It would have prepared the way for the right sort of exhortation. This is Christ's representation of Himself to the world, and this is His representation of God. He says that if we will go back with a prayer of confession on our lips the Lord will not allow us to get through it. He will allow us to begin it, but before we have ended it He will smother us in His arms.—Dr. Joseph Parker.

Stormy Days.

Does it rain today? Is it dark and gloomy? That is all right; there must be some stormy days. Tomorrow the clouds will have a silvery lining or disappear entirely. Does the sun shine? Enjoy the sunshine. Tomorrow may be bright also. Are you well? Enjoy your health and use it to the best advantage. Are you ill? Then it is a day in which to be patient and endure cheerfully. Are you free from trouble? Then it is a thanksgiving day. Are you carrying heavy burdens for yourself or others? Then it is a day for rolling off your burdens at the foot of the cross.—Louise Heywood.

Room For the Gospel.

There will always be room for the gospel of Christ. While the human heart remains as it is the atonement can never lose its interest. Life is made up of two questions—where did we come from and where are we going. If Jesus failed to solve it, then we can never know. His solution may be foolishness to some, but to those who believe it becomes the power of God to salvation. Faith in the unseen is essential to him who would know.—Presbyterian Journal.

Good Things to Learn.

Learn to laugh. A good laugh is better than medicine.

Learn how to tell a story. A well told story is as welcome as a sunbeam in a sickroom.

Learn to stop croaking. If you cannot see any good in the world, keep the bad to yourself.—Lutheran Observer.

In the Great Needs of Life.

Every good book is a blessing to him who reads it, but in the great needs of life and in the hour of death there is but one book, and that book the Bible.—Reformed Church Messenger.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 19—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Self mastery.—I Cor. ix. 25; Gal. v. 16-26. (Temperance meeting.)

Self mastery is necessary to success. The man who would control human enterprises or destinies must first learn to control himself. He must be moderate and temperate in all things. This was true of the athlete in the Grecian games. Using the contestants in these games as an illustration, Paul says, "Every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things." Necessity was laid upon a man under these conditions of life to be temperate. The least indulgence in that which was harmful would weaken the one who strove for the crown. It would deprive him of his powers of endurance, and who could expect to win without strength to endure? Temperance is just as necessary in the mightier battles of life. The glutton and the drunkard have little chance in the race of life. The evils that accompany and flow from excessive indulgence in food or in drink unfit a man for the duties and responsibilities of life. Like the weakling in the race, he is soon left behind, and when the crown is awarded it does not rest upon his brow. To master life we must first master ourselves. We must be temperate in all things.

But, though self mastery is so important and necessary in the race of life, it is not so easily attained. Solomon declares that the man who controls himself is greater than the one who takes a city. It must be easier, therefore, to capture a fortified city than to be complete master of one's self. And it is. Many great generals who have been most successful in winning battles have lost in the greatest conflict of life—the conflict with self. One of the world's greatest conquerors died a victim to his lack of self mastery. If we expect to master and to control ourselves, let us not imagine that we are to engage in an insignificant contest. Battles are lost by underrating the strength and resources of the enemy. Let us not lose the battle of life in this way. The human passions are strong and powerful and can only be overcome by trust in God, by prayer, by constant vigilance and the exercise of all the power that God has given to us.

No matter what the cost, we should by the grace of God be masters of ourselves. In the end it will pay. Gladly the Grecian contestant practiced self denial and sacrifice, and for what? A laurel wreath! A mortal crown! Yet we strive for an immortal crown—the crown of eternal life! Shall we be less willing to endure hardness and to deny ourselves seeing that such a glorious goal and such a splendid prize are before us?

BIBLE READINGS.

Prov. xx. 1; xxiii. 20, 21, 29-32; Isa. v. 11, 12; Matt. xxvi. 41; Rom. vii. 18-25; Gal. v. 1; vi. 7, 8; Eph. vi. 10-18; Rev. ii. 10.

Faith In Immortality.

Faith in immortality is not unreasoning. It rests on an intellectual conviction. One believes in God for a reason, possibly no more reason than the good one of the authority of wiser people or for a combination and multiplicity of good and sufficient reasons. Faith in immortality depends on belief in an eternal God, in the immateriality of the soul and in the teachings and the resurrection of Jesus Christ. These reasons well thought out or felt, but not analyzed, will convince most people that we shall live beyond the grave, or at least that the balance of evidence not mathematical, but probable, settles that way. Then let it settle. Rest in it.—Independent.

A "Working Clothes" Society.

One time Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, the famous author of "In His Steps," began his address before a state Christian Endeavor convention in these words: "I come in my working clothes because your train failed to bring my Sunday-go-to-meetin' ones, but it isn't necessary to apologize to a Christian Endeavor convention for coming in working clothes, for work is what we are here for." And therein he sounded a great truth concerning the whole Christian Endeavor movement. It is a "working clothes" society.

Power of Christian Endeavor.

The power of Christian Endeavor is the power of an idea. The idea C-E-zed upon Dr. Clark first, and then he C-E-zed the rest of the world with it—yes, all the world, for if you had hands big enough to grasp the globe you couldn't take hold anywhere without being pricked by a Christian Endeavor pin.—Professor Amos R. Wells.

A Way to Banish the Blues.

No "nameless sadness" or "unaccountable discouragement" can live an hour in the person who puts on his hat and hunts up some one who needs help and cheering and who goes to work like a man with a smiling face to relieve somebody's real difficulty.—American Friend.

The Place to Make Missionaries.

I believe the place to make missionaries and the missionary spirit is in our Sunday schools and our young people's meetings.—Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce.

Quiz Box.

[Any question may be asked that pertains to any phase of Christian Endeavor work. Address Lock Box 674, Binghamton, N. Y.]

1. I. T. O., New York.—The Christian Endeavor pledge was composed by Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark, the founder of the movement. It has never till recently been generally known who its author was.

2. J. A. D., Pennsylvania.—General Secretary Baer, who recently resigned, has become one of the secretaries of the Presbyterian board of home missions.

FASHIONS IN SKIRTS.

Numerous Variations to Suit Differing Tastes.

There is quite a movement in the direction of double and over skirts. Many of the new street and house gowns are made with a drop skirt of some kind, most often of the same material as that of the rest of the dress, but sometimes the upper one is constructed of one kind and the lower skirt of entirely different stuff even to the color.

Other skirts have shaped or gathered flounces from five to ten inches deep, set high on the skirt. Three of these bring this trimming nearly to the waist line and look somewhat like so many skirts. Plaited skirts are as popular as they were a year ago, and a new caprice is a skirt shirred in sections and between the shirred places, which are naturally lengthwise and about twelve inches deep, there are rows of fine braid or featherbone cording in the double cord. This is put twice or three times around, and the idea is carried out all the way to the bottom of the skirt, where the last part is left to flow free like a flounce. This kind of skirt is suitable only for a slender figure. The drop overskirt is scalloped or vandyked at the bottom, and beneath that is a skirt with several narrow ruffles. The illustration shows a dinner or house gown of white taffeta as to the skirt and part of the waist and sleeves, while the rest is of the dainty printed liberty silk in blue and white. The taffeta ruffles are bordered with very narrow rows of fine silk soutache braid, and the blue portion is trimmed with white lace insertion and a narrow chiffon ruffle, with a tiny ruching of the same at the bottom. At the neck is a trimming made of lace and braid a trifle wider.

Speaking of the braid reminds me of the immense place in popular favor gained by braids. They all come under the heading of braids, but some of the styles should be called laces and almost works of art, so beautiful are they and so curiously wrought. There are all the old standard braids with which we have been familiar for a generation, but there are so many others that one is lost trying to remember them. Silk braids woven in blocks, in checks and in floral designs are all seen; also in lacelike patterns, and as these are of silk they are fine enough for the finest velvet or silk garment. There is a new and glossy braid in many designs, and this is made of "wood silk." The silk is produced by macerating mulberry wood and treating it chemically and forcing the pulp through spinnerets like those of the silkworm making its cocoon. It is peculiarly rich in appearance and certainly makes beautiful braids of the glossiest kind. There are also many kinds of separate ornaments made of silk and mohair in the way of breloques and frogs for the waists of the suits where such trimming is indicated. Some of these have pendants in the shape of tulips, fuchsias and other flowers. The petals are of the braid gathered into the proper shape, and the stamens and pistils are of the fine round cord, with tiny buttons at the ends. Until one really sees these braids the variety and beauty of them can scarcely be understood.

Disks of velvet in all sizes are also among the output of the braids, and buttons not much larger than a pinhead are made in all colors and of an incredible fineness. These are to be applied in clusters of six or seven in the form of a bunch of grapes. These have one leaf each, and are to be attached to the garment they are to trim so that the bunch of grapes hangs loose. Among the braids there are some cashmere colors wrought, like the black ones, into many fanciful designs open like lace. Plaids are also seen and some of the black ones are too handsome to call braid. Some of the braids are ten inches wide and others certainly not a sixteenth of an inch wide.

Laces for handsome home and social functions show much that is beautiful, but little that we have not seen before. The black nets with silver spangles and silver stripes are among the prettiest for evenings. Black in everything, it seems, is the choice for this winter. Black all over net or chantilly made up over white taffeta or satin will be much liked, for its refinement, also black and white in hats, in checks, in wool stuffs, and in the camel's hair zibeline. Many more combinations for many purposes have black and white as the fundamental idea.

HENRIETTE ROCHEAU.

JERSEY'S PURCHASE PRICE.

Historic Document Which Shows That the State Was Sold by Indians for Rum, Guns, Etc.

Carefully locked away in one of the fireproof safes of the New Jersey Historical society there now are two valuable documents that tell of the early colonization of the state, says the New York Times.

The first is a deed on parchment from Charles II. to his brother James, duke of York, afterward king of England, giving him a grant of all lands from the St. Lawrence river to Chesapeake bay. The only two names on the grant that Americans of to-day would recognize are Nantucket and Cape Cod, which are spelled as they are to-day. The St. Lawrence river is designated as "The Great River in Canada."

The deed is beautifully written in Gothic lettering, and the document is in excellent condition. Under each line of writing is a ruling of red, evidently done with a quill. The parchment is over two feet in length, and to the bottom is attached what was once a large seal of wax.

Gold and silver cords are fastened to the seal. In an upper left-hand corner is an engraving of Charles II., and the borders of the deed are filled with pen and ink designs, delicate and beautiful. The document is dated from Westminster in the seventeenth year of King Charles' reign. While the deed is apparently the original, for the amount of work expended on it would not be given to a copy, no signatures appear, and apparently none was ever placed on it.

CENTURY OF PATENT ISSUES.

Beginning July 31, 1790, the Number Granted in This Country Has Been 428,621.

The census bureau lately issued a report dealing with the cooperative relation of patented inventions to manufactures, which shows that New York, though third in population and patent rank for the first decade of the 100 years has since been first in both, as well as manufactures. It is an interesting fact, in considering the list of states presented in the report, that the manufacturing rank of a state as a rule approximates its patent rank, says the New York Sun. The report says:

The first patent granted by the general government was to Samuel Hopkins, July 31, 1790, for an improvement in pot and pearl ash manufacture. The last patent granted for the year 1889, at the close of the first 100 years of patent issues, was to Wilhelm Dreyer, December 31, 1889, for an electro-magnetic typesetting machine. These two patents are suggestively symbolical of the progress of the century in invention and manufactures—the first akin to the primitive industries of a new country and the last serving the exacting demands of a highly organized industrial system. The total number of patents issued during this century of invention was 428,621."

A feature of the report is the steady growth shown in the number of patents granted to citizens of foreign countries.

NOT THE SAME NAMES.

Nomenclature for Birds in England and America Is Not at All the Same.

In reviewing a book about "Beasts and Birds in America," the London Spectator warns English readers against the confusion that may arise in their minds by the application of the same name to different birds in England and the United States. "The consequence," it remarks, "is that the critical English schoolboy who reads of robins pecking a wicked squirrel ('Meeko') to death will perhaps toss the book away as untrustworthy—unless he is a reader of Wendell Holmes, and remembers the allusion to the day when young Americans were misled by the English books with local color not fitting the new country. In the books that came from England the robin was a little domestic bird that fed at table instead of a great fidgety, jerky, whooping thrush."

But the whooping thrush (Tardus migratorious) of North America had a red breast like the robin of England, and so the name was given to him, and it was a mob of whooping thrushes, and not robin redbreasts, that did "Meeko," the mischief maker to death. And so, it may be added, the ancient misunderstanding and controversy between English and American tourists at the Atlantic liners' tables as to what is a partridge, a pheasant, a grouse, etc., will go on to the end of time.

Excessive Kindness.

A singular case is that of Patrick Logue, of Altoona, Pa., who has been prosecuted for cruelty to animals, his offense consisting of excessive kindness. Logue is so fond of an intelligent horse owned by him that he will not allow the horse to work or even be exercised. For four years the horse has not been out of the stable. Logue feeds it and cares for it tenderly, but he has steadfastly refused to take it out. Consequently the Humane society has brought suit to force him to give the horse some work or exercise it daily at least.

Fine Tribute to Mackay.

John W. Mackay, the Irish-American multi-millionaire, who died recently in London, had a fine tribute paid to him once by a friend. "Mackay," said he, "is one of the few rich men I should like to know if he were poor."

Emigration of Jews.

During the last year 80,000 Jews emigrated from Roumania.

ARE YOU SATISFIED?

If Not, What Better Proof Can Plainfield Residents Ask For.

This is the statement of a citizen.
The testimony of a neighbor.
You can readily investigate it.
The proof should convince you.

Mrs. M. A. Hall, of 219 Prescott place, says: "For several years I had a dull aching pain across my back, at times extending to my hips. I was compelled to lie in just one position all night and stooping, lifting or bending forward aggravated the pains. Although I used different remedies that were recommended to me I obtained little if any relief. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills highly endorsed in our daily papers and procured a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. It was not long before I felt great relief and I was surprised how quickly the pain in my back disappeared."

THE RIGHT TIME
This is just the right time in the year for a Spring Tonic.
We make a special compound for the blood and general tonic that we can truthfully recommend to be a tonic. It will do away with that tired feeling, gives an appetite and purifies the blood.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $300 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods. If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

AMERICAN PRECIOUS STONES.

Hardly a State in the Union in Which There Is Not Some Trace of Them.

When we think of the mining of precious stones our thoughts are quite certain to leap into South Africa, over to the orient, among the mountains of Asia and Europe, or perhaps to South America, but we are not likely to think of our own land yielding them; but the fact is that no insignificant value in gems is taken from the soil right here at home. The report of the geological survey, just compiled for 1901, shows that during the year we mined in the United States precious stones to the value of about $300,000, reports the New York Herald.

Diamonds represent only $100 of this amount, but the fact that they are found at all gives encouragement to the hope that paying fields of them may some time be found. Last year one diamond was found in Lee county, Georgia, where diamonds were not before known to exist. New Mexico furnished $18,000 in turquoises, and these have been placed on the market. Montana gave us $90,000 in sapphires, which come next. They came from Fergus county. Granite county is now being explored for fancy colored sapphires, that give evidences of being there in paying quantities.

Fine and extensive rhodolite garnet deposits are found in Mason county, North Carolina. Many dark green, blue and yellow beryls, as well as amethysts and emeralds, were found in that state. There is hardly a state of the union in which there is not some trace of precious stones, and it appears not at all unlikely that before many years we may be competing with the old world in furnishing gems.

ANCIENT AMERICAN BOOK.

New York Museum to Have Very Old Copy of Aztec Work in Hieroglyphics.

When hieroglyphs are mentioned one naturally thinks of the records of ancient Egypt; yet before Columbus landed on these shores the Aztecs of ancient Mexico had a most elaborate system of writing in hieroglyphs.

They formed long strips of deerskin into books folded screen-fashion, on which were depicted signs and representations of ceremonials. These old pre-Columbian books the Spaniards greedily collected and burned so that only ten are known to-day in the whole world.

One of these has only recently been found in one of the libraries of Europe and an exact copy presented to the American Museum of Natural History in New York, where it will shortly be placed on exhibition. The text represents the history of the lives of several individuals. One recounts the life of the Lady Three-Glints, who has two husbands and a child and goes through elaborate ceremonies.

Another portion of this old "Codex," as it is called, says the New York Times, treats of the life of a great lord and conqueror named Fire Deer, who, in company with other chieftains, makes many conquests. This old book proves most conclusively how love, religion and warfare went hand in hand in the lives of the ancient Mexicans, just as in people's lives to-day.

GOTHAM'S COURTING CLUB.

Odd Organization in New York City That Does Not Contemplate Matrimony.

The city of New York boasts a club which has for its object the promotion of aimless courtship in so far as matrimony is concerned. A number of young men there have banded themselves together to make love to damsels, who, instead of looking for proposals, are content with what is called "a good time."

Their knights escort them to theaters, picnics and other amusements, make them presents, and are generally attentive to even a greater degree than the ordinary enamored swain. Couples who break the rules of the club by marrying have to pay a fine of $50 and are forever banished from the club. One or two couples have already paid this fine says the Detroit News-Tribune, and entered into the forbidden state, a dinner for each occasion being held by the club to console the members for their loss.

An equally curious club has for some time been in existence in Chicago. It is composed of young men, all of whom bear the Christian name of Joseph, and who have entered into a solemn compact to woo no girls except those bearing the Christian name of Mary. The club has a considerable membership, and it is a noteworthy fact that, so far, its rule has never been broken.

Girls for Farm Work.

There are employed on the farms near Calumet 300 Finnish girls, who work in the hay and grain fields like hired men, says the Detroit Tribune. The farmers say they are cheaper than male help and give more complete satisfaction. The larger number of these farm girls have worked in the crop fields in the old country and prefer the open air to the narrow kitchen confines. The girls work faithfully and show no inclination to dally and look the other way to be "surprised" with a kiss from a big, sweating hired man. Their employers like them on this account; also, because there is no competition.

Weaving for the Blind.

Typewriting and mat weaving have been successfully taught to the blind, and it is believed that they could even learn to make lace, and thus gain a new means of livelihood.

THEY SOUGHT QUAIL

But the Englishman's Dogs Got Polecats Instead.

They Liked a Strong Scent and Had No Difficulty in Finding It—One of Senator Vest's Best Hunting Stories.

Senator Vest has told many stories, but one experience of his has not reached the general reader. It occurred many years ago, but the senator, telling it not long ago, was still chuckling.

In his younger days Senator Vest was an ardent hunter and an authority on the wild life of the prairies. He was living on the advance line of civilization and his home was known far and wide for its cordial and abundant hospitality. There Mr. Vest one day received a visit from a rich and famous hunter from London who brought a letter of introduction from a friend living in the English capital. And the Englishman had brought with him his own hunting dogs. Senator Vest had dogs of his own and he could not repress his surprise, but the Englishman asked him to wait and see. They drove for many miles and finally the wagon was left in care of the men, and Mr. Vest and the Englishman started out on the quest. They did well. The dogs of the Englishman were not worth much, but the Missouri breed gave excellent sport.

"Just wait and give my dogs a chance," declared the Englishman. "All they need is a stronger scent."

"They got it," said the senator, telling the story to a New York Sun man. "Yes, they got it. Some distance away was a little hill and in the side of the little hill were little holes. Suddenly the Englishman's dog got the stronger scent and started for the little hill with the little holes.

"'Call them back,' I shouted to the Englishman.

"'Oh, no,' he replied. 'Now they've got it. Now they've got it.'"

"'They will get it if they don't keep away from there,' I answered. But with all I could do I could not call him back. He would not listen and he got so excited that he started on a run after his dogs.

"Well, it was my time to be moving, too, for I knew what was coming; so

HON. GEORGE G. VEST.
(Missouri Senator Who Can Tell a Story and Make a Speech.)

I called my dogs and made for the wagon as fast as the good Lord would let me. Just as I crawled in I turned and saw the show, and I never pitied anybody in my life as much as I did that Englishman with the dogs that wanted a stronger scent. Out of the holes came little animals and you never saw such a mix up in your life. The dogs ran for the Englishman and jumped around him for protection. Then the Englishman tried to get away from the dogs for protection, too, and the whole combination started for the wagon.

"Put the whip to the horses," I told my man, 'and don't let them get within half a mile of us.'"

"Hi, there, wait for me!' cried the Englishman.

"'Keep your distance,' I responded, and to the driver I said, 'Whip 'em up.'

So we went mile after mile over that prairie. I pitied the Englishman from the bottom of my heart, but there are times when pity must not get too close. I kept him in sight so that he should not miss the way, but he had to walk. Once in a while he would run as though I would allow him to catch up with the wagon, but every time he did we put on more speed. When we neared town, I had to call back to him that his company would not be desirable for at least 24 hours. I never saw him again."

"And the little animals in the little holes in the little hill, senator?" Mr. Vest was asked.

"Polecats," replied the senator. "The Englishman had read about quail living in holes in the prairie hills and he wouldn't change his mind when I tried to explain things to him. But those dogs of his certainly did get all the scent they wanted—there was no mistake about that."

Died for Her Baby Brother.

One of the touching stories of the season comes from a little town in northern Wisconsin, where a six-year-old child died for her baby brother. The baby had been left in the yard, sleeping in its buggy, and the sister had been asked to go out and see to him. There the little girl saw a big rattlesnake coiled at the feet of the infant, and, realizing the danger, seized a broom and tried to kill the reptile. The snake, disturbed, darted at the little girl, coiled around the handle of the broom and slipped down it, striking its fangs into the child's neck. The infant boy was unhurt, but the motherly little sister died in great agony.

STRENGTH

Twenty-five years ago in acquainting jewelers with the strength of the Jas. Boss Stiffened Gold Watch Cases, an enterprising salesman used the method here shown.

Jas. Boss Cases are still the strongest cases made. As good as solid gold in appearance. Better than gold in wearing quality. Less than solid gold in cost. In a

GOLF.

The final play for the Gilbert cup, mixed foursomes, postponed last week, will be played Saturday, October 25. Entries will be received till then.

The Hillside Tennis and Golf Club has not yet announced any special events for Election Day, but no doubt there will be other than the regular events scheduled, with social features at the clubhouse.

Owing to a misunderstanding regarding the handicaps for the contestants in the Boys' cup, the play was not reported this week. During this week the difficulty will be adjusted and next Saturday's play will be published.

The Westfield Golf Club team will play the team from the Suburban Club, at Elizabeth, Saturday. This will probably be the last team match that will be played away from home this season. A week from Saturday the Marine and Field Club, of Brooklyn, will be entertained at Westfield.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

The Park A. C. football team defeated the Somerset A. C. team on the Rockview grounds, Monday afternoon, by a score of 10 to 5. Tuesday it defeated Gidney's team, on the Grange F. C. grounds, by a score of 5 to 2. The eleven will play Taylor's team, tomorrow, on the cricket grounds. The Park A. C. team has just begun its season, and any team, averaging 95 to 100 pounds, desiring to schedule games with it will address George Ovens, captain, 97 Mercer avenue, this city.

NEW PRINCIPAL.

Miss Flora Griffin Appointed to Fill Place of Late Miss Shattuck.

Miss Flora Griffen, of the Whittier School, has been promoted to the principalship of the Bryant and Lincoln Schools to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of the former principal, Miss Emma V. Shattuck. She assumed her duties for the first today.

Miss Griffen is a graduate of the New Paltz Normal School and has taught in the city schools with great success for the past ten years. Her place in the Whittier School has been filled by the appointment of Miss Harriet C. Parker, a Normal School graduate of extended successful experience in grammar school and academic work.

TRIBUTE TO MEMORY.

Paid by Christian Intelligencer to Memory of Mrs. M. T. Todd.

In the last issue of the Christian Intelligencer, the following tribute is paid to the memory of Mrs. Meribah Toms Todd, of Dunellen, N. J :

Todd.—On Friday, September 26, Meribah Toms, the beloved wife of Rev. Augustus F. Todd, at her residence, Dunellen, N. J., in the 76th year of her age.

After a few days' illness with pneumonia this aged Christian wife and mother has fallen on sleep. For nearly fifty years she had been a professed disciple of Christ, and for forty-four years her husband's helpmate and companion. In the active period of his ministry she bore her share of the work and since his retirement she made the home a place of delight and rest. Mrs. Todd was a genial and generous host and to her home her children and children's children, and friends as well, loved to repair.

Her religion was quietly lived without display; indeed, she had many characteristics of a friend. In early life, having sat at the feet of the late Dr. Mersler, of Somerville. N. J., she was well established in the faith and never forgot the ancient landmarks which the fathers had set. She literally fell asleep in Christ, and her last audible utterance was, "Saviour." Besides her husband she leaves two daughters and three sons, who sorrow, but not as those who have no hope. For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with Him.

The funeral was held Monday, Sept mber 29, the pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, officiating, being assisted by Rev. Dr. Le Fevre, and Rev. O. T. Anderson, also the local clergy of Dunellen. Interment was made in the old family plot in the cemetery at Somerville, N. J.

BRIDE WAS ILL.

So Church Wedding Was Given Up and Ceremony Held at Her Home.

The marriage of Miss Nellie Bradlee Smith, daughter of James Bradlee Smith, to Ralph Cecil Davidson, both of this city, took place at the home of the bride in New York last evening. Rev. William Vincent Dawson, rector of St. Stephens' church, officiated. The bride was graduated this year from the training school for nurses at Muhlenberg Hospital. The wedding was to have taken place at St. Stephens' church but the plans had to be changed on account of the illness of the bride.

A WORKER FOR CHARITY

MRS. MIRIAM WHITON OPDYKE WAS A POWERFUL FACTOR IN THAT LINE.

Her Efforts Were Largely Instrumental in Giving Relief Association Present Advanced Position.

Among the women of Plainfield engaged in charitable work, the late Mrs. Miriam Whiton Opdyke was a leader, whose loss is keenly felt. She held that to be the wisest charity, which deems it better to aid one unfortunate to self-help, than to tide twenty over into next week's helplessness. She devoted much time and thought to devising practical measures toward that end, and to securing co-operators. In action, as well as in council, she took a leading part in the practical testing of the measures she proposed. She also had the gift of enthusiasm, able to communicate her own ardor to those who found in her suggestions the "tonic of new hopes and ideals," and inspired them with confidence to follow where she led. One of her associates writes:

"It is mainly through the efforts of Mrs. Opdyke, that the Relief Association of Plainfield occupies the advanced position it holds today in the charitable work of Plainfield. As chairman of the employment committee in this association, her thought and aim were to give work to all in need, and to the unemployed; utilizing the waste of the community, such as worn and disused clothing, which, after cleaning, repairing, or remodeling in the work rooms of the association, was sold for nominal sums to the poor. She established the wood-yard upon a self-supporting basis, where men could have work sufficient to keep their families from distress, while it also furnished a test of the lazy and shiftless. She also tried for one season the experiment of farming on city land with considerable success. It was principally through her persevering determination against considerable opposition that the Organized Aid Association of Plainfield was established about eight years ago; which is proving of inestimable value to the city charities. All her schemes were for the uplifting and elevating of the poor and suffering upon principles developing and promoting their respect. A precious memory to her co-workers is her rare combination of enthusiasm and hopefulness combined with practicability and ripe judgment always effacing herself in the interest of the work."

Mrs. Opdyke came of Puritan stock. Her ancestors were among the first settlers of three New England colonies; Plymouth, Massachusetts Bay and New Haven. She was born in 1848 at Boston, the fourth daughter in a family of seven children. Her father, James M. Whiton, was a successful merchant for many years, and active in the construction of the Boston, Concord and Montreal Railroad, of which he was superintendent at the time of his death in 1857. Her mother, now of great age, but remarkably well preserved, resides in Plainfield at the home of her son, John M. Whiton.

Mrs. Opdyke's character exhibited a rare combination of sweetness and strength. Breadth of thought, wide sympathies, considerateness of others, and a cultivated mind were joined with deep religious earnestness, perservering energy, strong self-control, and buoyant hopefulness.

Her life was considerably prolonged by the indomitable courage with which she combated the obscure malady that nearly four years ago crippled her in her prime. Trying foreign travel as a last resort, she had gained hope for a time, but the vital energy had been exhausted in the long struggle, and the end came suddenly and painlessly, at Frutigan, Switzerland, August 31. Though in a foreign land, her obsequies at Zurich September 2, did not lack the kind offices of her countrywomen, testifying regard for her and sympathy for her children. "Such a life," writes one of her fellow workers in Plainfield, "is one of the strongest proofs of immortality. Its inspiration will be enduring in the hearts of her friends and associates."

Faithful Officers Re-Elected.

DR. CARMAN FINISHED.

Local Automobilist Made Endurance Trip From New York to Boston and Return.

Dr. M. A. Carman, of Franklin place, returned to this city in his steam automobile, last evening, after having completed the endurance run from New York City to Boston and return. His was one of the sixty-nine survivors out of the seventy-five machines of all descriptions that started. The records have been turned over to the officials of the Automobile Club of America who will compute the time and other figures.

During the entire trip, Dr. Carman was accompanied by G. Harry Squires, of this city, who acted as observer. They left New Haven, yesterday morning and reached New York, a distance of seventy-eight miles, at 5 o'clock. After taking dinner at the Hotel Plaza they continued the run to this city by way of Staten Island, making a total of 108 miles in the day.

REV. MR. SLICER COMING.

Well-Known Clergymen to Preach Here Sunday Evening.

It appears that arrangements were made last summer for Rev. Thomas R. Slicer to preach in this city on the eveinng of October 19.

This clergyman is well-known as one of the most active and influential citizens of New York City. He is a member of the City Club and as interested for civic righteousness in the metropolis, as he was prominent in the same cause in Buffalo. Mr. Slicer speaks once a month throughout the winter at the Cooper Union meeting for workingmen. He is just now a member of the committee calling the Carnegie Hall meeting for this evening and is to be one of the speakers on the coal strike.

Mr. Slicer is known to Plainfielders through his recently published volumes, and to others as the successor of the late Dr. Henry N. Bellows, at the Church of All Souls, at Fourth avenue and Twentieth street. He is there at the head of a large and influential congregation and his word here, at the Unitarian church next Sunday evening, will doubtless be gladly received.

Two Fingers Mashed.

Two fingers on the right hand of Lawrence DuPlank, of West Front street, were badly smashed, Tuesday, through their getting caught beneath a large stone. With George Voehl he was lifting the stone when it suddenly slipped and dropped on DuPlank's hands. The crushed digits were dressed by Dr. Pittis, and it is thought they will not have to be amputated.

Casino Events.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES

Nominated at City Primaries Held in Three of the City Wards Last Night.

ALL WAS HARMONY

Councilmanic Candidates Chosen Were F. S. Cutter in First Ward, Chas. A. Sturtevant in Second and L. M. Stover in the Fourth —The Other Nominations.

Democrats in three of the four wards of Plainfield selected ward candidates for the city election next month at the primaries held last night. Harmony reigned and a fair interest was shown in all except the Third ward where no primary was held. The vacancies from that ward will probably be filled by the city committee.

In addition to candidates for ward councilman, justice of the peace and constable, delegates to the Democratic city convention, to be held Tuesday night, were chosen.

FIRST WARD.

The First ward Democratic primary was held at headquarters on East Second street, last evening and was void of any sensational features. Andrew J. Nolan was chairman of the meeting and Vincent L. Frazee secretary. The delegates to the city convention to be held Tuesday evening of next week are Andrew J. Nolan, Vincent L. Frazee, Clarence E. Teel, William T. Banks, J. C. Blimm. V. L. Frazee and J. C. Blimm were elected membres of the city executive committee.

In the selection of a candidate for ward councilman, F. S. Cutter, of Sandford avenue, was chosen. The offices of justice of the peace and constables were left vacant.

SECOND WARD.

The Democratic primaries of the Second ward were held last evening in the Bryant School. Herbert W. Stover was elected chairman, and Frank J. Shattle secretary.

Charles A. Sturtevant was the sole nominee for councilman and the secretary cast a ballot declaring him the nominee to serve on the ticket as councilman. In like manner P. H. Latourette being the only nominee for justice of the peace, the secretary cast his ballot. The meeting was unable to decide upon a candidate for constable, and it was moved that the nomination of a constable be left to the delegates to the city convention.

J. V. F. Diltz, Charles A. Sturtevant, Herbert W. Stover and Hezekiah Hand were chosen to be delegates to the city convention and were empowered to serve as a committee to fill all vacancies which may occur among the nominees. J. D. Guttridge

ONE OF SOMERSET'S SONS

S. S. SWACKHAMER, THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE FOR THE ASSEMBLLY.

Something About the Man Himself and His Personal Career.

Samuel S. Swackhamer, the Democratic nominee for the Assembly in Somerset county, was born August 7, 1859 at Whitehouse, Hunterdon county, New Jersey. He assisted his father, R. S. Swackhamer, for county superintendent of public instruction on his farm until at the age of nineteen he left home to teach school, which profession he followed for sometime in Hunterdon, Warren and Gloucester counties. When he discontinued teaching, he was principal of a large school near Woodbary, Gloucester county, and held a first grade teacher's certificate.

He studied law first with his brother, Austin H. Swackhamer, of Gloucester county, and then with Hon. J. D. Bartine, of Somerville, from whose office he was admitted to the bar in 1894. He settled in Plainfield immediately after his admission to the bar and in 1898 entered into partnership with W. R. Codington with whom he is still associated in business. In 1897 he took his counselor's degree and in 1899 was admitted to practice in the United States Courts.

He is a profound student of polite literature, philosophy and ethics, and has devoted much time to political economy and science of government. He is a great admirer of the classic orators and has made a thorough study of the principles advocated by the great statesmen of the nation. Since entering upon the practice of the law, he has familiarized himself with the judicial opinions of the great English and American jurists, and has read with studious care all noted writings upon the subject of law and equity, which have been put in print since the foundation of the government. While possessing that comprehension and legal acumen which make him a sure and safe counselor, he is especially distinguished as an advocate, in which character he shows dramatic power and oratorical ability. He has made a reputation as a pleader of great power in jury trials, and is recognized as a cogent reasoner on questions of law in the highest courts of the State.

The great element of his influence and success both at the bar and in the political arena is the honesty and conviction with which he speaks. When he is once assured that he is right, he proceeds with an energy that will not brook defeat and nothing can swerve him from his purpose. It is everywhere recognized that his character is without reproach and however others may differ with his opinions, they all acknowledge that he has the courage of his convictions and that his judgments in all cases harmonize. If he should be elected to the Legislature, he will bring to the office a high degree of executive ability and will

ONE ENTERTAINER NOT THERE

BUT ENDEAVOR SOCIAL WAS A BIG SUCCESS ALL THE SAME.

An Informal Programme Rendered During the Evening—Those in Charge.

One of the most successful socials ever given by the Christian Endeavor Soceity of the First Baptist church was that of last evening, when a large number of young people gathered to enjoy a programme of much merit. The Sunday-school room, where the affair was held, was attractively decorated with American flags, while a pleasing feature was the arrangement of tennis racquets and golf clubs, which were tied with pretty colored ribbons about the room. One part of the room was devoted to the playing of ping-pong and parlor croquet, and this formed a happy diversion for the young folks.

During the evening there was a programme of recitations and music. Miss Elsie Giles favored those present with soprano solos, Mrs. Buckley gave piano solos, Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey gave several recitations, while Mr. Gaston rendered violin solos. Rev. Dr. McBride, of New York, was expected to be present and give a humorous talk, but a telegram announced that he was kept at home by illness.

After the programme of the evening refreshments consisting of glace and cake were served by the social committee consisting of Herbert J. DuBois, chairman; N. Douglass Drake, Dr. Norman H. Probasco, Miss Grace TenEyck, Miss Bessie TenEyck and Kenneth Robbie. Aside from the programme, the social features were not the least enjoyable and everyone had a thoroughly good time.

JUNIORS AT ANNIVERSARY

FRANKLIN COUNCIL OBSERVED ITS FIFTEENTH BIRTHDAY LAST NIGHT.

Musical Numbers and Character Sketches Made Up the Programme.

In honor of the fifteenth anniversary of its organization, Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., tendered a reception to members and friends in its rooms, last evening. It proved a most pleasant event and with a smoker which brought it to a close, lasted until well on toward midnight.

The entertainment programme was in charge of Harvey Thorn who contributed the initial number by making a reminiscent address. He was followed in close order by "Duss's" orchestra, composed of William N. Runyon, piano, Asa Pope, Frank Putnam, Jeremiah Van Winkle and Ephraim Compton, jewsharps, and Thomas Muir, zobo, which rendered several patriotic marches, vocal selections by William N. Runyon and monologues, impersonations and character sketches by Charles H. Simerson, of New York. The latter was exceptionally clever in depicting familiar types, making his changes of face and costume in full view of the audience. The completion of the programme was signalled by the distribution of refreshments and cigars.

Among the visitors present were members of Somerset and Benevolent Councils, of this city, and other councils from nearby places. The committee in charge consisted of Harvey Thorn, Wesley Thorn, Frank Putnam, Ephraim Compton, William Kriney and Harry DeHart.

LOTS OF WOOD.

Twenty-Four Trees Offered to City to be Cut for Kindling Wood.

Offers of trees to be cut down continue to be received by Street Commissioner Gavett and he has a large force of men at work removing them. Within the last ten days, twenty-four have been given away by the property owners and of these ten have been cut. The wood is being piled in the yard of the Relief Association and will be dealt out to the poor when it is needed.

At Seat of War.

Much interest is now being centred in an insurrection in Venezuela, where H. W. Bowen, U. S. Minister, is stationed at Caracas. Mr. Bowen yesterday telegraphed to the authorities at Washington asking that another warship be sent to protect the consul property. Mr. Bowen is a brother of H. E. Bowen, of Watchung avenue.

Coal for Borough Schools.

A number of tons of hard coal were placed in the North Plainfield Public School building yesterday.

—The season for rabbit, quail and squirrel will open November 10.

PARK GOLF SEASON ENDS ELECTION DAY

Final Weekly Competition for President's Cup Set for Afternoon of That Holiday.

HOW CONTEST STANDS

THE EVENTS INCLUDE A HANDICAP TROPHY AND BALL SWEEPSTAKES.

Play for Hooley Cup Ends Tuesday, Oct. 28—Miss Long Leads for That Trophy—The Course to be Open Until After Thanksgiving.

Plans have been made by the golf committee of the Park Golf Club for the ending of the active season at that club Election Day. The committee has decided to end the weekly competitions for the President's cup at that time. The final competition will be held on the afternoon of that holiday. This will in no way interfere with the play on the preceding Saturday afternoon.

As it stands now, Charles B. Morse is in the lead for that trophy but he is closely followed by Roberts deS. Newhall and S. St. John McCutchen, who are separated from each other by only a quarter of a point. This trophy, which was offered by Charles W. McCutchen, president of the club, goes to the player winning it two years in succession. The first year it was offered, Edgar I. Serrell captured it. Last year, S. St. J. McCutchen came to the fore during the last two weeks of play and won it. Another victory for him this year means permanent ownership of the cup. Last year's victory was decided in the last two weeks of play and it seems likely that the fight for the trophy this year will not be decided until Election Day.

According to the programme laid down by the golf committee, the morning of Election Day will be devoted to a ball sweepstakes, handicap, the entrance fee for which will be a Haskell or Kempshall ball. In the afternoon, there will be the final competition for the President's cup while a special trophy will be offered for the lowest net score made during the afternoon. It is possible that other events may be arranged for the afternoon. That will mark the close of the competitions at the club for this season although it is quite possible that some team matches will be arranged for Saturday afternoons when there are no regular competitions to interfere. The course will remain open until after Thanksgiving if the weather permits.

Notice was posted yesterday by the golf committee that the last weekly competition for the Hooley cup, the women's trophy, would be held Tuesday afternoon, October 28, or if it should rain that day on the first clear day following. Miss Laura Long now leads for that cup with Miss May S. Shreve, last year's winner, and Miss Lydie Loizeaux as her strongest rivals.

Addresses by State Secretary.

Lieut. E. W. Hearne, State secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of New Jersey, will occupy the pulpit of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, October 18, in the morning and will speak at the First Presbyterian church in the evening on Sunday, October 19. He will also address the Y. M. C. A. meeting on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. In all these services he will have something to say about his work in the Philippines.

Whist Club Meeting.

The Giddy Girl's Social Whist Club met Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Stevens, 96 Manning avenue. Whist was the feature of the evening, after which refreshments were served in abundance. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. DeGrosse, Mr. and Mrs. R. Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs C. Belle, Miss V. Good and George Milton Anderson.

Y. M. C. A. Anniversary.

Services in the interest of the thirty-fifth anniversary of the local Young Men's Christian Association will be held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church Saturday and in the First Baptist, First Presbyterian and Grace M. E. churches Sunday. Other anniversary services will be held later.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement of Miss Reba Arnett, of Lambertville, to Harry Northrop, of Plainfield, is announced.

—Now is the time to purchase Bartlett and Sickle pears and peaches. Neuman Brothers have some choice lots that are being sold very low.

RECEPTION AT PARSONAGE

REV. E. L. EARP ENTERTAINED HIS FLOCK LAST NIGHT.

Delightful Affair Given by Pastor and His Wife—An Informal Programme.

The parsonage of Grace M. E church was the scene of an enjoyable affair last evening, when Rev. and Mrs. Edwin L. Earp gave a reception to the members of the church. Between 8 and 10 o'clock the parsonage was filled with guests who called to meet the pastor and his wife and to become better acquainted. Mr. and Mrs. Earp were assisted in receiving by Miss Laura C. Pearsall, of Ridgewood, and the Misses Sadie Winckler, Winifred Carroll and Mabel Stevens, of Grace church.

The parsonage has recently been redecorated and thoroughly renovated. This together with the decorations arranged for the occasion, called forth many pleasant words of congratulation from all.

During the evening an informal programme was presented, including vocal solos by Miss Mabel Davison, of East Orange, accompanied by her brother, Rev. Charles S. Davison, of Newark; also piano selections by Miss Tillie Hopper, of Ridgewood. These numbers were well received.

After the rendition of the programme refreshments were served by Stephenson, the caterer, and as the guests departed they assembled at the church to admire the new pipe organ which has been been put in position and completed. Among the guests outside the congregation present at the reception were Rev. Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Snodgrass, of the First M. E. church.

A WEDDING AT PLUCKEMIN

MISS ANNA FENNER MARRIED TO E. A. WATTS, OF BROOKLYN.

Bride Formerly Resided in This City and Had Plainfield Pastor Perform Ceremony.

Miss Anna Fenner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fenner, and Ernest Albert Watts, of Brooklyn, were married last evening at the home of the bride's parents, Pluckemin, at 6 o'clock, in the presence of one hundred relatives and friends. The ceremony was preformed by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, assisted by Rev. Mr. Parry, of the Pluckamin Presbyterian church.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ethel Fenner, as maid-of-honor, while the best man was Clifford Fenner, a brother of the bride. Charles VanMiddlesworth, of this city, acted as usher and Miss Lillie Stryker, of Trenton, as bridemaid.

The house was attractively decorated with autumn leaves, chrysanthemums and roses, and in the parlor, where the ceremony was performed, the couple stood beneath a large floral bell.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served and the couple received the congratulations of all the guests. Later they left Pluckemin for a wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside in Brooklyn, where the groom is in business.

The bride is well-known in Plainfield, where she lived for several years with her uncle and aunt, Mr and Mrs. Henry VanMiddlesworth, of West Front street.

There were many relatives from Plainfield present at the wedding, while there were other guests from New York, Brooklyn, Point Pleasant, Somerville and other nearby places. Mr. and Mrs. Watts received a great many handsome and useful present.

LAWYER MOFFETT MOVES.

Now Occupies Offices on North Avenue, Near Watchung.

Lawyer Charles L. Moffett, the Democratic candidate for Assembly, moved yesterday from the corner of Park and North avenues, to the offices formerly used by Judge John Ulrich on North avenue. The offices are located over the place formerly used by the Plainfield Water Supply Company. Captain Hand moved Mr. Moffett's goods and successfully placed the large safe in the second story offices, while a large crowd of bystanders watched the work with evident interest. The many tenants in the Vanderbeek building are sorry to lose Mr. Moffett, but they all wish him success.

Miss Gillmore, of East Second street, has returned to boarding school on the Hudson, N. Y.

HEARING IN DUNAVAN CASE

SUPREME COURT WILL REVIEW COMMON COUNCIL'S ACTION.

Judge VanSyckel Granted Writ Yesterday—City Willing to Have Case Taken Up.

Judge VanSyckel granted a writ yesterday to Lawyer Robert M. Clark, as counsel for Lewis M. Dunavan, of the Plainfield fire department, allowing his case to be taken in the Supreme Court to review for the purpose of determining whether the decision of the Common Council was legal and right in deducting Mr. Dunavan's salary during the time that he was supsended pending a hearing in the case of the city against him for infraction of the rules of the department.

Mr. Clark's essential points in arguing the case before Judge VanSyckel were that the case was in the jurisdiction of the city judge and not the Common Council, that the city had no right to try Mr. Dunavan for an infraction of rules which did not exist and that the Council did wrong in allowing the charges to be amended and the case tried without giving the defendant sufficient time to prepare an answer.

There was no opposition to the writ on the part of the city as Corporation Counsel Marsh deemed that Dunavan had a right to appeal to the Supreme Court if he so decided.

The case will be tried the first Tuesday in November, that being set as the date for argument in the Supreme Court.

WANT TO WORK.

Ten Applicants for Places in Postal Service Took Civil Service Examinations Yesterday Afternoon.

Ten applicants for positions as carriers for the local postoffice underwent the necessary civil service examination, Wednesday afternoon. An examining board composed of Edward T. VanWinkle, Charles B. Stephens and W. B. Sharp propounded the questions which were in spelling, geography, arithmetic and penmanship. The result of the examination will not be made known until the papers are returned from Washington which will be at least two months hence. The two getting the highest percentage will be appointed substitute carriers and the others will remain on the eligible list.

Those who took the examination were M. H. Brokaw, P. F. Duffy, F. W. Bailey, A. G. VanWinkle, A. H. Stiles, H. L. Carey, J. F. Berg, W. H. Pearson and Rudolph Spiegel.

FINE SINGER.

Miss Hildebrand Will be at Y. M. C. A. Men's Meeting Sunday.

The special music at the Y. M. C. A. meeting on Sunday afternoon will consist of selections by the Y. M. C. A. orchestra and vocal selections by Miss Grace D. Hildebrand, of White Plains, N. Y.

A few years ago Ira D. Sankey heard this delightful singer at the head of a chorus of sixty voices, and, at the close of the exercise, talked with her and obtained her promise to devote her voice to Christian work. Miss Hildebrand, who is known as "The Gospel Nightingale," was between two and three years the leading soloist at Rev. Dr. Cadman's Metropolitan Temple in New York City.

Meeting With Success.

Drs. George R. Boston and Nettie J. Whitesell, doctors of osteopathy, are meeting with great success in their practice in this city. Their speciality is the cure of many nervous complaints that cannot be reached by drugs. The local office is at 513 Woodland avenue where the doctors may be consulted Tuesday afternoons from 9 to 5 and Saturdays from 9 until 12.

Planned Year's Work.

The Young Ladies' Mission Circle of the First M. E. church held its first fall meeting in Vincent chapel last evening. The meeting was of a social nature, at the same time the members planned the winter's work. There was a good attendance and all take up the work for the year with increased interest and enthusiasm.

Twenty-One Years of Service.

Mrs. R. M. Stover has just entered upon the twenty-first consecutive year as treasurer of Grace church Guild. She has filled this office in a thoroughly satisfactory and efficient manner and the members appreciate highly Mrs. Stover's long faithful service.

—Mrs. David Moore, of Central avenue, has planned to have her home thoroughly renovated, and she has given contracts for painting and papering.

DR. JENKINS FOR MAYOR

Renominated at a Very Harmonious Republican City Convention Last Evening.

JUST TOOK 14 MINUTES

City Treasurer Wm. F. Arnold, School Trustee L. N. Lovell and Chosen Freeholders Hubbard and Westphal Were All Renominated Without Any Opposition.

For Mayor,
Dr. Olin L. Jenkins.
For City Treasurer,
William F. Arnold.
For Board of Education,
Leander N. Lovell, (five years.)
Eugene M. Cave, (two years.)
For Chosen Freeholders,
J. Frank Hubbard,
William A. Westphal.

Such is the unanimous choice of the Republican party of Plainfield in convention assembled. Or, in plain language, that is te slate which went through as the Republican city convention, last evening, without the slightest suggestion of a hitch. There had been rumors that perhaps a change would be made in one of the chosen freeholders but if such a plan was ever considered, it disappeared bfeore the convention. It required but fourteen minutes to transact the business of the convention and when it was all over, everyone seemed highly delighted with the result.

Last evening's convention was held in the rooms of the Plainfield Camera Club, over police headuarters on East Front street. It was typical of the usual city convention of the G. O. P., perfect harmony. In most cases, the present office holders were renominated. Where a change was necessary, there was a complete unanimity of opinion as to the proper man.

While the time set for the convention was 8 o'clock, the crowd gathered on the sidewalk in front of the building until sometime after that hour and it was not until 8:15 that Councilman J. F. Buckle, as a member of the city executive committee, called the convention to order. On the nomination of City Clerk J. T. MacMurray, Councilman George P. Mellick, of the Second ward, was made chairman and S. P. T. Wilbur and J. Hervey Doane were appointed to escort him to his seat, a distance of a little less than ten feet. Councilman Robert L. Lee, of the Fourth ward, was then elected secretary. Chairman Mellick appointed Assessor H. C. Van-Emburgh, of the First ward, and J. Hervey Doane, of the Second ward, as inspectors of election.

No time was lost in getting down to business. After the reading of the call, nominations for mayor were asked for. City Clerk J. T. MacMurray, as chairman of the First ward delegation, placed the name of Mayor Olin L. Jenkins before the convention. The nomination was seconded by Joseph E. Morse, chairman of the Second ward delegation. James E. Kimball, of the Third ward delegation, did likewise, and Harry C. Runyon, who headed the delegates from the Fourth, made a little speech, seconding the nomination and eulogizing the candidate. Mayor Jenkins had done so well, he declared, that he had failed to draw any adverse criticism from the Democratic party. City Clerk MacMurray proposed the casting of a ballot for the candidate and it was done without delay.

For city treasurer, Joseph E. Morse named William F. Arnold, of the Second ward. City Clerk Macurray repeated his little motion and the secretary cast the ballot as directed.

Chairman Kimball, of the Third ward, had a candidate for one of the two chosen freeholders in Capt. J. Frank Hubbard. The Fourth ward's man was William A. Westphal. As there was no one else named, Mr. MacMurray's little formula was again proposed and carried.

As the choice of the Second ward, Chairman Morse presented the name of Leander N. Lovell for school trustee for the full term. To fill the unexpired term of Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, the First ward had a candidate in Eugene M. Cave with a similar harmonious result.

The need of a committee to fill vacancies was suggested and Former Sheriff Wm. T. Kirk moved the appointment of a committee with a representative from each ward by the chairman. Councilman Mellick, after the motion was carried, named the four chairmen, City Clerk MacMurray, Joseph E. Morse, James E. Kimball and Harry C. Runyon. At 8:29, the convention adjourned.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Campbell and their children, of Park avenue, will leave next Sunday on one of the Clyde Line steamers for Florida, where Mr. Campbell goes in the interest of his orange crop, which he says is unusually large this year.

FOR HOMELESS CHILDREN.

Work Being Done by Children's Home Society of New Jersey.

The Board of Managers of the New Jersey Children's Home Society recently decided to appropriate the McKinley Memorial Fund to the erection of a Receiving Home for the Society's children while awaiting placement in family homes. For the past year the society has rented a building for this purpose, in which they have had on an average of nineteen children per month, each child remaining in the home on an average of two weeks. The subscriptions to the fund have reached upward of $6,000 and the officers are confident that with the beginning of building operations this sum will be substantially increased.

During the eight years in which the society has been in operation 753 homeless children have been received. During the same time 688 children have been placed. This does not take into account the replacements. In each instance these children have been placed in selected family homes, where they are sent to school and given the very best advantages.

The superintendent, at his office in Trenton, is constantly in receipt of inquiries from all parts of the State regarding homeless children and families willing to secure children. He and his agents are kept busy all the while investigating these inquiries and making arrangements for the reception and sending out of children.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

TWO FAMILIES THAT EARLY SETTLED HERE

Sketch by O. B. Leonard of the Smalleys and the Fitz-Randolphs.

THE DESCENDENTS HERE FIRST LOCATED ON A GRANT GIVEN IN PISCATAWAY.

Were Prominent in the Establishment of the Seventh-Day Baptist Church—Mayor Smalley, of the Borough, is a Descendent.

This interesting geneological sketch of the families of Smalleys and Fitz-Randolphs, who settled in Piscataway and have many descendents in this section, has been prepared for The Daily Press by O. B. Leonard.

The first person by the name of Smalley in America was John Smalley. He was in London 1631, and the following year came over in the vessel "Francis and James" in company with many of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. He settled on Cape Cod, where he married, about 1640 and had four children who lived to mature years, two girls, Hannah and Mary, and two boys, John, Jr., and Isaac. From Massachusetts the parents, with the two sons, both of age, moved to Piscataway in Middlesex county, N. J., about 1669-70. The daughters were married and remained in New England.

John Smalley was among the earliest pioneer freeholders of this Jersey settlement, after obtaining his first grant upon arrival in Piscataway a survey for his farm was made in 1677 and further land was taken up by him in 1685. At the time the province was temporarily captured by the Dutch, 1673-4, he was appointed by them a magistrate. He was commissioned by the county, a justice of the peace in 1675 and appointed associate justice of the Court of Sessions which position he filled for several years.

This pioneer father died in 1692 and the mother, about a year after.

John Smalley, Jr., the oldest son, was born in Massachusetts, September 8, 1644. Isaac Smalley, the youngest, was born December 11, 1647, and married twice after moving to New Jersey. His two sons, Joseph and Joshua, attained to considerable prominence in Middlesex county and in its local militia. Isaac was given all the landed interest of his father and became an influential citizen, was a member of the Colonial Assembly several years, served as town clerk of Piscataway township for many terms, at various times was chosen assessor, selectman, juror, justice of the peace, and assistant justice of the court, besides occupying other political positions in the county till his death, 1725.

John Smalley, Jr., the oldest son of the pioneer, married in Piscataway October 18, 1676, Lydia Martin, daughter of John, an early neighbor planter. He had a farm surveyed for him 1675 and again about ten years afterwards he took up an additional hundred acres. In 1688 he came into possession of another large plot of 100 acres. This last plantation situated on Ambrose brook, near present New Market, he gave to his son Jonathan, who in turn left it at his death to his son Andrew. John, Jr., served in many local township appointments and was a constituent member in the old Piscataway Baptist church, publicly organized in 1686-9. His last will was made September 13, 1731 and duly recorded in 1733 a short time after his death.

The oldest son of John, Jr. and Lydia Smalley, was Jonathan Smalley, born April 10, 1683, who married about 1707, Sarah Fitz-Randolph, the oldest child of John and Sarah Fitz-Randolph. This was the first marriage on record of a Smalley and Fitz-Randolph. Subsequent generations of those bearing these two surnames had an especial affinity for each other, and more than a dozen marriages occurred between them within a few years.

The Fitz-Randolphs were not strangers in New England to the Smalleys. The founders of the two families in America were Edward Fitz-Randolph and John Smalley born in old England about 1615-20. They both emigrated from their native land and settled in Cape Cod Colony within a year or two of each other. No longer period than this intervened between their final settlements in Piscataway, N. J. Here the homesteads and outlying plantations of the sons of these pioneers were in close proximity. As neighbors to them there lived within the same township the families of the Bonhams, Dunns, Dunhams, Martins and others. John Fitz-Randolph, son of the patriarch progenitor, married a sister of Rev. Edmund Dunham's wife. A son and daughter of this minister married children of John Smalley, Jr., whose oldest son Jonathan, just mentioned, had married a daughter of John Fitz-Randolph.

Very many of the families were intimately related by marriage, but became greatly estranged by religion. The occasion was the existence in Piscataway of two Baptist churches, one worshipping on Sunday, the other observing Saturday. The former was organized 1686-9 and the latter, an offspring therefrom, constituted 1705-07. It is a noticeable co-incident also that in the union of these families such a large number became actively identified with this new religious interest in the township; the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

Jonathan Smalley was the first of this name on the male membership roll of this church and his wife' name was among the earliest recorded on the list of females, having united with the church before marriage as Sarah Fitz-Randolph. Her parents, before her, had identified themselves with the new movement, the father, John Fitz-Randolph, being first a constituent member of the regular first day Baptist church and later became one of the founders of this Seventh-Day Baptist society. His younger brother, Thomas Fitz-Randolph, was also active among the new society.

So strict and conscientious a Sabbatarian was Jonathan Smalley that when he leased part of his farm in 1734 to parties who were to quarry for mineral, he stipulated in the contract that no work or labor should be performed upon the premises on the seventh day of the week during the term of the twenty-one years' lease.

Jonathan's younger brother, Elisha Smalley, who married Mary Dunham, daughter of the Seventh-Day Baptist minister, was also a devout Sabbatarian as his sister Phebe Smalley was, who married Ephraim Dunham, son of this pastor. Most of Jonathan Smalley's ten children reaching adult years became identified with the same church. Especially active in these relations were his sons John and Jonathan, Jr. But his youngest son, Andrew, departed from his father's religious preferences.

Jonathan Smalley accumulated a large property for colonial times, both real and personal. By his last will made July 27, 1762, his many bequests are made known. His son John receives 210 pounds sterling and Jonathan, Jr., is given 250 pounds sterling. All his "lands and salt meadows" are bequeathed to his son Andrew.

Andrew Smalley, born December 20, 1726, was married February 26, 1746-7, by Rev. Jonathan Dunham, the Seventh-Day Baptist minister, at that time in Piscataway. His wife was Agnes Coriell, born May 8, 1728, daughter of David and Elsie. They set up housekeeping at "Harris Lane," a district lying near Bound Brook. Among the nine children born in this houshold were Abraham, the oldest, born May 2, 1748; and next to youngest, David, whose birth occurred April 5, 1766.

Of these two sons of Andrew and Agnes Smalley it may be briefly written that Abraham Smalley remained in the old homestead on Ambrose Brook. He married October 8, 1772, Catharine Emans and raised a large family. The oldest child was Sarah, born April 8, 1774, married Richard Coriell, son of Abraham, and had a family of eight. Their first born, Ira married Jane N. Boice, who became the grandparents of Mrs. Emma Finney Welch, the geneologist of the Smalley and Coriell families.

David Smalley, son of Andrew and Agnes, upon reaching manhood, moved to the Passaic valley in Somerset county. In 1786 he married Margaret Compton and had four children of whom two were boys, Andrew, born September 25, 1787, and William, born March 13, 1789. The latter married about 1808, Mary Langstaff. Of their family of eleven, the fifth child was William L. Smalley, Sr., born October 12, 1818, father of the present mayor of the borough of North Plainfield, N. J.

Consul Will Not Return Now.

A letter from Rev. W. T. Griffin, U. S. consul at Limoges, France, who has been expected to visit his family on LaGrande avenue, this city, states that on account of business, he is compelled to postpone his trip home for an indefinite time. It is now over ten months since he has had a leave of absence.

I. C. T.'s Reception.

At its meeting, Tuesday evening, the I. C. T. Club completed arrangements for its second fall reception to be held on Thursday evening, October 23. The committee appointed to assume charge consists of George L. Apgar, chairman, H. S. Humes, Charles Overbaugh, George Cose and William Waters.

Mrs. George Weaver, of Somerville, has been visiting Plainfield relatives.

The Misses Hattie and Winnifred Wood and Miss Violet Jones, of 319 Richmond street, have returned from a visit with Washington friends.

ADVISED TO ACCEPT

Board of Anthracite Workers Calls Convention.

MINING TO BEGIN NEXT WEEK.

Modified Plan For Settlement of Long Strike Acceptable to President Mitchell—Operators Prepare For Resumption.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 17.—The executive board of the three anthracite districts of the United Mine Workers of America in joint session unanimously decided to recommend to a delegate convention of striking miners the acceptance of the arbitration proposition submitted by the president of the United States, and it is reasonably certain that the advice will be followed and the great struggle brought to a close.

The convention will be convened in this city Monday morning, and it is the hope and the belief of the officers of the union that the mining of coal will be resumed before the close of next week after a suspension of more than five months.

The citizens of the entire region are much elated that the strike is almost over, because business in the coalfields has been practically paralyzed since the strike began.

For a time there was some doubt as to how the miners would receive the modified plan. President Mitchell was asked to make some expression on the proposition, but he steadfastly refused. He was pressed by the correspondents for a statement, and finally he cleared up the situation by issuing the following bulletin:

"Appreciating the anxiety and impatience of the public and the mine workers for some authoritative statement from this office, I issue this bulletin to say that I was unalterably opposed to the acceptance of or acquiescence in the form of settlement proposed by the coal operators because it restricted the president of the United States in making selection of the men who were to determine the question involved in the coal strike. These restrictions having been removed and representation been given to organized labor as well as to organized capital, I am now prepared to give my personal approval to a settlement of the issues involved in this strike by the commission selected by the president and shall recommend to the executive officers of districts 1, 7 and 9 in their meeting that an immediate call be issued for a convention, whose authorization is necessary to declare the strike at an end.

"In the meantime I trust that the people of our country will be as patient as possible, as we are moving as rapidly as the interests of our people will permit."

When this was read to the arriving district leaders and groups of miners who came to headquarters to learn the news, general satisfaction was expressed that Mr. Mitchell was willing to accept the modified plan, and from that time on there was no doubt that the strike would be brought to a speedy close. It was not until after 2 o'clock that the thirty-seven members of the three district boards were called into session, which lasted two hours and fifteen minutes.

There was some opposition manifested in the meeting against certain features of the plan, but after a full discussion of the objectionable parts a unanimous vote was taken to recommend to the convention the acceptance of the proposition. As the conference was held behind closed doors and a bond of secrecy was placed on every man present the specific objections were not officially announced. These are the same executive boards which on May 8 last ordered the strike to begin, which action was approved in the face of Mr. Mitchell's opposition by the Hazleton convention a few days later. It is expected that some objections will be raised on the floor of the convention, but the officers are confident that the opposition will disappear when Mr. Mitchell explains all the features of the modified proposition to the delegates.

If the plans of the strike leaders are not disarranged, a general resumption of mining will take place about next Thursday. It is expected that the convention will last two days and that there will be an interval of one day from the time the convention adjourns until the time set for the men to go back to the mines. If the convention should be in session on Wednesday, it is probable that resumption would not take place until Friday.

There will not be enough work at first for all the strikers, as it is the intention of the companies not to dismiss the nonunion men who have stood by them [illegible] the strike. The organization [illegible] take care of such other men as are unable to find work. It is estimated that all the strikers will not find work until two or three months have elapsed. This is due to the conditions of the mines. Some of them are wholly or partially flooded, and others need repairing.

The coal companies, anticipating the ending of the strike next week, are busily engaged in preparing for resumption. Tens of thousands of coal cars are in the regions ready for loading, and extra efforts will be made in moving them to the large distributing centers once mining is resumed. It is estimated that more than 200 of the 350 collieries will be in operation by the end of next week and will produce enough coal to relieve the situation. An authority in coal mining said the coal companies as a result of the strike are 30,000,000 tons behind.

Miners Ready For Business.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 17.—Of the ninety-eight collieries operated by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, the Delaware and Hudson, the Temple, the Erie and the Ontario and Western companies, the five big "carriers" having headquarters here, only two, the Butler at Pittston and the Hallstead at Duryea, which were allowed to flood, cannot be reopened at once—that is, within a week from the time the strike is declared off. At forty-four of these places some work has been going on. At most of the others men to the number of forty in some instances have been underground for several weeks making repairs, cleaning up "falls" and cutting coal. The fact that there are only 10,000 nonunion men at work and that 10,000 of the striking miners have left the region or gone into other employment and will never return to the mines and the further fact that the collieries will be operated to their fullest capacity is certain to prevent any possibility of conflict arising between union and nonunion men because of the one crowding out the other.

Arbitrators Satisfactory.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 17.—The men selected to arbitrate and settle the anthracite coal strike are regarded as satisfactory by the local members of the miners and other labor organizations. Uriah Bellingham, acting president of the Pittsburg district of the United Mine Workers, said that the men are sufficiently removed from active interests in coal production and of such intelligence that the miners can safely rest their case on the judgment of the commissioners.

Lehigh Company Lost Money.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17.—The results of the operations of the Lehigh Coal company for the seven months show: Earnings and income, all sources, $10,807,031; expenses and taxes, $11,074,711; Snowshoe and Delano bond interest, $42,845; deficit, $310,525.

ISLAND SHAKEN AGAIN.

Terrific Eruption of La Soufriere Reported.

KINGSTOWN, St. Vincent., Oct. 17.—A terrific eruption of the Soufriere volcano commenced Wednesday night.

During the preceding day earth tremors apparently too slight to be considered important were experienced in the central and northern parts of the island.

At 8 o'clock at night there were indubitable indications of an eruption. Rumbling noises were heard. They increased until 9 o'clock, when the roaring volcanic giant belched out its deadly contents. This eruption was followed by a brief lull. Then from 10 o'clock until 4 o'clock in the morning the upheaval continued. The outbreak was accompanied by an incessant and confused cannonading. There were incandescent clouds, and sparkling matter was ejected. After 4 o'clock the disturbance gradually decreased, but the noise of the boiling caldron is still audible in the districts neighboring the volcano.

Both craters of the Soufriere were apparently active. They have been steaming all day long. Sand fell heavily everywhere from half past 1 until half past 2 in the morning. At southern points the sand is half an inch deep. The depth gradually increased toward the volcanic cone, where there were showers of large stones, pebbles and cinders.

Kingstown and other southern points of the island have not been damaged. Reports from the Windward district are awaited.

This eruption caused darkness at Bridgetown, island of Barbados, at 10 o'clock in the morning. There was a fall of volcanic dust there.

The sand ejected during this eruption has a stronger sulphurous odor than any previously thrown out. One square foot of sand of the depth it fell here weighs exactly one pound.

"Corbett" Too Much For Bernstein.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 17.—"Young Corbett," the champion featherweight pugilist of the world, was awarded the decision over Joe Bernstein of New York, "the Ghetto champion," before the Eureka Athletic club last night in Music hall. The men were to have boxed ten rounds to a decision at catch weights. Bernstein was disabled in the seventh round.

Chile Behind the Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—In regard to the character of vehicles in Chile Consul Mansfield, at Valparaiso, in a report to the state department says that they are primitive in design and crude in construction and finish. There are no large manufactories in Chile for the construction of vehicles, and two wheeled carts are almost exclusively used.

Chowfa In Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17.—Chowfa Maha Vajiravudh, crown prince of Siam, has arrived here and is the guest of William Potter, former minister to Italy. Accompanying the prince is his brother, Prince Chakrabongse, and their aids-de-camp, Colonel Phya Rajahvalloh, Captain Luang Sarasiddhi and Luangh Surayudh.

Wrecked on Newfoundland Coast.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 17.—The schooner Lilian has been driven ashore at Grates point and is a total wreck. One woman and two men lost their lives. The schooner Rosebud rescued the remainder of the Lilian's crew. The schooner Pretoria, with a crew of seven, is missing, and it is feared that she has foundered.

Fatal Powder Explosion.

LANDING, N. J., Oct. 17.—There was a fatal explosion at the Forcite Powder works here. William Sperry of Mount Arlington borough was blown to pieces. The explosion occurred in a frame structure near the building erected by the Forcite company for the use of Hudson Maxim in experimental work.

ARBITRATION BOARD

Six Named by President to Settle the Strike.

DATE FOR MEETING NOT YET FIXED.

One of the Members Chosen Closely Identified With Labor Organizations—General Satisfaction Expressed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The greatest satisfaction is expressed in official circles over the success of the negotiations for the settlement of the coal strike. The president himself feels deeply grateful for the outcome. He regards it as honorable to both sides, as securing justice to both sides and above all as averting a terrible calamity to the people.

It has not been determined yet when or where the commission will hold its sittings. It is stated at the White House that this will be one of the details to be worked out when a formal acceptance of the arbitration commission shall have been received from the miners.

Naturally it is assumed that the headquarters of the commission will be in Washington, but it is entirely likely that some at least of its proceedings will be held in New York and in the coal regions, probably at Wilkesbarre.

The report of the commission will be made to the president and by him will be communicated to the parties to the controversy and to the general public.

The following official statement announcing the close of the strike was issued at the temporary White House early yesterday morning.

After a conference with Mr. Mitchell and some further conference with representatives of the coal operators the president has appointed the members of the commission to inquire into, consider and pass upon all questions at issue between the operators and miners in the anthracite coal fields:

Brigadier General John M. Wilson, U. S. A. (retired, late chief of engineers, U. S. A.), Washington, as an officer of the engineer corps of either the military or naval service of the United States.

E. W. Parker, Washington, as an expert mining engineer. Mr. Parker is chief statistician of the coal division of the United States geological survey and the editor of the Engineering and Mining Journal of New York.

The Hon. George Gray, Wilmington, Del., as a judge of a United States court.

E. E. Clark of Cedar Rapids, Ia., grand chief of the Order of Railway Conductors, as a sociologist, the president assuming that for the purpose of such a commission the term sociologist means a man who has thought and studied deeply on social questions and has practically applied his knowledge.

Thomas H. Watkins of Scranton, Pa., as a man practically acquainted with the mining and selling of coal.

Bishop John L. Spalding of Peoria, Ill.

Carroll D. Wright has been appointed recorder of the commission.

It will be noticed that the names of the members as announced in the official statement given out at the White House follows to some extent the classification suggested in the proposition of the coal operators. It was thought all along if the miners should agree to the proposition of the operators as made to the president Monday night that the selection from the classification of a distinguished engineering officer of the army "or" navy would be restricted to the army, and General Wilson's name was the first suggested in that direction.

The only names seriously mentioned in connection with the proposition of the operators that an expert mining engineer be one of the members were Dr. David T. Day, chief of the division of mineral resources of the geological survey, and Mr. Parker, one of his assistants and perhaps the best authority on coal in the United States. It was known, however, that Dr. Day would not care to take the office and was urging Mr. Parker's selection.

It was generally expected that Colonel Wright would be connected with the commission on account of his long identification with labor matters and the complete confidence the president and his advisers as well as both miners and operators have in him. Two of the six members—viz, General Wilson and Mr. Parker—and the recorder, Commissioner of Labor Wright, live in this city, and they are ready to begin their labors at any time. The others, it is expected, will be able to come here without delay and promptly begin the labors of the commission.

Poor Crops In Norway.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Consul General Bordewich, at Christiania, in a report to the state department says that the Norwegian crops this year have been very poor, and a large amount of grain must be imported. It is estimated that the grain yield for the kingdom will be one-third less than the average, and seed grain must be supplied by the government to the farmers who have suffered the loss of their crops.

Banking Failure In New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Failure of the banking house of Gilman, Son & Co. of 62 Cedar street, this city, is announced. The liabilities, it is said, are less than $200,000, and it is added that no other New York concern will be affected. The business of Gilman, Son & Co. was largely in western farm mortgages. The house was founded in 1860 by Winthrop S. Gilman, who came from St. Louis and Alton, Ill.

THE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES.

Mayor Jenkins has been renominated by the Republicans and will, unless appearances are very deceptive, be re-elected to the position of Chief Executive of the city of Plainfield. There is a strong Republican majority to bank on and Mayor Jenkins' record of the past two years has been one which will rather win him friends than lose them. Therefore it is to be expected that he will be elected, a landslide to Democracy being the only thing to prevent.

During the two years of Dr. Jenkins' service as mayor, he has been a capable and efficient public officer and has undoubtedly followed a course which will meet with the approval of most of the people. While his services have been entirely unostentatious, he has met the requirements of the place promptly and with general satisfaction. There has been nothing startling in his methods but they have been conducted along common sense lines.

Another city official, who was renominated last evening and who is parctically assured of election, is City Treasurer William F. Arnold, cashier of the City National Bank. Under the care of Mr. Arnold the city's financial affairs have been kept in the best of shape. His accounts have been accurately kept and his reports have been models of simplicity and neatness. His business position makes him particularly qualified for the place. The Republicans have done well in selecting him for another term and it seems quite likely that he will receive a big majority at the coming election.

L. N. Lovell has had years of experience as a member of the Board of Education and is well acquainted with the city's educational needs. While his ideas may not be accepted by all, no one doubts for a moment his perfect sincerity in the course he has pursued in the board. E. M. Cave, who has been selected to fill the vacancy on that board left by the resignation of Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, is an esteemed citizen and a successful business man. He ought to make a good member of the School Board.

Failure to have returned Captain J. Frank Hubbard as a candidate for the Board of Freeholders was not within the bounds of possibility. He has been too faithful a public servant not to be kept there. His running mate, William A. Westphal, has also had some experience and worked well for the city.

While there is always the possibility of a landslide to the minority party, it is fairly safe to assume that the Republican ticket will be successful at the coming election. It is therefore all the more satisfactory to know that the men whom the Republicans have picked out for the city ticket are reputable citizens, every one, and capable of filling their official duties in a way satisfactory to the community. Most of them have already been tried and not found wanting. Politics, after all, play but a very minor part in municipal affairs. What are wanted are substantial business men who can run the city's affairs on practical business-like lines. If that is done, nobody cares much whether they are Republican or Democratic.

Tuesday evening will see the Democratic ticket named. It is to be hoped that the smaller party will be as successful in the election of its ticket. While its members have not had the opportunity to demonstrate their ability as public servants very often, there are some excellent men in that party and those of the highest standing should be nominated. It will only be by acknowledged superior qualifications that the Democrats can hope to win in the city election and a glimpse at the personnel of the Republican ticket shows how difficult a task it will be to find any candidates to excell these.

Westfield and Plainfield are to meet in the baseball diamond again before the season closes. This will be interesting news for the cranks who waded down in the rain to see the last attempts to bring about a meeting of the two teams. This time, however, if the weather is not auspicious, there will be no baseball game.

and Hezekiah Hand, who are serving as members of the city committee were re-nominated to serve in the coming term.

Before the meeting adjourned it was announced that the city convention will be held Tuesday evening at Democratic headquarters on East Second street.

FOURTH WARD.

The voters of the Fourth ward were called to order by John F. Casey, who was elected chairman. Lewis M. Stover was made secretary.

The following nominations were made: For councilman, L. M. Stover; constable, Charles A. Westerfield; justice of the peace, James J. Kane. John F. Casey, Michael Flynn, Frank Stover, Clarence Waldron, James Kane, James Muldowney, Ira G. Hurlburt and John Kinary were elected delegates to the city convention.

To Stop Here Hereafter.

To still further please the traveling public in this city, the New Jersey Central has arranged to have the Royal Blue Line limited train, passing through this city at 4:18 o'clock in the afternoon, stop to take on parlor car passengers for Wilmington or points south. This train has never stopped here before. The new arrangement went into effect this week.

A Good Chance.

Young men and boys have still an opportunity to take up the study of shorthand at the Y. M. C. A. Ability to write seventy-five words a minute and reproduce accurately after fifteen minutes at the typewriter guarantees a man a position.

is the general term used to describe pain in the head. It may be either symptomatic or idiopathic, the latter being generally chronic and due to specific bony lesion, usually in the cervical vertebrae.

A large class of the latter come under Osteopathic treatment, generally in a very bad condition after having suffered far beyond the power of drugs to cure. The form embraces many of the kinds generally described under one or other of the usual classifications.

Dorothy Dodd
TRADE MARK

That the "Dorothy Dodd" Shoe meets with the approval of the critical discriminating woman has been demonstrated beyond question for the short time it has been on sale at my store. The large number of women who have seen this shoe unite in their expressions of approval.

The "Dorothy Dodd" Shoe is the outcome of a twentieth century woman's thought. The ideas incorporated in this shoe are those evolved by the application of a keen trained feminine intelligence to the study of the requirements of women in the matter of footwear. That these ideas are correct has also been proved beyond question. Except a few styles which cost fifty cents extra, all "Dorothy Dodd" Boots are

DUNELLEN.

All who attended the musical given last evening by the members of F. R. Wynkoop's Sunday-school class in the Presbyterian church enjoyed a real musical treat. All of the performances were of a high order and excited much applause. The programme consisted of three selections by the Banjo, Mandolin and Guitar Club, recitations by Miss Evalina DuBois Benton, of Plainfield, the well-known elocutionist. A trio of zithers, mandolin and banjo, by Messrs. John, Fred and William VanEps, selections on the violin by James Wotten, and Miss Margaret VanArsdale, and vocal solos by Spencer Smith. Besides there were piano duets by Misses Day and Nelson and Neagle and Baldwin. There was a fair audience present and the profit will be considerable.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Methodist church, held a pumpkin pie sociable last evening at the home of Mrs. Geo. Schenck. A large number were present and a pleasant social time was enjoyed. Pumpkin pie was the recognized delicacy.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Edna Smalley, of East Orange and Everett Ward, of Newark. Both are well-known here as Miss Smalley is the niece of Mrs. L. B. Nelson and Mr. Ward resided here for some time.

Mrs. W. J. Nelson entertained out-of-town friends yesterday.

Josiah Maitland is confined to his home with an injured leg.

Mrs. J. Y. Rupell has been entertaining her brother.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Charles Hockey, the tailor, is doing night marshal duty in the borough. The recent burglaries at the latter place have awakened the borough residents and the need of some sort of protection has been agitated for some time. The Borough Council has appointed two night marshals for temporary duty and a number of the residents have hired Mr. Hockey. This brings the borough night police force up to three and the residents are resting easier at night than they have rested before in some time.

The annual east New Jersey Baptist Sunday-school convention will be held in the Baptist church on Tuesday of next week. The women of the church, who are the committee on arrangement, are preparing for a large attendance of delegates. These sessions will be held, Monday afternoon and evening. Prominent speakers will make addresses at each sesssion. The meeting gives promises of being a most successful one.

Wm. Martin, who has been at Muhlenberg Hospital for several weeks suffering from typhoid fever, is improving but it will be some time yet before he is able to leave the hospital.

The women of the Methodist church realized over $50 at their recent entertainment and cake sale in Excelsior Hall. The same has been turned into the church treasury.

Rev. G. M. Shott will lead the Friday evening prayer meeting in the Baptist church tonight.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., met and transacted routine business in its rooms last night.

Horace Hand, of Plainfield, visited friends in town Thursday evening.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The marriage of Miss tLettie Randolph, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Randolph, to Thomas Johnson, son of Samuel Johnson, took place last Friday evening at the home of the bride's parents. They will go to housekeeping in South Plainfield. Arthur Randolph, brother of the bride, was best man.

In honor of their sixtieth wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Dunham gave a party to their grandchildren, thirty in all, last evening. The house was prettily decorated with flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Dunham received a great many handsome presents. During the evening a sumptuous repast was served.

Little Lorena Harris, who was run over by a carriage Wednesday evening, was not as badly injured as at first thought. She was able to be out playing yesterday.

At its business meeting Thursday the Ladies' Aid Society voted to renovate some rooms in the parsonage with paint and paper.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

"Don't walk on your uppers" when John H Doane, of West Front street, has such good shoes at such reasonable prices. His stock is large and complete as to sizes.

Fowler's confections continue to be used, by all who have once tried them. They are made of the purest materials obtainable and are always sold at reasonable prices.

In arranging for any feestive occasion, the floral decorations must be considered. If so, Stanley, of North avenue, can do the work to your satisfaction and it won't cost a fortune.

Practical tile setting in all its branches is done by R. B. VanArsdale, of Central avenue. Consult with him if you desire anything in that line, as he cheerfuly furnishes estimates.

Snappy evenings are all the go at present—just the kind to make a fellow step lively. Ward off the autumn chill and look neat at the same time by getting into one of those top coats Werner is selling. Just the thing for chilly evenings.

Don't let your hair continue falling out with the foolish idea that it will stop of its own accord. Avoid premature baldness by using Reynolds petroleum hair tonic. T. S. Armstrong, of North and Park avenues, is the sole local agent.

Anybody can take your wheel apart and look it over without doing it any good, but it isn't every repairer that can fix it up like new. Nelson Van Winkle, of North avenue, is an expert bicycle man and guarantees satisfaction in all repair work.

During these cool October days nothing is more refreshing and bracing than a cup of good tea. P. G. DuBois, formerly with Vantine, carries the best teas and coffees at his store on West Front street. He also sells delicacies in great variety. New York prices prevail.

Without doubt Powlison & Jones have the largest stock of furniture outside of the Metropolitan stores. Their designs at present are the latest turned out by the best known concerns in the country. Buy now if you wish anything in the parlor and bedroom suit line, couches or tables.

This is a big week at Hill & Shupp's store for great bargains in fine underwear. A very attractive line is being shown at low prices. The dress goods' department is also offering the newest and best goods, while the housefurnishing department is always a source of profit to the buyer.

Great care must be taken in the selection of drugs, toilet articles and other things carried by druggists. If you trade with John Powers, of Somerset street, half this care is removed for he handles only the best goods and his prices are right. A feature is made of the best soda, both hot and cold.

Coming Some Day.

Many people are wondering what has become of the plans of the New Jersey Central for a baggage office at the new station. It was reported some time ago that the plans were completed and that work would be started soon. As yet nothing has been done, although the need is as great as ever with the increased traffic on the road.

No Trouble With Boxes.

The test of fire boxes Nos. 12, 25 and 32, by Chief Doane, yesterday, revealed the fact that they were in good condition and that the reason slip-ups were caused by other matters than defects in the mechanism. A number of other boxes that have not been used in some time will be gone over with a silent test.

Safe Arrival in China.

Major and Mrs. W. D. W. Miller, of LaGrande avenue, have received a letter from their daughter, Mrs. Harrison Wright, announcing the safe arrival of herself and husband in China. Within a short time they will reach their mission station in that country.

Third for Three.

At the regular meeting of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., to be held, this evening, three candidates will receive the third degree. Afterward an extra session of good and welfare will be held and arrangements will be completed for the lodge's trip to Newark, Monday evening.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Haney, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph

PROPOSALS.

Proposals for grading and macadamizing Prospect avenue, from Willow avenue to Riverside avenue, in the Township of Cranford; will be received at the township rooms, by the Township Committee, at 8 p. m., on the twenty-ninth day of October, 1902.

The Township Committee reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and may award the contract as soon after the above named date as they may elect.

Each bid must be accompanied by a bidder's bond for the sum of one thousand dollars.

The work to be done, as nearly as can be estimated in advance, is as follows:
750 cubic yards of excavation.
1,791 square yards of macadam, 6 inches thick.
896 square yards of macadam, 4 inches thick.
3 manholes and flush tanks to be brought to grade.

Plans and specifications for the work may be seen at the office of the Township Engineer, 25 Dix Building, Elizabeth, N. J.

JACOB L. BAUER,
Township Engineer.

CARRIE NATION INVADES TEXAS.

She Is Thrown Into the Gutter and Driven Out of Town.

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 17.—Mrs. Carrie Nation has arrived here. She attempted to take charge of a saloon on Fifth street and Congress avenue and landed in the gutter as a result. Alderman Bill Davis, proprietor of the place, was present at the time, and the reformer immediately turned her attention to him, but before she had proceeded far in her abuse of saloon men and their occupation Alderman Davis asked the visitor who she was and commanded her to leave the place. "I am Carrie Nation, sir," she said, "and was never known to leave a saloon hell until I get good and ready."

"I am sorry, Carrie," replied the proprietor, "but it makes no difference who you are. One of us has got to go out."

Mr. Davis stepped from behind the bar, and upon Mrs. Nation's second refusal to vacate he caught her by the back of the neck and one arm and threw her bodily into the street, and her satchel immediately followed her.

After being ejected Mrs. Nation spoke on the sidewalk until the crowd was dispersed by the police. She was forced to take the train out of town for her next speaking place.

ONE SIDED REGISTRATION.

Federal Party In Porto Rico Shut Out—Many Scenes of Disorder.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Oct. 17.—The election registrations have been a complete farce. The Federals were shut out in a majority of the precincts of the island, due to an order of the executive council placing a majority of Republicans on each board. At Vieques eight insular policemen guarded the booth, no Federals were admitted, and none registered.

In many towns there have been no Federal registrations, and in consequence in several towns, in addition to Cayey, the Federals formally retired from the elections. In order to remedy this the supervisor of elections allowed an extra registration day, but with the same result.

Although instructions were wired to all the precincts to protect the rights of the Federals, they were uniformly disregarded. Wherever Federals attempted to register there was more or less disorder.

Shooting affairs occurred at Aguadilla, Corozal, Vieques and Mayaguez. Some persons were wounded, but there were no fatalities. Wholesale arrests of Federals were made, and thousands of protests and charges have been filed.

Boston Democrats at Odds.

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—No nomination for congress was made by the Ninth district Democratic convention yesterday afternoon, and the proceedings wound up in hurlyburly fashion, physical encounters among the delegates alone being stopped by the energy of the police. As the time for filing the convention nomination expired at 5 o'clock the convention will not reconvene, and the Democrats must resort to nomination papers to be filed before 5 p. m. today. The failure to nominate was not unexpected. Five times the convention sat, and in a total of forty-seven ballots taken the vote of 158 delegates for the three candidates scarcely varied from the start.

Cuba Will Approve Treaty.

HAVANA, Oct. 17.—Business men who have been called in to consult with President Palma on the proposed Cuban-American commercial treaty feel assured that the cabinet will approve the proposition of the United States and that it will be sent to congress within a few days for adoption. There is some fear that the radical element in congress will object to approving any commercial treaty without first settling the question of coaling stations and without being informed clearly of the intentions of the United States with regard to the enforcement of the Platt amendment.

Thousands For Missions.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 17.—Simon Yandes, who within the last half year has given $65,000 to the board of foreign missions of the Presbyterian church and $10,000 to the Presbyterian board of home missions to be used in Indiana, has just forwarded a subscription of $12,000 to the Presbyterian national home mission board at New York. This makes a total of $87,000 which he has given to Presbyterian missions during the summer and fall.

The Battle Renewed.

CARACAS, Oct. 17.—The battle near La Victoria has started again. According to government reports received here the revolutionists are said to be losing the positions they gained at Cuji, and this notwithstanding the fact that the government is short of ammunition. General Matos is reported to be at Villa de Cura with 1,500 men. It is believed the government will obtain ammunition from Caracas.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Newark, N. J., had a one hundred thousand dollar fire.

The cholera epidemic in Palestine was reported to be spreading rapidly.

M. Firmin and other leaders of the Haitian rebellion have fled from the country.

A Norwegian bark and a British steamer were wrecked by a gale on the British coast.

Eleven barges, containing 150,000 bushels of bituminous coal, were sunk in the Ohio river.

Late reports are that the September typhoon killed thousands in the northern part of Japan.

The United States court in San Francisco temporarily enjoined the formation of the contemplated salt trust.

New Woman Gleanings

THE saddest, most tragic of cable messages was flashed under the sea across from Europe to American newspapers recently. It was that the magnificent Sarah Bernhardt is so appalled at the thought of growing old that her friends watch her lest she attempt suicide. The thought that she must age, grow inactive physically, become shriveled and hideous looking, no longer able to enjoy the histrionic triumphs beyond compare that have been hers for a generation, never came to her before. Now it has overwhelmed her, and who can blame her? Last year, when she was here in America, she said of herself, "I look young because I am young." And she did look young. Is it possible that now she has suddenly lost her grip and given up to old age? If so, then this great woman will grow old rapidly. A determined keeping young in the mind and active in the body will stave off decay certainly twenty years. Old age! It is the most awful fact of human existence, the one fact to which mankind cannot reconcile itself and never has done so. But must it? Does not this instinctive horror itself show that decrepitude and senility are not absolutely necessary? There is not a seeming evil pertaining to human existence that cannot be remedied. I believe the time is coming when the race will know how to keep their bodies strong and sightly, their mental powers undimmed, so long as they live. Mankind has already solved harder problems than that. Scientists seem today very near the secret of life and its renewal. Does not this hint of a time when they will be able to replace cell by cell, old bones and muscle with new ones and to infiltrate the shrunken arteries of age with the fiery, rich, red blood of youth? I believe it does. Meantime keep young in dress, in expression and in physical activity. Don't be shoved into your grave before you are dead.

Your body is an animal over which you have or ought to have control. When the weather is a little chilly and you say you are just frozen to death, your body acts automatically and sympathetically on that statement. Next time the temperature is a little chilly your body recalls what you said before and begins to shiver as though it were desperately cold. Again, when you say you are roasted to death your body thinks you mean it and does its best to live up to your declaration. Consequently when again the day is rather unusually warm the body will think itself uncomfortably hot and vex you accordingly. Now, the fact is you were not anywhere near being either frozen or roasted, but your statement has its effect on your body. If you must say anything concerning your physical sensations, which is doubtful, just temperately tell the truth and let it go.

The women who manage the benevolent organization known as the Ladies of the Maccabees of the World are very capable in business transactions. The society was started ten years ago and since then has disbursed $2,000,000 in benefits. The headquarters are at Port Huron, Mich. The organization publishes a monthly magazine. Two of its officers, Mrs. Lillian Hollister, supreme commander, and Miss Bina M. West, supreme record keeper and editor of the monthly, receive each a salary of $4,500.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

ARMY PROUD OF HIM.

Gen. MacArthur Is a Fine Type of the American Soldier.

He Is Suave, Courteous and Has Deep Insight Into Human Nature—Enlisted Forty Years Ago, a Boy of Seventeen.

Maj. Gen. Arthur MacArthur, who is at present in command of the department of the east, the most important military station in the United States, has risen from the ranks, literally. He is at present stationed at Governor's island, in New York harbor, and has command of 16,000 infantrymen. Gen. MacArthur will remain in command of the department of the east until the arrival of Gen. Chaffee, who has been ordered home from the Philippines, and will come home late in the fall. After that Gen. Chaffee will assume command at Governor's island and Gen. MacArthur will return to Chicago and resume command of the department of the lakes.

Gen. MacArthur is not a graduate of any military academy nor has he ever received any instruction in warfare beyond what he has received on the battlefield, but he has proved himself a capable and even a great general since the opportunity was offered in the war in the Philippines.

At 17 years of age young MacArthur went into the civil war. He enlisted in the Twenty-fourth Wisconsin regiment, and although but a beardless youth, with no military experience whatever, he was at once made regimental adjutant, with the rank of first lieutenant. His regiment took part in many of the important engagements of the civil war and when he was but 19 years old he was made a major. Before he was 20 he was breveted colonel and as a colonel served the remainder of the war. When the war was over and he was mustered out he immediately joined the regular army. That was in 1866. He loved army life and decided to remain in the service.

When the Spanish-American war opened MacArthur was immediately made a brigadier general of volunteers and sent to Manila with the first detachment of troops dispatched there. His work immediately attracted attention and he was made major general in the line. He is the youngest major general the United states army ever had, which is something of a distinction. It is more than probable that he will some day be the commander of the armies of the United States, his age being in his favor.

GEN. ARTHUR M'ARTHUR.
(At Present in Command of the Department of the East.)

Gen. MacArthur was made governor general of the Philippines and his administration was clean, vigorous and eventful.

His grasp of affairs in the Philippines was the result of an intelligence beyond the scope of most men. It has shown us that the modern soldier must succeed in other ways beside those required of him in action. While his attitude as commander of the occupying army at Manila demanded that he should regard the Filipinos with suspicion, he was always alert to discover the human motives of the individual. Human nature is not at its best held up at the muzzle of a loaded gun, and Gen. MacArthur was intelligent enough to recognize that the native Filipino required teaching more than shooting. Coercion is better than absolute subjugation.

The faculties that helped him most in his policy at Manila were the scholarly ones. He is a fine historian, and there is nothing ripens judgment so safely as a knowledge of the world's history. It is a sure index of national evolution, in which racial motives can be traced, and if expansion is the will of the people force of arms alone is but a shock that subdues temporarily.

Gen. MacArthur is a diplomat. The gift of reasonableness is his. He has, beyond the harmonic poise that is required in the service, the instincts of a gentleman. We all know what that quality involves, the relationships it can establish, the dignity it entails and exacts. The training of an army man is intended to develop the best that is in him. Sometimes it does, and sometimes it does not. There are all kinds, all sorts and conditions of men in every service, but the best executive quality in a man is integrity of purpose toward his fellow man, white or black, and that quality is distinctively Gen. MacArthur's.

STORY OF A MODERN RUTH.

Remarkable Feats Performed by a Pennsylvania Girl Working as a Farm Hand.

The Ruth of biblical fame and commendation has a most admirable counterpart in eastern Pennsylvania, her home being at Myerstown. This modern daughter of Naomi is named Mary Swanger and she can perform not only all the duties of the house, but she has an unconquerable delight in working in the harvest field and performing other labors which belong properly to farm hands, reports an eastern exchange.

Miss Swanger is visiting at the home of Samuel Phillips, the proprietor of a large stock farm near Lebanon. It is a frequent sight to see her assisting in the harvest field and doing other manual labor about the place. Miss Swanger declares that she does the work, not from necessity, but from choice. She believes that all women should do outdoor work of this character for their own physical development, and that if they did, the American women would be stronger and happier.

Suiting her belief to action, Miss Swanger has performed two feats which the neighbors consider marvelous. One of these was to shovel 1,500 bushels of corn into a sheller with an interval of but 15 minutes for rest. The other was to unload 15 wagon loads of grain in the sheaf and pitch it into the loft of Mr. Phillips' barn. Miss Swanger is a highly educated young woman, and her feats are the talk of the neighborhood.

REFLECTION ON THE JUDGE.

How an Ulta Pious Lawyer Drew Upon Himself the Wrath of Justice Gray.

Justice Gray, of the United States supreme court, who has just retired, had a long experience on the bench before going to Washington. Many years ago, when he was a member of the supreme court of Massachusetts, relates a Washington exchange, he had an amusing experience with a certain Boston lawyer, an exceedingly pious man with a taste for evangelization, who had his letterheads printed with a verse from Scripture in large type following the name and address. On one occasion, having to make an ex-parte preliminary argument before Justice Gray in chambers, in which it would be necessary to discuss certain parts of his client's case which he desired not to make generally public until the trial, he wrote the judge a note asking that he be allowed an opportunity to speak to him in private. He was somewhat chagrined when his note came back to him with a scrawl across the bottom: "Request denied, with a suggestion from the court that counsel base future petitions on a more appropriate citation."

For a moment he could not make out the meaning of this, as he was not aware that he had quoted any law, but glancing up the page he discovered that he had written his page on a letterhead bearing this text:

"Ye are bought with a price."

NEVER TRUST A HORSE.

Conclusion of a Man Who Has Trained and Studied the Animals for Years.

I have spent much of a long life in the observation of horses. I have reared them, broken them, trained them, ridden them, and driven them in every form from the plow to the four-in-hand. The result of these years of study is summed up in one sentence, says a writer in Harper's Weekly. I believe the horse to be part maniac and part idiot. Every horse at some time in his life develops into a homicadal maniac. I believe any man who trusts himself or his family to the power of a horse, stronger than himself, to be lacking in common sense and wholly devoid of ordinary prudence. I have driven one commonplace horse every other day for six years over the same road, and then had him go crazy and try to kill himself and me because a leaf fluttered down in front of him. I have known scores of horses, apparently creatures of routine, go wild and insane over equally regular and recurring phenomena. No amount of observation can tell when the brute will break out. One mare took two generations of children to school over the same quiet road, and then in her nineteenth year went crazy because a rooster crowed alongside the road. She killed two of the children. If any man can tell me of one good reason why man should trust a horse I should be glad to know.

TO RAISE COTTON IN EGYPT.

British Spinners Hope to Make Themselves Independent of United States Supply.

The British Cotton Growing association, which, with the hearty cooperation of the colonial secretary, Joseph Chamberlain, is trying to render the British empire independent of the United States so far as raw cotton is concerned, is now paying special attention to upper Egypt.

Maj. Count Gleichen, secretary of the sirdar of the Egyptian forces, Maj. Gen. Wingate, addressing the association at Manchester recently, said the experiments now concluded on the banks of the Nile show the quality of the cotton grown there to be the equal of any in the world.

There are available 15,000,000 acres of irrigated land, and the only difficulty is the labor supply, the dervishes having depopulated the Soudan, but the completion of the Suakim-Berber railroad is expected to solve the problem, besides furnishing an outlet for the crop.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $500 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods. If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

TRIPLE MURDER.

Enraged Man Kills Wife's Parents and His Only Child.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich., Oct. 17.—As the bloody sequel of a divorce suit Archie Woodin, twenty-three years old, is under arrest here, charged with a triple murder, and this community was shocked by a bloody tragedy in which Mrs. Woodin's parents and the prisoner's eighteen-month-old daughter were shot and killed. Woodin was overpowered just as he was about to turn the weapon upon himself.

He visited the courthouse yesterday morning about 9 o'clock and looked over the papers in a suit for divorce which his wife instituted Oct. 10. From there he went directly to Isbell's hardware store, where he purchased a revolver. There was no interruption in his career of crime from the moment his hands let go of the legal papers in the courthouse until his victims lay dead in two farmhouses six miles apart. Having secured the weapon, he first rode his wheel to the Gulick farm, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gulick, parents of Mrs. Woodin, being the first victims. Mr. Gulick was shot twice, once above the heart and once in the right side, and was instantly killed. Woodin then turned upon his mother-in-law, who was sitting in a rocking chair, and shot her four times, killing her. A fourteen-year-old daughter came in at the sound of the first shots and, seeing the blood on her mother's neck, ran to the neighbors and gave the alarm.

The murderer then dashed madly to his mother's home, six miles away. He entered the house as though nothing unusual had happened and, picking up his little girl, carried her into an empty room. In a moment a shot rang out. Farm hands rushed in just in time to prevent Woodin from shooting himself.

Woodin's wife was Miss Anna M. Gulick, and they were married March 25, 1900. Woodin was a soldier in the Cuban war. At the jail he refuses to talk except to express regret that he failed to kill himself. He was laboring under the impression that his wife's parents had caused the divorce proceedings, though his wife's bill of complaint charged personal violence.

The World's Coal Production.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The United States geological survey estimates the world's production of coal in 1901 at 866,165,540 short tons. The three great coal producing countries of the world are the United States, Great Britain and Germany. Austria-Hungary comes fourth, France is fifth, Belgium sixth and Russia seventh. The last country, notwithstanding its vast area, produces only about 6 per cent as much coal as the United States. Prior to 1899 Great Britain led among the world's coal producers, but during 1899, 1900 and 1901 the United States has made such remarkable increases in coal production, due principally to the unprecedented activity in the iron and steel and in other metal trades, that it now stands far in the lead of all competitors, with a production in 1901 exceeding that of Great Britain by 47,965,938 short tons, or 19 per cent.

The Olympia Sails For New York.

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—The United States cruiser Olympia, Captain Henry W. Lyon, U. S. N., commanding, which is now the flagship of Rear Admiral Coghlan, has left the navy yard for New York. When she leaves the New York yard, it will be probably to sail for the West Indies.

ISLANDERS PROTEST

St. Vincent Sufferers Make Grave Charges.

SUPPLIES ROTTING; PEOPLE STARVING.

Compulsory Emigration Scheme Is Roundly Denounced—Removal of Officials Demanded by Secretary Chamberlain.

KINGSTOWN, St. Vincent, Oct. 17.—The public meeting held here to discuss alleged misgovernment and maladministration of relief funds was both enthusiastic and orderly. Thousands of persons of all classes, including Carib Indians and other sufferers from the recent volcanic eruptions, were present. The Rev. W. Newlands occupied the chair. The following resolutions, moved by the editor of the Sentry, seconded by the Rev. Darrell and supported by Conrad Simmons and others, including laborers, was unanimously carried:

"Resolved, That this meeting protests against the compulsory emigration scheme contained in the governor's minute to the administration as a monstrous violation of the rights and liberties of these loyal subjects of King Edward, as an inequitable attempt to deprive them of their rightful share in help from the relief fund, thereby frustrating the intentions of the generous contributors of this fund. This meeting flatly contradicts the governor's statement—namely, that the government cannot find homes for these people. The government is holding in trust for these people a very large sum of money, etc., sufficient not only to acquire the lands necessary, but to assist in restoring the industries of the colony; and,

"Resolved, That this meeting hereby calls upon the imperial secretary of state for the colonies, Joseph Chamberlain, to intervene between these people and the obstinate, cruel and arbitrary policy of the governor of the islands and to direct that the sufferers be located in their own colony and homes without further delay."

The meeting further appealed to the colonial secretary to relieve Sir Robert Llewellyn of the government of this colony, to send a commission to replace A. M. Ashmore, government secretary at Demerara, and to appoint a competent administrator to deal direct with the imperial colonial office.

It is a matter of public notoriety that while many of these people have been starving large quantities of the supplies contributed by the American government for relief have been gradually shipped from the colonies and other supplies lie rotting in storerooms.

Boer Generals In Berlin.

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—The Boer generals have arrived in this city from Paris and were welcomed by Herr Lueckhoff, president of the reception committee. They were driven to the Hotel of the Four Seasons, where they were received with great enthusiasm. Herr Trojan, editor of Kladderadatsch, greeted them by reading a sonnet. In his reply to the editor General Botha emphasized the nonpolitical character of the mission of the Boers, the only purpose of which, he said, was to alleviate the unspeakable misery of their people. The generals responded to the calls of the immense crowds in front of the hotel by appearing on the balcony of the building and each addressing a few words to the people.

Troops Still Guard Trolley Line.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Oct. 17.—The strike situation on the Hudson Valley railway remains substantially unchanged, and the Second regiment, Lieutenant Colonel Lester, is still on strike duty to meet any possible emergency in all of the larger villages on the line of the road. Cars are being operated as usual, and there have been no sensational incidents. The railway company has signified its willingness to reinstate those ex-employees who have not been mixed up in any of the riotous demonstrations and who at once apply for their former positions.

A Monopoly on Glass Sands.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 17.—The Pennsylvania Glass Sand company (the combine) has purchased the plant and property of the Hancock White Sand company of Hancock, W. Va., for $100,000, thus securing a practical monopoly of sands used in the manufacture of glass. The combine has notified the glass manufacturers that there will be no change in the prices of their sands, except that all buyers, big and little, will have to pay the same rate per ton.

No Trace of Missing Men.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 17.—J. C. Gilchrist, owner of the wrecked steamer C. B. Lockwood, has received a telephone message from Ashtabula stating that the yawlboat which put off from the steamer when it was sinking Monday evening has been found, bottom up, in the lake. There was no trace of the ten men who left in the boat, and it is believed they were drowned.

Dan Patch Paced Well.

DAVENPORT, Ia., Oct. 17.—Dan Patch paced a remarkable mile on the Davenport mile track, reducing the track record to 2:01 flat on his first attempt. The weather was clear, but with a stiff breeze blowing, and the track, being soft from heavy rain, was at least two seconds slow.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Announcement has just been made that the Hope-Scotch Plains baseball game, scheduled to be played on Hope Common tomorrow afternoon, has been called off so as not to conflict with the Plainfield Consolidated-Westfield game at Westfield tomorrow. The game will start at 3 o'clock sharp.

With but two exceptions, the Consolidated team, which will go up again Westfield tomorrow afternoon, will be composed of the same players which participated in the other games. One exception is Barnes, of the Y. M. C. A. nine, who will take Franklin's place in the field. Manager MacLaughlin announces the batting order as follows: Taylor, cf; Lederer, lf; Bolsterli, ss; Martin, 2b; Barnes, c; Montross and MacLaughlin, p; Allen, c; Cooney, 3b; Egan, 1b.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

The I. C. T. Club football team will journey to Roselle tomorrow afternoon, to play the eleven at that place. The game will commence at 3:30.

The Orange Field Club eleven will play St. Mary's team, on Orange oval tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. A close game is promised as both teams are in excellent shape. Joseph will be tried at full back for the O. F. C. and Smith will be put in left half.

GOLF.

Frank O. Reinhart and J. Whitney Baker, two young men from this city at Princeton University, have been selected as members of the Princeton golf team to represent the university in the intercollegiate golf tourney to be played on the course of the Morris County Golf Club, October 21-25.

TENNIS.

Provided the weather is favorable the play at tennis in the open tournament and for the club championship will be held on the courts of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

FREE MEDICAL ATTENDANCE.

Given to Residents of Stirling by Congressional Nominee Flanagan.

Residents of Stirling are receiving free medical attendance and dispensary service, where their means do not permit them paying, through the generosity of Hon. DeWitt C. Flanagan, congressional nominee from the Fifth district. On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons from 12 until 2 o'clock a skilled physician holds office in a convenient place and all who apply are treated and medicine is given gratis.

HIGH SALARIED ARTISTS.

Such Are the Men Who Compose Duss' Famous Band.

There are several bands traveling about the country, but the Duss organization, due in this city at the Casino, Thursday afternoon, October 23, is said to be the largest and most expensive gathering of musicians. Usually a touring band consists of twenty-five or thirty persons, but Duss is accompanied by no less than sixty picked musicians, among them the choicest instrumental soloists of the Metropolitan Opera House of New York. The ordinary traveling bandman is paid thirty dollars a week and a musician receiving forty or fifty dollars a week is considered a special artist. Duss pays his most insignificant players fifty dollars a week, and his special-piece men—for instance the Reiter Brothers who play the French horn and Sigmund Bernstein who performs on the chimes and kettle drums—receive as high as ninety and one hundred dollars a week. Duss and his band cannot, therefore, be classed with the ordinary traveling character. He is not a professional showman, nor a military subject, and he does not make a business of traveling about the country. His present tour is merely a little trip of four weeks and at its completion Duss may never again lead his band out of New York City, where he has played steadily for one hundred and twenty-eight nights the present season and where he is engaged to play all next summer.

BRIDGE ON FIRE.

Sparks From Locomotive Started Blaze That Threated Trouble.

Sparks from a passing locomotive set fire to the Berckman street railroad bridge, late last night. The small blaze soon assumed dangerous proportions and at 12:30 when discovered by Roundsman Flynn threatened the entire structrue. He summoned the fire department from box No. 63.

On the arrival of the apparatus the chemical engine only was used and soon had the flames put out. The woodwork of one track was entirely consumed.

WILL KEEP AWAY.

John Peterson Promised Not to Trouble His Wife Again.

Fear of bodily injury caused Mrs. John Peterson to have her husband arraigned in the city court, this morning. She related a woeful story of cruelty toward her practiced by John and asked City Judge Runyon to make him remain away from her and her premises as he threatened to kill her nearly every time they met. Peterson readily acquiesed not to molest her in the future and sentence was suspended.

Another Woman Physician.

Plainfield has another woman physician, making three. Dr. Flora Phelps, who has located at 10 Grove street, was a member of the staff of women's and children's diseases of the University of Michigan Hospital.

Will Tell of His Work.

Rev. Geo. B. Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, has returned to the city and will give an account of the special work which he did in West Virginia at the meeting at the church this evening.

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. Its attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquifies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures cough, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. F. S. McMahon, Hampton, Ga.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." L. stand for the best interests of the people.

Mr. Swackhamer has represented his party in several campaigns as a political speaker, and has always commanded the utmost enthusiasm and applause. He has many friends throughout the county and it is believed he will prove a strong candidate in the canvas. He is descended from a long line of lawyers and legislators, who have been strong advocates of the principles of Democracy. In 1899, he overcame the normal Republican majority and was elected to the Common Council of the borough of North Plainfield, being the only Democrat on the ticket who succeeded. He has frequently taken the platform as a debater upon moral, social and educational questions. The law firm of which Mr. Swackhamer is the junior member, is intrusted with large interests, and enjoys a high reputation among the members of the bar. He resides with his family in the borough of North Plainfield.

BACK FROM WAR.

Lieutenant-Colonel Anderson, of U. S. Cavalry, Returns to His Home in Somerset County.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Basking Ridge, Oct. 17—Lieutenant-Colonel George S. Anderson, of the Sixth United States Cavalry, returned this week to his mother's home in Main street, this place. He had been stationed for three years at Manila. For several months prior to his return he had been critically ill in a Manila hospital with dengue, a disease prevalent in the Philippines. He succeeded in recovering sufficiently from the malady to be able to make the return voyage to San Francisco, and after remaining for two weeks in a hospital at that city he fully recovered his health. He obtained a leave of absence to visit his aged mother at this village.

Colonel Anderson comes from a very old and prominent family of Somerset county. His father was the late Law Judge John H. Anderson.

Colonel Anderson is a graduate of West Point in the class of 1871. Prominent among his classmates was Fred Grant, son of General U. S. Grant.

Since his graduation he has held several different posts. For several years he was stationed as superintendent at Yellowstone Park. Colonel Anderson is well and favorably known throughout this section.

DRILLED IN STREET.

As Company K Was Without a Home, Col. Collins Didn't Come.

Colonel Collins did not attend the drill of Company K, Wednesday evening, owing to the fact that the boys were without a home for the time being. As a fair was being held in Saengerbund Hall, the drill was held on the streets in that neighborhood, the full moon making it almost as light as day. The company will be back in the hall next week when the Colonel is expected to attend the drill.

At the meeting of the company, last evening, one application was received and one new member was elected to the company.

HACKMEN IN COURT.

Four Arraigned for Leaving Horses' Heads, But Explained.

City Judge Runyon suspended sentence, this morning, on four hackmen who were arraigned for violating the ordinance which governs them at the North Avenue station. The men were John Gill, John Kelley, Harry Huff and Frank Day. They were absent from their horses' heads but explained that it was necessary to leave them in order to get around some private carriages.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Judge Van Syckel in the Union County Circuit Court made an onslaught on the lawyers for their failure to have cases ready for him to try the other day. He called off the entire calendar and not a lawyer was ready to go to trial. Then Justice Van Syckel got vexed.

"Gentlemen," he sternly remarked, "I am not here to idle my time away in this manner. I am here for business. I will excuse you this time, but you are hereby warned if this thing happens again I will put off all cases for the term."

The assembled lawyers looked rather sheepish over this rebuke from his honor.

LITERARY.

The J. S. Ogilvie Publishing Company, of New York, announces for immediate publication a novel entitled "The Fortunes of The Van der Bergs," by Adele Weber, who is well known to concert audiences from Maine to California. The Van der Bergs are a young couple who seek their fortunes in Colorado, and there are several chapters of ranch and mining camp experiences. Other scenes are laid in the east, and in these, four cornetists appear, whom readers will readily recognize as the Park Sisters. The book is handsomely illustrated, and contains an excellent half-tone illustration of the Park Sisters.

PERSONAL.

Charles E. Vail, the Park avenue jeweler, is detained at his home by illness.

THE MAN WHO WILL MAKE FOWLER HUSTLE

Sketch of the Democratic Candidate for Congress in the New Fifth District.

ABOUT MAN HIMSELF

DEWITT C. FLANAGAN IS VERY LITTLE KNOWN IN PLAINFIELD.

Sketch of Flanagan and His Personality as Given by Newark's Town Talk—Some Interesting Facts About Him.

While Congressman Charles N. Fowler is well-known in Plainfield, his Democratic rival for the seat in Congress from the Fifth district, Congressman DeWitt C. Flanagan, is practically a stranger here. It is only lately that most Plainfielders had any idea such a man existed and now they have had no opportunity of meeting him personally. He will appear here some day next week at a Democratic mass meeting. Meanwhile a picture and sketch of him would not be out of place.

Newark's Town Talk publishes a well-written sketch of the man and his career which is published herewith:

Hon. DeWitt Clinton Flanagan is a young man, not more than thirty-six years of age. He is the scion of an old and distinguished New York family, and was born in that city. His ancestry was contemporaneous with the great Governor DeWitt Clinton, and it was in his honor that the subject of this sketch was named. The parents of the young man had a summer home at Morristown, and in that beautiful inland city, that has never quite disassociated itself from its colonial prominence, much of his time as boy and man has been spent. There he met the charming woman whom he married seven or eight years ago, from which time his legal residence dates.

Personally, Mr. Flanagan is a man who would attract attention anywhere. He is more than six feet tall, spare in build, yet withal there is strength and aggressiveness in his make-up. To understand something of the man's popularity in a district in which he was practically a stranger a month ago, one must get close to the man himself. There is a singular charm in his personality that stays with you. He is a good listener, frank and open in conversation, and you realize, without being burdened by the fact, that your companion is a man with a grasp on affairs and with strong and mature convictions. There is a sustained dignity about the man that seems to be a part of his cultured personality. In the social and business circles in which he moves no man is more highly esteemed for real worth, and he commands the respect and good-will of men and women of all classes.

While he mixes freely and familiarly with all the people of the community in which he lives, it probably never occurred to him to address his most intimate friend by his first name; certainly it never occurred to any of them to speak to or of him as anything but Mr. Flanagan. The colored boot-black will look up from his work to say to his customer, "There goes Mr. Flanagan; splendid he is, too." The millionarie commuter will lean out of his carriage to pass the compliments of the morning with the tall, fresh-faced young man who could match his wealth with theirs, and the local merchants and small tradesman will turn to accept with pleasure the greeting of the unostentatious man who, if he is conscious of his promi-

PLAN OF STUDENT CONTROL

SELF GOVERNMENT IN OPERATION AT PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL.

Chief Responsibility Rests With Senate Which Has Just Been Chosen by Students.

The system of student government which has been in use at the Plainfiled High School for several years past has again been adopted for the coming year. The object of the system is to train the students to self-control and to exercise a good influence over their fellow-students.

The plan of government is one "of the students, for the students, and by the students" and gives each pupil a share in the discipline of the school. The school faculty no longer controls the order of the school, but the two student bodies, the Senate and the House of Tribunes, have sole charge of the school in this matter. The Senate, the higher body, consists of two members of the faculty and two members, a boy and a girl, chosen by ballot from each of the four classes of the High School proper. The Senate appoints two tribunes, a boy and a girl, for each of the six periods of the school day and these tribunes, under the supervision of the senators, control directly the order of the study hall. Both senators and tribunes must attain certain marks in their studies to fill their positions.

The whole plan of government is carried out with excellent system by the students themselves and these are urged from time to time to offer suggestions which may serve to remedy any weakness that may exist in the constitution. In brief, the constitution provides that "each and every student is to conduct himself or herself in good order, with courtesy, and in a gentlemanly or lady-like manner, with a view always to promoting the happiness and well being of fellow students, and to bring honor to the name of the Plainfield High School."

Miss Dorothy Waldo has been elected president of the Senate and the following senators have been elected for the first term of the school year: Miss Helen Moodey, 1903; Arthur Conant, 1903; Miss Jessie Maclay, 1904; Samuel Bogart, 1906; Miss Edith Jarvis, 1905; Francis Anderson, 1904; Harry Thompson, 1905; and Miss Ethel Murray, 1906.

The tribunes hold office for a term of two months and the following have been appointed by the Senate: Misses Mae Batchellor, Mary Griggs, Lillian Snodgrass, Antoinette Moodey, Florence Derby and Harriet Randall, and Van Wyck Brooks, Norman Hill, Harold Lavelle, Howard Craig, Frank Lock and George L. Babcock.

DEMOCRATIC MASS-MEETING.

Edward M. Shepard Will be the Principal Speaker.

The local Democrats are preparing for a rousing mass meeting in Reform Hall, Thursday evening, when speakers of more than local interest will appear. Among those who are slated to make addresses are Edward M. Shepard, one of New York's most noted lawyers and who was defeated for mayor of the Metropolis by Seth Low in the last campaign and Hon. John Tennant, of Jersey City, known in every part of the State. Other orators well-known to Plainfielders will also be heard.

WRECKED HIS CELL.

So "Addie" McCann Was Given Forty Days Straight.

For the second time within a week Charles alias "Addie" McCann was arraigned before City Judge Runyon, this morning, on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct preferred by Patrolman Vanderweg. Added to it was an additional complaint from Chief Kiely that McCann had wrecked his cell and had also spent the night in cursing the station house officers. McCann had no defense to make and was given forty days straight in the county jail.

Reside in Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Albert Watts, who were married at Pluckemin Thursday evening, returned today from their wedding trip to Philadelphia, and have taken up their residence at 1000 Flatbush avenue, Brooklyn, where the groom has a completely furnished home.

FLANAGAN READY TO INVADE THIS COUNTY

Will Conduct a Week's Active Campaign in the Enemy's Country.

BEGINS AT ELIZABETH

A BIG MASS-MEETING WILL BE HELD THERE MONDAY EVENING.

Former Governor David B. Hill, of New York, Will be the Chief Speaker—Congressman Flanagan Appears Here Thursday.

Congressman DeWitt C. Flannagan, who is the choice of the Democratic party to run against Congressman Charles N. Fowler in the new Fifth Congressional district, is ready to open an active campaign in the enemies' country, Union county, next week. Beginning with Monday, he will do some active campaigning through this county and the county committee has made extensive preparations in his behalf.

It is intended to have the week open with a blaze of glory Monday evening when the first of the series of meetings will be held in Elizabeth. Jacob's Theatre has been engaged for the occasion but the greatest attraction is expected to be Former Governor David B. Hill, of New York, who has promised to be there on that occasion and deliver the address of the evening. Edward M. Shepard, of Brooklyn, who ran for mayor of Greater New York, may also be on hand.

While Congressman Flanagan is not much of an orator, he is booked for a speech on that occasion and may be expected to say something at each of the meeings which have been arranged for the week. He will be accompanied by Robert D. Foote, of Morristown, his campaign manager.

Preceding Monday night's meeting, there will be something of an open-air demonstration and some of the most ardent enthusiasts will do a little parading. Delegations from other places in the county are expected to participate in this part of the evening's excitement.

On the second night, Congressman Flanagan and his party will appear in Rahway where a demonstration of some kind will be arranged and a welcome given to the candidate. Wednesday night, he will speak at the other side of the county, Summit, where the local Democrats say an unusually large meeting will be held. Then he comes to Plainfield Thursday night for a rally at Democratic headquarters here. Full details of this meeting have not yet been announced by the local leaders. From here, the Democratic candidate goes to Westfield where he will be received Friday evening and will then wind up the week Saturday evening with a demonstration at Cranford.

Another meeting has been arranged in Elizabeth for the Monday following at which it is likely Congressman Flanagan will lend his presence and probably say a few words. His campaign will then be directed toward other parts of the Fifth district.

DUSS' OWN MUSIC.

Not Only Leads a Great Band, But Composes Numbers for It.

Besides being America's greatest bandmaster, according to the eastern critics, Duss, who is to be seen and heard at the Casino, Thursday afternoon, October 23, is a composer of no mean merit. His musical spirit runs mostly toward inspiring patriotic melody, but he has composed some numbers of lighter vein that came in for a share of the remarkable New York press praise, among the compositions being "The Trolley," a humorous descriptive melody, and half a dozen other equally humorous pieces, all of which New York thought well enough of to whistle on the streets, play on the piano pipe on the corner organ and grind out by phonograph. The announcement is made that the Duss compositions, particularly "America Up-to-Date," and "The Battle of Manilla," are to be given during the concert in this city.

Teachers Gathered.

A large number of public school teachers from the upper part of Somerset county came to North Plainfield this morning to attend the Somerset County Teachers' Association meeting at Watchung. The session closes this afternoon.

—The grand officers will pay a fraternal visit to the Loyal Addition of the Royal Arcanum, Monday evening.

KNOCKED DOWN AND ROBBED

Bold Highwaymen Robbed Sigler VanFleet in Heart of City Last Evening.

TOOK WATCH AND CASH

Was Attacked While Going After His Horse in Shed in Rear of the Manning Building, West Front Street—There is No Clue at Present to the Assailants.

A daring assault and robbery, almost in the heart of the city, was committed upon Sigler VanFleet, the West Front street jeweler, in the rear of the Manning building at 9 o'clock last evening. Two ruffians sprang upon him in the darkness of the horse shed located in the yard and throwing him to the ground, relieved his pockets of a fine gold watch and $6. While he remained semi-unconscious the robbers made thier escape and as yet no clue to their identity has been obtaned.

It has always been Mr. VanFleet's custom to travel between his home on Jackson avenue and his store by carriage, leaving the rig in the sheds back of the store. He closed his place of business as usual last evening and left by a rear door to get his horse. A few minutes afterward, G. H. Kenyon, the music dealer, whose store is in with VanFleet's, heard a noise in the alley between the Manning building and the First M. E. church, but thinking it was the jeweler driving out gave it no more than a passing though. Immediately after VanFleet staggered in the door with blood streaming down his face and told him of the robbery.

He had reached the shed and was removing the blanket from his horse when two men suddenly appeared before him and grasped him by the throat. The attack was made so quickly and took him by surprise that he was unable to discern their features or see if they were black or white. He was borne to the ground and while one sat on him and shut off his wind, the other went through his clothes. They also struck him in the face several times.

Kenyon ran into the alley as soon as he learned the facts but a quick search of the neighborhood failed to give any trace of the men. He summoned the police and Sergeant Frederickson and Patrolman Quaas scoured the neighborhood but with no success. The police are handicapped in their quest for the guilty men from the fact that VanFleet can give absolutely no description of his assailants. Chief Kiely is personally conducting a vigorous search.

THREE MORE KNIGHTS.

Business at Last Evening's Session of Perseverance Lodge.

Three more knights were added to the ranks of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., last evening, that number taking their last degree. In the business session the lodge completed arrangements for its trip to Newark Monday evening and extended an invitation to members of Unity Lodge, of this city, to accompany them. The trip will be made by special car on the New Jersey Central, leaving this city at 7:08. The Orient Council asked for the rooms on Friday evening next to work the degree on twenty candidates.

Made Dolls of Peanuts.

Miss J. Louise Jenkins entertained a few friends informally at her home at Roselawn, West Seventh street, last evening, in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Willism H. Card and Miss Pearl Parcher, of Minneapolis, and Miss Ada M. Russell, of New York. In a contest to see who could make the most artistic doll out of peanuts, Miss Genevia M. Miner, of Freehold, won first prize and Lawrence Whitall the booby prize.

Presbyterian Synod Meets.

The Presbyterian Synod of New Jersey will be held at Asbury Park Monday, when the question of making the Synod a delegated convention instead of a representative one as at present, will be acted upon.

GREAT CHIEFS GUESTS OF MIANTONOMO TRIBE

Miantonomo Celebrated the Thirteenth Anniversary of Its Organization Last Night.

MANY RED MEN THERE

PROGRAMME OF MUSICAL NUMBERS, RECITATIONS AND SPEECHES.

The Board of Great Chiefs Was Present With Some Lesser Dignitaries of the Order—A Pleasant Evening Was Enjoyed.

Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., reached the thirteenth year of its existence, last evening, and in honor of the event entertained members and friends with an anniversary celebration. It took place in the wigwam on Park avenue and the number of visiting braves and squaws was noticeably large. In addition to the many lesser lights, the entire board of Great Chiefs was present.

Sachem Nash was in charge of the exercises and opened the programme with a welcoming speech to the assembled Red Men and guests, after which the following numbers were given: Selections by the Symphony Orchestra, vocal solos by Mrs. A. J. Stiglitz, John Lyons, of Morristown, and John Turner, of this city; recitations by Miss Clara Weber and John Manley; and addresses by Great Sachem Blanchard White, of Pemberton; Great Senior Sagamore W. L. Whitmore, of Oceanic; Great Sannap Herbert Stetzer, of Gloucester; Great Mishinewa Frank E. Leonard, of Madison; Great Keeper of Wampum W. J. Smith, of Long Branch, and Past Great Sachem Newcorn, of this city. Although the addresses were of a brief nature they were applied to Redmanship and were exceedingly interesting. With the exception of Sachem Nash and Past Great Sachem Newcorn, those who made addresses belonged to the board of Great Chiefs.

An event not down on the programme but none the less enjoyable was the presentation of beautiful bouquets of flowers to Miss Clara Weber, Mrs. Stiglitz and Mrs. John Turner, the latter being accompanist, for the part they had taken in the programme. Unexpected as they were, the gifts were all the more acceptable.

Late in the evening the women friends of the tribe from Iona Council distributed refreshments or as the true Red Man terms it "corn and venison." The committee from Iona consisted of Mrs. Boehm, Miss Butscher, Mrs. Charles Holstein, Miss Burke and Miss Ella Seoring. The members of Miantonomo who arranged the affair were V. W. Nash, John Green, A. J. Stiglitz, Charles L. Holstein and Peter Doeringer.

MISS REMSEN WEDDED.

Married to Harry F. Crawford, and Coming to Plainfield to Live.

A nuptial event of much interest to Plainfielders was that of Thursday evening, when Miss Lillian L. Remsen, formerly of this city, but for a year or more a resident of Jamaica, L. I., was married to Harry F. Crawford, of East Fifth street, this city. The couple was married at Jamaica and early in November will take up their residence at 917 Watchung avenue. They will be "at home" November 6.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Crawford have been active in Christian work at Trinity Reformed church and they have a host of friends in Plainfield who will wish them much joy and happiness in their married life.

First Meeting This Fall.

The Willing Workers, composed of members of H. J. Martin's Sunday-school class at Trinity Reformed church, will hold the first fall meeting Thursday evening of next week at the home of Mrs. Lafayette Rosenstheil, on Somerset street, when plans for the winter will be discussed. A full attendance of the members is desired.

Helped Initiate.

A large delegation of members from Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, went to Somerville Thursday evening and visited the castle at that place, The Plainfield members also assisted in the initiatory work.

Smothered to Death.

A four-weeks-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor, of Westfield, was found dead in bed early Wednesday morning. It is believed that the child was smothered to death. Dr. Westcott gave a burial permit.

A FAMOUS GOSPEL SINGER

SHE WILL BE HEARD IN PLAINFIELD TWICE TOMORROW.

Miss Grace D. Hildebrand, "The Gospel Nightingale," is Coming to This City.

Miss Grace D. Hildebrand, "The Gospel Nightingale," who is to sing at the Y. M. C. A. meeting tomorrow afternoon, is probably one of the most successful gospel singers of today. She has rare vocal talent and this was originally trained for an operatic career. Her voice has remarkable power and sweetness. During the past three years she has been the leading soloist at Rev. Dr. Cadman's Metropolitan Temple, New York. She has sung the songs of salvation to the wanderers in the Bowery Mission.

When special meetings were held in the Gospel tent "Glad Tidings,"

Miss Grace D. Hildebrand.

New York, she sang there to great audiences. Two years ago Ira D. Sankey heard this delightful singer at the head of a chorus of sixty voices, and, at the close of the exercise, talked with Miss Hildebrand and secured her promise to devote her voice and talent to the Lord. She has faithfully kept her pledge and her energies ever since have been confined exclusively to Christian work.

Sunday evening she will sing at the First Presbyterian church where special Y. M. C. A. anniversary exercises will be held.

NOTHING STARTLING.

Judge Connet, of Hunterdon, Presided Over Somerset Court With Only Routine Matters.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 18—Judge Connet, of Hunterdon county, was on the bench here, yesterday, at the request of Judge Schenck, who was obliged to be away. Only routine Orphans' Court matters were disposed of.

The will of the late Sarah I. Blackwell was admitted to probate, the caveat that was filed against it having been withdrawn.

In the estate of Jacob Dilts, of New Centre, a rule to show cause why lands should not be sold to pay debts was granted, returnable December 19.

The matter of exceptions, filed by Edward Ten Eyck, to the accounts of J. V. D. Ten Eyck, of North Branch, in the estate of Harriet Wyckoff, was laid over for one week. A. A. Clark is counsel for the exceptant and Daniel H. Beekman for the accountant.

The Lang estate matter was also laid over for one week.

BOTH KNOWN HERE.

Marriage of Miss Josephine Leveridge to Peter P. Runyon.

The marriage of Miss Josephine Leveridge, niece of Charles A. Leveridge, of West Front street, and Peter P. Runyon, of New Brunswick, took place Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. F. De. Lysle Smith, Brooklyn. Rev. A. B. Sears, of New Brunswick, was the officiating clergyman. Randolph Runyon, a brother of the groom, was best man, and Miss Mildred L. Smith, a niece of the bride, was flower girl. The ushers were D. F. Runyon and Dr. E. L. Stevenson, of New Brunswick, and F. De. Lysle Smith, of Brooklyn, and E. Douglass Murphy, of New York. The couple will reside in New Brunswick. Mr. and Mrs. Runyon are well-known in this city.

Front Forks Broke.

The sudden snapping of his front forks precipitated Fred Johnson, of Watchung avenue, from his wheel to the roadway on West Front street, yesterday afternoon. Although going at a good speed he escaped with a few gashes on the knees and face. A flaw in the metal of the forks is held responsible for the break.

PENNSY AFTER FREIGHT LINE TO THE SHORE

New Brunswick Home News Tells of Attempt to Secure the Right of Way.

ITS PROBABLE ROUTE

IS AFTER LINE FROM RARITAN RIVER TO B. AND O. BRIDGE.

Believed to be Part of General Scheme to Build Freight Line Across the State of New Jersey—The Plan of Line.

Once more the report that the Pennsylvania Railroad is trying for a new freight line across New Jersey is reviewed, and the new developments give color to the suppositions, says the New Brunswick Home News. These developments concern the purchase of right of way from the Raritan river at Martin's Dock to the west end of the Baltimore and Ohio bridge which crosses Staten Island Sound below Elizabethport.

From the operations of the surveyors and right of way men, it is learned that they intend to make the road pass through the Wright Robbins' farm at Metuchen, now owned by J. C. McCoy, the Jacob Huber farm, Bernard Dunnigan's property and directly past Lewis D. Kelly's house. Then through the Jonas Coddington property now owned by David Brown, the Lockwood farm, the Blancharde Edgar farm and then the Sneider farm near the reformatory. Then the road will cross the present railroad tracks above Avenel and will run easterly to the Elizabethport bridge. The fortunate property owners along the route are now considering the price they will charge the railroad for the right of way over their properties. The railroad will buy the lands that are offered at reasonable figures and condemn lands concerning which there is a disagreement as to price. The grading will be commenced as soon as the rights are secured.

When the news was first heard of a new railroad from Trenton to New Brunswick (which line has already been built, ostensibly for trolley travel) it was rumored that the new road was to be owned by the Goulds and run in opposition to the Pennsy. All this has been overthrown by four deductions made by some of the town's most influential citizens. The line of arguments is as follows:

Judge Albert Brown learned that the Chief Engineer of the Pennsylvania Road had been surveying over the route about three months ago.

Furthermore one man who recently sold some property on the proposed route brought a Pennsylvania Railroad check to Judge Brown recently to have it cashed. He had been instructed by the promoters of the road to keep the matter quiet and accordingly told the judge that the check was for services rendered. He had been employed by the engineers, he said, in carrying them from place to place. The check was for such a large amount that, if his story was true, the job of carrying them around must be very lucrative. The fact that the road is to cross the B. and O. bridge at Elizabethport to Staten Island is further proof that the new road is a Pennsylvania line. The Pennsylvania Railroad owns a large share of the B. and O. stock and so their right of way over the bridge was very easy to obtain.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is not able to handle all of its freight now and they must have more accommodations to carry it successfully. The outlet at Staten Island below St. George will give them a chance to build large freight yards which they sorely need and cannot get at Jersey City.

All these facts point conclusively to the Pennsy as the real promoters of the new enterprise.

Judge Brown was approached yesterday by the agent and was offered a price for some property along the route, but whether he sold it is not known. Louis Kelly is said to have refused to sell his land. It will probably be condemned.

Coal Coming.

Several cars of hard coal were seen passing through Plainfield yesterday on their way to New York. Unfortunately, Plainfield has not thus far been remembered.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

Parish Teas.

The first of a series of afternoon teas and socials to be given under the auspices of St. Stephens' church, Netherwood, on the third Wednesday in each month, was given last Wednesday. Mrs. A. J. Beal, Miss Edith Clark and Mrs. N. A. Wheeler were in charge and the affair was a pleasant one.

nence as the candidate of a great party for Congress, does not betray it. You simply come away from his home town with the conviction that here is a popularity that has for its basis substantial worth. You know from what you see and hear that it is not that ephemeral popularity that grows up in a day, but one that the incident of his nomination for Congress has given excuse for its expression.

He goes about his campaign work very much as he does about his vast and varied business interests. He leaves nothing to chance and takes nothing for granted. He is a man of strong convictions on the issues he stands for in this campaign, and it was characteristic of him that when the Democratic leaders in the district asked him to accept their nomination on a platform so weak that it could offend no one that he refused to accept unless the party declaration expressed his own strong convictions on the issues before the people, and he was allowed to prepare and stand upon his own platform. It was the first declaration of principles by a Democratic Congressional convention, and it has acted as an inspiration to the Democratic party throughout the country and has been widely copied.

His opponents realized from the time of his nomination that he would attract to his standard a large per cent. of the "commuters' vote," which forms a considerable part of the voting population of both Morris and Union counties. These men understand and appreciate his breadth of views, his uprightness and independence in public action. The Republican leaders had not expected that he would arouse any enthusiasm among the masses, and this is the development that today gives them the most concern. His campaign is being very skillfully handled and he has gone among the voters as opportunity has offered in a true Democratic spirit, without ostentation and without any sacrifice of dignity or character, and, strange as it may seem to his opponents, he has caught the popluar heart. Men in all walks of life are attracted to him and the conviction is growing that his position is absolutely right, and that he stands for the real solution of the trust problem through revision of the unjust and inequitable tariff laws.

In his beautiful villa at Morristown, surrounded by his family, his friends and his animal pets, he is the personification of the home life that distinguishes the American gentleman. The effeminate sports that find such a large following today have no attraction for this man, but he does find time in his busy life to enjoy those manly sports which appeal to manly men. He finds health and happiness with his dogs and gun, behind his horses, or as a participant for a brief season each year in the strenuous activities of his large farm, and the masses seem to like him the better for his undisguised enjoyment of those forms of outdoor life that appeal to men of red blood and good digestion.

This, in brief, is a familiar sketch of a young man who threatens to upset the carefully-laid plans of the "wise men" of the Republican party and to become himself a factor in the public affairs of New Jersey and the rehabilitation of the Democratic party.

NO EVENING SERVICE.

Other Services at Warren Chapel Will be Held as Usual.

From the fact that an article in The Daily Press of a few days ago may be misconstrued, it is announced that services in Warren chapel tomorrow will beheld as usual, with the exception of the evening when there will be none in order that the congregation may hear Dr. Richards preach his farewell sermon. In the afternoon the chapel people will give a farewell to Pastor Richards when several addresses wlil be made.

Miss Kingman, of Trenton, is visiting at the home of Samuel St. J. Mc Cutchen, of Myrtle avenue.

DOUBLE MURDER AND SUICIDE.

Former Head of New York Firm Had Been Proved Short in Accounts.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—William C. Turner of Mount Vernon, a cousin of Governor Odell and brother-in-law of Dan Stuart, the Texas sporting man, shot and killed William J. Mallard of 3 West One Hundred and First street and Albert Hamilton of Pittsburg and then committed suicide yesterday in the law offices of Borough President Cantor and former Assistant District Attorney John F. McIntyre, in the Broad Exchange building.

The shooting was done in the presence of J. J. Adams, a partner of Mr. Cantor and Mr. McIntyre; Lawyer Leventritt, who was representing Turner, and Maurice Goodman, who is associated with the firm of Cantor, McIntyre & Adams.

Turner killed the two men and himself because they accused him of stealing money from the Climax Bottling and Manufacturing company, a concern at 37 Murray street, of which Turner was formerly president and treasurer.

It is believed that Turner intended to kill both President Cantor and John F. McIntyre, but they happened to be absent from the office.

The Climax Bottling and Manufacturing company is located at 37 Murray street. Turner was president and treasurer up to last April, when he was succeeded by Albert Hamilton, who was a Pittsburg millionaire. Mallard was secretary of the concern.

An examination of the books, according to Mallard and Hamilton, showed that Turner was $5,100 short in his accounts with the firm. John F. McIntyre was engaged by Mallard and Hamilton to force Turner to make a settlement.

The matter dragged along all summer. Recently Mr. McIntyre had been pressing Turner, and Thursday the accused man made a proposition to settle on a basis of $2,700. This proposition was agreed to, and an engagement was made to settle up in the law office of Cantor, McIntyre & Adams. The tragedy followed soon after this meeting began.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Transportation Obstacle to Progress Since Coal Strike Settlement.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Settlement of the coal strike removes the only serious handicap to industrial progress. Five months of restricted fuel production had begun to check the wheels at many manufacturing centers, while there was a perceptible diminution in consumptive demands as the purchasing power of the wage earners steadily decreased. Savings have been exhausted, and much money has gone out of the country because of this struggle, but the nation's remarkably strong position assures a speedy restoration of prosperous conditions.

Transportation is now the worst feature and threatens to continue disturbing. While the grain crops are being moved the supply of rolling stock and motive power will prove insufficient.

Inadequate supplies of fuel caused further banking of furnaces, but the effect of a decreased output of domestic pig iron has been partially neutralized by larger arrivals from abroad.

Failures for the week numbered 206 in the United States against 229 last year and 24 in Canada compared with 31.

End of Trolley Strike Possible.

SANDY HILL, N. Y., Oct. 18.—Settlement of the Hudson Valley railway strike is looked upon as the possible result of a conference held between President Colvin of the company and a committee representing the striking employees. No announcement has been made as to the outcome of the conference or the matter under discussion. At Middle Falls during the night two soldiers were fired on from ambush while they were patrolling the bridge. The bullets went over the heads of the soldiers, who at once gave chase and drove the attacking party out of the woods.

CERTAIN TO ACCEPT

Delegates to Miners' Convention Being Chosen.

OPPOSITION TO SETTLEMENT WEAK.

Meeting to Consider Strike Arbitration Likely to Continue Two Days. Coal Companies Prepare to Supply Fuel to Consumers.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 18.—In accordance with the call issued by order of the executive board of the anthracite districts of the miners' union all "locals" throughout the coalfields are electing delegates to the convention which will be held here next Monday to consider the acceptance or rejection of the arbitration plan submitted by President Roosevelt.

It is practically certain that a majority of the delegates will come to the convention instructed to vote in favor of accepting the arbitration scheme. The prominent officials of the union say there is no fear that the opposition will be strong enough to defeat the efforts of those who favor ending the strike by arbitrating their differences with the operators. President Mitchell does not care to anticipate the action of the convention, but from his manner it is taken that he has not the slightest doubt as to the result. He will go into the convention and make a strong speech for the acceptance of the arbitration scheme.

The indications are the convention will last two days and that there will be much debate on various features of the arbitration plan. The principal question to be discussed before the plan is accepted by the miners will be that of taking care of all the men. The conditions of the mines are such that all workmen cannot be given work immediately, and some will have to wait for weeks before the companies can take care of them. The operators will not dismiss the nonunion men in order to give employment to a returning striker. It is understood the union will take care of all such men who fail to find immediate employment. This will be done by drawing funds from the relief fund, which is said to be still growing.

The coal companies will do all in their power to meet the public demand for coal. Preparations for resuming as soon as the miners call the strike off are going on apace.

It is estimated that 25 per cent of the collieries will be in operation on the first day after the suspension is over. The railroads are also making every effort to have enough cars on hand to carry the freshly mined coal to market and are sending thousands of cars into the regions and placing them on sidings at the collieries.

Arbitrators Confer With President.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Brigadier General John M. Wilson, the military member of the coal strike arbitration commission, and Colonel Carroll D. Wright, recorder of the commission, have had an extended conference with President Roosevelt. They discussed pretty fully the events leading up to the appointment of the commission and tentatively some arrangements for its work. On leaving the White House General Wilson indicated that the body would be organized in Washington, but when and where its sittings would be held were details which would be worked out by the commission itself. It is known that the commission will not begin its labors formally until the miners shall have agreed to it. Later in the day E. W. Parker, the mining expert of the commission, called at the White House with Dr. David T. Day of the geological survey and formally accepted his appointment. Mr. Parker remained with the president and Colonel Wright for a considerable time. It is not announced yet how the expenses of the commission will be paid. The civilian members will be entitled to a per diem fixed by the president, but from what fund the amount will be paid has not been determined.

Rumors of Opposition.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 18.—Reports have been circulated that the locals of the United Mine Workers in West Scranton, Pittston and some other localities had voted to instruct their delegates to oppose the acceptance of the operators' proposition unless the companies would agree to discharge the nonunion men, take back all the old employees, drop the suits instituted against strikers and recognize the union. It was impossible to verify these reports, but they are persistently and generally circulated. A significant fact in this connection was the concern of District President Nicholls yesterday over a published report that he was at the head of a movement to oppose the acceptance of the proposition. "This report," said Mr. Nicholls last evening, "is doing no end of mischief. I am satisfied, however, that the convention will accept the proposition. I want it stated that the report that I am opposed to the proposition is absolutely false and without foundation. I have been in favor of it from the very first, and the vote of the district officers recommending its acceptance to the convention was unanimous."

Irish Members May Quit Parliament.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—With the exception of Timothy M. Healy, who voted to support the government, all the Irish members of the house of commons abstained from voting in the division on the education bill. A majority of them advocate returning to Ireland immediately, but no action in this direction will be taken until it is seen whether Premier Balfour is inclined to grant a day for the discussion of Irish affairs.

TEXAS BEATS JERSEY

Negro Tried, Condemned and Hanged In a Day.

LYNCHERS FOR ONCE OUTWITTED.

Jim Buchanan Confessed to the Murder of the Hicks Family and Chose Speedy Legal Execution Rather Than Face the Mob.

NACOGDOCHES, Tex., Oct. 18.—Jim Buchanan, colored, the murderer of the Hicks family, was tried here yesterday. The plea of guilty was accepted by the judge, and the negro was legally hanged within two hours after sentence had been passed.

Ten days ago the dead bodies of Farmer Hicks, his wife and daughter were found in the Hicks home. A week later Jim Buchanan was arrested and confessed to the triple murder.

Buchanan was taken to Shreveport to escape lynching and later was removed to the jail at Henderson, where he was guarded by militia. He was brought to Nacogdoches yesterday under the protection of five companies of state troops.

Upon his arrival here the negro was turned over to Sheriff Spradley, who told the people he would be given a speedy trial. The town began to fill up rapidly, telegraph wires were cut, the railroad tracks were torn up for a short distance, and it was announced that an attempt would be made to get possession of Buchanan.

The district court was at once convened, a jury was impaneled without delay, and the negro's plea of guilty was accepted by the court. The judge ordered that the death sentence be executed Nov. 17, but many people announced that they would not allow delay. Buchanan then waived the thirty days allowed him by law and was hanged by Sheriff Spradley in the jailyard in the presence of a large crowd.

Shaw's Bond Offer Pleases.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The action of Secretary Shaw in offering to buy bonds for the sinking fund to relieve the present stringency in the money market is favorably commented on by financiers here. It is pointed out that the $15,000,000 of fours which the secretary expects to obtain under this offer will result in putting into circulation in principal and interest about $20,000,000, which at this late date in crop moving will beyond reasonable doubt, carry the country safely over the crisis which is annually experienced at this period. Although the secretary's offer was not made public until noon yesterday, the assistant treasurer at New York at 4 o'clock reported to the department that $8,203,400 had been already deposited in the subtreasury there. Of this amount $5,000,000 were in fours, the acceptance of which the secretary has had under consideration for several days. It is expected that by tonight at least $7,000,000 additional will have been offered and accepted.

A New Lock at the Soo.

DETROIT, Oct. 18.—The Free Press says today that with the announcement of Major W. H. Bixby's approval of a request to congress for a new $5,000,000 lock at the Soo, to be completed in 1910, the project becomes assured of success. Major Bixby is the United States engineer in charge of government works in the district including the Soo canal. Vessels at present can load to twenty feet for passing the Soo, but it is proposed that the new lock will allow an actual draft of twenty-one feet. It has been conceded for some time that increased facilities would have to be afforded, but until now it was not known whether Major Bixby would recommend repairing the old Weitzel lock built in 1881 or building a new one.

Good Words For President Roosevelt

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The Spectator, commenting upon the termination of the coal strike in the United States, says: "President Roosevelt has still further raised himself in the estimation of his fellow countrymen as a man of action and also as a man of moderation. They feel that somehow he will find a way to curb the excesses of the great monopolies without falling into the dangers of socialistic interference with commercial liberty. The American people clearly are going to trust President Roosevelt as they trusted Washington and Lincoln, and their trust will not be misplaced."

Ziegler Rejects Baldwin.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—As a result of the investigation made and conferences had by William Ziegler, who supplied the funds for the Baldwin-Ziegler polar expedition, with various members of the expedition since their return Mr. Ziegler announces that the business relations between Evelyn B. Baldwin and himself have been severed. Mr. Ziegler declined to give any details, but announced that he intended to continue his efforts to reach the north pole and would send another expedition to make the attempt.

Famous Old Time Scout Dead.

SAN SABA, Tex., Oct. 18.—S. R. Bostwick, aged sixty-three, is dead here. He was a veteran of the Texas war of independence and was one of the three scouts who captured Santa Anna, the Mexican dictator, after the battle of San Jacinto. He afterward served in the Mexican war of 1845 and in the civil war.

The Whittier House Burned.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Oct. 18.—The house in which John Greenleaf Whittier, the poet, was born has been damaged by fire. Mrs. Era, the tenant, saved the many relics of the poet. The loss is $3,000. The Whittier association will have the house rebuilt.

BOERS IN BERLIN.

High Price For Seats to Hear the Generals.

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—The Philharmonic House was filled to its utmost capacity for the Boer meeting last night. The sale of tickets realized $6,750, some persons paying as much as $250 for a seat. Military uniforms were almost entirely lacking. Herr Lueckhoff, member of the reichstag and president of the Boer reception committee, presided at the meeting.

The generals, and especially General De Wet, received a rousing welcome. They all spoke in Dutch at considerable length, Pastor Showalter, who at one time lived in the Transvaal, translating the speeches, which were eagerly applauded.

The speakers avoided attacks upon Great Britain, but the audience cried "Shame!" when General Botha referred to the charges that Mr. Kruger had carried off Transvaal money and mentioned the concentration camps. General Botha asserted that the Boers would be true to the peace treaty like men. At the conclusion of General Botha's remarks Herr Lueckhoff asked the audience to desist from crying "Shame!"

General Delarey described the miserable plight of the Boers in expressive language.

General De Wet said he hoped the Boers would have a great future and added, "We will wait until God's time comes." This remark was greeted with thunderous applause. The speaker estimated the damages of the war at $300,000,000 and asked, "What is $3,000,000 to replace that?"

Count von Mirbach, a member of the Prussian house of lords, then addressed the Boers. He praised their warlike deeds and proposed three cheers in their honor.

Three young ladies presented laurel wreaths to the Boer generals, and Generals Delarey and De Wet kissed the girls who made the presentation.

ELIOT ON EDUCATION.

Harvard's President Says Meager Outlay Has Caused Poor Results.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 18.—President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard university in an address before the annual convention of the Connecticut State Teachers' association on the topic "The Present Rate of Expenditure In Public Schools Is Much Too Low," stated that the average expenditure per pupil for the whole school year in the United States was $21.14 for the year 1900-1901. He said:

"I wish to urge upon you the proposition that the American people cannot afford to persist in the present low expenditures for schools. It is indisputable that we have experienced a profound disappointment in that the results thus far obtained do not produce all the good which was expected and which may reasonably be aimed at."

In enumerating some of the disappointments connected with popular education President Eliot spoke of the persistence of gambling, the lack of development of any successful method of dealing with the vice of intemperance, the frequent failure of universal suffrage to produce good government in large cities, the quality of the popular theaters of today, the nature of daily reading matter supplied to the American public, the tenacity of the spoils or patronage system in the civil service and the increasing frequency of labor strikes.

Chicagoans to Visit the South.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—A trip of more than 3,000 miles which will require fourteen days to complete and in which several states will be visited will be made by a number of leading business men, bankers and manufacturers of Chicago. The state of Texas is the objective point, and this party of Chicago business men will spend seven days in crossing the state and will stop at all the larger towns in the state. This invasion is made at the invitations of the governors and commercial bodies of the states of Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi.

Irishmen Arrive at Boston.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—On the steamship New England, from Queenstown and Liverpool, were Hon. John E. Redmond, M. P., chairman of the Irish parliamentary party and president of the United Irish league; John Dillon, M. P. for East Mayo, and Michael Davitt. Their arrival has been long looked forward to by all Irishmen, as they are to address the members of the United Irish league, which holds its national convention in this city beginning tomorrow.

President Greets Saddle Horses.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—President Roosevelt's saddle horses, Bleinstein and Renown, which have just arrived from Oyster Bay, were brought by a cavalry orderly to the White House for his inspection. As the animals were led to the front of the mansion President Roosevelt, without the assistance of his crutches, stepped briskly down the steps to see his favorite horses. He gave each of them a generous lump of sugar.

A BELATED HARVEST.

Crops of the Old World Are Abundant, However.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The department of agriculture's summary of crops of the world shows that, owing to the remarkably cool and wet summer experienced throughout a considerable part of Europe, the harvest of 1902 is one of the latest on record.

The semiofficial Russian estimate makes the wheat, rye, barley and oat crops of that country not only larger than in 1901, but exceeding that average for the five years 1896-1900.

Throughout about four-fifths of the German empire harvesting was delayed by frequent rains, and there was still much grain in the field in the middle of September. The Austrian official figures say that wheat and barley are good average crops, while rye is only medium to good medium.

From Hungary the official report received at the department here shows that maize has suffered from drought, in some districts the plants producing no ears and in others the grain ripening before the ears attained a normal development.

The Roumanian wheat crop is officially estimated as the best in many years. The French ministry of agriculture has issued a preliminary report giving the wheat production of France as 352,000,000 bushels, an increase of over 13 per cent over 1901. The crops in Belgium are stated to be comparatively satisfactory.

In Great Britain the area under wheat cultivation is 25,508 acres greater than in 1901. The recent weather through Great Britain has greatly helped its farmers in completing their belated harvests.

Harvesting is progressing favorably in Denmark. Wheat and rye are of normal yield and good quality. The wheat crop of Italy, according to present indications, will be approximately 130,000,000 bushels. The recent rains in Argentina entirely saved the crops, and it is estimated that the yields will exceed last year by over 40 per cent.

Wheat areas in Australia have been helped by heavy rains. Generally favorable reports of coming crops have been received from all provinces of India. The rice crop of Japan, hurt by the wet summer, probably will be below the average.

The official estimate of Spain is that that country will have the largest wheat crop for many years and will have a considerable surplus for exportation.

The Nile flood this year is the lowest in twenty-five years, and, although the scarcity of water will partly be compensated for by the new works executed by the British government, the crops in upper Egypt are likely to suffer.

The Porte on Macedonian Troubles.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 18.—The official communication issued by the porte does not say that the Macedonian revolution is ended. It describes the fighting with Bulgarian brigands in the vicinity of Baslog and Djumabala and declares that the object of these brigands is to stir up revolution. The communication continues as follows: "Imperial troops have succeeded in routing the brigands, and the villagers in consequence are beginning to submit and to return peaceably to their homes. The disturbances, indeed, cannot last. Tranquillity has already begun to assert itself."

Wonderful Work of Dr. Lorenz.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Dr. Adolph Lorenz will leave Chicago for Salt Lake City and San Francisco next next. His achievements in this city have brought him many requests from all parts of the United States, and he has accepted one case in Salt Lake City. Dr. Lorenz performed twenty operations yesterday, all of them being pronounced successful. All were performed free of charge as far as the physician was concerned, the parents of the children paying a small sum to the hospital where the operation was performed.

Student Riots at Glasgow.

GLASGOW, Oct. 18.—At the opening of the campaign for the election Oct. 25 of a rector for Glasgow university, for which post John Morley and George Wyndham are candidates, the students indulged in riotous behavior. Unionist students tried to wreck the Liberal committee rooms and attacked the police and their opponents with sticks and a fire hose and pelted them with flour. A large body of police had to be employed before order was restored.

Cuba's Budget Approved.

HAVANA, Oct. 18.—The cabinet has approved the annual budget, the expenditures in which amount to about $14,000,000. The receipts are estimated at over $16,000,000. Those members of the senate who belong to the National party left the senate in a body at yesterday's session owing to a difference between them and the Republican members over the appointment of committees.

A Family Poisoned.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 18.—Mrs. Mary Joseph, aged fifty-three, an Arabian, is dead after drinking poisoned coffee. Three other members of the family, George Iupe, Chady Joseph and William Abraham, are in a serious condition. Nicholas Joseph, who is no relation of the family, has been arrested, charged with the crime.

Jumped to His Death.

TORONTO, Oct. 18.—Godfrey B. Bowdy, aged sixty years, representing J. N. Crossley & Son of England, jumped from the top story of the Rossin House to the pavement and was instantly killed.

Weather Probabilities.

Rain; light northeast winds, shifting to southeast.

REVOLUTION ENDED

Rebel Leader Firmin Has Fled the Island.

GOVERNMENT TROOPS ENTER GONAIVES

Commander Mason of the Cincinnati Reports the Landing of American Marines to Protect the Consulate.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 18.—The foreign consuls at Gonaives (the headquarters of the revolutionists) after negotiating with General Nord, commander of the government forces, have brought about the capitulation of that town. Government troops entered Gonaives today, and it is hoped there will be no further clash with the revolutionists. Detachments of marines from the Cincinnati, D'Assas and the Falke are at present guarding the foreign consulates there. The consulates are filled with refugees.

M. Firmin, the revolutionary leader, left Oct. 15 for Mathew Town, Inagua island, Bahams, on board the steamer Adirondack of the Hamburg-American line. He was accompanied by about 200 of his followers.

Commander Mason's Report.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The following cablegram, dated Mole St. Nicolas, Haiti, Oct. 17, has been received at the navy department from the commander of the warship Cincinnati: "St. Marc surrendered on Oct. 14. National forces occupied town peaceably. Cincinnati arrived at Gonaives Wednesday noon (Oct. 15). Oct. 15 Firmin evacuated Gonaives and has left by Hamburg-American Steam Packet company's steamer for Mathew Town, Bahama islands, with about 250 adherents, leaving no government at the place. Have landed force for the protection of American consulate and to preserve order. The German gunboat landed force also. National forces are near at hand and it is expected that (they) will occupy town Saturday or next day. All quiet there. It is considered practically the end of the revolution. I am returning to Gonaives immediately. I shall embark landing party and will proceed to Cape Haytien when affairs are settled at Gonaives."

Earl Roberts to Visit Us.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—It is learned that Generals Corbin, Young and Wood have tendered Earl Roberts a cordial invitation to visit the United States and that the British commander in chief will possibly go to America next spring. The American generals are particularly anxious that Earl Roberts should visit America in order that they may have an opportunity of repaying the many courtesies he has shown them during their stay in England. Earl Roberts told the American generals at a late hour last evening that he had practically decided to accept their invitation and go to the United States in December of 1903 and that there was a possibility of his crossing in time to witness the international yacht races in that year. It is Earl Roberts' desire that Generals French and Kelly-Kenny accompany him.

Beef Combine Incorporated.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 18.—The United States Packing company, which is understood to be the beef combine, has been incorporated here with an authorized capital of $1,000,000. It is understood that this amount will be subsequently increased to probably $500,000,000. The company is authorized to purchase and deal in cattle and other live stock and to carry on the business of butchers, packers, storekeepers, construct and operate steamship lines, etc. The capital stock is divided into one-half preferred and one-half common. The dividends are to be paid upon the preferred stock semiannually, but they are not to be cumulative.

Interior of Colombia Pacified.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Replying to an inquiry from the Colombian legation here, Governor Salazar of Panama says the report that General Fernandez has declared himself dictator of Colombia at Bogota is without any foundation in fact. Similar reports, he says, have been circulated heretofore. General Perdomo, who has just arrived at Panama and assumed command of the entire force of Colombian troops on the isthmus, says in a dispatch to the legation that the interior of the country is entirely pacified.

Island Sale In Doubt.

ST. THOMAS, Danish West Indies, Oct. 18.—Referring to the matter of the sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States, the Bulletin says: "Doubtless the very disturbing sale question is now drawing to a much desired end, but it is yet doubtful how it will be decided. A private telegram received here from a well informed quarter says the sale is very uncertain and indicates the chances against the ratification of the treaty. In the meanwhile the people are on the tiptoe of excitement, awaiting the end."

Church Congress Closes.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 18.—The final sessions of the church congress of the United States were presided over by Bishop Doane. Dean Hodges of Cambridge was the first speaker on the topic, "Do Spiritual Principles Furnish a Solvent For Economic and Social Difficulties?" Other speakers were Rev. L. W. Baxter of New York, Rev. Dr. Rainsford of New York and Rev. Dr. W. E. Johnson of New York.

Jersey Postoffice Robbed.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Oct. 18.—Burglars forced an entrance into the postoffice at Allenhurst, and, blowing open the safe, secured $725 in cash and stamps. They made their escape.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S DUE.

The thanks of a nation are due President Roosevelt for the happy termination of the coal strike. He has earned these thanks, not by the power of the Chief Executive of the United States, but by the power of the peace-maker. The cleverness of our President is shown in his comprehension of the great questions at stake and his understanding of the widely different characters and view-points of the contending parties. The outlook for the coming cold days was so full of gloom for rich and poor that a general benediction is called down on the head of Roosevelt, the peace-maker since the end of the coal strike is in sight.

Of George Washington's eulogies, none was greater than the familiar one, "First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen." The words would fully apply at this time to Theodore Roosevelt who has earned his successes in war and now has earned a notable success in harmonizing adverse elements and bringing out of confusion at a time when his action merits and receives the gratitude of every American heart.

Now that the summer visitors have departed and the seashore resorts are practically deserted, the sea serpent has to change his tactics and seek some less secluded sport where the tales of his doings may reach the public through the assistance of some enterprising newspaper correspondent. The last heard of this deep sea monster, he had wandered into Raritan river in search of new fields for notoriety.

Now that there is no longer danger of a coal famine we may expect to hear that the Gulf Stream has changed its course and a mild winter may be expected.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

"The Child and the Tree" is the title of a delightful little book just published by Thomas Y. Crowell & Company. It is from the pen of Mrs. Bessie Kenyon Ulrich, of this city, and in a number of clever sketches tells the character and uses of trees common in the vicinity. To the little people the perusal of the book is a positive enjoyment, Mrs. Ulrich's versatility being used to adavntage. It has already enjoyed a large sale at Estil's book store.

His Trip to Virginia.

Rev. George B. Shaw, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, at the service in the church last evening, gave an informal talk of his recent trip in Virginia in the interest of the Sabbath-school work of the denomination. Mr. Shaw gave a sketch of the true condition of the people as regards their attendance and interest in the Sabbath-school, and the prospects are quite encouraging.

Meeting of Friends.

Low Prices for Winter Goods.

Heavy buying from first hands the secret of it. We keep in close touch with the best jobbers and manufacturers. We are always ready to take advantage of the many opportunities presented to large cash buyers, always giving first consideration to style, character and real worth. The old adage "Goods well bought are half sold" has been verified often in our business. It is for you to profit by our foresight this season, for we offer better values in greater variety than ever before.

ANY CHURCH or parsonage or institution supported by voluntary contribution will be given a liberal quantity of the Longman & Martinez Paints whenever they paint.

NOTE:—This has been our custom for twenty-seven years; any building not satisfactorily painted will be repainted at our expense; about one gallon of Linseed Oil to be added to every gallon of the paint to make ready for use; it's mixed in two minutes, and cost of the paint thereby made less in price than any other. Yearly product over one million gallons.

PROPOSALS.

Proposals for grading and macadamizing Prospect avenue, from Willow avenue to Riverside avenue, in the Township of Cranford, will be received at the township rooms, by the Township Committee, at 8 p. m., on the twenty-ninth day of October, 1902.

The Township Committee reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and may award the contract as soon after the above named date as they may elect.

Each bid must be accompanied by a bidder's bond for the sum of one thousand dollars.

The work to be done, as nearly as can be estimated in advance, is as follows:

750 cubic yards of excavation.
1,792 square yards of macadam, 6 inches thick.
896 square yards of macadam, 4 inches thick.
3 manholes and flush tanks to be brought to grade.

Plans and specifications for the work may be seen at the office of the Township Engineer, 25 Dix Building, Elizabeth, N. J.

JACOB L. BAUER, Township Engineer.

Royal Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

Royal Baking Powder's chief ingredient is a product direct from the healthful and delicious grape.

The mild acid of grapes, transformed into cream of tartar, refined to absolute purity, is the active principle of every pound of Royal Baking Powder.

Hence it is that Royal Baking Powder produces food remarkable both for flavor and healthfulness.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

The Dunellen Realty Company, which has the ownership of the land formerly belonging to the estate of J. C. Titsworth, has placed in the postoffice, a map of their property, and a part of the borough, around Prospect avenue and Center street. The company has a number of lots for sale and will attempt to boom that part of the town.

Mayor Swackhamer received his first request to marry any wandering couples Wednesday evening. The mayor declined to do the deed and the couple was turned over to Rev. N. J. Sproul. The couple was from Newark.

The members of F. R. Wynkoop's Sunday-school class were obliged to go under quite heavy expenses to conduct their last entertainment and it is doubtful if their will be any profit.

Frank Humpston, Newton Apgar and Fred Vail will attend the convention of the Junior Order at Trenton next week.

A number of improvements to the road bed of the Central Railroad through town have been finished.

The Ladies' Aid Society cleared a neat little sum at their pumpkin pie sociable Thursday evening.

The Literary Circle will hold a regular meeting this evening at the home of Mrs. John Hubert.

A large number of real estate changes are scheduled for the first of next month.

Garretson & Gray expect to have a full supply of coal on hand before very long.

The usual Saturday game of football between junior teams was played this morning.

Miss Nellie Vail, who is ill with diphtheria, remains about the same.

Rev. A. F. Todd and family has been entertaining out-of-town friends.

Harry Warden, of Jersey City, called on friends in town yesterday.

Regular services will be held in all the local churches tomorrow.

The library in Whittier School was open as usual yesterday.

NEW MARKET.

The farmers throughout the township have been in trouble about cutting their corn because of the weather. At times the fields have been so muddy that the men could not work.

Yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Nelson, Collector W. J. Nelson conducted a sale of property which had been profited to the township for the non payment of taxes.

J. R. Dunham is acting as sexton of the First Baptist church during the illness of Josiah Maitland.

A new bridge has been erected by the railroad to replace the old one over the pond.

H. E. Hummer is planning a trip south for next week.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Sunday service at the Baptist church will be: Sunday-school, 9:30; morning preaching by pastor, topic, "The Proof of the Miracle," 10:45; B. Y. P. U. meeting, 7; evening preaching, topic, "Most Holy Place and the Vail," 7:45.

The prospects of an early settlement of the coal strike is a great relief to all in town, as but few were fortunate enough to have their winter's supply laid in, and have had to depend upon what little coal could be dealt out by the local dealers.

The scarcity of coal has started those who own woodland to cutting down the old trees for firewood. Frederick Clark has purchased two hundred cords of Wm. Bartle, of Glenside, that he will cut up and put on the market.

The members of the Baptist Sunday-school are busily engaged practising for the Bible day exercises which are to be held in the church early next month.

The East New Jersey Baptist Sunday-school Association is to be held Tuesday in the Scotch Plains Baptist church instead of Monday as stated in last night's Press.

The exodus of the summer boarder is about over, nearly all who spent the summer at the several boarding houses in town having returned home.

Miss Helen Whitenack, who has been spending a year with relatives in Colorado, has returned home.

Mrs. Chas. Meyers has returned from a pleasant visit wiht relatives and friends in New York.

Miss Nancy Wade is spending a week with her cousins, the Misses Robertshaws, of Jersey City.

The regular weekly prayer meeting will be held at the Methodist church tonight.

The Hollwingsworth house near the mill has been rented to a Plainfield party.

The next meeting of the Township Committee will be held October 31.

Isaac Ryno has given up his position at the Aeolian Works, Garwood.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

S. Hirsh, the Watchung avenue tailor, has the reputation for giving entire satisfaction in his work.

There is no better confection than the pure, home-made kind such as Campbell, of West Front street, sells.

For all kinds of delicacies go to R. W. Barnes, of Park avenue. He carries a full line of vegetables, canned goods, etc., all at reasonable prices.

Drop a postal card to William Lindsay & Son, of Mountain avenue, and you will be sure to have pure, fresh milk delivered at your home.

Druggist Powers has added a complete stock of chamois vests. They are a sure safeguard against the winter blasts. He has all sizes for men, women and children.

For floral decorations for any kind of an event communicate with W. H. Brower's Sons, of New York. They are experienced florists and will do your work satisfactorily.

When J. W. VanSickle says that he has one of the best stocked meat markets in the city, he means that and nothing else. But he also adds that his price will stand favorable comparison.

See the man running. Where is he running? To Nagle's drug store for some of his famous cough remedy. It is the only thing that affords instant relief and drives away hoarseness and unpleasant conditions.

W. W. Warnock's lemon meringue pies are simply delicious. They are made fresh every day. But that is not all of the delicacies to be found at Warnock's. He has a splendid lot of fresh charlottes, eclaires and cream puffs that cannot be surpassed.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The P. O. S. of A. camp will hold a cob-web social at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Brantingham, Monday evening, October 20. Refreshments will be served. The general public are invited.

The macadamizing of Maple avenue will soon be completed. This will make a continuous circuit of good roads from Plainfield by Plainfield avenue and returning by Park avenue.

The sermon subject tomorrow morning by the pastor at the Baptist church will be: "Immortality." Evening subject: "The Opportunity of the Hour."

Edward Maher will soon enter upon his new duties as coal driver for McDonough Brothers, having resigned his other position with Manning & Bros.

The oyster supper held by Camp No. 41, P. O. S. of A., in Washington Hall, Thursday evening, was prepared at the home of Mrs. Charles Brantingham.

Thomas H. Brantingham left town today for a hunting trip in West Virginia where he will spend a month.

Michael McDonough has secured a position as engine care-taker at the coaling station.

Mrs. Lewis Randolph visited her parents in Piscataway yesterday.

Bert Randolph started to work today with Snowden Brothers.

Chas. Randolph has resigned his position as mail carrier.

Mrs. Charles Brantingham spent today in New York.

Rev. Mr. Slicer Preaches.

Rev. Thomas R. Slicer, who is to preach at All Souls church tomorrow evening, is to be entertained while in town by Mr. and Mrs. Philip V. R. VanWyck, of Stelle avenue. Mr. Slicer's father was a Methodist minister in Baltimore, and he has come through the Orthodox Congregational church, to the Unitarian Congregational church, his life and thought thus illustrating, according to his view, the law of normal religious progression. Many Plainfield people, who have heard him as an after dinner speaker, are anticipating his word upon religion. The hour of the service is 7:30 o'clock.

Rutgers Clubs Coming.

The Woman's Friendly Society, of Heavenly Rest chapel, has arranged to give an enteraintment in the chapel the first week in November. The Rutgers Mandolin and Glee Club has been engaged to take part, while good local talent is also expected. A meeting will be held in a few days to determine the exact date.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Haney, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph

Dr. Richards' Farewell Sermon.

Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards will preach his farewell sermon as pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, on Sunday. October 26, he will be installed as pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York. It is the purpose of the Crescent Avenue church to secure the services of a divine to take the place of Dr. Richards until a regular pastor is chosen.

Death of Mrs. VanZandt.

Mrs. John VanZandt, of Brooklyn, who has been visiting her nephew, Lewis Skillman, of Watchung avenue, died at the home of the latter early yesterday morning. She was advanced in age and a widow. The remains will be taken to Blawenburg, Somerset county, tomorrow for interment.

Card of Thanks.

Mrs. Susan Cotter and family wish to thank the many friends and also those who contributed flowers, and for the kindness shown during their recent bereavement. Signed,

Mrs. Susan Cotter.

NEW LINCOLN YARNS

They Are All Characteristic of the Great President.

Union Officer Whose Commission Was Signed by a Rebel Raider—An Amusing Meeting in Indiana.

[Special Washington Letter.]

"I CALLED on President Lincoln to request the appointment of a chaplain in the army. I didn't get the appointment, but I have always been glad that I took that occasion to see Mr. Lincoln at the white house," says a venerable and popular citizen of the national capitol.

"I heard three good stories narrated by Mr. Lincoln, and I am quite sure that they have never been published. You see it was his custom to receive a whole lot of people at a time. He would have a cordial greeting for all, talk cheerily a few minutes, and then take one after another privately into a corner of the big room and listen to his individual desires.

"Gov. Cuming, of the territory of Utah, whose original and permanent home was in Pennsylvania, was the first man received personally by Mr. Lincoln, who spoke unreservedly so that all present could hear. He assured Gov. Cuming of his perfect confidence in his integrity, and told him that although recalling him from Utah he was going to give him another appointment, to show his confidence in his ability. He said: 'I know very well why all these complaints have been made against you.' Gov. Cuming responded that no governor could be popular in Utah, without becoming a Mormon.

"'That's just it, Cuming,' said Mr. Lincoln. 'This Mormon question must be handled with care just now. It reminds me of a farmer friend of mine who had a big black gum log in one of his best fields. It bothered him for years. He said that it was too big to be moved, too wet to be burned, and too coarse to be split. It bothered him and often kept him from sleeping. Finally he told his wife that he had taken the gum log off his mind, and had concluded, as he ought to have done at first, to let it be, and just plow around it. So, Cuming, that's what we are going to do with the Mormon question for a long while, 'just plow around it.'"

"The next gentleman who had a personal conversation asked if any news had been received from John Morgan, whose confederate cavalrymen were then raiding Kentucky and Ohio. Lincoln replied: 'We will catch John, some day. I admire him, for he is a bold operator. He always goes after mail trains, in order to get information from Washington. On his last raid he opened some mail bags and took possession of official mail. One letter was from the war department to a lieutenant in Grant's army, and it contained a commission appointing him a captain. Right underneath the signature of A. Lincoln the audacious Morgan wrote, 'Approved, John Morgan;' and sent the commission on its way. So there is one officer in our army whose commission bears my signature, with the approval of that daredevil rebel.'

"Having been an editor in Kansas City, as you know, the people there often called on me for services. A committee came on here in 1864 to see the secretary of war and endeavor to have the military districts changed. Old Dr. Boggs, of Westport, was chairman of that committee. I induced Gen. Benjamin Loan, who represented the St. Joe district, to accompany us. There was a great crowd in the office of the secretary of war, and we had to wait our turns. I remember that a handsome young lieutenant was in the procession, and as soon as he stood before Secretary Stanton that austere man roared at him: 'Get out of here, and go to your regiment. I have no time to hear your payment of respects. I haven't a minute nor a second to waste.' The young soldier went forth crestfallen, and we all thought that Secretary Stanton was a rude curmudgeon.

"When it came our turn to state the case, he listened for two minutes, and interrupted, saying: 'That is too important to be decided here. Take this card, call on me at eight o'clock tonight. This card will admit you, and I will be pleased to give the matter full attention.'

"We called promptly on time and were received by as kind and courtly a gentleman as ever lived. He passed around the cigars and chatted pleasantly. Before proceeding to business, he said: 'I noticed how you and all others looked when I dressed down that lieutenant. Here I am working from 16 to 18 hours a day in order to keep pace with events. Four or five times every week, some fool officer comes in to pay his respects, and he lies. He comes to call himself to my attention expecting promotion or some kind of preferment. I treat them all as I did that young fellow. Let them pass it down the line that Stanton is an old brute; that will keep others away from me.'

"Dr. Boggs then explained that Gen. Curtis, with headquarters at Kansas City, in charge of the department of Missouri, and Gen. Hunter, with headquarters at Leavenworth, in charge of the department of the Platte, were antagonistic. Marauders could commit crimes in one department, escape to the other, and be free from pursuit, until days of punctilious correspondence were passed, thereby insuring their escape. He suggested that the departments be consolidated, and have but one commanding general.

"Secretary Stanton listened attentively, asked a few questions, and then said: 'What you gentlemen want to have done ought to be done, and will be done, provided you go home and keep silent. If I were to remove either of those officers there would be scores of politicians here taking up my time about it. I'll have the suggestion come from Hunter and Curtis themselves.'

"Within six weeks a new department was created, consisting of the border counties in Missouri and Kansas, and Gen. Tom Ewing was placed in command. That accomplished the desired end, and there was an end put to the guerrilla warfare which had been distracting the country. You can judge from those two views of Stanton what kind of a man he was. He worked for his country until he almost worked himself to death."

Good Peter Pindar then reminded us of a story which Col. Tom Nelson used to tell concerning some of his experiences before and during the civil war. Nelson said: "In the year 1857 there was a wonderful comet in the northwestern heavens which attracted universal attention. That is how I remember the exact year when this happened. We were at Vincennes, Ind., and were going to Indianapolis when I noted the fact that the back seat of the coach was occupied.

"You know, in those days the old-time coaches would drive up to the hotels for passengers; and this morning I noticed a long human skeleton on the back seat. He was clad in white breeches and alpaca coat. I don't think there was any hat covering his mat of black hair. I politely introduced myself, saying: 'I am Col. Tom Nelson, and this is Gov. Willard, of this state. Now Gov. Willard cannot ride backwards, and I wish, my good fellow, that you would let him sit on the back seat.'

"The gawky fellow unwound his long legs, tried to make a sort of courtesy, and sidled over onto the front seat. Gov. Willard graciously thanked the good fellow, and the stage rolled off. Naturally, I took a part of the back seat with Gov. Willard. We talked on all manner of topics, and occasionally the lanky one would chip in, showing that he had a smattering of what was going on in the world. Finally we talked about the great comet, quoting the various newspapers and magazines. Gawky knew something about the comet, and finally asked my opinion of it. Just to get rid of him, I replied: 'I expect the earth to follow the durned thing off.'

"That night, when we arrived at the hotel, the gawky one got out, grabbed a board, and saw to it that Gov. Willard did not get his feet in the mud. After supper, when we came downstairs, we heard great shouts of laughter in the parlor, which was crowded, and the halls were crowded up to the doors. Upon making inquiry we found the gawky one the center of the group. He was telling how he had been entertained by Gov. Willard and Tom Nelson. An attendant said: 'That is Abe Lincoln, the lawyer from Illinois.'

"Four years later I came to Washington to ask that gawky one to appoint me minister to Mexico, but found that he had selected Tom Corwin, of Ohio, so I applied for and received appointment as minister to Brazil. When I held my commission and called with the secretary of state to pay my respects to President Lincoln and say good-by, he chatted very pleasantly, walked to the door with us, and swinging his left hand over my shoulder, as he grasped my right hand, he said: 'Tom, I hope the earth won't run away after that durned comet.'

"And he never made any other allusion to my rudeness and lordliness so long as he lived." SMITH D. FRY.

An Appropriate Tool.

"I see by the foreign news that the international exhibition at Cork, Ireland, is open," remarked the observant boarder.

"Was it opened with a corkscrew?" asked the cross-eyed boarder.—Peet's Chronicle Telegraph.

THE BABY'S BED.

Do Not Arrange It For Display, but For Health and Comfort.

Resist your natural inclinations and don't put the baby in a swinging nest of down, lace, ribbons and millinery fripperies. It is about the most unwholesome bed you can prepare for it. Baby is not a toy to be dressed up for display and then put away like a French doll.

The best bed for an infant is not anything that swings or rocks. It must stand firmly on its legs and be a crib of liberal size, large enough for the child until it is old enough to sleep in an ordinary bed. The pillow should be a flat one, not over two inches thick and made of hair. The pillows sold in the shops are of goose down, very heating to the sensitive head of a child and, furthermore, likely to find its way out in fine particles to be breathed by the sleeper. The mattress must be firm and even; rather hard than otherwise.

A FLAT PILLOW.

The best bed coverings are sheets of cambric or linen in the summer and soft blankets of California wool, which are as warm and light as down. If the mother can afford it, a silken comfortable of real arctic down may be added for winter use. This down is from the breast of arctic birds, and they pluck it to line the nests of their own little ones. This soft, dun colored down does not float about, but clings together, so that it is safe to use.

The coverlet may be of any dainty hued wash silk. Pretty ones made of cheesecloth filled with soft cotton combine daintiness with comfort.

It is of the highest importance that all the fittings of a baby's crib should be washable and should be kept scrupulously neat. HELEN CLIFTON.

PRESENCE OF MIND.

Teach Your Children This Most Necessary of Qualities.

Why should children be made cowards? And yet, perhaps unconsciously, that is what every mother is doing when she shows fear in her children's presence. How can you expect your children to have presence of mind when you scream at the slightest little accident—when the horse dances in the carriage shafts or perhaps there is a loud crash during a thunderstorm? On the contrary, control your nerves and teach the children to do likewise. Presence of mind is one of the greatest gifts you have in your power to bestow on your child.

Teach the little ones emergency remedies, what to do in case of fire, when they cut themselves, etc.

I recall the case of a friend of mine who had carefully drilled her small daughter in what she must do in case she caught fire. While playing around the open grate in the sitting room a spark flew, and in a minute her white pinafore was in flames. The brave baby, mindful of her mother's words, threw herself flat on the rug and rolled frantically over and over. By the time the mother and nurse had reached her, summoned by her cries, she had practically put the fire out. She might have died but for the instruction she had received.

"SHE ROLLED OVER AND OVER."

It is a duty to act in the face of danger. I impress this on the children's minds. Last summer a little girl was saved from drowning by the presence of mind of a crippled child who threw her her crutch, urging her to hold on for a minute longer. Help came within that minute, and the child's life was saved.

Instruct the children in a few practical things from the family medical book—how to lay a fainting person flat on her back after opening the windows and never to prop her up after the customary manner; how a bleeding vein should be bandaged below the cut and an artery, which can be distinguished by its bleeding in spurts, between the wound and the heart.

These and many more are bits of knowledge which may be needed at any moment. HELEN CLIFTON.

THE MILLINER'S SIDE.

She Is Victimized by Thoughtless or Unprincipled Patrons.

The milliner is a much maligned tradeswoman. We are accustomed to regard her as a bargaining Ishmaelite, whose business it is to cajole and rob trusting patrons. She is always represented in the comic papers as a conscienceless harpy, ever striving to array the feminine public in unbecoming headgear at extortionate prices.

A very rich woman called at the establishment of a certain well known milliner. She looked over the hats, but none suited her, so she ordered one to be made, which she stipulated should be ready by evening. The rich woman had never before patronized this particular shop, and in the hope of pleasing her the best people were told to drop other tasks and prepare the hat. When it was finished, the milliner herself decided to take the creation home and, in case it was not quite right, adjust the trimmings to suit the face.

The servant who admitted her to the mansion allowed her to wait in a small anteroom. In an apartment opening from it she could hear her new customer talking to her husband. He was protesting about a bill for a costly dress.

"Never mind," said his wife soothingly. "You know I must look my best at the musicale. My hat will cost me nothing. I've ordered it from Mme. Blank, and I shall wear it tonight and return it in the morning, saying that it does not suit me at all."

The milliner heard and pondered. Presently the servant came to say that the mistress desired to have the hat sent up to her.

"Tell your mistress that I shall not leave the hat until I am paid for it."

The footman returned to say that it was not his mistress' pleasure to pay until she had decided whether the hat suited her. The milliner answered:

"Very well. Tell her if she wishes to try on the hat she may do so in my presence, but it will not leave my hands until I receive my money."

The result of this message was that the rich woman herself appeared. She was very pale and very indignant.

"I don't understand this at all," she said. "Of course you will leave the hat. You cannot expect me to pay until I see how it looks with my new gown."

"Madam," the milliner replied coolly, "your servant sent me into the lit-

"VERY WELL; I WILL PAY YOU."

tle anteroom at the head of the hall. While my name was carried to you I was compelled to overhear a conversation between yourself and your husband. Perhaps you remember what you said?"

"Very well," said the thoroughly defeated woman; "I will pay you. What is the price of the hat?"

"Thirty dollars, madam," said the milliner cheerfully.

The money was paid, and the hat was turned over to its new owner. Of course she never ordered anything else at that shop, but the incident saved its proprietor the loss of one expensive hat, and, as there exists among milliners a certain good fellowship, it was not long before this rich woman found it impossible to induce any first class dealer to send her anything on approval.

Another milliner relates an incident in which a poor but pretentious customer figured. This young woman ordered a hat to be made from materials which she brought for that purpose.

"When will it be ready?" she asked when leaving the shop.

"Not until the end of next week. We are very busy," the milliner replied.

"Very well, but you must lend me a hat for tomorrow night. I am to join a swell theater party, and I have nothing to wear. There is a white toque in the window which will do."

The white toque was a French model worth $40, and her own hat when completed would bring to the establishment only the cost of the frame and the labor of the trimmer.

"I'm sorry. I sell hats. I do not lend them," the milliner replied.

The young woman was so indignant that she left the shop with her untrimmed hat and since then has taken her work elsewhere.

The customer who is kind and considerate, who pays her bills promptly and thanks the milliner for any extra trouble, is regarded as a rara avis and when she appears in the establishment reaps her reward in obtaining not only the lion's share of attention, but also the gems of the milliner's collection.

American Museum Is Truly Magnificent Institution.

Only Three Other Collections in the World Exceed It in Magnitude —Has Priceless Treasure of Gems.

[Special New York Letter.]

WITH a silk hat of the vintage of '76 on the back of his head, attired in a broadcloth coat somewhat shiny at the sleeves; with trousers somewhat shy at the lower end; with a stiff dickey over the top of which flaunted luxuriant chin whiskers like flowers out of a vase, he climbed slowly up the wide steps leading to the imposing archway of the American

"WE ARE WONDERFULLY MADE."

Museum of Natural History in West Seventy-seventh street.

He proceeded directly to the department of vertebrate palaeontology and was soon deep in contemplation of the skeleton of a three-toed marsh horse. He also studied industriously the bones of the little creature of the lower Eocene regarded as the ancestor of our magnificent equines of to-day. He looked longingly at all the specimens representing the various types of the American Hippidium.

"A learned professor," whispered the attendant to the big policeman who had been assigned to that floor.

The man with the moth-eaten hat and the scientific look edged up to the lamented remains of a wild jackass from Texas. For a moment he seemed completely lost in rapt admiration. Then, as he made a few notes on the back of an old letter, his interest reached a red glow, and, turning to the bluecoat, he remarked:

"Say, captain, we are fearfully and wonderfully made."

"Yep," said the policeman, but the attendant, desiring to show the stranger the courtesy of the institution, murmured respectfully:

"From what college, professor?"

"Veterinary surgeons' institute, class of '74," was the reply. "Some folks call me the professor, but to be up and up with you, I might as well tell you I am a hoss doctor."

Over in the zoological department a woman with a determined look on her face was staring fixedly into the broad and grotesque countenance of a hippopotamus. For five minutes she never took her gaze off him and then she whispered, as if she were really disappointed:

"He is quite plain."

Not far away two little girls from the street, who had wandered in, were viewing a many-legged creature that resembled an octopus. They counted and recounted his numerous arm-like contrivances until one, with great awe, suggested to the other:

"HE IS QUITE PLAIN."

"Sis, we'd better git away. Supposin' he should take it into his head to hug us?"

These represent the superficial visitors to the great museum. Last year the attendance was 461,026—an average of nearly 10,000 a week, and which on some weeks reached as high as 20,000. While it must be admitted that the majority of the visitors go there out of mere curiosity, many thousands are seeking information. The record of the organization shows that during the year 361 teachers and 4,959 pupils made use of the collection. In October of this year the international congress of Americanists will hold its convention there, where exceptional advantages for the study of anthropology will be offered the members. Last year the American Ornithologists' union, the national conference of the Audubon Societies of America and all the scientific societies of New York held their annual meetings in the institution, and it is fully patronized by students and [illegible] in all fields of natural history from all parts of the world.

But, while the student and the professor make use of the advantages afforded by this wonderful museum, comparatively few people in the United States know of the scope of its usefulness.

The fame of the British museum has extended throughout the civilized world, and there is probably not a school child of 12 years of age who has not some idea of the educational interests that it covers. Yet our own institution, established with the same object in view, although still in its infancy, compares favorably with the great British museum, and in many of its departments exceeds it. It has been formed on a plan so gigantic and far-reaching in its character that it bids fair in the years that are to come to outstrip all its European contemporaries in the size and value of its collections. In point of scientific importance it now ranks fourth in the world. First is the British museum; second, the Berlin institution; third, the Paris museum, and fourth, the American museum.

In many respects the American Museum of Natural History exceeds the museums across the water. It has the largest and most remarkable collection of gems in the world. They were presented by J. Pierpont Morgan, and represent the fortune of a king. The nucleus to the magnificent collection was the Tiffany exhibit at the Universal exposition at Paris, purchased by Mr. Morgan. Since then many additions have been made till the collection is now the largest and most expensive in existence. It has been installed in the southern end of the hall west of Mineral hall and arrayed in a most attractive manner in glass cases. It would be impossible to enumerate in this article even the salient points of such a large collection. It is sufficient to say that there is a marvelous display of cut and uncut materials in the groups of sapphires, emeralds, topazes, garnets, tourmalines, chrysoberyls, opals, amethysts, diamonds, golds and pearls. In addition to this there are carved and engraved vases and other objects of jadeite.

In the department of mineralogy is probably one of the largest collections that was ever gathered together. It includes the famous Be-

"WHAT IF HE SHOULD HUG US?"

ment collection, also a gift from Mr. Morgan.

The collection of woods is the most extensive on exhibition. The American anthropological collection is the most comprehensive in the world, but not content with gathering specimens representative of the life of man in their own country, the directors have sent expeditions to all parts of the earth. And not only have these expeditions searched in the ethnological fields, but they have delved into every branch of science. They have visited China, Japan, Peru, Siberia, Bolivia, Central America, Greenland—and, in fact, every known part of the globe in search of specimens of a historic and scientific nature. The result has been a wonderful collection of material which cannot be duplicated in any other institution of the world.

To give one an idea of the scope of the work in which the American museum is engaged a few figures are presented. The institution has a permanent endowment fund of $433,000 and special funds of $73,336 annually. Its receipts and disbursements last year were $156,883. The grounds of the museum consist of 18 acres situated between West Seventy-seventh, West Eighty-first streets, Columbus avenue and Central Park west. The building is a magnificent five-story brown stone, erected at a cost of $4,000,000, and forms only one-fourth of the entire structure that is to be built in wings, as occasion demands, the whole, when completed, to cover an area of 15 acres of ground.

When we consider that the British museum was organized in 1759 and the American museum in 1868 we can realize what wonderful gains we have made. The entire British museum was built at a cost of $3,065,000. The cost of erecting the American museum, which represents one-fourth of the completed structure, was nearly $1,000,000 more. The British museum is maintained by the government, but the American museum is not a national institution, but is supported by the city of New York and private subscriptions and donations. Fortunes in cash and collections have been given to it by American millionaires, of which the general public knows comparatively little. The library, consisting of 60,000 volumes treating on special subjects, has been entirely donated from private libraries of New York, and contains hundreds of rare works that money cannot buy.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $300 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires; we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. ORIGIN OF ICE CREAM.

The Process of Evolution Dates Back to the Beginning of the Seventeenth Century.

Ice cream has been brought to its present state of perfection by a gradual process of evolution from the original idea which dates back to the beginning of the seventeenth century, says What to Eat. At that time iced fruits and cups made of ice first appeared at banquets. Like many other good things for the table, ice cream claims Paris for its birthplace, and yet it was not a Frenchman but an Italian named Precope Couteaux who first thought out the idea of icing lemonades and liquers. From this was gradually evolved over 100 years later ice cream, or iced butter, as it was then called, from its resemblance to that article of food.

While all civilized nations serve ices in great variety, we are apt to think of ice cream as an essentially American dish, probably because frozen desserts of all kinds are more generally used in this country than in any other. Ice cream first made its appearance in America in Philadelphia at the end of the eighteenth century. It was then considered a great luxury, and, consequently, was rarely seen except on state occasions. It was not within the reach of ordinary mortals until 1800, when an Italian confectioner established an ice cream house, as it was then called, at Germantown, a suburb of Philadelphia.

A NORTH CREEK TALE.

Being the Truthful Narrative of a Wonderful Hunting Experience by a Truthful Man.

The following narrative was written by the veracious North Creek correspondent of the Troy Press:

George Little has lived all his life in the Adirondacks and the fish and game stories he tells are worth traveling many miles to hear. Some years ago when he had charge of a camp for the late Speaker Husted and Dr. Hayes he was out hunting and fishing on Raquette lake. He discovered a flock of wild geese flying in the shape of a V. He was in the act of loading his gun which was of the muzzle-loading pattern, and not having time to withdraw the ramrod, fired, and then waded across Alder brook to bag them. On going through the water a brass button on his pantaloons flew off and as he reached shore he found 70 pounds of trout in his pants, which was the cause of the button disappearing, and about four rods away lay a fine deer dead. He then went to secure his geese, and on his ramrod sticking in a tree hung 17 of the birds pierced through the neck. He then brought his game safely to camp, and when he dressed the deer he found the brass button imbedded in his heart. If anyone doubts this story he has the brass button to show.

HE TURNED ON THE POWER.

The Timely Suggestion That Was Offered an Absent-Minded Automobilist.

A prominent Washington physician furnished considerable amusement to pedestrians on Pennsylvania avenue one afternoon recently. The eminent, but upon this occasion absent-minded, physician endeavored to leave the Raleigh hotel in his automobile. He had ridden from some distance with a party of friends whom he entertained at luncheon at the hotel. When the party was ready to resume the trip the machine refused to go, and the physician labored for a long time in the fruitless effort to induce it to move, relates the Washington Post.

By this time a large crowd had collected, and the party seemed to wonder how it was possible, for such a mob to form in such a little while.

Then some rude man in that collection called out at the top of his voice: "Why don't you turn on the gasoline?"

The doctor's facial expression might have meant anything, although he said not a word. But he quietly laid down his tools, his quick eye sought out the man who had made the suggestion, and, in a manner that was Chesterfieldian to the limit, he said: "I thank you."

Then he turned on the power, and the machine went sailing off as smoothly as a cup defender.

RUSSIA'S FOREIGN TRADE.

American Importations Show That the Czar's People Appreciate Good Machinery.

The official report of the Russian foreign trade for the first four months of 1902 shows the American importations to be virtually the same as in 1900, apparently indicating that Russian buyers have become fully convinced it is better to buy American machinery in spite of the discriminating duty against it. The comparative figures for 1900, 1901 and 1902 are respectively $8,980,000, $7,158,000, and $8,913,500. In the meantime German and British imports have fallen, their figures being $34,061,500, $32,216,500, and $30,297,000, and $15,064,000, $14,317,000 and $10,394,000. The whole import has continued falling, so that the share of America is relatively larger than in 1900. The exportations continue to increase.

Hosiery in the Air.

One morning not long ago there was an odd sight in the eastern section of the city of Reading, Pa. The lid of a large kettle, containing several thousand stockings, at a local dye works, was lifted off under a too heavy pressure of steam, and the hosiery scattered in every direction. Stockings hung from trees and telegraph wires, and neighboring roofs were littered with them. Several employes jumped from upper windows during the excitement.

UNIQUE INDIAN CURE

It Includes a Fiddle, Whisky, Frogs and Legs.

To This Combination the Typhoid Fever Devil Is Sure to Succumb, According to the Micmac Tradition.

The Presque Isle (Me.) correspondent of the New York Sun reports that four weeks ago old Sandy Nicout, the great medicine man of the Micmac Indians, was discovered in his tent just outside the village unconscious, and suffering from a malady, which the local doctor said was typhoid fever. He was taken to a house where he revived enough to tell his attendants that he would die unless Eli LeClare, a French-Canadian musician who lived at Miramichi, was sent for.

A telegram was therefore sent to LeClare, asking him to come and bring his fiddle. Two days later, the wrinkled Frenchman and his battered fiddle reached Presque Isle.

The medicine man was unconscious when Eli entered the sickroom. The musician screwed up his instrument, twanged the strings for a moment and began to play in a minor key, the low notes rolling off from his bow like shavings under the stroke of a plane.

The sick man was tossing in a delirious fever when Eli started to play, but as the music continued, he became more quiet, his respiration was less labored, and at the end of an hour, he was sleeping quietly and perspiring.

"Heem bin geet well now," cried the fiddler. "Ah'm bin sear' out ze fever devil, so Sandy heem bin sleep."

He sent for a pint of whisky, and having drunk more than one-half of it, he mixed the remainder with cold water and began to bathe the body of his friend, chanting an Indian lullaby while he worked, and making passes, such as are practiced by magicians when they try to exorcise evil spirits.

The patient rested well that night. When he grew feverish Eli rubbed his bow across the catgut and reduced the temperature of his friend. For three weeks the French-Canadian watched by the bed of the sick Indian, dosing himself with whisky and bathing the patient in whisky and water every hour.

The doctor, certain that the Indian would die, paid little heed to the case beyond calling once a day to take the temperature of the sick man. The fever ran its course, and on the twenty-first day, when it turned, Eli went out for half an hour, coming back with six large bullfrogs, which he placed upon the sick man's body, three on each side.

After this he resumed his playing and did not stop sweeping the bow across the sounding strings until Sandy had broken out in perspiration and was sleeping easily.

"Now geev heem one quart of cole milk," ordered the musician, "an' heem bin geet well."

When Sandy had taken the milk he ordered and had slept for a few hours, those about his bed. He felt the cold frogs against his skin and asked to have them removed. Eli turned back the sheet and took from the bed six swollen and discolored frogs, all of them dead.

"Fever devil beem go in ze frogs an' mak' ze frogs die," said Eli. "Now Sandy heem geet well pretty kveek."

Delivering himself of his diagnosis of the case, the musician took his fiddle from the table, put on his fur cap and walked down to the railroad station, where he purchased a ticket for Miramichi.

Died of a Strange Disease.

Rudolph Fliedner, of New Brunswick, N. J., is dead, after a lingering illness from a rare disease of the skin known to scientists as pemphigus vulgarus. No other case of the disease has ever been known in the United States, it is asserted. Fliedner's skin became as if scalded, and his nurses had to swathe his entire body in cotton. Mr. Fliedner first became ill in May. Specialists were called who studied the case with great interest, but could do nothing to relieve him, and he died from exhaustion. He was 44 years old, and, starting as a laborer, had built up a large business.

Speed of the Gulf Stream.

The gulf stream flows at the rate of about two and a half miles an hour. Five miles is exceeded in some places, and the rate varies much with conditions of weather and tide.

Dwarfs Tough Than Giants.

As a rule dwarfs live much longer than giants. The latter usually have weak constitutions, their blood circulation is sluggish, and they have brittle bones.

LEAL'S TIED WITH PEDDIE

EXCITING FOOTBALL GAME HELD THIS MORNING.

Peddie Institute and Leal's School Played An Exciting Game 6 to 6.

The football team from Peddie Institute, of Hightstown, N. J., journeyed to town this morning and met the team from Leal's School. The result of the game was a tie, 6-6, and though both teams were noticeably weak on the defensive, the game was filled with star plays and there was brilliant playing on both sides.

Peddie kicked to Leal's in the first half and Leal's snappily rushed the ball by a series of short runs down the field for a touch down in ten minutes. Lovell kicked an easy goal and the score stood 6 0 for Leal's.

On the next kickoff Peddie got the ball on a fumble and started a fierce line-punching game down the field toward their goal. On this kind of playing Leal's team was noticeably weak and seemed unable to hold their opponents. The first half closed with Peddie's ball forty yards from the goal.

In the second half, Leal's kicked off, and Peddie, in a short space of time, rushed the ball for their touchdown. VanHorn kicked the goal. There were only eight minutes more, and with a tie score, 6-6, Peddie bucked the line for short gains and at the close of the game had the ball on ten-yard line.

The line up was as follows:

Leals—r. e., Doane; r t., R. Abbot; r g., Faber; C., Martin; l g., Brokaw; l t., C. Perkins, L. Haughey; l e., R. Haughey; q b., M. Perkins; l h b., Lovell; r h b., G. Abbot, f b., (capt.) Biglow.

After the game both teams went to the home of M. Perkins where a dinner was served.

Tickets to Staten Island.

Tickets are now sold at the North Avenue station between this city and Staten Island, the round-trip rate being $1. Prior to today only passengers wishing to connect with the Royal Blue Line trains on the New Jersey Central were carried. There has been such a demand for local traffic between Plainfield and Staten Island that the company has consented to sell tickets accordingly.

Took Three Drunks.

Although knowing his capacity was three drinks, George Disch, of Avon Park way, made away with some ten or more, yesterday afternoon, and gave way under the strain. He was picked up on Park avenue by Patrolman Vanderweg and this morning answered to a charge of drunkenness before City Judge Runyon. He promised to get back to the farm instanter and was released.

Trial Adjourned.

At the request of Inspector Addis, the trial of Fernando Brown, for a violation of the health ordinance, was adjourned for one week in the city court, this morning.

NEITHER SIDE COULD SCORE

Plainfield Consolidated and Westfield Battled for Eleven Innings; Then Called Game.

SOME GREAT PLAYING

Both Teams Managed to Chase a Man Round to Third, But Could Not Complete the Circuit, When Darkness Came Upon Them and They Had to Close the Contest.

In the annals of baseball dealing with local games it is doubtful if one can be picked out which for closeness, hard fighting or excitement could equal Saturday's contest between the Plainfield Consolidated and Westfield teams. The two nines held each other down without a run for eleven innings, when the gathering darkness compelled the umpires to call the game, leaving the teams with horns still locked. Neither team won, neither can any one claim superiority as it was a case of nip and tuck from first to last.

Failure to hit Waller in a measure was responsible for Plainfield failing to send a man around the circuit, as twice a respectable single would have meant a score. Martin and Montross were the only ones who reached first on hits and the former worked his way around to third but died there. He was the only Consolidated player to get to third bag. Waller proved a greater puzzle to the visitors than he did during the third game of the series, as thirteen strike outs are credited to him, and in addition but one man went to first on a free pass.

"Smiling Jimmie" Montross was practically the Westfield twirler's equal as he held his opponents down to four hits, one of which was a bunt. Soffell, the Westfield second baseman, hit him for a beautiful three bagger, but despite this boost he went no further. When it is considered that several of the Westfield players are members of some of the strongest semi-professional teams in the country, the palm is certainly "Jimmie's." Beside Soffell only one other man made third and that was Mallen. He reached first on a low driven single past second base and was advanced by a passed ball and a sacrifice bit.

The only error in the entire game was one of the sort that is a misnomer. It was made by George Taylor, the new left fielder, but it was through no fault of his. He made a long run for a high fly from Pastor's bat and would have caught but for the slippery condition of the ground. He fell just as he came up with the ball and while lying on the ground put up his hands. Not having fully recovered his balance he was unable to hold the sphere and it bounded away.

In the last half of the ninth inning, the Plainfield players were shifted around considerably owing to Allen being incapacitated for work behind the bat through an accident. His place was taken by Bolsterli and Martin, Lederer and McLaughlin moved about. The shift did not affect the team work in the slightest. Other good work was done by Cooney, who nipped an intended sacrifice in the bud and scared several other from trying to bunt, and by Bolsterli at short and Martin on second.

ANTI-TRUST CAMPAIGN.

Series of Open Air Meeting Inaugurated by Anti-Trust League on Saturday Evening.

An open air campaign against the trusts was inaugurated Saturday evening. From the back of a truck on North avenue, the terrible monsters called "trusts" received a scathing rebuke at the hands of several speakers. Captain Charles Campbell, general organizer of the Anti-Trust League, of New York, William Martin, assistant secretary of the same organization, and Thomas Maguire, a labor organizer who was formerly an assistant to Chief Powderley of the Knights of Labor, each made a short but earnest address.

Then John H. Hillmann, who had introduced the speakers, tried to explain what he didn't say at a recent Democratic meeting and incidentally threw some verbal bouquets at The Daily Press. It is impossible to give the substance of his speech as none of his audience were able to understand exactly what was the matter save that he evidently imagined he was feeling quite badly over something. During the course of his remarks the driver of the truck fell asleep.

A TOBOGAN SLIDE ON ROOF

SIX-YEAR-OLD JOHN MUIR TRIED IT WITH SERIOUS CONSEQUENCES.

Broke Arm in Two Places and Injured Internally—Discovered His Mistake Too Late.

Longing for a toboggan slide possessed John Muir, the six-year-old son of Andrew Muir, of Essex street, Saturday afternoon, and in lieu of a snow covered hill, he selected the roof of a partially erected two-story building on Spruce street. With several companions he was enjoying the fun immensely when an extra fast start sent him over the cornice and he took a sheer drop to the ground.

He was picked up in a partly conscious condition and taken to Muhlenberg Hospital where it was found in addition to internal hurts his left arm was broken in two places. The fractures were set by Dr. Murray and he will be out in a few days.

The lad realized his danger as he made a frantic attempt to stop himself from plunging off the roof and he shouted in affright, "I'm killed." It so frightened the small boys who were with him that they clambered down the opposite side of the building and scurried away.

TEACHERS IN SESSION.

Interesting Meeting of Somerset County Teachers' Association Held at Watchung Saturday.

One of the best meetings ever held under the auspices of the Somerset County Teachers' Association was that of Saturday in the public school at Watchung. There was a large attendance of teachers from all parts of the county and the programme was an excellent one.

"The Class Room Recitations," was the topic of a paper by Principal Walters, of South Bound Brook. Herbert Lloyd, of Trenton, who teaches music in the Bound Brook public schools, gave an intensely interesting discourse on "Vocal Music with Mixed Classes," with practical illustrations.

"The Aim and Object of Elementary Language Teaching," was the topic of a paper by Principal Thomas Bissell, of Newark, and "How to Enlist and Hold the Interest of Pupils," formed an interesting topic for general discussion.

JUNIORS GRADUATED.

Into Endeavor Society of Park Avenue Baptist Church Yesserday.

Yesterday afternoon at the Park Avenue Baptist church there were interesting exercises at a meeting of the Junior Endeavor Society. At that time Miss Vida Whitney and Miss Sadie Hand were graduated from the Junior to the Senior society.

The programme, which was in charge of Mrs. Wheaton Lowry, consisted of songs, reading the Scripture, prayer by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Richardson, selections by a vocal quartette, Miss Eleanor Stutsman, Miss Marjorie Brown, Miss Marguerite Ostrom and Miss Grace Weeks, and parting words by Mrs. Lowry. The exercises closed with the singing of "Blest Be the Tie."

The Operators.

A very large congregation was present at the Monroe Avenue church, last evening, when Rev. John MacMurray gave the second of his series of sermons on subjects relating to the recent coal strike. His theme was "The Operators." A more detailed account will be given in tomorrow's Daily Press.

GOLFERS STILL PLAY THEIR FAVORITE GAME

Regular Competitions at the Local Golf Clubs Held Saturday Afternoon.

A FAIR CROWD WAS OUT

WALTER PETERSON AND A. D. BEERS WON HONORS AT HILLSIDE.

Senator Chas. A. Reed Was Low Man for Presidents Cup at Park Golf Club—The Scores in the Various Events.

No rain fell from the threatening clouds Saturday afternoon and the local golfers found the day an admirable one for their sport afterall. There were fair crowds at both local clubs. The usual events were held at Hillside in which the honors were carried away by Walter Peterson and A. D. Beers. At the Park Golf Club, there was the usual play for the President's cup, first honors going to Senator Charles A. Reed.

PARK GOLF CLUB.

While a dozen golfiacs turned out at the Park Golf Club, Saturday afternoon, prepared to play in the rain, they were pleasantly disappointed. They found the course in good condition although very slow and all the scores stayed well away from the course record. The three honor men made the same gross score, the difference in handicaps deciding the places.

As a result of the day's play, Charles B. Morse slightly increased his lead for the trophy while Senator Charles A. Reed, who was low man for the day, became an important factor in the race. He still stands fourth but only a fraction of a point separates him from second and third man. Samuel Townsend jumped up from fourteenth to sixth place. There will be only three more chances to play.

Saturday's scores were as follows:

	G	H	N
Charles A. Reed	109	21	88
Samuel Townsend	109	20	89
Charles B. Morse	109	19	90

HILLSIDE CLUB.

While the attendance at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course on Saturday was quite large, there were three contestants who turned in scores for the Golf Committee cup. The winner of first honors was Walter Peterson, while Dr. B. VanD. Hedges and H. deP. Wright finished second and third. This gives Mr. Peterson a total of ten and five-sixth points, while Dr. Hedges receives a total of two and one-half points, and Howard Wright a total of ten and five-sixth points.

The scores for the Golf Committee cup are as follows:

Walter Peterson, 85, 8—77; Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, 86, 6—80; H. deP. Wright, 83, 0—83.

DR. RICHARDS SAID FAREWELL

Immense Congregation Assembled to Hear His Last Words to His Local Charge.

WAS A STRONG SERMON

Formally Announced That the Pastorate of Crescent Avenue Church Was Vacant, and That the Debt of $5,000 Had Been Cleared Away Before His Departure.

The farewell discourse by Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, closing his pastorate at the Crescent Avenue church, attracted a congregation that completely filled that edifice last evening. It was a service filled with interest and the strong and impressive sermon delivered by Dr. Richards was listened to attentively.

At the commencement of the service, Dr. Richards stated that at the meeting of the Presbytery held recently at Grandin, the request of the Crescent Avenue church to have the pastoral relation dissolved was granted and that he had asked the Presbytery to appoint him as the one to announce that fact to his people. He said that he preferred to do it himself rather than have someone else do it for him, although it was a hard task. He then added that all present knew what the parting would mean to him. He said that the ties formed would last forever.

In connection with this announcement Dr. Richards stated still further that Rev. J. O. McKelvey had been appointed moderator of the session to see that the pulpit is supplied until a regular pastor is chosen. Dr. Richards announced that next Sunday Rev. Dr. Freeman, of East Orange, would occupy the pulpit and that during November, Prof. Thomas Hall, of Union Theological Seminary, and son of the late Dr. John R. Hall, would preach.

Another announcement of interest by Dr. Richards was that the $5,000 indebtedness on the church had been cleared. He said that $3,000 was raised a week ago yesterday and the balance since then by subscription. He expressed his gratification over this extra effort and shared with the congregation the satisfaction in knowing that the church is now free from all indebtedness.

After these announcements, Dr. Richards preached his farewell sermon, taking his text from Revelations ii-11: "He that overcometh shall inherit all things, and I will be his God." It was a powerful sermon and convinced the hearers of the importance of keeping up the good fight of faith.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS.

Officers Elected for the Young Men's Democratic Club Saturday Evening.

The Young Men's Democratic Club was organized Saturday evening at headquarters when the following officers were elected:

President, H. W. Stover; vice president, W. T. Banks; secretary, John F. Casey; financial secretary, Frank T. Shattle; treasurer, H. W. Marshall. It was reported that at a meeting of the club to be held tomorrow evening after the city convention, the by-laws would be presented for adoption.

It was announced at the meeting that Edward M. Shepard, of New York, would address the Democratic mass meeting to be held in Reform Hall Thursday evening.

FATHER COMPLAINED.

John Blard Charged With Disorderly Conduct on Somerset Street.

John Blard, of the borough, was arrested last evening by Marshal Fahn on a warrant issued by Justice Mattison for Phillip B. Hapeny, of Pearl street. Blard was accused of disorderly conduct in the presence of the complaint's daughters. Early last evening he was arrested and taken before Justice Mattison, who held him in $100 bail for the Grand Jury.

The defendant is about twenty-five years of age and is married. When arraigned he refused to discuss the charge and waived examination.

MYSTERY OF FUTURE CANNOT BE SOLVED

Rev. Thos. R. Slicer, Famous Unitarian, Preached on What Is To Come.

AT ALL SOUL'S CHURCH

IMPOSSIBLE FOR MAN TO KNOW WHAT THE HEREAFTER WILL BE.

The Infinite is Not to be Comprehended, and the Ending Cannot be Known—A Large Congregation Hear His Sermon.

Rev. Thomas R. Slicer, pastor of All Soul's Unitarian church, of New York, and regarded as the oftenest quoted Unitarian preacher in the country, spoke at All Soul's church, this city, last evening. He was heard by a large congregation which was visibly impressed by his deepness of thought and forcefulness of speech.

Taking as his theme, "Finding the Road," selected from a portion of the Fifth Psalm, he presented a strong argument on the utter impracticability of seeking to learn one's destiny and the being of God. These he termed as inscrutable and perplexing questions and declared as proof that the Infinite is not to be comprehended and the ending cannot be known. Were God's people to know these things, he said, it would be the solution of their perplexity but they are among the problems that cannot be understood and are best let alone. The road to the being of God is through the knowledge of man and as no one has the slightest intimation as to what is to become of the latter, progress stops.

Pictures of Heaven, Dr. Slicer remarked, as they are generally thought of, have their sources from two places, the book of Revelations and Milton's "Paradise Lost." The former in reality does not reveal its mysteries but devotes itself to relating the spiritual nature of man, while Milton's work is purely imaginative. He referred to the great writer as a "hybrid Unitarian" of which there is only one at the present time. Thus, he continued, it may be seen that absolutely nothing is known of the great beyond as everything is learned by experience and no one has had that. God made His people and it remains with Him to do with them as He will. The road of Life is open; it has an end, but it is attained by travelling its entire length and by no other.

Throughout his discourse Dr. Slicer made his statements clear by the apt illustrations that make his theories comprehensive and easier to follow. He speaks slowly and distinctly and with practically no gestures.

Previous to the sermon, Alexander VanOss and Miss Fredericka Brentnall, rendered a pleasing duet.

NEW COAL HERE.

McDonough Bros., Received Carload of Freshly Mined Coal—D. C. Ivins & Co., Also Have Coal.

The first carload of fresh mined coal to be received in Plainfield since last May was received on Saturday by McDonough Brothers and today it is being delivered to Woodhull & Martin.

At the yard of D. C. Ivins & Company, last week, three arrived, one car of coke, one of anti-bituminous and three of smokeless bituminous. This is the first of any kind the firm has received in a long time and most of it was immediately ordered.

Almost Four Score.

Jacob R. Williams, of Newark, spent Sunday with his son, W. D. Williams, of West Fifth street. Mr. Williams is head bookkeeper at Hughes & Phillips' machine shops in Newark, having held the position since 1861. He is also an expert machinist. He is now nearing his eightieth birthday, yet he is hale and hearty and enjoys good health.

G. O. P. Mass-Meeting.

The Republican city executive committee has planned to hold a mass-meeting in Reform Hall, Thursday evening, October 30, at which time all of the candidates will be present. A committee, consisting of J. F. Buckle, J. Hervey Doane, J. E. Kimball and Assemblyman William Newcorn, will have charge of the arrangements.

TENNIS AT HILLSIDE.

Continuation of Play in Open and Club Championship Tournaments at Hillside Club.

There was continuation of play at tennis in the open tournament and club championship at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club courts, Saturday. Owing to the limited amount of time, in many cases only one set was played. In the open tournament Duncan Bulkley, Hillside, defeated Arthur Lovell, Hillside, 6-2; F. M. Letson, Cedar Brook, defeated F. G. Smith, Westfield, 8-6; Duncan Bulkley, Hillside, defeated Wallace Guilford, Park Club, 6 0, 6-0. F. M. Letson, Cedar Brook, played Albert D. Beers, Hillside, the score being 6-0, 3 6. This match was not finished, but will be next Saturday, when the winner will play Duncan Bulkley for the cup. In the club championship tournament, Kenneth Bulkley defeated Arthur Lovell, 6-4, 6-1, and Duncan Bulkley played Kenneth Bulkley, the score for this unfinished match being 6-4, 4-6. This will also be completed next Saturday, after which the winner will play T. M. Day, Jr., the present holder of the championship cup.

BECAUSE OTTO HELLSON WILDLY WAVED A REVOLVER.

Edward Washington Threatened to Carve, But His Weapon Was a Match Box—Other Court Cases.

In the city court, this morning, Otto Hellson, a lately arrived Swede, pleaded guilty to flourishing an unloaded revolver in Galbraith's saloon Saturday night, and driving everybody from the place. He begged hard for leniency and City Judge Runyon allowed him to return to Short Hills where he works.

Chief Kiely arraigned Edward Washington, colored, who he grabbed on Watchung avenue, last evening, as he was reaching for his razor pocket and threatening to carve everybody in sight. The only thing in the pocket was a nickel plated match box but Washington resisted arrest and on this charge he was fined $8 or twenty days.

Mrs. Lizzie Goff, of South Second street, preferred complaint against Mrs. Martha Snediker, charging her with assault. It was charged that she slapped the complainant in the face, Saturday night, because she objected to a disturbance going on in the Snediker apartments across the hall. A warrant was issued for Mrs. Snediker and she will be arraigned tomorrow.

Y. M. C. A. ANNIVERSARY.

Services Were Held in Several of the Plainfield Churches Yesterday.

In continuation of the anniversary celebration of the Y. M. C. A., several special services were held yesterday. At the Y. M. C. A. in the afternoon, Lieut. E. W. Hearne, State secretary, spoke of the work in the State. A feature of this service was the singing by Miss Grace Hilderbrand. Last evening at the First Presbyterian church, Lieut. Hearne again spoke of his work and Miss Hilderbrand sang several solos.

At the First Baptist church yesterday morning, Rev. Edward F. See, general secretary of the Brooklyn Y. M. C. A., preached a strong sermon for young men. One other anniversary service was held at Grace M. E. church yesterday morning, when Kenneth Robbie, boys' secretary, spoke to the congregation of that church on the work of the Y. M. C. A.

All the Cakes Sold.

The cake sale under the auspices of the Young Women's Mission Band, Saturday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. E. Zeisz, 22 Chatham street, netted nearly $9. All of the cakes, which were donated, were sold, and if there had been more they could have been easily disposed of.

Operated on at Hospital.

George R. Laird, of East Second street, was taken in the ambulance to Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday morning, suffering from appendicitis. He was immediately operated upon by Drs. Endicott and Buchanan. The patient rallied and it is thought he will speedily recover.

Supper at Golf Club.

E. Maxwell Honeyman, Ralph K. Miner and Charles B. Morse gave an informal supper at the Park Golf Clubhouse, Saturday evening, in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Card and Miss Pearl Parcher, of Minneapolis. Covers were laid for sixteen.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Doud, yesterday enjoyed a pleasant drive to Bernardsville.

GOD SPEED TO DR. RICHARDS

Members of Plainfield Ministers' Association Presented Him With a Token.

AND SAID FAREWELL

Visited His Home in a Body Saturday—Presentation Made by Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes—Dr. Richards' Reply—Association Presented Him With An Ink Stand.

The Plainfield Ministers' Association met Saturday afternoon in the parlors of the Y. M. C. A. to decide upon some token remembrance to be presented by them to Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards. After a decision was reached the members marched to the home of Dr. Richards, where they were welcomed by him, and after calling Mrs. Richards into the parlor, Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes preceded to make known to Dr. Richards the object of the visit in a very pleasant and touching speech. He said:

"Dr. Richards, your departure from Plainfield is an event that will be chronicled in the records of the church which you are to leave and in those of the church to which you are about to go, but there is another record written on the tablets of memory and which will be kept in the hearts of your friends and brethren forever. Some one has said 'there are noble men whom to know is a benediction.' In our estimation you are easily easily entitled to a place in the ranks of such noble men, for your long and varied ministry has been a blessing to those who have felt the touchof your influence and a benediction to this community.

"To utter such words in some instances might be accepted as flattery, but they are spoken here in the spirit of gennine sincerity and are justified by the esteem in which you are held by all our churches and by the people of every class—by the fruits of your ministry and by the universal regret felt at your removal from our city. You have stood in very close relations to the members of the noble church which you have served for many years; you have held relations of a peculiar kind to this community as a public spirited citizen; but your connection with the Ministers' Association, of Plainfield, has brought you into somewhat peculiar relations with the pastors and ministers of Plainfield, and in this narrowing circle, prevaded as it is by a spirit of congenial friendship one marked by the intimacies of brotherly intercourse, we have learned to love you as a man, as a Christian and as a minister of the gospel of Jesus Christ; and we wish to bear witness to your unvarying kindness, to your Christian courtesy and brotherliness of every member of our body, to wisdom in counsel, to your readiness to co-operate in every work done in the name of the Master, wherever and by whomsoever performed and to your spirit of Christian fraternity.

"Brother Richards, your preaching, the spirit in which you have labored with us and the life which you have lived among us illustrates to some extent that conception of Christian brotherhood which shall be realized when the prayer of our Lord that his people should be one, is answered. Though you go from us, you will still hold a place in our hearts and the work which you have done here will remain and ripen in harvest which other hand shall gather. As you go into another field of labor you will make new friends, but you will nowhere find truer and more loyal than the brethren of the Ministers' Association of Plainfield, our best wishes are that the work of the Lord may prosper in your hands, our prayer is that the blessing of the Great Head of the church may abide with you and with your noble and amicable wife whose hospitality we have so often enjoyed in this, your Plainfield home, and upon all that are yours.

"A part of my pleasant duty on this accasion is to present you in behalf of the brethren, this gift—a keepsake to remind you of sweet and sacred fellowship with the members of our association. We wish it had greater intrinsic value, but we know you will prize it above silver and gold since it conveys the expression of sincere and loving hearts. We know your tongue is as the pen of a ready writer, and your pen is as the tongues of the

THEATRICAL.

Continuous vaudeville of excellent class attracts great crowds to Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, New York City. For this week the feature act will be the Four Lukens in their sensational exhibition upon the horizontal bars. Dion Boucicault's celebrated drama, "Led Astray," will be presented by the Fifth Avenue Stock Company. The Charles L. Davis production of "Alvin Joslyn," with its wealth of special scenery and lighting effects, will be the attraction at the Fifty-eighth Street. The Proctor Stock Company will present "Mr. Barnes of New York" at the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Theatre. The excellence of the vaudeville programmes at Proctor's, Newark, is undisputed and great throngs are in attendance at both daily performances. The daily bargain matinees are meant especially for the convenience of women and children and they are exceedingly popular. For next week Clay Clemont & Company will present "Entertaining the Baronn" as the feature of the bill.

The one big dramatic event of the New York season is the phenomenal success of Henrietta Crosman in "The Sword of the King" at Wallack's Theatre, New York. Everybody who keeps in touch with affairs of the theatre looked for some notable achievement from Miss Crosman this year. Her record of fomer years led to this natural expectation. But her triumph in "The Sword of the King" eclipses all previous undertakings. It is a conspicuous fact, one of which any artist may justly be proud, that every New York dramatic critic without a single exception, in writing of the opening performance of "The Sword of the King" gave unqualified praise to Miss Crosman and pronounced her without a peer. Such unanimity in Eulogy is without precedent in New York dramatic writing. All agreed that Miss Crosman is seen to greater advantage as Philippa Drayton in "The Sword of the King" than in any rôle she ever played. That the public is of like mind is proven by the attendance at the theatre. New York is generous when it finds something it likes, and that it likes Miss Crosman and "The Sword of the King" the big audiences testify. Indeed, the demand for seats is so great that Miss Crosman will give Wednesday as well as Saturday matinees. This arrangement will be a boom to suburbanities who thus will have the better opportunity to see this star and comedy as they are sure to do before she leaves Wallack's, and the opportunity will last none too long, either, for the engagement is limited. The play is sumptuously staged and mounted and nobody will visit New York without seeing Miss Crosman in her brilliant success.

PERSONAL.

Miss May B. Squire, of Astor place, has returned from a visit with friends in Somerville.

Miss Edith Cairns, of West Fifth street, has returned to her home after a delightful vacation spent in the upper part of New York State.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Russell, of Winfield, Iowa, have returned home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Yardley Brown, of Summit avenue.

Mrs. Alex. Mallinson, of West Fourth street, went to Newark today, to attend the eighty-fourth birthday celebration of her mother-in-law. Mrs. Mallinson, the celebrant, has always lived in Newark and enjoys excellent health.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The colored voters of the Fifth Congressional District are indulging in an occasional loud guffaw over the mistake made in sending out the campaign literature of Congressman Flanagan. The addresses of the voters are taken from the registration lists, and it is apparent that somebody unfamiliar with the peculiarities of such documents has been doing the work. At least, wherever "col." has appeared after the name of a voter it has been transferred from an appendage to a title. When "James Smith, col." received some of the choice thoughts of Mr. Flanagan through the mails, he was surprised to find that he was addressed as "Col. James Smith." At first he was unable to account for the dignity heaped upon him, but when the truth finally dawned upon him, he said: "Mistah Flanagan may call me kunnel befor' election, but I bet you dat afte'wards I'll be plain 'coon.'"—Newark News.

It will be remarkable, indeed, if the nomination of a new ticket by the Democrats of Somerset county restores harmony in the ranks of that party. From the revelations made after the first convention had placed candidates in the field, there appears to be little doubt but that the action of the delegates was worse than a blunder. That the men who had the power to make the nominations were misled into performing a most unwise act is certain. It would have been possible for a leader thoroughly familiar with the facts to have prevented such a faux pas had he so desired, but the man in charge of the machine in Somerset county was not equal to the occasion.

The seriousness of the situation, which, it is charged, was brought about by treachery and trickery, was not realized until some one with more acumen than was possessed by the leaders forced its meaning home upon the latter. It was made evident that the Democratic party of Somerset could not afford to stand for such methods. The only remedy in sight was the withdrawal of the whole ticket. Now that that has been done, and new men, the real choice of the leaders, have been placed in the field, the wrong has been righted as far as possible. But it will be impossible for the voters to forget, and if the friends of the men who were forced off the ticket can forgive they will show a rare quality for politicians. The withdrawal of Nelson Y. Dungan as the candidate for Senator, although he was the popular choice, was a tribute on his part to honesty in politics, and Samuel S. Childs is the nominee by virtue of that rugged American sentiment in favor of fair play.—Newark News.

N. Y. Flower and Sculpture Show.

The success of last year's exhibition given by the New York Florists' Club, made the giving of another show this year, a compliance with popular demand. The importance of the show to anyone interested in horticulture, its beauty as a scene, and the wonderful display of shrubs and plants and flowers, gives it a place as an annual exhibition. This year, from Thursday, October 30, to Thursday, November 6, there will be a revelation in Madison Square Garden. The addition of statuary to the exhibition is by arrangement with the National Sculpture Society, and there will be more than two hundred exhibits of the sculptor's art, arranged with the best skill to give a novel and beautiful effect. From the entrance hall on Madison avenue, to the far end of the Garden, there will be something to be seen and thought of; a revelation in beauty and effect. The plan of the exhibits will be different from any ever given in New York. Nature has given the grand display of flowers and plants; the skill of the sculptor has given the silent, yet speaking, evidence of advancement in sculpture, and this year's exhibition will be long remembered by all who see it. The Florists' Club and the Sculpture Society have put their best efforts forward to give New York a show that will tell its own story of its novelty and value.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Walter I. Gaston, of the borough, has been spending a few days at Somerville.

Isaac Russell and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Percy Russell, of Brooklyn, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Yardley Brown, of Summit avenue.

Mrs. W. F. Adams and family, of Fairview avenue, will soon move to Chicago, where Mr. Adams is now superintendent of the telegraph on one of the large western railroads.

A GHOULISH TRADE.

Indiana Grave Robbery Business Laid Bare by Confession.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 20.—Ghastly revelations have been brought to light by the Marion county grand jury's investigation into the remarkable organization of ghouls that has been operating for five years in cities of the state from Indianapolis to Muncie and Marion.

As a result of the evidence obtained through the confession of Rufus Cantrell, the chief ghoul, and the testimony of a number of men now in jail Deputy Prosecutor Benedict announces that warrants will be issued for several men of prominence besides those already under arrest or out on bail charged with complicity in the revolting series of crimes that have shocked the entire middle west.

Cantrell's confession was complete and voluminous. It showed that for half a decade Indianapolis has been the central headquarters for organizations of grave robbers that have watched the cemeteries of the territory in which they operated with a hawk-like scrutiny, keeping a list of every interment.

Medical and dental colleges all over the country, from New York to San Francisco, have been supplied with material for the dissecting knives of physicians and surgeons. Graves were despoiled in such numbers that it will probably never be known just how many bodies have been torn from their consecrated resting places.

EIGHT MEN SCALDED.

Three Will Probably Die as Result of Breaking Steam Pipe.

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 20.—By the parting of a steam pipe at the Riverside plant of the National Tube works in Benwood eight men were scalded and three of them will die.

Four of the men were carpenters and four laborers. They were placing a partition in the boiler room of the new blast furnace and were working on a scaffold. A twelve inch copper pipe supplying the blast engines with steam from the boilers broke without warning, and the escaping steam filled the room. A valve was blown through two board partitions, and both were destroyed. The scaffold fell to the floor.

Fierce Autumn Electrical Storm.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 20.—Dispatches received from Dansville, Livingston county, state that an electrical storm of unusual severity has occurred in that vicinity. The lightning was almost incessant throughout the afternoon and evening. Shortly after the passing of the worst of the storm the entire countryside is said to have been illuminated by the glare of fires. Barns and sheds on the Bonner farm filled with grain and beans, a barn on the Hampton farm, a barn in West Sparta and a church in Sparta were burned to the ground. Fires have been seen in the direction of Sonyea, but nothing has been learned of the damage in that direction. It was the most destructive storm which has visited the vicinity in years, and the damage cannot be estimated until further reports are received, although it will run into the thousands. Lightning also caused heavy damage in Steuben county.

All Quiet at Gonaives.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 20.—The town of Gonaives is quiet. General St. Foix Colin, commander of the government forces there, is maintaining order. There are still a great number of refugees in the foreign consulates. The family of the late Admiral Killick is in the German consulate. The marine guards which were landed from the foreign warships last week to protect the consulates have gone back to their vessels. The United States cruiser Cincinnati has left here for Port de Paix, the French cruiser D'Assas is coming to Port au Prince, and the German cruiser Falke has gone to Cape Haitien.

Kansas City's Horse Show.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 20.—The eighth annual horse show, which will begin in Convention hall tonight and last during the entire week, promises to be the most successful in the history of the Kansas City Horse Show association. The entry list numbers more than 600, breaking all previous records, and the great variety of events includes many features which will be new to horse show patrons of this city and vicinity.

Duck Hunters Lost.

SALEM, Mass., Oct. 20.—Duck hunting in a frail canoe probably has proved a fatal sport for John E. Foster of Beverly and Frank W. Wilson of this city, both students. They left on their trip in Salem harbor Saturday, and later fragments of the canoe and Wilson's paddle were found in Beverly cove.

Oregon Stage Held Up.

NORTH YAMHILL, Ore., Oct. 20.—The Tillamook stage was held up during the night by three masked men five miles from here. The robbers secured $200 from the passengers and then escaped. The country is heavily timbered, and there is little probability of capturing the robbers.

FAMOUS BANDIT DEAD

James Younger, Freed From Prison, Takes His Life.

ONE OF THE JESSE JAMES GANG.

Had Been Serving Life Sentence in a Minnesota Penitentiary, but Was Recently Paroled—Outlaws' Deeds Recalled.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 20.—James Younger, formerly a member of the notorious James band of outlaws, which infested the western country a quarter of a century ago, has committed suicide by shooting. He left a letter to the press, in which he gives as a reason for his act despondency over continued ill health and separation from his friends. Death is supposed to have occurred early yesterday morning. Younger occupied a room in a downtown block, and when he did not make his appearance as usual search was made for him. The door of his room was broken in last night, and his dead body was found stretched on the floor beside the bed, a revolver clutched in his right hand.

Younger since his parole from the state penitentiary in July of last year has led an exemplary life.

James Younger was the youngest of three brothers—Robert, Coleman and James—who between the years 1866 and 1873 gained great notoriety through their association with Jesse and Frank James. The band headed by Jesse James was charged with almost innumerable robberies of banks and railroad trains, in the execution of which many desperate encounters took place and many men were killed. The members of the band had served through the civil war, fighting on the side of the Confederacy with Quantrell and his guerrillas. The scene of most of their alleged post bellum depredations was the state of Missouri and those adjacent thereto, but in September, 1876, the band entered Minnesota, traversing the state as far as Northfield, in Rice county. There on Sept. 7, after terrorizing the people on the street, an attempt was made to loot the First National bank. Cashier J. L. Heywood, who was in charge of the bank, made a plucky fight to preserve the funds of the institution, and during the encounter he was shot and killed, not, however, until he had wounded one or more of the raiders. The citizens of Northfield, quickly recovering from the panic, armed themselves and started in pursuit of the desperadoes, who, baffled by the resistance they had encountered, had mounted their horses and were attempting to escape. A week was spent in their desperate retreat, the pursuing posse of citizens time and again coming into contact with the bandits and exchanging shots with them.

The raiders were handicapped by the wounded, whom they were endeavoring to carry with them, and finally in a thick wood the posse succeeded in surrounding them. A battle ensued, in which three members of the gang were killed and the three Younger brothers were captured. Jesse James and the other outlaws succeeded in making good their escape.

The prisoners were brought to trial and on Nov. 21, 1876, pleaded guilty to the charge of murder in the first degree, this plea, it is said, having been entered to avoid the infliction of the death penalty. The brothers were sentenced to serve life sentences.

In 1889 an effort was made to secure an unconditional pardon for the brothers, it being pleaded that it had not been proved that either of the brothers had fired the shot that killed Cashier Heywood, and a further plea for mercy was based upon the ground that Bob Younger was dying of consumption. Superintendent of Census William R. Merriam, who then occupied the gubernatorial chair, refused to grant a pardon, there still being a very strong sentiment against the brothers in Northfield and Rice county. Soon after this Robert Younger died in prison.

All efforts at securing an unconditional pardon having failed, a bill was introduced in the state legislature in 1901 empowering the state board of pardons to grant paroles to life prisoners who had served twenty-five years or more. The bill was opposed, but finally passed both branches of the legislature and was sent to Governor Van Sant for his signature. Upon recommendation of the board of prison commissioners a parole was granted to Coleman and James Younger and on July 14 they were released.

The Roumanian Situation.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The Daily Mail recently sent a correspondent to Roumania to investigate the Jewish question there, and this morning the paper publishes a letter from its representative in which he says that in Roumania the laws are fair, but that there is crying injustice in their application, or, rather, their nonapplication to the Jews. The Jews, he writes, are persecuted not on account of their religion, but because if they were naturalized and treated justly they would own half the land and, in short, "run" the country.

RETREAT, NOT A ROUT

Venezuelan Rebels' Version of La Victoria Fight.

CASTRO'S POSITION IMPREGNABLE.

Seven Days' Battle, Reputed to Have Resulted In Utter Defeat of Revolutionists, Now Said to Have Been Undecisive.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Oct. 20.—One of the leaders of the Matos revolution in Venezuela who is at present in Curacao has furnished the following details and explanation of the retreat of the revolutionary army from La Victoria. He says the rebels only abandoned the fight after being convinced that La Victoria was impregnable and after President Castro had refused to come out and attack the revolutionists outside of La Victoria. Twice did the revolutionary general Mendoza attempt to force President Castro to take the offensive and twice the president refused.

When the rebel re-enforcements arrived at La Victoria last Thursday President Castro and his forces were located at a point on the German railroad. The rebels made a detour of the city and cut off the only road of retreat open to the government forces. They were then short of ammunition, and without the arrival of a train bringing them half a million cartridges it is believe that Castro's forces would have been annihilated. Preparations for their retreat had already been ordered. The revolutionists stationed near Caracas, some 1,200 men under the command of General Ramos, are alone responsible for the retreat of General Mendoza. They permitted the train carrying ammunition to the government to leave Caracas and reach La Victoria. This train had an escort of only 100 men. The men under Ramos did not attack it, nor did they destroy one of the eighty bridges between Caracas and La Victoria over which the railroad runs.

An added proof that the government suffered terribly in the La Victoria fight from the repeated attacks of the rebels is found in the fact that President Castro does not pursue General Mendoza. The latter's plan in withdrawing from La Victoria is to oblige President Castro to abandon the positions he holds there.

The rebels suffered losses, but the government did also. President Castro's forces are reduced to 3,100 men, while General Matos still has 9,000 men in the field. It was not a rout, but a methodical retreat.

In conclusion the rebel officer said that the revolutionists within a few days would be found near Caracas.

Government Claims Big Victory.

LA VICTORIA, Venezuela, Oct. 20.—A messenger has arrived here from the scene of the engagement near this place between government troops and revolutionists, bringing news that after seven days of terrible fighting 9,000 rebels under General Mendoza had abandoned the field, having retired from their positions, six miles from La Victoria, Friday night, retreating in the direction of Villa de Cura. According to President Castro, the killed and wounded number 3,000. The victory of the government troops, which is said to be due to the personal courage of President Castro, who twice, with a Mauser rifle in his hand, charged at the head of his soldiers, is considered a serious setback for the cause of the revolutionists.

Battle Was Undecisive.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—In a telegram to the state department dated Caracas, Oct. 18, received here, Minister Bowen stated that the revolutionary army had withdrawn from near La Victoria and that it was believed the battle was not ended. He also stated that the government troops still held Valencia. A later dispatch, dated 10:45 Sunday forenoon, from the same source, stated that the battle had ended with no decisive result.

Noted Lawyer Dead.

JOHNSTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 20.—Hon. Horace E. Smith, LL. D., Fulton county's most eminent lawyer, is dead at his home here, aged eighty-five years. For several years he was the partner in Boston of the late Henry B. Stanton, the husband of Elizabeth Cady Stanton. In 1851 and 1852 he was a member of the Massachusetts legislature, and for ten years following 1879 Mr. Smith was dean of the Albany Law school.

President Settles Another Strike.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The strike inaugurated some time ago among the wood carvers employed by a New York firm having the contract for the carvings at the White House has been declared off. The strikers' demand that the carving shall be dressed by hand and not by machine was granted. It is said that President Roosevelt exerted his good offices to bring about the end of the strike.

Filipinos Interested In World's Fair.

MANILA, Oct. 20.—The civil commission will probably increase the Philippine appropriation for the St. Louis exposition exhibit by $100,000, making the total $350,000. Fair Commissioner Barrett has addressed a meeting of Filipinos which was arranged by Governor Taft on the subject, and the sentiment of the meeting was in favor of the increase.

Graveyard Under the Hammer.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Oct. 20.—A large cemetery at Pine Plains, Dutchess county, has been sold at auction on account of the foreclosure of a mortgage. Six thousand bodies are buried in the cemetery. It is thought the courts may allow the bodies to remain.

MINERS IN CONFERENCE.

Delegates Meet In Wilkesbarre to Discuss Strike Settlement.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 20.—The anthracite mine workers' convention met in the Nesbitt theater, this city, at 10 a. m. for the purpose of accepting or rejecting the proposition of President Roosevelt to end the strike and submit all grievances to the arbitration commission appointed by him. Between 700 and 800 delegates are present.

Many of the delegates are instructed in various features of the settlement, but a majority of them will follow the advice and judgment of President Mitchell. There is nothing on the surface that gives the slightest indication that the convention will not vote to send the men to work this week, with the probability still in favor of Thursday as the day of resumption.

The opening meeting is being held behind closed doors. The formal organization was effected by electing President Mitchell chairman. In a long speech to the delegates he laid the plan of arbitration submitted by the president of the United States before them for action and recommended that it be accepted and the men return to work as quickly as the coal companies can provide work.

District President Nichols of the United Mine Workers when asked how long the conference would probably last said he expected it would adjourn some time tomorrow. He expressed the opinion that there would not be any very great opposition to the acceptance of the proposition.

ALBANY'S BIG BLAZE.

Blotted Out Two Lives and Half a Million of Property.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 20.—It is now believed that another life was lost in the fire which destroyed Tower & Brooks' Boston store. The watchman, who was supposed to have been in the building when the fire broke out, has not been seen since, and it is believed that his body is under the debris.

The loss, it is now thought, will reach half a million dollars. A member of the firm said that they had just received large consignments of holiday goods which had not yet been unpacked and which were totally destroyed. The firm places its loss at $350,000, which is only partly covered by insurance. The balance of the loss, about $150,000, is divided among about twenty small firms.

There were many thrillings escapes from death, and one fireman was killed and a number injured.

The destroyed structure was once the residence of former Governor William L. Marcy and was one of the historical spots in Albany. It extended from Pearl to James streets, with a side frontage in Steuben street.

Russia's Petroleum Wasted.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—A bulletin issued by the United States geological survey on the subject of Russian and American petroleum production says since 1897 Russia has produced more crude petroleum than the United States, last year the output in Russia being 85,000,000 barrels and in the United States 69,000,000 barrels. The facilities for handling the large Russian product are at present crude, costly and wasteful. The markets are far away from the production. Of the total production of refined petroleum of all grades in 1901, estimated at 1,500,000,000 gallons for all countries, the United States produced 911,120,944 gallons, or 60.7 per cent, and Russia 414,122,990 gallons, or only 27.7 per cent.

Long Missing Boy Found Dead.

ASHFIELD, Mass., Oct. 20.—In the woods, scarcely half a mile from his home, the body of fourteen-year-old Roland Wylie was found yesterday by a searching party led by State Officer McKay. The lad disappeared on Sept. 23 after having been reproved for misbehavior by his teacher, Miss Amy Stetson, which reproof also was seconded by his foster father, Alec Wylie. He threatened to take poison, but his words were not taken seriously for the time being. District Attorney Malons has ordered an autopsy on the body, and the internal organs will be sent to a chemist to see if poison is to be found in them.

Installation at Northwestern.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—With impressive ceremony the services attending the installation of Edmund Janes James as president of Northwestern university have begun in Evanston. The services will continue until tomorrow, when Dr. James will be inaugurated formally as the head of the university, which has been without a president since the retirement more than a year ago of Henry Wade Rogers. Every important educational institution in the country has sent one or more delegates to attend the inauguration exercises.

Race Riot In Alabama.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 20.—A race riot is in progress at Littleton, twenty-five miles from Birmingham. The sheriff and ten deputies have left on a special train from this city. It is reported that three white men and eight negroes are dead as a result of the race riot. The negroes in the place outnumber the whites ten to one and are in complete possession of the town. The negroes have captured a powder magazine belonging to a coal company. A reign of terror exists.

Pestilence Strikes Colombian Camps.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Oct. 20.—The steamer Orinoco, from Colon, Colombia, which has reached here, brings a report that yellow fever and smallpox have broken out among the forces of the Colombian government at Colon and that there are ten deaths daily from these diseases among the soldiers there.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF NEW JERSEY, PROPOSED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF 1902.

Be it resolved by the Senate (the House of Assembly concurring) that the following amendments to the constitution of this state be, and the same are hereby proposed, and when the same shall be agreed to by a majority of members elected to the Senate and House of Assembly, the said amendments shall be entered on their journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the legislature next to be chosen, and shall be published for three months previous to the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November next (being the fourth day of said month), in at least one newspaper of each county, if any be published therein; the said newspapers to be designated by the president of the Senate, the speaker of the House of Assembly and the secretary of state.

ARTICLE V.

Executive.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraph 10, a new paragraph, as follows:

10. The governor, or person administering the government, the chancellor and the attorney-general, or two of them of whom the governor, or person administering the government, shall be one, may remit fines and forfeitures and grant pardons, after conviction, in all cases except impeachment.

ARTICLE VI.

Judiciary.

1. Insert in lieu of Section II, a new section, as follows:

1. The court of errors and appeals shall consist of a chief judge and four associate judges, or any four of them.

2. In case any judge of said court shall be disqualified to sit in any cause, or shall be unable for the time being to discharge the duties of his office, whereby the whole number of judges capable of sitting shall be reduced below four, the governor shall designate a justice of the supreme court, the chancellor or a vice-chancellor, to discharge such duties until the disqualification or inability shall cease.

3. The secretary of state shall be the clerk or this court.

4. When a writ of error shall be brought, any judicial opinion in the cause, in favor of or against any error complained of, shall be assigned to the court in writing; when an appeal shall be taken from an order or decree of the court of chancery, the chancellor or vice-chancellor making such decree or order shall inform the court in writing of his reasons therefor.

5. The jurisdiction heretofore exercised by the supreme court by writ of error shall be exclusively vested in the court of errors and appeals; but any writ of error pending in the supreme court at the time of the adoption of this amendment shall be proceeded upon as if no change had taken place.

Section IV.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraph 1, a new paragraph, as follows:

1. The court of chancery shall consist of a chancellor and such number of vice-chancellors as shall be provided by law, each of whom may exercise the jurisdiction of the court; the court shall make rules governing the hearing of causes and the practice of the court, where the same is not regulated by statute.

SOME SCHOOL STATISTICS.

More Than Seventeen Million Pupils Registered Last Year.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The annual report of the commissioner of education just submitted to the secretary of the interior shows that the grand total of pupils in schools, elementary, secondary and higher, both public and private, in the United States for the year ended June 30, 1901, was 17,290,230, an increase of 278,520 pupils over the previous year. Of this number the enrollment of pupils in institutions supported by general and local taxes furnished by states and municipalities were 15,710,394 as against 15,443,462, the number reported for the previous year.

Besides these there were certain special institutions like city evening schools, business schools, schools for Indians, reform schools, schools connected with asylums, schools for cookery and other special trades and vocations that enrolled nearly 500,000 pupils. Adding the enrollment in these special schools to that for general education, the aggregate is something over 17,750,000 of our population that received education for a longer or shorter period during the year ending June 30, 1901.

The value of property used for public school purposes has arisen to $576,963,089 from $130,380,008 in 1870, and the expenditures for the common schools, including elementary and secondary schools, but excluding all institutions for higher education, amounted to $226,043,236, having risen to this sum from $63,396,666 in 1870.

In 1870 the expenditure for schools per capita of the population was $1.64; the past year it was $2.93 per capita of the population, the highest that it has ever been. It was an increase of 10 cents to each man, woman and child over the year previous. The average attendance of each pupil for the entire number enrolled was ninety-nine days for the year, an increase of twenty-four days over the previous year.

Stolen Jewels Returned.

DULUTH, Minn., Oct. 20.—Mrs. T. D. Merrill, who lost a pearl necklace and diamonds valued at $7,000 last Wednesday, has recovered the jewels. The gems were in a jewel case which Mrs. Merrill kept in a safety deposit vault at one of the banks. She took the case from the vault and left it on the counter while she wrote and had cashed a check. She then left the bank, forgetting her valuable property, but returned quickly to find it gone. The police were notified, and a reward of $500 was offered for the return of the jewels. A stranger came to the Merrill home and delivered the gems to their owner. He refused to receive the reward and declined to give his name or to tell how the jewels came into his possession.

Milwaukee Train Wrecked.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Oct. 20.—An eastbound passenger train on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road, consisting of three passenger coaches, a mail car and a baggage car, was telescoped by a fast Rock Island freight train at Elmira. The Milwaukee train was stopping at the water tank when the freight train crashed into it. The freight engine was shattered, and the tender telescoped the mail car. Fireman Conley was badly bruised about the back and shoulders, and the mail clerk was injured, though not seriously. There were rumors that several persons were killed, but this is denied by the railroad officials, who say that none of the passengers was injured.

A Missionary Convention.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 20.—The missionary forces of the Methodist Episcopal church, numbering 2,000 persons, will convene in this city at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Gray's armory for the first convention of its kind ever held. The several interests of the church will have delegations and leaders present. Missionary work will be the principal topic of discussion. Among the bishops who will be present and address the convention are Moore of China, Hartzell of Africa, Vincent of Europe, McCabe of South America and Thoburn of India. Home bishops who will speak are Foss and Fowler.

Generous Methodists.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The First Methodist Episcopal church at Yonkers observed superannuates' day with a special service. John E. Andrus, a member of the church, offered $50,000 if the churches of the New York conference would raise an additional $100,000 toward the establishment of a permanent fund to provide a home for disabled ministers of the conference. The Rev. Dr. J. E. Price, pastor of the church, named Fields Hermance to speak and inaugurate the campaign for this work. Large individual offerings were made.

A Great Cattle Show.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 20.—The American Royal Cattle show opened at the stockyards today with the finest display of blooded live stock ever seen in Kansas City. The breeds shown are Hereford, Shorthorn, Galloway and Aberdeen Angus, and the number of entries in each division is greater than at any previous show here. Two score breeders of national reputation have entered cattle, and some of the best herds of beef breeds in the world will be represented. More than a hundred individual breeders are contributors.

October Lightning Fatal.

HEAVY BRITISH LOSS

Disastrous Encounter Reported With Mad Mullah.

FIFTY KILLED, A HUNDRED WOUNDED

Colonel Swayne's Forces In Somaliland In a Perilous Situation—The Entire Expedition Will Now Have to Be Repeated.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The foreign office has issued an undated dispatch from Colonel Cobbe, commanding one of the columns of British forces operating against the Mad Mullah in Somaliland. The dispatch was forwarded through the British vice consul at Berbera, Somaliland. The British forces engaged were composed entirely of native troops and levies. Colonel Cobbe says:

"My force reached Erego this morning. When about one day's march north of Mudug, it was attacked in the thick bush. Two advances were made, and the enemy was beaten back in the morning. Their losses were heavy, and we captured 100 rifles. Our force then proceeded to collect animals for transportation purposes and to join the detachment at the stockade camp. In the afternoon a reconnoissance was made, and, after sharp fighting, the enemy were again driven off.

"I deeply regret to report the following casualties: Colonel Phillipps and Captain Angus and fifty men killed and about 100 men wounded. The latter include Captain Howard and Lieutenant Everett, but both are doing well. There were severe losses among the transport and riding camels. The force will reach the stockade camp tomorrow and will advance to attack the enemy."

The vice consul also telegraphs the substance of a later dispatch from Colonel Swain, who says that as a result of the fighting at Erego Oct. 6, which was very severe, the Somali levies are considerably shaken. The mullah, who is said to be in communication with Kail and Inger, in the direction of the Webbe river, is bringing up re-enforcements from all sides.

Colonel Swain is much hampered owing to the necessity of transporting the wounded and water. He is retiring on Bohotle. He asks that 600 further reliable troops be dispatched from Berbera forthwith.

The serious reverse in Somaliland places the small British force there of about 3,000 men of doubtful reliability in an exceedingly perilous situation.

Since the beginning of Colonel Swayne's second campaign against the mullah last May little has been heard of the expedition. The present dispatches seem to show that he was retreating from the Italian frontier northward when the mullah attacked him at Erego. Last December the mullah was reported to have about 12,000 men, mostly mounted, a large percentage of whom were armed with rifles. It is possible that he now commands about 15,000 men. With this large force harassing him Colonel Swayne has to retreat to Bohotle, 150 miles, and probably still 100 miles farther, to Burao, the principal British frontier post. This march must be made under a scorching sun and over an arid and roadless desert, even if the retreat is successful. The gravest anxiety will be felt until further news is received. The entire expedition will have to be repeated on a much larger scale.

Bulgaria Asks Mediation.

PHILIPPOPOLIS, Bulgaria, Oct. 20.—There was a large meeting here yesterday under the auspices of the Macedonian committee. Resolutions were passed requesting Bulgaria to negotiate with the powers to secure their mediation for the enforcement in Macedonia of the Berlin treaty. At Sofia an open air meeting convened by the Macedonian committee was attended by 10,000 people. M. Michailowsky, president of the local committee, described Turkish misrule in Macedonia and was loudly cheered by the gathering. The meeting passed one resolution approving the revolutionary movement and another condemning Turkish atrocities.

Austria to Fight Drunkenness.

VIENNA, Oct. 20.—The bill for the purpose of combating drunkenness which is being prepared by the Austrian government is the first measure of its kind in the history of Austria. It is an outcome of the strong pressure of public opinion and the efforts of the temperance party. It provides for the imprisonment of persons found intoxicated in a public place over a certain number of times within six months and restricts the sale of bottled spirits, which, it is declared, leads to home drinking, to holders of special licenses. Only one such license is to be granted for every 500 inhabitants.

Yale's Large Enrollment.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 20.—The total enrollment in Yale university for the present year is approximately 2,785, which is an increase of 100 over last year and the largest in the history of the university. The largest increase is in the Sheffield Scientific school and the next largest in the Law school.

American Jockey Won In Austria.

VIENNA, Oct. 20.—Vandusen, the American jockey, rode Beregvoelgy to victory in the contest for the Austria prize, which is one of the biggest races in Austria. The stake was $25,000.

Tugboat Explosion Kills Two.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 20.—Two persons were killed, one seriously and several slightly injured in an explosion which destroyed the tugboat Fred Nellis of Cairo, Ill., at Hopefield, Ark.

FLOODS IN JERSEY.

Last spring's floods, which so devastated the Passaic valley and other parts of the State, brought about an appeal to the Secretary of the Interior at Washington for some possible relief. It was claimed that the water courses of the State were neglected.

In response to this the Hydrographic Branch of the United States Geological Survey has commenced a more extended study of the streams of the State. Special effort is being made to determine the low water flow of the streams of the State, as this information is particularly desired by power users and investors.

On account of the disastrous results of the heavy flood which occurred last spring a special report is in preparation showing the conditions which prevailed at that time in the Passaic watershed and the enormous amount of water which was at that time discharged.

One of the features of the hydrographic work in this section of the State will be the devising of a system by which warnings can be given to the cities of Paterson and Passaic of approaching floods in time for the removal of property which would be endangered by them. While none of the streams of New Jersey, with the exception of the Delaware, is large, they are of considerable importance for power, and especially for the present and future supplies of rapidly growing municipalities. The work of investigation will also be extended to the southern portion of the State.

If this investigation proves successful, it will be of great use to the State. The last year has seen an unusual amount of damage done by floods. While this immediate vicinity has escaped, other portions of New Jersey have been very unfortunate. A continuation of these experiences is something which might seriously affect the prosperity of the State and any remedial measures are therefore to be urged.

As far as the county campaign is concerned, the Democrats of Plainfiled are putting forth much more effort than are their Republican brothers. Everything in Plainfield is so much Republican that the G. O. P. is usually rather slow about beginning an active campaign here. In previous years, the Democrats have not taken much interest in the local campaign but this fall they are showing a decided desire to make the campaign a lively one. A Young Men's Democratic Club has been formed and promises to take some part in the fight to come. There is nothing, after all, like a healthy minority and from the present appearance of things the Democratic party promises to be in an unusually healthy state about election day.

While The Daily Press is not at liberty to use any names, it is very comforting to know that two residents of Greater Plainfield, who happen to be personally interested in the coal buinesss, had taken the initial steps to secure a coal supply for the more humble homes of Plainfield before they knew of the efforts of the Organized Aid Association along those lines. When they found that the O. A. A. was going to accomplish what they were aiming to do, they stepped aside. But it was a commendable effort and a timely one as well.

Although Plainfield lacks a regular opera house, there is promise that the people of this city will have the opportunity of seeing and hearing a number of celebrities. First there is the famous band of Mr. Duss. Then Miss Stone, the missionary, is booked to appear. Negotiations are under way to bring Thompson-Seton, the artist-author, and Lieut. Hobson, of Merrimac fame, here to lecture. It is lucky that explosion of gas did not blot the Casino out of existence for there would have been a lot of good things to miss.

Thursday evening promises to be particularly a Democratic time in Greater Plainfield. The city Democrats will hold a meeting in Reform Hall at which Congressman Flanagan and Edward M. Shepard, of New York, will appear and speak. The same night the borough Democrats will have their county cadidates on parade at Saengerbund Hall and James E. Martine, the Farmer Orator, will have something to say.

The Daily Press will soon publish a series of letters which have passed between former Mayor W. L. Saunders and A. V. D. Honeyman, relative to certain statements made during the annexation campaign. These letters clear up a misunderstanding which existed between those two gentlemen relative to certain figures which were quoted during the campaign.

Mayor Jenkins' plan of securing kindling wood to be disposed of at nominal rates is a success. The action of the Organized Aid Association will relieve somewhat the immediate necessities of the more humble homes and the end of the coal strike, which appears to be at hand, will soon terminate the coal famine which has made all these measures necessary.

Charles L. Moffett, the Democratic nominee for the Assembly, has a host of friends in the local Republican party. Now that it is evident that so many Republicans are going to vote against Assemblyman W. F. Hall, Mr. Moffett's friends are rallying to his support and there seems to be an excellent chance of his election.

Some day it is to be hoped that the local water company will put in water meters for those patrons who desire them. Meanwhile the family of two has to pay the same rental as a family of ten where the number of taps is the same.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

A very interesting meeting of the Dunellen Literary Circle was held Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. John Herbert. A large quota of members was on hand and the evening was a most enjoyable. As usual the members responded to roll-call with current topics. The first paper was on "Columbus" by Harry Boice. The paper was carefully prepared and was well received, giving a comprehensive view of the great discoverer. After refreshments were served Miss Willgus read a paper on "Virginia Life in Colonial Times." The paper introduced many phases of Virginia life and also a number of famous men, notably George Washington. Before the meeting broke up Miss Louise Doolittle gave some experience in Europe, describing many famous scenes and buildings.

While in Peter's barber shop, Saturday afternoon, J. B. Coriell, of Jackson avenue, suddenly sank down unconscious. Dr. Brakeley was hurriedly called in and after working hard over the man for some time brought him to consciousness. He was sent home and is at prseent none the worse for the trouble, which was caused by gases acting on the heart

Regular services were held in all the local churches, yesterday, with large congregations present.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Hulich, of Hoboken, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Adam Herlich.

Mrs. Bodine and children, of Roselle, spent yesterday with Mrs. Edward Book.

William Woodruff and family entertained friends from out of town yesterday.

William Doty, of Somerville, visited old friends in town on Saturday.

Rev. Aug. Todd and family entertained relatives from Westfield yesterday.

Edward E. Brown, of Newark, spent yseterday with friends in town.

The erection of the chamois factory at Lincoln is progressing favorably.

Regular practice of the banjo club will be held this evening as usual.

John Herbert, Jr., of Jersey City, spent yesterday with his parents.

Fred Wilcox, of Westfield, visited friends in town on Saturday.

Harry Terry, of Plainfield, spent yesterday with his mother.

John Herbert, Sr., visited relatives in Bound Brook, Saturday.

NEW MARKET.

Baseball is already being talked of around here for next season. It is probable that a strong team will be put in the field by the men at Levering & Garrigue's factory. There are a number of very strong players there and with such a large number to select from a good team could easily be secured.

Regular services were held in the First Baptist church yesterday. The pastor preached at all services.

The local coal company expects to have all the coal it can carry within a short time.

Rev. and Mrs. L. E. Livermore visited friends in Plainfield yesterday.

J. T. Lansing spent yesterday with out-of-town friends.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

A pleasant surprise party was tendered Friday evening to Miss Beula Coles at her home on Park avenue. The happy event was arranged in honor of Miss Coles' birthday. Dancing and music whiled away several pleasant hours, a number of selections on the piano by Prof. Kenyon being particularly enjoyed by all. During a short intermission of festivities refreshments were served. Miss Coles received a number of very pretty reminders of the event. Guests were present from Newark, Elizabeth, Rahway, Dunellen and the village.

The Scotch Plains fans do not take kindly to Hope chapel's cancellation of Saturday's ball game. Manager Johnston had the same chance to turn Hope on Saturday week, when the Westfield management offered him a game. He refused the offer as he considered it would be unsportsmanlike to cancel any game with a reputable team without just cause.

Those who were able to get a foothold on any part of a trolley car Saturday afternoon went to Westfield and saw the eleven-inning contest between Westfield and the All-Plainfields.

An interesting meeting of the Baptist Young People's Union was held Sunday evening in the parlors of the Baptist church. "Self Mastery" was the topic discussed.

A number from town journeyed to Elizabethport yesterday afternoon and saw the Elizabeth Stars defeat the Passaic Athletic team.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grant have been visiting Mrs. Grant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. M. Paff, Sr.

The regular weekly meeting of the Epworth League was held in the Methodist church last night.

Wm. Hosinger, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Frank Hosinger.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Reynolds entertained relatives from Newark, Sunday.

Albert Nester spent Sunday with friends in Springfield.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The new railroad bridge, west of here about a mile and a half, has been put in place of the old one. This was necessary on account of the heavy engines now used.

Albert Manning has taken a contract to build a house for Mr. Conway on the property bought from the Orben farm, near Clinton avenue.

Miss Nellie B. Manning spent Sunday with the Misses Tappen, of New Market.

Rev. D. Grul, of Plainfield, called on friends in this locality yesterday.

Earl Darlington had a visit from his mother from New York, Saturday.

HONORS FOR DUSS.

What Buffalo Did for That Well-Known Musician.

Duss and his great band will be at the Casino, Thursday afternoon. When the mammoth Pan-American Exposition organ—the largest in the world, and the main feature of the exposition's Temple of Music—was presented to the city of Buffalo, and it was decided to dedicate the great instrument at Convention Hall, October 6, the committee, composed of prominent Buffalo citizens, appointed to choose the most appropriate musical organization for the occasion selected Bandmaster Duss and settled upon him the right to gather under his leadership such artists as he alone considered most befitting. Duss' remarkable all-summer New York engagement, it is said, was mainly responsible for his being picked to play at the dedication of the organ, but it is known that the committee visited New York repeatedly and carefully judged Duss and his band before the selection was announced.

So, Duss played the national airs, the patriotic music, the great hymns and all the soul-stirring incidental melody that prevail in the completion of an historical dedication, and Duss was in good company. Buffalo's Mayor and all the city's prominent characters took part in the ceremonies. The concerts arranged lasted one week, and besides Duss, Manager R. E. Johnston introduced Prof. William Carl, the world's greatest organist, and the regular soloists of the Duss Band: Miss Charlotte George, contralto; Bohumir Kryl, cornet; Earl J. Pfouts, violin; Gardelli Simons, trombone; and Xavier Reiter, French horn.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Haney, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

For anything in first-class hardware, stoves, etc., go to H. E. Gayle's hardware store. The stock is large and the prices low.

Charles Conover & Company, of Elmwood place, do only first-class painting and decorating and they will not overcharge you for the work.

Fred Endress calls attention to the specialties in his seafood department, this week. His fish is received fresh every day and he defies competition in prices.

In selecting a suit of clothes you want to be sure and get the proper style, best quality of goods and at reasonable prices. This you can do at M. Weinberger's store on West Front street.

I. H. Boehm is showing a fine line of ladies' coats and suits at his Park avenue store. An added attraction is the low price at which they are being disposed of. The millinery display is still on.

J. Hervey Doane, the Park avenue jeweler, has had years of experience in his business and he will give you the benefit of this if you trade with him. He has a fine line of jewelry and watches.

Young men, old men and youths will find it to their advantage to get their winter supplies of clothing at the New York Bargain Store, on West Front street. The stock at this store was never so large and the prices have been cut in half. A special showing is being made at present in the fall styles of hats.

Rest assured that when you buy drugs, medicines and toilet articles at Hodge's pharmacy in the Y. M. C. A. building, you will be charged a fair price only. Hodge keeps all the standard preparations and makes a specialty of fine prescription work. He is agent for the famous Belle Meade sweets.

The Dorothy Dodd shoe is made for women and is considered by the manufacturers and dealers throughout the country to be the best adapted for female wear. It is made from special designs by only experienced workmen. M. C. VanArsdale is the sole agent of Plainfield and invites all to see the new fall and winter shapes.

ONLY FOUR SCHOOLS.

Present Condition of the New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Association—The Officers.

There are at present but four schools in the New Jersey Interscholastic Association—Newark Academy, Newark High School, East Orange High School and Montclair High School. The Morristown Academy has decided not to enter the league, giving as a reason that the attendance of the school is small and the team put forth would not compare favorably with those schools now in the league. Montclair Military Academy, for the same reason, has withdrawn, and Plainfield High School has not yet filed an application for admission.

The regular football schedule was to have started this week, but the Orange Oval, on which all the games will be played, could not be secured until next week. East Orange High School opens the season next Saturday with Newark High School, and one week later Newark Academy meets Montclair High School at Montclair. At the last meeting of the Interscholastic Association James M. Martin, of Newark Academy, was elected to succeed Hilton Brewer, of Montclair High School, as president. Robert Gray, of East Orange High School, was chosen to fill the vice presidency. Prof. C. F. Davis, of Newark Academy, is secretary. and James A. Gill, of Newark High School, treasurer.

DEATH OF C. S. SMITH.

He Passed Away on Saturday After a Long Illness.

Charles S. Smith, aged thirty-four years, died Saturday at his home on Church street after a long illness. He had been a patient sufferer for the past five months with a cancer. A wife and four children survive him.

He was a member of the local Masons' Union and also the Foresters Lodge at Somerville, where he formerly resided. The funeral will be held from his late home tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Interment will be at Hillside.

Hit by a Liner.

During the preliminary prractice of the ball teams at Westfield, Saturday, George Fritts, of this city, was struck in the chest by a hot liner knocked out by a Westfield player. He was unable to speak for several minutes and only the quick application of restoratives prevented him lapsing into unconsciousness. He still feels the effect of the compact.

JR. O. U. A. M. CONVENTION.

New Jersey State Council Will Meet in Trenton, October 21.

The annual convention of the New Jersey State Council, Junior Order of United American Mechanics will be held in Trenton, October 21 and 22, in Masonic Temple. Owing to the large increase in membership during the past year the coming session, in point of attendance, promises to be the largest in the history of the order.

There will be 316 delegates present, who will be entitled to a vote in the State Council. Besides the regular delegates there will be visitors representing the State Councils of Pennsylvania, New York, District of Columbia and Virginia, many of whom are scheduled for addresses at the opening of the season.

Many of the present officers will probably be re-elected, including State Council Secretary William H. Miers, of Trenton.

The day prior to the opening of the State Council the Junior Order United American Mechanics Funeral Benefit Association will hold its annual session in the rooms of Nathan Hale Council in Masonic Temple.

—Mr. and Mrs. Silas M. Seeley, of Rahway, have taken up their residence on Lincoln place, in the borough.

—Don't delay further in buying peaches, Bartlett or Sickle pears or apples. Neuman Brothers have some nice lots and the price is just right.

SHARK STEALS HENS.

Startling Story Told by Truthful Louisiana Lawyer.

The Robber Fish Caught in the Act, with Chicken Feathers Between His Ugly Teeth—How He Worked the Game.

It is not often that a shark breaks into a man's henroost and steals his chickens. Such a case, however, is on record at Pointe-a-la-Hache. Emmet Hingle told the story as he showed a New Orleans Times-Democrat man around his father's back yard, which was full of lively and intelligent young chickens. Mr. Hingle has only had a few years' experience as a lawyer. His veracity is therefore unquestioned. He introduced the matter by remarking:

"We lost a great number of our chickens last year by a shark."

"White or colored?" asked the visitor, incredulously.

"A shark, man—a shark from the gulf—eight feet long."

"Did he walk all the distance or come in a fish car?"

"The affairs is not as impossible as you are inclined to believe," remarked Mr. Hingle in an aggrieved tone. "You notice the levee in front of the house. Well, each year during the equinoctial season, a strong southern wind blows the waters of the gulf into Pointe-a-la-Hache and floods the town. The water is three or four feet deep. We have to go in skiffs from the front of the house to the levee. Last year, as usual, when the floods commenced, we drove all our chickens into the big henhouse. Naturally when the flood became deep they could not come down to eat. In order to feed them we rigged up a rope parallel to each roost, and slowly pulled a basket of corn from one end to the other. In this way the chickens had to eat 'standing up.'"

"I did not know that chickens ever ate sitting down or in a reclining position," interjected the visitor. "However, that may have been their custom during the days of the Romans."

"A SHARK, EIGHT FEET LONG!"

"It was only a method of expression," continued Mr. Hingle. "I meant that the chickens stood on the roost and ate the corn as it passed before them in the basket. Well we had been feeding them in this way for a few days when we noticed that they had begun to diminish in number. We then began to count each morning, and found that four or five disappeared each night. We finally decided to watch. I rigged myself up a platform in the chicken-house and went out to spend the night. From ten o'clock until four nothing happened, and I was becoming pretty well tired, thinking probably that the negro who had been robbing our henroost had seen me and would not make another attempt while I was there. As the gray light began to dawn, however, I heard a series of splashes, and, looking toward the rear, I saw a large shark jumping the fences as if they had been hurdles. Naturally I was very much surprised. When the shark had jumped our fence he disappeared under the water. I was looking all around for him when I heard a noise in the henhouse, and looking down I saw the shark. He had come in by diving through the large hole through which our chickens had gone into the yard when they awoke in the morning. You can imagine my consternation. I was alone in a henhouse with a chicken-eating shark, and I had no adequate assurance that he was not also a man-eater. The shark did not wait for an introduction; balancing himself upon his tail, he grabbed a chicken from the roost and swallowed it whole. He repeated the feat until he had eaten six, and then, diving through the hole, went leaping over the fences again, evidently very much pleased. He had failed to see me, otherwise he might have bitten me in the leg.

"Well, to make a long story short," continued Mr. Hingle, "we waited for him next morning and stopped the hole after he had entered. We then killed him with a rifle."

Taking the visitor to the rear gallery, Mr. Hingle showed the jawbone and teeth of the shark. In the teeth were a number of chicken feathers.

"We managed to kill him before he had had time to pick his teeth," remarked Mr. Hingle, modestly.

An Electrical Rat Trap.

Electric rat traps are in use in Amsterdam. They are connected by a wire with a supply of electricity. The place where the bait rests is the only part of the trap which is a conductor, and the moment Mr. Rat touches this a shock closes his career.

PRIMEVAL NORTH AMERICA.

Population Spread Northward as the Ice Belt Receded, as Indicated by Signs of Progress.

The primeval people of both North and South America originated from a civilization of high degree which occupied the subequatorial belt some 10,000 years ago while the glacial sheet was still on, says Harper's Magazine. Population spread northward as the ice receded. Routes of exodus diverging from the central point of departure are plainly marked by ruins and records. The subsequent settlements in Mexico, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Utah and California indicate the successive stages of advance, as well as the persistent struggle to maintain the ancient civilization against reversion and catastrophes of nature. The varying architecture of the valleys, cliffs and mesas is an intelligible expression of the exigencies which stimulated the builders. The gradual distribution of population over the higher latitudes in after years was supplemented by accretions from Europe and northern Asia centuries before the coming of Columbus. Wars and reprisals were the natural and inevitable results of a mixed and degenerating population with different dialects. The mounds which cover the mid-continental areas, isolated and in groups, tell the story thereof. The Corean immigration of the year 544, historically cited, which led to the founding of the Mexican empire in 1325, was but an incidental contribution to the growing population of North America. So, also, were the very much earlier migrations from Central America across the Gulf of Mexico.

HER SMILE IS CRITICISED.

In Modern Englishwomen It Has Come to Be Regarded as Something Meaningless.

The smile of a modern English woman, according to a leading London paper, is fast becoming a meaningless thing and the reason for this, critics allege, is that it is used so indiscriminately that it lacks feeling. There is truth in the statement, the critics maintain, for, when one comes to think of it, almost any remark one makes to the merest acquaintance, even on a first introduction, is met by a smile. There is no mirth in it—it is only a muscular movement, made seemingly, to show polite interest. It reminds one of the Japanese woman, who must always smile, even in deepest sorrow or distress of mind, and who must never on any account show a depressed countenance in public, or even in the family circle should she be addressed by a relative to whom she owes respect

The effort to imitate the vivacity of their American sisters is supposed to be at the root of the continual smile to be seen on the countenances of modern women, but a smile alone will never make a countenance pleasing, unless it expresses some lively interest or feeling. Too many sweets clog the appetite and smiles always in evidence become valueless and unmeaning. Repose is needed nowadays in nearly every direction and nowhere more than on the faces of women.

LEAP-YEAR BIRTHDAYS.

Unique Society in Berlin, Germany, to Hold a Big Celebration in 1904.

Herr Monteur, a wealthy resident of Berlin, is over 70 years old, but will celebrate his eighteenth birthday on February 29, 1904. He is president of the Berlin society of leap year children, the one organization of its kind in the world. The members have had no birthday celebration for eight years, the extra February day having been omitted in 1900 according to the rules of the reformed calendar. Therefore the society is planning a great celebration on February 29, 1904. A committee of arrangements is already at work, and something extraordinary may be expected, as on account of the society's curious origin many prominent persons have interested themselves in the matter, reports a London paper.

The month of February in 1886, by the way, was even more interesting than that which will be marked by the unique Berlin celebration. It had no full moon, and in that was the most remarkable in the world's history, for never before had such a thing occurred. January of that year had two full moons and so had March, but February had none. How extraordinary this event was may be judged from the fact that according to the computation of astronomers it will not occur again for 2,500,000 years.

HANDY BOOK OF INSULTS.

Thousands of Fight-Causing Epithets Put Into a Special Dictionary by a German.

Herr Schuch, a German author, has compiled a dictionary of 2,500 insulting expressions, carefully tabulated, indexed and classified. The work, on which Herr Schuch has spent years of labor, is called the Schimpfworter Lexikon and is divided into five general heads—insults for men, insults for women, insults for either sex, insults for children and collective insults for syndicates, groups and corporations. Herr Schuch, with that minute discernment of the searching German, has subdivided these classes into smaller ones, so that when one wishes to call his friend or enemy a name it needs but a short consultation with the book to find the exact epithet or phrase which will fit the case. This work would have been invaluable to Mississippi river pilots in the old days, and even now the teamster may regard it as a welcome addition to his library.

AUTUMN FASHIONS.

Popular New Styles and the Fabrics of Which They Are Made.

Mme. la Mode has been good to us this season in that she has given us such pretty and useful short jackets and coats to take the place of the long and heavy wraps and garments. Some of the later are simply superb in all that goes to make a garment rich and costly. There is no material too fine to be used as body or trimming. Velvet, the new heavy silks and the finest cloth are all put into these long wraps, and they are lined with satin, brocade and in some cases with fur. The outside is trimmed in so many different ways that it would be profitless to endeavor the mention of them all, but the applique of handsome lace medallions bordered with choice fur bands appears to be best liked. Some fine jet trimming is also applied and quite a quantity of elegant galloon made of fine silk braids and taffeta. This work is made of different widths and designs. The silk is cut out in shapes either before or after the application of the silk braid, and in some of the designs the interstices are filled in with black silk mull. Some of this beautiful applique work is sumptuous and shows up particularly well on velvet.

After all, though, nothing is so rich on velvet as jetted trimming. Some of the capes in particular have light and graceful designs wrought out in the finest jet and here and there a spray or leaf of heavy silk embroidery. The furs oftenest employed to border these garments are the darker shades of brown, like skunk or pine marten and sometimes sable.

Storm collars are with us still, to the great benefit of lovely woman's appearance. But they are not so high as they were, and they set closer around the face. They are all bordered with fur of some kind. On some of the black velvet and silk coats there are garnitures of white lace. This is not so refined as the black galloons or the jetted trimming or the silk braids. Silk soutache is as beautiful a garniture as any one could require on a velvet garment.

The neat and handy fall jackets have some points of advantage over any yet made. One very pleasing short coat is cut in six pieces only, the fronts being shaped by two darts to half fit the figure. In the back this garment is open nearly to the waist, and the edges are stitched. The front laps to the right and fastens with a fly or with large smoke pearl buttons. This is considered very smart and is to be worn over a skirt of the same material. The extra fine and solid broadcloths are much liked for this style, but whipcord and some of the close twills are also used.

Blouse shapes will win favor with the younger ladies. The Gibson fold on the shoulders is the distinguishing feature, with the shield front and the flat collar and revers, which, however, may be removed at will and a high collar substituted. There are many variations of this model, one showing a wide sailor collar of the material and another having no revers or flat collar, but hussar braiding along the shield front, with frogs in the middle. The collar in that case is high and of military rigidity. A short basque of the same stuff reaches all around, but is slashed at the back.

Any of the winter goods may be used in this blouse, but unless it is made of velvet or velutina it looks best matching the skirt. The sleeves may be bishop with any preferred cuffs, or they may be left flowing. Many rows of machine stitching are put on these blouses. They are to be worn as coats and will be valuable long into winter with the addition of a small fur neck piece. On mild days a feather or chiffon boa will add the slight extra warmth required.

In the illustration there are shown several fashionable shapes, one being a short jacket snug at the back, where there are three small tabs, closely stitched like the rest. There are two pocket lids "for looks." The sleeves are coat shape, as are those of two of the others, only the open reefer has shaped points for cuffs.

There are many new materials to be used for suits, and these short jackets are well adapted to most of them. Camel's hair, cheviot, tweed and cravenetted stuffs are all suitable. The rougher they are the better, except the very short jacket, which looks best in smooth faced material. Black etamine is rich and elegant and "wears forever." A new zibeline with very thick long hairs is offered in all the season's shades, and entire suits are sometimes made of it.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

Enfranchisement of Australian Women

SOME time ago the national parliament of the federated states of Australia passed a bill giving at one stroke the ballot to all its women citizens twenty-one years old and over. They are now, therefore, on precisely the same political footing as men. New Zealand, the independent province, had previously enfranchised its women.

New South Wales, however, still remained out in the cold so far as giving full citizenship to its women went, but when the federated government gave national suffrage to women New South Wales had to swing into line and let them vote at state and local elections, completing the full enfranchisement of 800,000 women. The reason New South Wales was behind her sister provinces in this forward step is to be explained by the statement that her upper legislative house, like the British house of lords, is not elective. Naturally, therefore, it is full of old fogies. Year after year the elective lower house passed the woman suffrage bill, year after year the reactionary body voted it down, till the ruling of the national parliament made their antique voice of no avail. The ancients of the legislative council rejected woman suffrage because, they said, they were afraid woman's vote would turn over New South Wales to the political control of the Liberal party. No finer compliment could have been paid the intelligence of Australian ladies.

MISS CATHERINE SPENCE.

Sir Henry Parkes, the Gladstone of England's south Pacific possessions, called the "grand old man of Australia," was the active and persistent friend of feminine balloting, but he died before it was accomplished in New South Wales. His woman suffrage mantle fell upon the shoulders of Miss Rose Scott, who wrought shiningly for it till it came. So that now the only real republic, in which all adult citizens have a voice in the government, is not a republic at all, but some colonies belonging to one of the oldest monarchies in the world.

This forward lead which Australia has taken is largely owing to the agitation of one woman of royal heart and brain, Miss Catherine Spence. American men who deny suffrage to woman do not know perhaps that the very Australian ballot which they vote every year was largely the work of a woman, Catherine Spence. She agitated it and pressed it upon her countrymen in Australia till they adopted it. Then other nations followed. Miss Spence was also sole author of the plan by which a minority party secures representation in a legislature. Besides showing men how they could vote in an improved way, she at the same time advocated constantly as she went along suffrage for women too.

To her influence among intelligent men is also probably to be attributed the fact that Australian women have been made full citizens without any long and bitter fight for it, such as they are having in the United States. The younger, up to date politicians and statesmen of Australia are almost to a man in favor of woman suffrage. They helped to win it for their sisters. As a body the Young Men's Christian Temperance union worked for the women. The political organization that now holds the balance of power in Australia is the Labor party, and that very generally favored woman suffrage. Some there were, indeed, who objected to enfranchising women on this very account, because it would give the Labor party more power than ever. Among these, rather strangely, were many college women in New South Wales. They were so afraid of the Labor party that they would rather give up the right to vote than see this party come into power.

Victoria is for some reason considered the most "American" of the Australian provinces, and there, in contrast to New South Wales, it was the educated women who were foremost in the effort to obtain the ballot. In Melbourne, Victoria, Miss Vera Goldstein, now lecturing in the United States, publishes her paper, called Woman's Sphere. In West Australia titled women took hold of the movement. Lady Forrest worked for it, and Lady Onslow was president of the Woman's Franchise league. After all, however, this fact is significant and to be remembered: It was the women of the Australian laboring classes, those who actually cook, wash and iron and personally rear their families, that were most eager to get suffrage, that worked most faithfully for it and that exercise their new right more generally than any others of her sex.

MARY EDITH DAY.

CHARGES ARE DENIED

Schools in the Philippine Islands Are Non-Sectarian.

Catholics Not Discriminated Against and Proselyting Is Forbidden—Father McKinnon's Educational Proposition.

The bureau of insular affairs of the war department has made public the report of Frank A. Bowen, acting general superintendent of public instruction for the Philippine islands, upon the charges made in the United States against the school system of the islands alleging that it was used as a proselyting agency against Catholics and generally used to the prejudice of Catholicism.

These charges were forwarded to Manila and the reply was made to Acting Gov. Wright.

The report of Superintendent Bowen is a general and specific denial of the charges. He says that of 20 persons who have been division superintendents only one has ever been a clergyman. Three division superintendents were appointed from a list submitted by leaders of the Roman Catholic church in the United States.

In this connection the report says:

"The question of the religious belief of applicants and appointees was never considered until late in 1901. At that time a special lot of applications, gathered by the authorities of the Roman Catholic church in the United States, was sent to the civil governor of these islands and transmitted to the general superintendents. From these special lists three division superintendents and 22 teachers were appointed. In reporting these appointments to the civil governor the general superintendent stated: 'I have had much difficulty in finding people in this lot of applications who are possessed of the educational preparation and teaching experience which is required of other appointees in this department. Those who have not been selected seem to be wholly unsuitable.'"

The only departure from strict nonsectarianism in the conduct of the schools was a provision of the Philippine commission, which made it lawful for a priest or minister of any established church in the pueblo where a public school is situated to teach religion for one-half hour three times a week in the school building to pupils whose parents have expressed a wish for such construction.

FATHER W. D. M'KINNON.
(He Wants Philippine Priests to Be Educated in America.)

Concerning proselyting, the report says:

"Not only is no proselyting allowed or attempted in any of the public schools, but inquiry of the leaders of the four principal Protestant denominations here brings out the fact that so far as is known by these leaders there is not a native Protestant Sunday school teacher in the entire archipelago."

The statement that not one-third of the Protestant teachers ever taught a day before going to the Philippines and that the Catholic teachers are sent on to the distant provinces is emphatically denied.

Father McKinnon, a priest officially connected with the public school system in Manila, who went to that place as chaplain of the First California regiment at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, has urged the authorities of the Philippines church to send 400 of the younger native priests to America for a couple of years' training in seminaries in the United States. Father McKinnon says he discussed this plan with the late President McKinley, who approved it, as it was believed that in this way Filipino clergymen would become imbued with the broad spirit of American priesthood. It is believed possible that money for carrying out this project could be raised in America. It is estimated that the seminary expense of each priest would be about $150 a year. The natives are favorable to the plan. The fact that the native priests speak a different language from those in America would be no hindrance, because all Catholic clergymen have a common knowledge of Latin, and besides a number of priests in the United States speak Spanish.

Monarch of the Forest.

A few weeks ago there was discovered east of Fresno, Cal., in the Sierras, the largest tree in the world. At the time it was said that it measured 150 feet in circumference. John Muir, the naturalist, has visited the tree and reports that it measures at the base only 109 feet, and at four feet above the ground is only 97 feet in circumference. It is, however, larger than "Gen. Sherman" and "Gen. Grant," which heretofore were the recognized monarchs of the forest.

THE FADING GLACIERS.

Curious Notes by a Swiss Scientist Who Has Been Making Observations Among the Alps.

A well-known Swiss naturalist, H. M. Correvon, writes from Arolla, Canton Valais, to the Paris Messenger.

"The glaciers seem to be fading into the shadows of their former selves, rent skeletons encircled by their white or black moraines. They are diminishing everywhere.

"I remember in July, 1886, Prof. F. A. Forel, the famous expert in geology, took us to a glorious ice grotto which he had discovered 20 minutes' walk away from the hotel at Arolla. We were able to walk there without difficulty as in an ice corridor. Now not only has the grotto disappeared, but it takes an hour and a quarter to reach the glacier from the hotel.

"During the first days of October 25 years ago I traversed with two guides the glacier of Bersol from Zermatt to Arolla; it then reached deep down into the valley, nearly touching the glacier of Arolla. To-day we mounted up to 500 meters within the Pass of Bertol without any difficulty.

"M. Anzeoug, who has stayed at Arolla every summer since 1860, believes firmly that the glaciers which separate this territory from Italy will disappear as the years go by, and that the cattle of the Valasian peasants will be sent to market to Aosta (Italy) across the masses which are now covered with ice.

"The one curious advantage in this diminution of the glaciers is that the moraines of Arolla are now producing veritable forests, the seeds of which must have been blown up by the wind from the valley.

ARGENTINE CATTLE.

May Be Largely Purchased by Great Britain to Restock the Pastures of South Africa.

It may be said that Great Britain will naturally favor her own colonies in making such purchases of cattle to restock the South African pasture lands, and, other things being equal, this would be natural, says the Buenos Ayres Herald. But Canadian and New Zealand beef brings a better price in the British market than Argentine, and this because in those colonies more attention has been given to the breeding of cattle for prime beef, and in consequence both Canada and New Zealand, and the United States as a probable bidder, are not likely to offer their stock as cheaply as will the Argentine estanciero, and this difference in price is likely to secure for this country a generous slice, at least, of the business. Where else in the world can the requisite number of cattle be found at such prices as can be made here? We believe it safe to state that Argentina stands alone and in a commanding position in this respect; at least, we have good reason for the hope that is in us that in this direction lies a prompt, large and profitable business for us. Great Britain will become a buyer of hundreds of thousands of cattle for the South African plains in making purchases of such magnitude. That Argentine cattle at Argentine prices and Argentine proximity to the ports of discharge will be favorably looked upon seems to be reasonable, hence our belief and that of the market in general that the signing of peace means an especial good of great magnitude to this country.

JUROR HAD RED HAIR.

And Resented Remark of Fresh Lawyer by Refusing to Come to an Agreement.

It behooves a lawyer to be careful of what he says while arguing before a jury. John C. Kinnear, a practitioner in New York, realizes this fact thoroughly, says the Albany Argus, and all because of a remark he made not long ago in the Yorkville municipal court. He appeared on behalf of another lawyer who was suing a corporation for $500 for services alleged to have been performed. The evidence adduced made out quite a strong case for the plaintiff, whose counsel made a telling speech. He reviewed the facts in clever fashion, and toward the close of his remarks said that the corporation would have paid but for the fact that a "red-headed lobster of a junior partner had objected, and thus precipitated legal proceedings." The court rebuked Mr. Kinnear for using such language and the lawyer apologized. But he had done the mischief. All the jurymen but one tittered, and he had red hair. The judge delivered his charge strongly in favor of the plaintiff and the jury retired. Everybody expected a verdict in a few minutes, but in a couple of hours words reached the court that there was no prospect of an agreement. With one exception the jury was agreed on a verdict for plaintiff. The exception was the red-headed man, who said: "Perhaps the lawyer thinks it's smart to call people red-headed lobsters, I don't." The court finally discharged the jury and Lawyer Kinnear is still digesting the lesson.

Uncle Sam's New Seal.

The state department is to indulge itself with a new great seal of the United States, as the old one is so worn that it will not make a clean-cut impression on the documents it is used on. Congress appropriated $1,200 to have a new seal cut; but the old design, of course, will be followed faithfully. Only three seals have been formed since the formation of the government, they having been made in 1782, 1841 and 1885, respectively.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $500 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods. If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

BUNDLES IN WASHINGTON.

They May Be Taken Into the Treasury Building, But May Not Be Taken Out.

Among all the departments in Washington the most strict is the treasury. A citizen may carry anything that he likes into the treasury building, but when he undertakes to carry anything bulky out of the building he is apt to get into trouble if he does not explain with readiness, says the New York Mail and Express.

A visitor to Washington the other day carried a fairly large package into the building. Nobody said a word to him about it when he was going in, but when he started out with the package he was held up, made to open it, and to explain all about himself and his business.

The good sense of the rule is apparent: At the capitol it is against the rules to carry any sort of a bundle into the building. The fear is that somebody will carry in a bomb. The rule was never enforced rigorously until the senate took up the Sherman repeal bill. At that time the public mind became so influenced against the delay in the senate that violence was feared, and the rule was put into active operation and continued for some years.

Then it dropped out of sight until the Spanish war excitement came on, when it was again enforced, and it is still enforced rather strongly, although during the last session of congress a few cameras were allowed in the building.

QUEER CUSTOMS OF CHINESE.

In Their Country Liquids Are Sold by the Pound and Cloth by the Foot.

In China liquids are sold by weight and grain by measure. John buys soup by the pound and cloth by the foot. A Chinaman never puts his name outside of his shop, but paints inside a motto, or a list of his goods on his vertical signboard. Some reassuring remark is frequently added, such as "One word hall," "A child two feet high would not be cheated," says Modes and Fabric.

Every single article has to be bargained for, and it is usual for the customer to take his own measure and scales with him. A strong man has difficulty in carrying on his back two pounds' worth of the coppered cash which is the common currency, so it is necessary to take a servant to carry one's purse. The sycee of silver is the only other form of money besides the copper tael. As it weighs about 67 ounces, a hammer and cold chisel are indispensable for making change.

When you engage a servant or make a bargain it is not considered binding until "the fastening penny" has been paid. Although his bad faith is notorious in some matters, yet, to do him justice, when once this coin has been paid by you the Chinaman, coolie or shopman will generally stick to his bargain, even if the result to him be loss.

KING A TYPICAL BRITON.

Views of Edward VII. Are Those of a Majority of the People of England.

The late queen was on many sides typically British, and when she thought and acted most individually and unconsciously she was often most in sympathy with her people. So with the king, says the Saturday Review. Given some great and sudden event, we believe that the king's first thought and impulse in regard to it would be almost certainly that of the majority of his people. In the king, that is, his ministers, we find a very typical Englishman, and in many cases we do not doubt that they can judge of what public opinion is likely to be in regard to a proposed course of action by noting the first impact on the mind of the king. More knowledge, more explanation, further consideration of the difficulties attending other courses of action, may alter and change his mind, but the king's first view is more than likely to be the first view of the nation also. It will always be a straightforward and courageous view, and one free from undue subtlety and finesse. We have of course no means of knowing what the prince of Wales thought during the crisis of the late war, but we should be indeed surprised if his view was not that of the vast majority of the British people, i. e., one of dogged optimism.

WARNS ON AMERICAN FINANCE

The London Times Says That Growing Liabilities Are a Source of Danger.

In an editorial article discussing the present economic situation in the United States the London Times says it considers that, although the commercial credit of the United States is perhaps not quite so good as it was a year ago and the actual situation not entirely free from disquieting features, yet, being favored with good harvests and a promising cotton crop, business prospects appear to be healthy for another year.

"For the next few months, at least, the big harvests of the United States will probably secure the business world against the collapse of credit in New York, but," the paper continues, "unless we are to accept the new fangled doctrine that in some mysterious way economic laws need not be taken into account where America is concerned, the present state of things and the present fashion of finance cannot continue forever.

"Mere magnitude of resources however dazzling to the unthinking, will not save their owner from embarrassment, or worse, if he allows his liabilities to grow in excess of them."

HEROISM IN WOMEN.

Students of Nervous System Say It Is Due to Impulse.

Failure to Consider Results Drives Them to Spectacular Deeds—They Act First and Think Soberly Afterward.

Students of the nervous systems of men and women frequently have called heroism—as it is generally accepted—simply a pathological indication of hysteria. The basis for this is in the fact that so often a person who has no idea of the art of swimming will plunge into water far beyond his depth in the effort to rescue some one already struggling beyond his powers. The point made is that in such cases true heroism is not involved; that hysterical impulse only prompts the person to the deed. All of which, says the Chicago Tribune, points to the fact that it is much easier to become a heroine than it is to become a hero.

For instance, little Mamie Miltimore, living on the Dugdale road, near Waukegon, is a full fledged heroine because she chased a burglar more than a mile through the ravines and woods of that section, and only gave it up when, in a burst of speed, he raced up a long hill and outdistanced her hopelessly.

The child, 13 years old, saw a man breaking into the house of William Butler. A woman neighbor had her attention attracted also, and started after the fellow. He ran, soon leaving the woman behind, but the child, more fleet of foot, continued the chase, keeping up with him for more than a mile. Several times she was so close to the fellow that he threatened her, but she did not give up, until finally he started up an unusually steep hill, and ran so fast that she could no longer keep him in sight. The child, however, had a distinct idea of what she was trying to do. She explained that she meant only to keep him in sight, hoping that they finally would come upon some one who would be able to stop the man.

When Miss Helen Robinson, of Dubuque, Ia., rescued her friend, Virginia Day, from drowning at Trout Park, Lake Geneva, she was deserving of a medal. She, with a number of school friends, had gone to the park for a picnic, and as a diversion they had been wading in the water. Some one more daring than the others, got a heavy board and instead of wading, floated out some distance from the shore, only to be drawn back by her companions.

Miss Day got on the board after awhile, and, in floating out, got beyond her depth, got scared, and, jumping off, dropped into seven feet of water. Shrieking and strangling, she attracted the attention of her comrades, but only Miss Robinson of the party could swim. She, recognizing just how handicapped a person is in trying to rescue a panic stricken woman in the water, nevertheless went in and brought the strangling girl ashore. It was a daring rescue, and Dubuque has been disposed to make a heroine of the young woman.

Rebecca Davis, of St. Paul, is only 15 years old, but in her rescue of a woman neighbor a few days ago she showed the judgment of a man and more than the ordinary man's pluck. Mrs. Eva Brooks lived just below the Davises in a flat building in Third street, and the other evening a shriek from the Brooks flat brought Rebecca Davis flying down the steps to discover the trouble. The woman had been filling a gasoline tank, and while she was at work at it her little boy unwittingly struck a match. Instantly the woman was enveloped in flames, and when the girl reached Mrs. Brooks the woman was frantic.

At once the girl began to tear off the woman's clothing, but the victim ran out of doors, rolling over and over on the ground in her efforts to extinguish the blaze. The child, fearing that the wind would only fan the flames worse, dragged the woman inside, and, seizing a rug from the floor, smothered the fire. Mrs. Brooks was badly burned about the chest, neck and arms, while Rebecca Davis suffered keenly from burns on her arms and hands. Forgetful of her own burns, however, the child went to the icebox, taking eggs from it, and breaking them over Mrs. Brooks' scorched body. So intelligently did she act that Mrs. Brooks will get well, while for herself the girl is not scarred at all. All the commendations the woman has received have not turned her head.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

In a one sided contest, the Orange Field Club defeated the St. Mary football team, Saturday, by a score of 21 to 0. The game was played on Orange Common. Next Saturday the O. F. C. will play the Lincoln High School of Westfield.

A large crowd of football enthusiasts was disappointed Saturday afternoon because the Roseville football team, which was to play Alis, failed to show up. Manager Chandor, of the Alis team, received a telegram from the Roseville manager early in the afternoon saying that on account of the rain the team would not come. Though no rain fell in this city, it was probably raining at Newark and this led to the game being called off. It is not known whether another date can be arranged with the Roseville boys this season, as both teams have their schedules nearly full.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Superiority between Westfield and Plainfield still being a disputed point, the baseball season in this city is again to be extended. The two teams will again battle Saturday on Hope Common, making the fifth game in the series. The batting order of each nine will be practically the same as that of last Saturday and the game will be called at 3 o'clock.

SAW SOME FAST TROTTING

FOUR EVENTS, OFTEN POSTPONED, WERE WELL CONTESTED.

Matinee Races of the Plainfield Driving Club Were Finally Held.

The matinee races at the track of the Plainfield Driving Club, Saturday afternoon, attracted a good-sized crowd and all enjoyed the fine programme presented. These races had been postponed several times and it looked for a time, Saturday, that another postponement would be necessary. The track was in good condition and the time made by the various horses was good.

Thomas Brantingham was starter, while David Smalley, William Coulter and Harry Condit were the judges and timers. The races started at 2 o'clock and were run off in a most satisfactory manner.

The summary is follows:

2:35 Class.

Fairmount Maid, J. Osborn	1	1
Alicia, N. B. Smalley	2	2
Blue Knight, Thorne	3	3
Ralph Woolsey, B. Carpenter	4	4

Time—2:35½, 2:32¾.

2:30 Class.

Fred V., Hully	1	1
Barney Williams, J. Osborn	2	2
Ada Bernell, Ed Campbell	3	3
Lady West, B. Carpenter	4	4

Time—2:30, 2:24.

Free for All.

Merrett Wilkes, Ed Campbell	1	1
Highland Boy, J. Taylor	2	2

Time—2:29¾, 2:27¼.

2:25 Class.

Aglow, P. Osborn	1	1
Milton, Taylor	2	2

Time—2:21½, 2:33.

During the afternoon Mrs. A. M. Blasdell was awarded a silver cup in the saddle class for her sorrel mare, "Red Princess," who has won blue ribbons at Bernardsville, Westfield and Morristown. A. M. Blasdell exhibited his thoroughbred, "Aurora," and William McIlwayne had his fine horse, "Kentucky Boy," out for exhibition. The horses in Saturday's races will go to Woodbridge Saturday and to Fair Acres on the following Saturday, where matinee races will be held.

Contract for Flagging.

W. E. Bartle, Mrs. John Lannon and John Roach have been awarded an equal division of the city flagging work soon to be started.

No Evening Service.

No service was held at Warren chapel last evening, the members attending the farewell service at the Crescent Avenue church.

There was play for the Boys' cup in the morning, but owing to some misunderstanding regarding the handicaps, about which there is a difference between the contestants and the Golf Committee, the standing will be published in corrected form very soon. On Saturday Albert D. Beers won first honors, R. O. Rogers finished second, while W. T. Glenney and Arthur Peterson were third and fourth. These were the only contestants. The scores for this cup are as follows: Albert D. Beers, 103, 10—93; R. O. Rogers, 109, 15—94; W. T. Glenney, 104, 10—94; Arthur Peterson, 108, 10—98.

There was no play for the Ackerman cup, women's competition. This will be played later.

WESTFIELD GOLF CLUB.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Oct. 20—The Westfield Golf Club team played a match game with the Suburban Club, of this city, on Saturday and defeated the home team by a score of 12 to 8. The Nassau system was used and the match was a close and exciting one throughout. The summary:

Not a Democratic Meeting.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The outdoor meetings held Saturday evening were held under the auspices of the American Anti-Trust League and were not under the auspices of the Democratic party.

A. J Nolan,
Chairman of Democratic City Committee.

Wedded at Pastor's Home.

Announcement is made of the marriage of James Lindsay, of this city, to Miss Martha Young, formerly of Coatbridge, Scotland. The ceremony was performed Wednesday last by Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, at his home on West Fifth street. The groom is an employe of one of the local machine shops.

Marshall Darrach's Recital.

One of the leading society events will be the recital by Marshall Darrach Saturday night under the patronage of local society folk, when he will recite "Twelfth Night." Plainfield people will give this favorite a warm welcome.

Extra Gates at Station.

Two extra gates have been placed in the fence separating the tracks at the North Avenue station, thus making work for the expressmen and baggage department not so difficult as heretofore.

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. Its attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquifies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures cough, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. F. S. McMahon, Hampton, Ga.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." L. W. Randolph.

prophet of God and when your pen, diped in the bowl of this inkstand is writing sermons, to be spoken in the leading of the great congregation—remember us."

In reply Dr. Richards said: "Dr. Yerkes and brethren: You have taken me so completely by surprise that I know not where to find words to express my appreciation of your kindness. It is very kind of you to take time, this busy Saturday afternoon to come here, so many of you, to bid me God speed; and to bring me this beautiful gift; and to speak such words of cordial good will.

"It has been a great sorrow to me to think of leaving this Plainfield Ministers' Association. I cannot believe that I shall ever find anywhere else so complete and hearty fellowship as has always united us here. When I want to enjoy such a privilage again for a little while, and feel that I cannot get on without it, I shall have to come back to you. This association had existed before I came to this city, and it constituted a most delightful feature of the opening of my work among you. Not all of you can remember its history so far back, but Dr. Yerkes can much further and also Mr. Rodman, and Mr. Goodrich entered upon the enjoyment of it a little earlier than I. But it has always made the work of a minister in this town seem like a pretaste of the communion of saints above.

"And, brethren, I cannot believe that a treasure so rich as this, when it has once come into a man's life, will ever be entirely lost out of it. Whereever our several fields of labor may be appointed, I shall still count upon your affectionate regard, and you will count upon mine, as long as we live upon the earth—and after.

"This welcome gift of yours may sometimes be a temptation to me, alluring me away from the sermons that I ought to be writing to the letters that I shall want to be writing to one and another of you; and it may hardly seem a fit return for your kindness that I shall put any of you to the task of interpreting my cramped chirography.

"I cannot tell how you have touched me, but I do thank you with all my heart, and assure you that this gift will be a constant and pleasant reminder of fellowship that I would never forget."

They all felt that this was an occasion of more than ordinary importance as Dr. Richards has been a member of the association and has taken much interest in it since he came to Plainfield eighteen years ago. As he is going away, the members of the association desired him to take with him some slight token of their regard, in such form as would be a constant reminder of his absent brethren and of their love and best wishes. Accordingly, Dr. Yerkes presented him, in the name of the association, with an ink-stand, to be put upon his desk in the study of his new home in New York City. And so all bid Dr. Richards good-bye and God be with him.

I. C. T. TIED WITH ROSELLE

FOOTBALL GAME PLAYED AT ROSELLE SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

Local Team Divided Honors With Roselle Club by the Score of 6 To 6.

The I. C. T. Club football team journeyed to Roselle, Saturday afternoon, and played a tie game with the Roselle A. C. The score was 6 to 6.

A little timidness on the part of the Plainfielders practically gave the Roselles their touchdown. The Roselles played steadily against the line and Krouse went through at a moment when a trifle more opposition would have shut him off. Captain Robinson realized it and his instructions were so closely followed out, successive attempts to do the same trick resulted in failure. The goal was kicked by Krouse.

The I. C. T. touchdown was made and kicked in the early part of the second half by Springer. He ran for thirty-five yards and made the goal by sheer weight. He came near making a second score a little later, after a twenty-yard run, but was forced back. During the latter part of the half, the ball was kept in the Roselle's territory.

Following is the line-up:

Roselle A. C.		I. C. T.
Leright	re	Harris
Wood, Potter	rt	Robinson
DeForest, Hulert	rg	Heardie
Wooley	c	Stauffer
Chilvers, Voorhees	lg	Bourgeois

S. S. CONVENTION.

East N. J. Baptist Sunday-School Association's Convention at Plains.

The East New Jersey Baptist Sunday-school Association, composed of Baptist Sunday-schools in Newark, Jersey City, Elizabeth, Perth Amboy, Plainfield and intermediate towns, will hold its fifty-second annual convention tomorrow morning at the Scotch Plains Baptist church, beginning at 10 o'clock.

Among the speakers are the following: Rev. Dr. T. E. Vassar, of Elizabeth; Rev. J. W. Richardson, of Plainfield; Rev. J. M. Stifler, Jr., of Roselle; Rev. Dr. Albert S. Lawson of Newark; James Clare, of Newark; Miss Nettie J. Beeching, of Watchung; Rev. Chas. F. Stanley, of Newark; Miss Florence G. Hawkins, of Plainfield; Rev. W. G. Fennell, of Newark; Rev. J. V. Ellson; Rev. Dr. P. S. Hensen, Brooklyn, N. Y. Dr. Hensen will be the speaker of the evening.

The officers of the convention are: President, Thos. A. Cuming, of Plainfield; vice president, Rev. Wm. W. Hoagland, of Newark, and secretary-treasurer, Rev. Frank Fletcher, of New Market.

The committee of arrangements consists of the above officers and Rev. W. G. Fennell, Newark; C. C. Bailey, Lyons Farms, and Rev. G. M. Shott, Scotch Plains.

Blindness Decreasing

The proportion of sightless to seeing persons has been watched with especial interest in Great Britain, and the latest statistics indicate that it has fallen in a half century from about 1,020 in 1,000,000 to some 870, or more than 14 er cent. This decline has been so timed as to show pretty conclusively that it is the result of better conditions of living, improved surgery and doubtless a decrease in the ratio of perilous to non-perilous employments for the masses of the people.—London News.

Quick as Lightning.

It is absolutely impossible for us to conceive of the rapidity and brilliancy of lightning. It has been estimated that a ash occupies less than the one-millionth part of a second. One-tenth of a second is needed for the full effect of any light upon the eye, we get only a very faint idea of the brilliancy of the flash. If a flash were permanent it would be one hundred thousand times more brilliant than the light we now experience.—Frank Leslie's Monthly.

Marlboro Tarts.

Stew nice tart apples until they can be rubbed through a sieve. To 12 tablespoonfuls of strained apple add 12 tablespoonfuls of sugar, six tablespoonfuls of melted butter, four beaten eggs, and grated rind of one lemon, one-half of a nutmeg, one-half of a pint of milk, one gill of vinegar and one of water. Mix well, fill tart shells and bake.—Housekeeper.

Fatal Error.

Principal—She proved to be a failure as a teacher. She made the mistake of telling the boys she doesn't mind a little innocent fun, but there was nothing that made her so angry as the throwing of spitballs.

School Director—Well?

"Well, of course, the boys devoted all their attention to the spitballs."—Philadelphia Press.

COAL IS CHEAP AT PERTH AMBOY TODAY

Candidates for Office Happen to be Coal Dealers With a Goodly Stock.

THE PRICE IS $6 PER TON

FREEHOLDER HANEY WAS THE FIRST TO ANNOUNCE NO INCREASE.

Patrick Convery, Democratic Candidate for Sheriff, Declared He Had Never Intended to Raise the Price—Amboy People Happy.

The little city of Perth Amboy, though unimportant in a general way, has occupied a unique position during the coal strike. It is possibly the only place within a hundred miles of New York where coal can be had at $6 a ton for family use, and the conditions that are said to make this possible are interesting just now. The two coal dealers who retail to a large majority of families in and around Perth Amboy are both politicians, George J. Haney being a Freeholder elected repeatedly by the Republican party, while Patrick Convery, a Democrat, has been considered very much in the race for his party's nomination for sheriff.

As Perth Amboy is the Lehigh Valley Railroad's tidewater terminus for coal, the local dealers of the city have for years been in a position to carry a much larger stock than retailers in other cities. When the strike began both Haney and Convery had unusually large supplies of anthracite in their yards. As the strike grew more serious they gloated over and rejoiced over their pyramids of black diamonds until the wealth of each began to be computed in coal.

The newspapers were full of data on the advanced price of coal, and the old timers in the little city that prides itself on having its charter one day before New York, began to figure up their expenses for the winter with coal at $15 a ton. Even that prospect seemed consoling when they heard of other cities where coal could not be had at any price. A few weeks ago, however, Mr. Haney announced in a large first page advertisement of a local paper that he would not raise the price of coal as long as his supply lasted, and that regular customers could have it at the old price, $6 a ton, though there was a stipulation which required an economical use in all cases in order to tide over the entire winter.

When Haney's announcement appeared he was the idol of the community and it was declared he would have a cinch for any office he might desire. Everything was Haney for a few days and then "Pat" Conway made his announcement. It is needless to say that a Democrat who would like to be sheriff would not allow a Republican to outdo him and in his frank way declared in even bolder type than Haney that he had never even considered raising the price of coal that he bought months ago when wholesale prices were normal.

With a lively campaign about to start the thrifty Amboyite goes home each night to contemplate a winter of solid comfort so far as heat is concerned at least.

—Owing to a lack of a quorum there was no special meeting of the Home Building and Loan Association, last evening. Another date will be set soon for a meeting.

DEMOCRAT FOR SHERIFF

SHORT SKETCH OF CHAS. H. MOORE, CANDIDATE IN UNION CONNTY.

Something About the Man Who is Running Against B. Frank Coriell, of This City.

Unusual interest is centred this fall in the fight of the shrievalty of Union county. B. Frank Coriell, the Republican nominee, is well known in this city which has been his home for many years. Charles H. Moore, his Democratic opponent, is not so well-known here so a brief sketch of him will not be out of place.

Mr. Moore was born at 58 Pine street, in the old Second ward of Elizabeth, July 9, 1858, and is therefore slightly more than forty-four years of age. That ward he afterwards represented for six years in the Board of Education and he was the ward clerk for several terms. Mr. Moore comes from an old Jersey family, his father, the late Samuel L. Moore, an ex-member of the State Legislature, having been born at Trenton. He received his education in the schools of Elizabeth, and was one of the pupils of the late Dr. Dunn in the old school at the corner of Front and Wall streets. He afterwards became a student at Poultney College Academy, Rutland county, Vermont, from which institution he was graduated. Eighteen years ago he was married to Miss Selma Wise, of Elizabeth.

Charles H. Moore.

In religion he is an Episcopalian, and a member of Grace church. He is a member of many fraternal organizations and the Turn Verein. He is a man of broad ideas, enjoying wide popularity with men of all beliefs and possessing an extended clientele of friends, business, personal and political, throughout the entire county.

In the past Mr. Moore has served upon the Board of Chosen Freeholders, and represented the Second ward six years in the Elizabeth Board of Education.

Mr. Moore has had extensive business experience. For many years he was chief clerk in the foundry and machine shop which his father founded on Front street, Elizabeth, now a part of the Crescent ship works, and here he acquired a reputation that stood him in good stead when years after he commenced a business for himself. Mr. Moore and his brother, Douglas Moore, severed their connection with the senior Moore eight years ago and started the foundry and machine shop at the foot of Bond street, Elizabeth, under the firm name of Moore Brothers. The present candidate for sheriff was the head of this firm for many years until he disposed of his interests in the establishment to H. H. Isham. During this time Mr. Moore was an employer of a large number of laboring men and his relations with them were always cordial and agreeable.

He is now connected with and is president of the New Jersey Dock and Bridge Company, wharf builders and general contractors, and has been prominently identified with various buliding and loan associations.

At present Mr. Moore is a resident of the Fourth ward of Elizabeth. He has always been prominent in the politics of the party, rarely missing a primary, and always attending the conventions. He has been frequently mentioned for office on former occasions, but has until now preferred to remain in the ranks, rather than become one of the leaders.

JERSEY JUNIOR ORDER WILL MEET TOMORROW

Thirty-Fourth Annual Session of State Council Will be Held in Trenton.

THE FINANCIAL RECORD

GROWTH OF THE ORDER IN NEW JERSEY DURING LAST YEAR.

Substance of the Reports of the Officers Which Will be Presented at This Coming Session—Other Details of The Order Given.

For the thirty-fourth time the State Council of New Jersey, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, will meet in annual session tomorrow. The meeting will be held in Masonic Hall, Trenton, which city was made the permanent place of meeting a few years ago. The session will convene promptly at 10 o'clock in the morning, and it is expected that all business will be finished to permit adjournment about 6 o'clock at night.

The officers who will be in charge of the meeting are: State councillor, Benjamin F. S. Brown, of Matawan; State vice councillor, Rev. J. Morgan Read, of Atlantic City; State secretary, William H. Miers, of Trenton; State treasurer, Dr. James J. Reed, of Seabright; junior past State councillor, Howard S. Norris, of Newark; State conductor, Benjamin F. Bache, of Jersey City; State warden, Dr. E. Mortimer Duffield, of Glassboro; State inside sentinel, J. Preston Potter, of Clayton; State outside sentinel, Harvey Apgar, of High Bridge; appeal committee, Henry C. Dennis, of Hamilton Square; William S. Chafey, of New Egypt, and Albert J. Crane, of East Orange; finance committee, Charles A. Reed, of Seabright; Zeb Gaskill, of Millville; Frank V. Cyphers, of Newark; law committee, Frank Umscheider, of Newark; William S. Ginglin, of Bordentown, and J. Fred Lang, of Elizabeth; special committee on consolidation of Jr. O. U. A. M. and O. U. A. M., of New Jersey, the State councillor, State vice councillor, State secretary, State treasurer, junior past State councillor and past State councillors, Fergus A. Dennis, Robert Carson and Albert J. Smith.

It is not expected that the report of the consolidation committee will recommend any action for the reason that the committee from the State Council, O. U. A. M., reported to that body at its recent Washington session that no definite conclusions of a favorable nature had been reached by the joint committee. It is said that the question of the acceptance, through consolidation, of many men advanced in years, and the amount of dues they should pay, made such legislation impracticable in the opinion of the committee.

In his report, State Councillor Benjamin F. S. Brown compliments his home council (Columbia No. 77, of Matawan) for having made a net gain of fifty-three members during his year. This gain is equal to forty-five per cent. Unity Council No. 275, of Elizabeth, won the silk banner offered to the council making the largest percentage of net gain for the year. This council started with twenty-five members and closed the term with sixty-five, representing a gain of 160 per cent. Sheridan Council No. 194, of Ridgefield Park, is second, with a gain of ninety-four per cent.; Golden Rule No. 75, of Perrineville, third, with fifty-one per cent., and W. A. N. Mack No. 276, of Elizabeth, fourth, with forty-seven per cent.

The two councils in Perth Amboy were consolidated under the title of Middlesex Council No. 63. Three councils were instituted since the 1901 session. They are Quinton No. 280, at Quinton, with thirty-five members; Stewartsville No. 281, at Stewartsville, with seventy-five members, and Equal Rights No. 282, of Newark, with forty-five members.

On October 1 there were 279 councils. The membership statistics are as follows: Members June 30, 1901, 33,828; initiated during the year, 3,265; reinstated, 434; admitted by card, 188; admitted by dismissal card, 21; loss by withdrawal card, 210; suspended, 2,488; expelled, 14; deceased, 212; membership June 30, 1902, 34,812. Of that number 34,336 are contributing members and 476 belong to the honorary class.

During the year ending June 30, 1902, the councils received for initiation fees, dues, etc., $310,480.74. They also received from the Funeral

HIGH TIME AT SNEDIKER'S

PROPRIETRESS OF WEST END "ROUGH HOUSE" SENT TO JAIL.

Witnesses in City Court This Morning Told of Lively Times—Given Sixty Days Straight.

No leniency was shown by City Judge Runyon, this morning when Mrs. Martha Snediker was arraigned before him, charged with keeping a disorderly house by her neighbor, Mrs. Lizzie Goff. Witnesses testified that Mrs. Snediker's apartments in the flat building at the corner of South Second street and Muhlenberg place were the scene of midnight revels and orgies and that the defendant had callers of all ages and colors. She was given sixty days straight in the county jail and her children were placed in the keeping of the Organized Aid Association.

John Metzer and John Hoffmann were arrested on East Front street by Patrolman Quass last night, as each was daring the other to "toe" a mark. As the prospective fight was nipped in the bud the court suspended sentence.

Patrolman Vanderweg arrested Mrs. Lawler, yesterday, for drunkenness. Sentence was suspended.

BOARD OF TRADE AWAKES

PLANS TO BEGIN LIFE ANEW WITH A BIG BANQUET.

First Meeting in Many Weeks Was Held Last Evening—The Plans Were Made.

A new lease of life was taken on by the Board of Trade, last evening, and at the first meeting it has held in many weeks, preparations were made for much activity during the coming winter. First of all is the giving of two public banquets, the first of which is to be held as soon as a committee can complete arrangements. Similar affairs given by the board before resulted in bringing out the members and the inculcation of new life in the organization's work.

The question of membership was considered and it was decided to secure new members. A committee was apointed, consisting of E. M. Laing, J. T. Vail, H. C. Runyon, Herman Schwed and Morris Abrams, which will work to attain that end and which will also be in charge of the preliminaries for the first banquet.

The secretary read a communication from a New York firm for inducements to locate a plant in this city employing 2,000 hands. The matter was placed on file.

KILLED BY TRAIN.

Prominent Resident of Cranford Met Death Late Last Night When Returning Home.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cranford, Oct. 21—E. S. Johnson, a well-known resident of this place, was instantly killed at 11:15 o'clock last night, soon after getting off a local train at the Cranford station of the New Jersey Central. The train which killed Mr. Johnson was a westbound Blue Line flyer. The body was horribly mangled.

Mr. Johnson was a highly esteemed citizen and an active worker in the Presbyterian church of this place.

Will Aid Democrats.

Rev. J. B. Cleaver, of Bound Brook, announced Saturday his determination to speak and work for th success of the Democrotic ticket in Somerset county this fall. He will take the stump and speak throughout the county. He will be one of the speakers at Saengerbund Hall on Monday evening, October 27.

Wanted in Hunterdon.

On a warrant issued by a Hunterdon county justice of the peace, Mrs. Mary Gray, of the West End, was arrested by Patrolman McCarthy, yesterday afternoon. She was afterward taken to Flemington by Constable Hann.

Grading Exercises.

The grading exercises of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. will take place in the gymnasium this afternoon. This evening the senior department's new members will be placed in divisions according to merit.

Unique Entertainment.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Monroe Avenue church has been fortunate in securing the Hoosier Star Vocalists for a unique entertainment Thursday night, Nov. 6.

Five New Members.

At the communion service in the Crescent Avenue church Sunday morning five new members were received, two on confession and three by letter.

PYTHIAN OUTING HAD AN UNEXPECTED GUEST

Members of Perseverance Did Not Recognize Their Fellow Knight in a Feminine Garb.

IT WAS WM. FEIRING

WAS SUPPOSED TO BE CHANCELLOR COMMANDER RUNYON'S GUEST.

Members Didn't Like the Idea of a Woman in Their Special Car—Feiring's Appearance Nearly Broke Up the Newark Lodge.

Nearly every one of the seventy-five members of Perseverance Lodge, K. of P., journeyed to Newark, last evening, were made the victims of one of the best practical jokes ever worked by local wags. The hoax was originated and carried out by Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., William Feiring and City Judge William N. Runyon.

Shortly before the 7:08 train came in to which the Perseverance special car was attached, a cab hurriedly drove up to the North Avenue station and discharged two passengers. They were seen to be the genial city judge with the most serious look on his face he had ever assumed and a flashily dressed female, heavily veiled. The wondering Knights thought it was a funny way for their Chancellor Commander to appear on the scene and they were even more astonished when Walter Hetfield quietly went among them and declared his disapproval of the judge's intention of bringing the young woman in the special car. He explained she was a "Miss Edwards" who had been visiting at the Runyon home and finding it necessary to return, Chancellor Runyon agreed to escort her as far as Newark and then join his lodge friends.

There were many of the Knights who thought, like Hetfield, the judge and his friend should remain in the forward cars while others said they saw no harm in it as long as "she" could endure the smoking. Despite the objections the much observed pair secured seats in the front part of the Knight's car and contrary to the judge's custom he paid no attention to those about him, with the exception of two who were let into the secret and introduced to "Miss Edwards." The conductor of the train voiced the sentiment of many when he took the judge aside and asked him if he didn't think it was out of place to have his friends in the car as it had a dampening effect of the ordinarily jubilant spirits of the Perseverance members.

The car certainly did look as if it contained a load of mourners on the way to a funeral and more than a few vowed they were disappointed in the beginning of the trip. Roundsman William Mattox threw all restraint aside on passing Westfield and said he was going to talk loud if he felt like it or else quit the car, but he was cowed into subjection by the frowns of the other and more sedate men in the crowd.

The silence became so oppressive that on leaving Elizabethport, the judge stood up and informed his astonished brethren they were a lot of easy marks and if they wanted to make the acquaintance of "Miss Edwards" they could trot up front. The young woman stood up and raised her veil and even then it was only after the closest scrutiny they discerned the features of William Feiring beneath a coat of rouge and an outrageous blonde wig. The make-up was perfect, a picture hat and loose flowing Raglan coat completing the costume.

On leaving the train at Newark the joke was continued and Judge Runyon escorted "Miss Edwards" through Broad and Market streets to the Castle Hall of Covenant Lodge, and of the many women who passed them not one took a second glance at the pseudo young woman. The climax came to the joke when the venerable outer guard of the lodge refused admittance to the "lady" and when she complied with the regulations to enter, hastily summoned his fellow officers for a conference over the extraordinary occurrence. He was finally prevailed upon to let her enter but it was not until Feiring removed his female attire that he could be convinced that a woman was not entering the sacred precincts of the Knights of Pythias.

IN SOMERSET.

Democrats Outline An Active Campaign Throughout That County Until Election Day.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 21—The Democratic County Executive Committee, at its meeting Saturday afternoon, made arrangements for a very active campaign in old Somerset. From the following list of meetings it will be seen that no stone will be left unturned to thoroughly cover the county: Harlingen, Oct. 22; Franklin Park, Oct. 23; East Millstone, Oct. 24; Bound Brook, Oct. 25; North Plainfield, Oct. 27; Raritan, Oct. 28; Bernardsville, Oct. 29; Peapack, Oct. 30; North Branch, Oct. 31; Neshanic, Nov. 1; Somerville, Nov. 3.

At these gatherings Rev. J. B. Cleaver, of Bound Brook, who has deserted the Republican ranks, will be the chief speaker. The county candidates will also be on hand and make addresses.

GUESTS AT NEWARK.

Perseverance Lodge Sent Delegation to Visit Covenant Lodge.

Seventy-five members of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., journeyed to Newark, last evening, where they were entertained by Covenant Lodge, No. 35, at its Castle Hall on Market street.

A programme of music and speeches, to which Perseverance contributed largely, occupied the early part of the evening and the return home was made at 2 o'clock this morning. The trip each way was made by a special car on the New Jersey Central and by special engine between Elizabeth and Newark. The committee in charge of the affair for Perseverance consisted of Samuel J. Robinson, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and Thomas Muir.

Luncheon for Bride to Be.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL WORK WAS WELL DISCUSSED

Anniversary and Institute of Primary and Junior Sunday-School Teachers' Union.

WAS HELD YESTERDAY

SESSIONS HELD AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH AFTERNOON AND EVENING.

Miss Harlow, of Philadelphia, Gave an Illustration of Her Method of Primary Teaching—Interesting Talks.

The seventh anniversary and institute of the Plainfield Primary and Junior Sunday-school Teachers' Union was held in the lecture room of the First Baptist church, yesterday afternoon and evening. Like previous events of a similar character, it was a great success and the conference served the purpose of being very helpful to all the Sunday-school teachers and workers present. There was a large attendance of Sunday-school workers not only from this city, but nearby places. Miss Nettie Beeching, president of the Union, was in charge.

The afternoon session at 3 o'clock was opened with devotional exercises by Mrs. J. A. Powlison, followed with the singing of a primary song, "Leading, We are Sweetly Led." Miss Harlow, who has charge of the primary department in Bethany Sunday-school, Philadelphia, and who has supervision of nearly one thousand children, was introduced and she taught the Sunday-school lesson for next Sunday in her own characteristic manner. After another primary song and the offering was received. Miss Harlow conducted a round table on "Primary and Junior Work." There were many difficult questions asked and Miss Harlow answered them all in a satisfactory and helpful manner. These questions included many that were of special importance to individual teachers. Miss Harlow's explanation of these questions helped all the teachers very much.

This concluded the afternoon programme and a social time followed. Between the afternoon and evening sessions the members of the Union served supper to all present. From 6:45 to 7:30 Miss Harlow held a conference with the teachers at which various topics were discussed concerning Sunday-school work.

The evening session was called at 7:45 o'clock, when L. W. Randolph conducted the devotional exercises. Then Mrs. R. W. Barnes, secretary for the Union, called the roll of members and gave a short review of the past year's work. It was stated that the membership is forty-five and that meetings have been held every week during the year in the Y. M. C. A. building. The finances of the Union are in good condition and all bills are paid. The helpful influence of the Union was noted and results referred to.

A pleasing soprano solo was then rendered by Miss Elsie Giles, after which a round table was conducted by George E. Hall, superintendent of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school. The subject of this was "Helping One Another," and it took the form of a conference of superintendent of the main school with the primary and junior superintendents. This part of the programme proved to be intensely interesting and was productive of bringing out a number of salient points, all of which were helpful to those engaged in this work. This concluded the session and the benediction was pronounced.

DESERTER CAPTURED.

His Sister Gave the Information Which Led to His Capture.

Antonio Newburg, who deserted from the U. S. navy, was taken into custody, yesterday by Patrolman McCarthy, and turned over to the naval authorities at Brooklyn. The young man came to this city after his desertion and has since been living in the West End with his sister. He became abusive on several occasions and she informed the officials of his whereabouts as a means of retaliation.

Dr. Henson to Speak.

Rev. Dr. P. S. Henson, who is to make an address before the East New Jersey Baptist Sunday-school convention this evening in the Scotch Plains Baptist church, is a man of national reputation. The committee was, indeed, fortunate in being able to get Dr. Henson on the programme. He was called from Chicago to the Hanson Place Baptist church of Brooklyn, as successor to Dr. A. C. Dixon.

Benefit associations and other sources $137,592.36, making the total receipts $448,073.10. The disbursements for the same period were: Weekly benefits, $78,174.80; funeral benefits, $71,143.27; for investments, $72,911.37; other expenses, $190,869.53; per capita tax to the State council, $6,752.20; total paid out, $419,851.17. On June 30, last, the total worth of all the councils was $490,547.36, divided as follows: Real estate, $36,234.44; paraphernalia, $78,084.26; investments, $277,689.28, and cash in treasuries, $98,539.38. The gain in worth of councils for the year ending June 30, 1902, was $45,832.41.

The membership and financial figures by counties show Somerset, twelve councils, 1,184 members, gain six; worth of councils $13,406.54, gain $1,135.42. Union, fifteen councils, 1,493 members, gain seventy-eight, worth of councils $15,690.86, gain $2,156.86.

State Secretary Miers will submit a report showing that he made seventy-nine official visits during the year. He received during that time 20,421 letters and sent out 24,190.

At the 1901 session of the State Council a law was adopted creating sections 3 and 4 of article iv., State constitution, which provided for the establishment of an orphans' fund. The councils were called upon to vote either for or against the amendment at their last meeting in December, 1901. The results were as follows: Number of councils in favor of the law, 181; number again, 61; number not voting, 37. The project having been approved, each council was called upon to remit to the State secretary before February 28 last, a sum equal to five cents for each contributing member on their roll on January 1, 1902. The amount collected was $1,648.27.

From June 30, 1901, to June 30, 1902, 158 councils increased their membership, while fifty-eight lost. The records of 1880 show only 1,413 members; in 1890 the number had increased to 5,422. From that year the gains made were very flattering, and in 1900 a membership of 32,693 was reported. In 1880 the councils were worth $13,501.44; ten years later it was $61,478.39, and in 1900 it had reached $402,441.68. The greatest gain was made between June 30, 1896, and June 30, 1897, when $76,040.79 was added to the total worth of the councils.

The worth per capita, according to the membership on June 30, 1902, was $14.09. On that date the average number of members per council was 125, and for the year each member received on an average of $2.26 as sick benefits. The average amount held by each council as investments is $1,000, and if the actual cash in the treasuries on June 30 last was divided among the members, each would receive $3. The net financial gain during the year was $45,832.41—equal to about $1.30 per member and $164 per council.

FINGER SPLIT.

William Hardfelder May Lose His Finger As Result of An Accident.

William Hartfelder, the popular baseball player, of this city, suffered a split finger while catching for the St. Mary team in its benefit game at Rahway, Sunday. He fainted from the loss of blood and was taken to the office of Dr. Amos Sutterlein where he was revived and the injured digit was bound up. The physician is not yet positive that the finger can be saved as the split is a very bad one.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

The wide exploitation given the "man who blew out the gas" joke by the comic papers has resulted in a practical cessation of such acts, but once in a while a man is found foolish enough to do it. Such a one wandered into a local hotel the other evening and though he was not a verdant stranger, he blew the gas out on retiring. A friend who was occupying the same room with him and who had retired earlier was awakened during the night by a choking sensation and making a supreme effort staggered out of bed and threw the door open. He then hastened back and brought out the unthinking friend who had nearly paid the penalty of his rash act. It took some time to revive him and it was only then it was made known where the gas was escaping from. It was a fortunate thing that no matches were struck before the gas was cleared from the room or the hotel might have been missing a short time afterward.

PROPOSALS.

Proposals for grading and macadamizing Prospect avenue, from Willow avenue to Riverside avenue, in the Township of Cranford; will be received at the township rooms, by the Township Committee, at 8 p. m., on the twenty-ninth day of October, 1902.

The Township Committee reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and may award the contract as soon after the above named date as they may elect.

Each bid must be accompanied by a bidder's bond for the sum of one thousand dollars.

The work to be done, as nearly as can be estimated in advance, is as follows:

750 cubic yards of excavation.
1,792 square yards of macadam, 6 inches thick.

THE ALWAYS BUSY STORE
MARKET & HALSEY STS.

SPECIAL SALE OF NOTIONS.
Largest Lines and Lowest Prices.

OUR notion sales are famous—they are spoken of and followed everywhere in the trade. It is not prices alone that have distinguished them, for quality is recognized as being equally important, and it is known that only the best products of makers with established reputations are ever found in our unmatched assortments. Seconds and the trashy things called "peddler's" samples are left for those stores that always have something "just as good" to offer, and never hesitate in charging as much or more for them than we ask for highest grade goods. It has required many months to get ready and manufacturers and importers of these necessary trifles made it decidedly to our advantage to purchase quantities. This fact, in connection with a determination to forego a part or all of the profit on nearly every article in our entire, immense stock, presages the most wonderful selling seen yet in the State's foremost department. Seventy-five additional feet of space will be used, every available aisle table pressed into service, our sales force more than doubled and nothing that will facilitate selection has been forgotten.

READ ALL OF THIS.

You Never Know the Moment This Information May Prove of Infinite Value.

It is worth considerable to any citizen of Plainfield to know the value and use of a medicine for if there is no occasion to employ it in the meantime frail humanity is subjected to so many influences and unforeseen contingencies that the wisest are totally unable to guage the future. Know then, that Doan's Ointment will cure any case of hemorrhoids, commonly known as piles or any other disease of the cuticle or skin generally termed eczema. One application convinces—a continuation cures. Read this proof from Vailsburg.

Mr. A. H. Woodruff., of Vailsburg, N. J, says: "For the benefit of those similarly afflicted as I was with hemorrhoids or piles, I want every reader of this paper to know, that I suffered with attacks of this tormenting nuisance for over fifteen years. During that time, I spent a lot of money trying 'sure cures' and exhausted all my knowledge about salves and ointments," and also the advice of my friends. One day while reading an advertisement about Doan's Ointment I concluded to make one more effort and I commenced the treatment. Greatly to my surprise the area of itching gradually contracted until it completed dried up. What is of considerable more importance to me, there is no indication of a recurrence."

Just such emphatic endorsement can be had here in Plainfield. Drop into L. W. Randolph's drug store and ask what his customers report. Doan's Ointment for sale by all dealers. Price 60 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

SHAW JOKE'S VICTIM

Secretary of the Treasury Besieged For Small Loans.

SAMPLES OF LETTERS RECEIVED.

Newspaper Paragraph Regarding the Recent Action of Department to Relieve Financial Stringency Causes Annoyance.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Several newspapers recently have published paragraphs similar to the following:

"Persons who don't know that prosperity is here are looking askance at the action of Secretary of the Treasury Shaw in coming to the relief of Wall street. This is ridiculous. That's just what good old Uncle Sam is here for, to help the deserving. Anybody who is short and wants $4 to tide him over until next pay day can get it by addressing Mr. Shaw, treasury building, Washington. It is strange that this is not more generally known."

That the paragraph has been taken seriously is illustrated by the number of letters that have been received by the treasury department. Two which have just come in are given below, the signers' names being withheld for obvious reasons:

"Mr. Shaw:

"Dear Sir—I saw in last night's paper that you would help the deserving. I am not in the habit of asking any one for help, but I have been sick for a week and not able to work. My rent is due next week, and if I have not got it they will put me out on the street, and I don't know what to do. My rent is $10 a month, and I have not got a cent toward getting it, but if you will help me just $4 I will try to borrow the rest, although my friends are all poor too. You will be doing a kind act indeed if you will help me, a woman in trouble."

The second letter, like the first given, is dated St. Louis, Oct. 18. It reads:

"Mr. Shaw—I saw in the papers last night that you would help the needy poor. I am a widow and have one little girl, and I have got to pay $5 in a home here to have her kept, and I have got behind. Last month the matron said she would not let it run any longer. I would have to take her out, and I have no place to keep her. I am working in a private family and get only small wages. If you would send me just a little money, it would help me ever so much. I will appreciate your kindness very much. I want to pay my little girl's board."

Younger's Betrothed Talks.

BOISE, Ida., Oct. 21.—Alice J. Miller, the betrothed of Jim Younger, who committed suicide in St. Paul Sunday, and addressed to whom the suicide left an affectionate note, has been a resident of this city since last August, when she came here for rest and to avoid the publicity that her association with the parole of the Younger boys gave her. She said: "Jim wrote me under date of Oct. 16, stating he had given up all hope and was out of work. Saturday he telegraphed me, 'Don't write.' He was driven to this act by his persecutors. I am his wife, understood, spiritually. Before God he is mine and mine alone. My life work will be to place him right before the world. I have wired the authorities to cremate his body. It was his request." Miss Miller is thirty years of age and is a woman of independent means. She has left for St. Paul.

Mont Pelee's Condition.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The colonial office has received a cablegram from Martinique saying that the Lacroix scientific mission, which was sent out by the French government to make observations of the recent eruptions and to establish a permanent observation station on Mont Pelee, has traversed the zone laid waste during the recent eruptions and found no trace of new fissures. The commission did find, however, that the cone of solid rock near the crater was furrowed with fissures from which explosive blasts of sulphurous vapor were emitted and that these blasts caused violent avalanches and cavings.

New Harbor on Lake Erie.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 21.—A new lake harbor on Lake Erie is to be opened in Pennsylvania. The property was purchased by A. W. and R. B. Mellon of Pittsburg for about $500,000. It includes a lake frontage of some 2,500 acres at the mouth of Elk creek, near Girard. By this deal, which is one of the largest around the lakes in recent years, the Mellons gain possession of the only available harbor between Erie and Cleveland besides the charter of a new road known as the Lake Terminal railroad.

Runaway Train Kills Two.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 21.—Samuel Ruch, yardmaster at Lykens, and Fireman Warren Tiggert of Harrisburg were killed on the Lykens Valley branch of the Pennsylvania railroad at Big Lick. They were on a dirt train when the engineer lost control of the engine on a heavy grade, and it jumped the track. Ruch and Tiggert were thrown under the train and instantly killed. The engineer escaped by jumping.

Second Molineux Trial Begun.

PEACE PLAN OPPOSED

Opposition to Settlement of Strike Develops.

THE CONVENTION POSTPONES ACTION

Engineers and Firemen Want Guarantee of Their Old Positions—It Is Thought, However, Delegates Will Favor Return to Work.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 21.—The anxiously awaited convention of the 145,000 striking miners did not reach a vote on the proposed plan of settlement yesterday, but is expected to do so today.

There were 662 delegates present in the Nesbitt theater, where the convention was held, and they were empowered by their local unions to cast 887 votes for or against President Roosevelt's proposition of arbitration. The great majority of the delegates were uninstructed, the few who were being engineers, firemen and pumpmen, who fear that the 5,000 strikers of those classes may not get back their old places, now held by nonunion men. This question of the engineers, firemen and pumpmen proved the only stumbling block in the way of almost immediate adoption of the president's plan, which carries with it declaring the strike off and a general resumption of work through the 175 mile strip of the hard coal mining region.

At one time it seemed certain that the convention was about to adopt the recommendation of President Mitchell to end the strike, but the steam men's plea was too earnest, and the final vote went over. It is next to certain, however, that the vote to declare the strike off will show a big majority for it. The leaders of the strikers except Mr. Mitchell were hardly heard at all in the convention yesterday, the anxious engineers being allowed to give full expression to their feelings. After the meeting a high district officer said there would be no more than fifteen votes cast against the plan which the president of the United States has proposed to them and which all the highest officials of the mine workers in this region earnestly have recommended.

There were two sessions, forenoon and afternoon, and the net result as regards the progress of the convention toward its great object was a permanent organization, with Mr. Mitchell in the chair, his speech laying the president's plan before the delegates, his eloquent impromptu speech advocating its adoption and the appointment of a committee on resolutions. This committee, as Mr. Mitchell said to the delegates, would prepare a formal statement to the public telling fully and carefully why the convention decided to continue the strike if it should so decide and why the strike was declared off if that was the outcome of their deliberations.

The question before the convention when it adjourned for the day was on the adoption of a resolution embodied in President Mitchell's opening speech to call off the strike and leave all questions to the president's commission. The surprise of the convention was the decision to admit newspaper men to all the sessions, open or executive, when even union miners eagerly waiting by the hundred out in the street could not get into the theater.

On account of pressure of business at strike headquarters President Mitchell was unable to be present at the opening session. The routine proceedings, which occupied about forty-five minutes, were followed by singing, the suggestion having been made that the convention be entertained for a time by some of the "Sweet Welsh Singers" of the organization. A delegate from the Wyoming valley caused a storm of enthusiasm by singing a song entitled "Give Three Cheers For Mitchell For the Strike That We Have Won." Songs and short speeches by other delegates followed, and the striking mine workers for the time being seemed to have forgotten their troubles.

The afternoon session began at 2:10, with only the accredited delegates and a small army of newspaper men present. The final reports of the three district secretaries comprising the credentials committee were called for, and they showed a total of 662 delegates present, authorized to cast 887 votes. The proceedings for awhile moved rapidly. Without any speechmaking Mr. Mitchell was elected permanent chairman, and National Secretary-Treasurer W. B. Wilson was selected as the permanent secretary. Just as the cheering for the election of the two officers was ended President Mitchell appeared on the stage. He was heartily cheered.

The strike leader then read his carefully prepared opening address.

In closing Mr. Mitchell said:

"The proposition submitted for your consideration may have objectionable features and in its detail may not meet with the unanimous approval of our people, but it is immeasurably better as now presented than when originally offered by the representatives of the coal corporations. I am firm in my conviction that the prompt acceptance of this proposal will secure to the anthracite mine workers and those dependent upon them a greater measure of justice than they could attain by continuing the conflict. I believe that the prompt acceptance of this proposition will secure to the mine workers a greater degree of justice than they have enjoyed in the past.

"The people of our country await with anxious expectancy the result of your action. The eyes of the nation are centered upon you, and friends and foes alike demand the submission of issues involved in this strike to the tribunal nominated by the president of the United States. That there are dissordant elements in this convention, that there are dissatisfied ones at home, I am fully aware; but, gentlemen, with all the earnestness of which I am possessed I urge that you give your approval to the action of your executive officers, who have recommended acceptance of the proposition that the strike be declared off, and all men are then to return to work in the positions and working places occupied by them prior to the inauguration of the strike and that all questions at issue be submitted for adjustment to the tribunal selected by the president of the United States."

The address was followed with the closest attention by the delegates. Those who expected him to tell all he knew of the situation with reference to the arbitration commission and the question of having all the men obtain their former positions were disappointed, as he reserved this for his later remarks when the question was actually brought before the delegates. At various stages of the reading of the address Mr. Mitchell was applauded, but when he urged the delegates to adopt the recommendations of the executive boards to call off the strike "and all men are then to work in the positions they occupied before the strike was inaugurated" tremendous applause greeted the remark.

The moment he finished a Wilkesbarre delegate was on his feet and moved that the recommendations contained in President Mitchell's address be adopted. If this had been acted upon at once, the strike would have been off and the convention's work done, but those in opposition would not have it that way. They wanted to and did debate the matter until the adjournment, after 5 o'clock.

Probable Coal Output.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Oct. 21.—Mine Inspector Edward Brennan of the Seventh state district said that if the strike ends this week the output of coal the remainder of the month will be 40 per cent and for the next five months 75 per cent, after which the normal output will be made. Out of 20,000 employees in the district all but 2,000 will be given employment at once.

MILLIONAIRE INDICTED.

Edward Butler Charged With Bribery In St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 21.—The millionaire politician Edward Butler was indicted by the grand jury on the charge of paying to Delegate Charles F. Kelly a forty-seven thousand five hundred dollar bribe for members of the house of delegates combine who passed the ten year city lighting bill Nov. 28, 1899. The witnesses whose names appear on the back of the information are:

J. K. Murrell, E. E. Murrell, George F. Robertson, Otto Schumacher, John Helms, William M. Tamblyn, Joseph N. Judge and George F. Meckler.

The last two named are formal witnesses, Judge being clerk of the present house of delegates and Meckler secretary of the present council. The other six members are members of the combine, which included the recipients of the bribe. Butler was later released on a bond of $20,000 signed by John A. Robb.

De Wet Spoke In His Nightshirt.

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—General De Wet spoke in his nightshirt at 2 a. m. Sunday at the Hanover square railroad station to a thousand persons, who almost stormed the train. The general leaned out of a window as he addressed the assemblage, recounting the warmth of the Boers' reception in Berlin and the liberality of the Germans. The generals collected a total of $87,500 here. They undertook to give autographic receipts to every contributor of $1.25 and had to spend several hours daily signing receipts. De Wet said that if the thing kept up his right arm, would be in a sling as the result of writ s paralysis. Envelopes containing m y were thrown into the Boers' carriages when they were out driving.

Shaw at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 21.—Secretary of the Treasury Shaw addressed a large and enthusiastic gathering at Tomlinson hall in this city last night. After dinner at the Columbia club, where Mr. Shaw was entertained by members of that organization, a street parade composed of the various Republican clubs of the city and county escorted him to the hall. Hon. Hugh H. Hanna presided at the meeting and introduced Secretary Shaw, who was enthusiastically received.

Father O'Mahoney Starts For Manila.

ANDOVER, Mass., Oct. 21.—Rev. Daniel O'Mahoney, pastor of St. Augustine's church, who was recently ordered to the Philippine Islands to take up the work of the Spanish friars, has begun his journey to the far east, leaving for Philadelphia, where he will have a conference with Superior General Rodriguez. Later, with Father McErlaine of Lawrence, Mass., he will go to Rome to receive final instructions from the Vatican.

Baltimore Merchant Dead.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21.—William H. Baldwin, senior member of the wholesale dry goods firm of Woodward, Baldwin & Co., has just died here. Mr. Baldwin was eighty-one years of age and was one of the most widely known and representative merchants of the entire south. He was president of the Maryland Savings bank and a director in two other banks.

Fatal Explosion.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 21.—An explosion of a slasher cylinder at the Sibley mill killed one man and injured three others. The cylinder was a large one, but only ordinarily carried ten pounds of steam, and what caused the explosion is a mystery.

HILL ON THE MERGER

President of the Great Northern Outlines Road's Policy.

SHAREHOLDERS WERE NOT COERCED.

Adjourned Hearing of Government Suit Opened at St. Paul—Protection of Oriental Trade Object of the Combine.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 21.—The adjourned hearing of the government suit against the so called railway merger was called to order by Special Examiner Ingersoll at the circuit court in this city, and the entire day was given to the direct testimony of James J. Hill for the defendants, the cross examination having just begun when the hearing adjourned for the day.

Mr. Hill went over much of the ground previously covered by him in his testimony before the interstate commerce commission and in other suits similar to this, but he brought out more fully the fact that the exchange of Great Northern stock for that of the Northern Securities company was the individual act of the individual shareholders and dwelt at length on his statement that the whole purpose of the organization of the Northern Securities company was for the protection of a great commerce with the orient which the northern lines had sought to develop in competition with the transportation companies of the world.

The circular of the Northern Securities company to shareholders offering to expand stock had heretofore been placed in evidence, but the lawyers, through Mr. Hill, introduced a personal circular letter sent by him to numerous Great Northern shareholders in answer to inquiries, telling them that any action of theirs in exchanging their stock must be their own individual action and not be influenced by him.

The examination of Mr. Hill, conducted by George B. Young, at first covered his official connection with the Great Northern railway and the previous companies of which it was the outgrowth. He told of his first connection with the old St. Paul and Pacific and St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba railways, explaining that, the directors of those companies being nearly all nonresident, the policy and methods of the old Manitoba company were left almost entirely with him and the responsibility was sometimes heavy.

The line to the coast was projected in 1887. Work was commenced in the fall of 1889 and completed in 1893. The line was built by the Manitoba company and later leased to the Great Northern, as one ownership of the whole line was considered advisable by the Manitoba stockholders. Over $800,000 was spent in minute surveys before any actual work was begun in construction in order to be sure of finding the best location possible.

He told of the traffic that could be depended on along the line of road, especially the lumber from the Pacific coast, the rate on which had previously been prohibitory, but was reduced from 90 cents to 40 cents a hundred after his line was completed. This lumber is now carried throughout the entire country north and west of the Ohio. Eastbound it saved the expense of returning empty cars and consequently reduced the rate on westbound traffic.

The witness told in detail of the growth of trade for Pacific coast lumber and of the development of the oriental trade. It soon became evident that greater permanence in rates to the orient was necessary, and some control of the rate was necessary in order to make a profit possible.

Three Killed in Feud Fight.

GROESBECK, Tex., Oct. 21.—A pitched battle has been fought in the country four miles from here between the Thomason and Rutherford factions. The trouble grew out of rent and had been pending for some time. The men, two representatives of each family, met, and the shooting followed, the fight being at close range. D. Thomason, Robert Rutherford and William Rutherford were killed, Wallace Thomason escaping without a scratch. He has surrendered, but refuses to talk about the affair.

Tramps Killed In Railway Wreck.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 21.—Three tramps were killed and twenty cars piled up in a wreck on the Reading railroad near Palmyra. One of the wheels of a long train of coal and merchandise broke while the train was rounding a curve. Twenty cars left the track. One of the most completely wrecked of the lot was a box car on which four unknown tramps were riding.

Peggy Stewart Day Kept.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21.—Peggy Stewart day was celebrated here, it being the one hundred and twenty-eighth anniversary of the burning in Annapolis harbor of the tea laden ship bearing that name. The Maryland Society of Sons of the Revolution gave a banquet last night in honor of the day. There were other minor celebrations and patriotic exercises in the public schools.

DOOMED TO FAILURE.

Any political party in Plainfield, which attempts to carry on a campaign along the lines of Saturday evening's open air meeting on North avenue, is doomed to failure. Such campaign practices do not appeal to the members of either party here. The voters of Plainfield are, in the main, reasoning men who, while they have their political preferences, are willing to put them aside if occasion demands. It requires sound reasoning and good logic and any wild appeal or bitter denunciation is more likely to lose votes than to gain them.

Saturday evening's meeting was not arranged by the local Democrats although one man, who has been slightly prominent in that party, did participate. He made a speech at a recent Democratic mass meeting which was cut short by request and which brought down on his head the condemnation of many Democrats. His last attempt has completely disgusted most of the members of his party who declare that his remarks are hurting rather than helping the Democratic cause.

Such attacks as that made by John H. Hillmann on The Daily Press Saturday night are not worth answering. They have no weight with the public at large. Although Saturday's meeting was not under Democratic auspices as was publicly stated yesterday by Chairman A. J. Nolan, of the Democratic city committee, such misguided utterances are bound to injure the party to which the speaker belongs. This fact is appreciated by Democrats as well as Republicans and it is not likely that they will permit their interests to be endangered in that fashion again.

It was with great regret that the members of the congregation of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church bade farewell to Rev. Dr. William R. Richards who has been so greatly respected and beloved as pastor of that church. Since he has been in this city, Dr. Richards has made a host of friends. In times of happiness and affliction, he has been with his flock and entered fully into their joys and sorrows. A man of admirable judgment, he is always quiet and unassuming and yet has shown wonderful tact in dealing with all sorts and conditions of men. The departure of Dr. Richards from this city will be felt, not only by the members of his congregation, but by the whole city. There are few men in Plainfield or elsewhere who have won such universal respect and admiration, not only as a pastor of a Christian church but as a man and a public official. The city itself will feel his loss in the Board of Education where his rare abilities have been of great use in assisting the direction of the educationl affairs of Plainfield. Dr. Richards' departure is regretted by all but he goes with the heartiest and best wishes of the community which confidently believes that there is no place, no matter how difficult, that he cannot fill with credit and honor.

Congressman Flanagan is now in "the enemies' country." Of the three counties which go to make up the new Fifth Congressional district, Union is expected to bear the burden of supplying the Republican majority to carry the district. Warren is admittedly Democratic and Morris is not likely to give any considerable majority either way. If the Democrats can manage to reduce the Republican majority in Union sufficiently, they can win out. So their candidate has come here with the intention of conducting a vigorous campaign in the hope of reducing the Republican majority. It was inaugurated at Elizabeth with a huge mass meeting last evening when Former Governor David B. Hill, of New York, made the address of the evening. Thursday, Congressman Flanagan is coming to Plainfield in search of votes.

It will be the turn of the local Democrats this evening to select their city ticket. It is to be hoped that they will get some representative citizens to accept the nominations even if there is little or no chance of election. While some strong candidates may not carry the ticket on to victory this time, they will strengthen the party generally and increase the confidence of the voters at large in it. A healthy minority is always a good thing for any city and the representative men in the Democratic party should see to it that the better element prevails in its counsels.

Plainfield and Westfield have become baseball mad and its a good sign. Such a healthy rivalry as has developed gives promise of continuing the interest in one of the best outdoor sports that the American people have ever enjoyed. Incidentally this series of games shows that Plainfield possesses a wonderful lot of ball players and that it can hold its own with the best outside of the big league teams. Westfield has had some of the best semi-professionals of this part of the country and they have failed to decisively defeat the local aggregation of amateurs.

It is encouraging to know that the local Republicans still possess a little life. They are going to have a mass meeting before election. Under existing conditions the harmony of the occasion may be improved if Assemblyman W. F. Hall, of Cranford, forgets to come. His presence might mar the harmony which usually exists in Republican gatherings in Plainfield.

Tobogganing is all right in the winter but it is not only unseasonable but dangerous to try it in warm weather, especially when the roof of a house is utilized.

WINTER HOTEL FOR HORSES—

The Buena Vista Stock Farm.

I am prepared to keep a limited number of horses during winter on my farm of 150 acres, situated on road leading from New Market, N. J., to New Brunswick. I have recently erected two large barns especially for the care of horses, with well ventilated box stalls; also large sheds attached for the use of horses a little foot sore, or to be used for exercising during stormy weather. Buildings are all supplied with running water from a well over 200 feet deep forming a complete water supply. Yard for exercising enclosed with high board fence. Plenty of good wholesome food, with good care guaranteed at a reasonable price. All horses called for and returned free of charge. For terms call at farm or address C. F. "The Style of a 'Dorothy Dodd'"

INEXPENSIVE.

THE WOMAN whose capacity for style exceeds her capacity in dollars will find that the style of a "Dorothy Dodd" Shoe gives her foot all the distinction of a custom-measured shoe. "The Style of a 'Dorothy Dodd'" has become proverbial. It is a shoe that preserves the natural outlines of the foot, yet actually makes it look a full size smaller.

DIGG'S UPRIGHT FIRE EXTINGUISHER.

The Best on Earth! We Challenge the World!

The Extinguishers that turn up-side-down to discharge are good of their kind, but this is far better. Read the following reasons:

Points of superior merit of the Diggs-Upright over any other machine—

1—A sealed acid bottle and an air-tight tank. No change in the conditions of the chemicals possible.

2—Can never be discharged by accident; absolutely under the control of the operator.

3—A 3-gallon machine of this type contains ONE QUART more of liquid than a reversible, because it does not require a handle underneath.

4—It does not need inspection and recharging as required for the reversible with its loose stopple.

5—The acid being released at the top of the tank, and the outlet being at the bottom, the mingling of the chemicals is so thorough before the acid reaches the outlet that it is completely neutralized, and no harm can be done to flesh or fabric. In the reversible type the acid is released within the two inches of the outlet.

6—Convenience in handling. The machine stands on its bottom, and all the operator has to do is to turn the screw in the cap, and the flow begins instantly.

7—The bottle is not broken, and no nuisance of broken glass.

LAKEWOOD IS FAMOUS.

There's No Place More Homelike Than That Jersey Resort.

Lakewood the fashionable—Lakewood the glorious, is the one resort to which the resorter now turns for a period of enjoyment, and such enjoyment includes every known sport.

Lakewood's drives, than which there are none better, attract a gay throng and traps of every kind are in constant use. The hunt attracts many, likewise cycling and polo, but when one finds such delightful, yes, wonderful links as Lakewood possesses, one little wonders that golf is the popular game. Another feature of prominence is its hotels, hostelries commodious, grand or rather palatial where one's welfare is the first and foremost consideration. These qualifications including a most marvelous atmosphere have made Lakewood famous the world over. This resort is reached only via the New Jersey Central, and its passenger department in New York has issued a booklet on Lakwood which is replete with information and its yours for the asking. c

TEMPERANCE WORK.

Subject of Last Night's Endeavor Meeting at Trinity Church.

The temperance committee had charge of the Christian Endeavor Society meeting last evening in Trinity Reformed church. George Bolsterli, chairman of the committee, presided. F. H. Martin, of Washington avenue, addressed the meeting, telling of his work. His remarks were earnest and at times quite thrilling as he told of the slum work he is engaged in in New York City. The remarks had a tendency to make all more enthusiastic in their endeavors in the work of temperance.

Manual of Arms.

The City High School battalion met for drill today in the school yard. Pieces were assigned and the time was spent in perfecting the manual of arms.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

There is comfort in the shoes sold by Willett & Son, of Park avenue. His stock is complete as to sizes, quality, while the prices are reasonable.

If you have experienced trouble in finding the kind of dry goods you want, go to Putnam & DeGraw, on West Front street. This firm can accommodate you with first-class goods.

The most delicious charlotte russe in the city is to be found at W. W. Warnock's West Front street bakery. They are made fresh every day as is all of Warnock's pastry. Included in the latter are cream puffs, eclaires and Napoleons.

This is the season when colds are prevalent and they want to be treated at once to prevent further trouble. L. W. Randolph, the West Front street druggist, has just the thing you want. If pure drugs will do the work you can get them at Randolph's.

Callahan & Son make no secret of the methods that have led to their success. They buy their groceries in large quantities and sell for cash at the lowest possible price. As a result they have gained the esteem of the people and a generous patronage.

Of course you have ceased worrying over the heat problem since the coal strike ended but you must remember furnaces and stoves are sometimes a nuisance. You can cease to be troubled by them by getting a Backus gas heater of Gavett. They are economical and labor saving.

DUSS, THE MAN.

Unusual Experience for a Musician Have Been His.

Duss and his now famous band will be at the Casino, Thursday afternoon. Duss' experience in actual life, coming in contact with so many sides of human nature in his many years of activity in the business world and in the strange community he founded in western Pennsylvania. Economy, has undoubtedly opened up to him a vista in both the real and ideal realm that is closed to strictly musical men, and it is interesting to observe the effect this unusual life history has upon a man who has decided to make music his sole ambition henceforth. He is the first aspirant for stellar honors in the musical field who has come from center paths in the busy world.

Some philosopher has said that a man is great in an art in proportion to his greatness outside of that art. Duss has been a great economist, a great financier, a great promoter, a great preacher, a great orator, a great humanitarian, a great philanthropist, a great accumulator of wealth, and few now deny his right to the title of America's greatest bandmaster.

Somerset's Representatives.

Albert W. Pangborn, of Chatham street, represents Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., at the State Council session, at Trenton, tomorrow. I. N. Wyckoff, of West Front street, represents the Council, at the session of the New Jersey Funeral Benefit Association, at its annual session in Trenton, today.

Tonight's Concert.

The admission to the concert to be given in the First Presbyterian church by the male quartette this evening will be by ticket. The doors will be open at 7:45 o'clock. After the first number those not holding tickets will be admitted. A silver offering will be received for the Ladies' Aid Society.

To Locate at Ningpo.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. W. Miller, of LaGrande avenue, received a letter yesterday from their daughter, Mrs. Harrison Wright and her husband, who are now in China. They state that they will be located at Ningpo, on the coast about one hundred miles south of Shanghi.

TEACHERS COMPLAIN.

Governor Taft Explains the Situation in the Philippines.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Some time ago complaints were made by school-teachers in the Philippines about the hardships they endured. It was asserted that good places were given to a few teachers and bad places to others. Complaint also was made that the condition of the currency caused a loss to the teachers and that the commissary supplies of the insular administration were not good. All these complaints were referred to Governor Taft.

His reply has now been received at the war department. Governor Taft says that in the very nature of things the teachers had to enter upon duties which were largely of a missionary character, and hardships were certain to be the portion of some. It was impossible to make all assignments equal, but as the facts became known efforts would be made to equalize the duties of teachers, so that all would share in the pleasant duties as well as in the arduous work. Governor Taft said that no one could foretell the drop in silver, and everybody in the islands had suffered from its depreciation. Steps had been taken, however, to remedy this condition.

Governor Taft says that with the completion of the boats that have been building for the insular government there will be a better system of supplies from the commissary department of the government.

Cuban Congress Adjourns.

HAVANA, Oct. 21.—Congress has adjourned until Nov. 3. The house of representatives has passed a bill granting the National Telephone company, an American concern, a concession of fifty years' duration for an exclusive telephone service in Cuba. The cabinet has discussed the commercial treaty with the United States. It is President Palma's intention to have this treaty in shape to send to the senate when that body reconvenes. The Cuban constitution provides that the treaty needs only the approval of the senate.

British Gunboats Ordered to Hankow

SHANGHAI, Oct. 21.—Four British gunboats have been ordered from here to ascend the Yangtsekiang to Hankow because of the failure of the Chinese authorities to deal with the murderers of Bruce and Lewis, the English missionaries who were killed in Honan province. It is said here that the Chinese authorities are alarmed at this step on the part of Great Britain and that Prince Ching, president of the foreign office, will confer with regard to the matter with Sir Ernest Satow, the British minister to China.

Steamship Mail Contracts.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Bids have been opened at the postoffice department for the contracts for carrying the mails between New York and Havana and Tampico, Mexico. The only bidder was the New York and Cuba Mail Steamship company, whose bid was $1 per mile for each of the two routes. Its bid will be accepted. The service is to be performed weekly. The contract is to be for ten years, beginning Nov. 1. In both routes American built ships are to be used.

Prince Chowfa's Visit.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—The crown prince of Siam, who is the guest here of William Potter, former minister to Italy, yesterday visited Independence hall and the Commercial museum. The prince, accompanied by his brother, Prince Chakrabongse, and suit, were greeted at Independence hall by Mayor Ashbridge and other municipal officials.

Spencer Takes an Air Trip.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Stanley Spencer, the aeronaut who recently made a successful trip over London, traveled twenty-five miles yesterday afternoon in his airship. He rose from Blackpool; but, finding the northwest breeze too strong to make headway against it, he proceeded in a southeasterly direction and landed in the open country.

American Won at Golf.

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—W. D. Miller, an American, professor of dentistry at the University of Berlin, won the golf championship of Germany and Austria by two up on the Berlin club's links. Professor Andrew of Edinburgh university, who is temporarily living in Berlin while studying the German school system, was second.

Internal Revenue Receipts.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. — The monthly statement of the collections of internal revenue shows that for the month of September, 1902, the total receipts were $19,885,670, a decrease as compared with the corresponding month in 1901 of $1,718,778.

Ordered to Somaliland.

ADEN, Arabia, Oct. 21.—Re-enforcements of 460 Bombay grenadiers have been ordered to go to Somaliland at once.

Buying Steel In Germany.

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—The Hoerder Iron company has received an order from America for 40,000 tons of steel rails.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Nearly 4,000 Italian immigrants arrived in New York on three ships.

Several were injured in the wreck of the Twentieth Century flier near Columbus, O.

Three trainmen and a dozen passengers were hurt in a collision on the Northern Pacific railroad at Brainerd, Minn.

The Chicago Federation of Labor ordered striking members of Wholesale Grocers' Employees' union back to work pending settlement of dispute by arbitration.

Nations Banded to Protect Birds.

An international agreement for the protection of birds that are useful to agriculture was signed at Paris on March 19 by representatives of Belgium, France, Switzerland, Sweden, Spain, Portugal, Austria-Hungary, Greece and the principalities of Monaco, Lichtenstein and Luxemburg. Germany is expected to join the league. Nature calls attention to the fact that Italy, within whose boundaries many migrating birds are annually killed, does not appear among the nations signing the agreement. The protection afforded in the case of the most useful insectivorous birds is to be absolute at all seasons, covering their eggs and nests as well as the birds themselves. Protection is denied to ravens, magpies and jays.

Night Photography.

At a recent meeting of the Camera club in London, Dr. E. F. Gruen described his new fluid lens, designed especially for making photographs with short exposures in ordinary night illumination. Fluid lenses were originally employed to overcome the difficulty of chromatic aberration before the combination of flint and crown glass was invented. Dr. Gruen employs them for their "photographic rapidity." They also possess extraordinary depth of focus. Good results were obtained with snap shots in various theaters with the ordinary stage illumination, and even kinematograph pictures of stage scenes were made without special lighting. It is hoped that lenses of this description will greatly widen the field of photography.—Science.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure Digests what you eat.

Fat People and Thin People are Offered a Word of Caution.

Many persons worry because they are too fat, and many more worry because they are too thin. In both cases the food eaten is not properly digested.

Fat persons digest fat producing foods and do not digest foods that give muscular and nervous strength. They are not as strong as they look, and deserve more sympathy than they get.

Thin persons cannot digest fat producing foods. Sometimes they digest nerve and muscle foods and become nervous and wiry; but usually they do not properly digest anything, and lose health and steength.

Nature has made provision for the digestion of all classes of foods; and when our digestion becomes impaired, it is wisdom to take steps at once to remedy it. Many thousands are using with marked success the preparation known as KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE. As it contains all the digestants, it digests all kinds of foods and restores the digestive organs to health.

It can't help but do you good.

Prepared only by E. C. DEWITT & Co., Chicago. The $1. bottle contains 2½ times the 50c. size.

THE NEW MATERIALS.

Flowered Silks For Evening Wear. Fashionable Rough Goods.

Pompadour and flowered silks of all kinds are very much the fashion. These beautiful silks and brocades are made up into evening gowns and cut very simply. They are often finished around the neck with a bertha of rare lace which almost hides the small sleeve puffs.

The flowered brocades are also handsome for lining evening wraps, the lining nowadays being more than two-thirds of the garment.

Three-quarter raincoats made of diagonal are very smart for rainy day and cool weather wear. They are made with half fitted backs or else with the fullness belted in with a short strap.

The new tailor mades are very fancy in the way of tucks and strappings. Many of the skirts are made habit back and finished simply with three long strappings or one long and two short. The long skirts have fairly long trains, and the sides and front are very long.

Rough goods, zibelines and camel's hairs are worn on even dressy occasions when a tailor made is required.

The girl's tailor made illustrated is of dark blue cloth. The blouse jacket is laid in perpendicular folds stitched flat, the wide revers are of embroidery and the little vest is of the same. The skirt has a plain front breadth, and the sides and back have three gored flounces. JUDIC CHOLLET.

TAILOR MADE SUITS.

Russian Blouse Suits Are No Longer Plain.

Fashionable modistes are using a great deal of ecru and string colored lace on gowns for the autumn season, and if of the heavy guipure type this is most effective on brown, tan and the deeper blue tints of soft woolen material. The Russian blouse or coatee is no longer of the plain belted order, but is varied in many ways.

Many of these blouses do not meet in front, but fasten over a plastron of cloth more or less decorated or embroidered, or there is a plain plastron of the material over which is arranged a full cascade of lace or chiffon or a pouched front of silk or velvet. These plastrons are usually removable and thus admit of variation.

A blouse coat of the deepest green emerald velvet made in this manner was trimmed with jet and had a tucked plastron of tucked peau de soie incrusted with motifs of string colored lace. These motifs were so outlined with jet that the light color was almost hidden.

The plain street dress in the picture is of rough gray cloth trimmed with strappings of gray satin. The chemisette is of white taffeta and yellow lace. JUDIC CHOLLET.

PROGRESS OF JAPAN.

Due Primarily to the Influence of the United States.

There Is No Reason Why We Should Not Control the Lion's Share of the Asiatic Empire's Foreign Trade.

Within 50 years just passed in the history of Japan, the well-nigh impenetrable barriers of centuries gone were broken down by the unusual visit of Commodore Perry, of the United States navy.

Then followed, for a period of 20 years, intercourse was grudgingly permitted by the Japanese government, until at last the spirit of commercialism and advancement had its birth in the minds of these clever people and now, at the present time, they are a recognized force and power with the several civilized nations.

When it is considered that within the last 25 years these people have overcome the customs and traditions of centuries their rise is among the wonders of the present day.

We learn that the census of 1898 gives them a population of forty-three and three-quarter millions of people, and that there is not the poverty and suffering existing among them as with other nations. Simple in tastes, cleanly in their homes and habits, they are uniformly a happy race, filled with a dominant pride of country that has helped them to win the place they now occupy and hold among other peoples.

Mr. Otani Kanei, president of the Yokohama Japanese chamber of commerce, who is a very strong friend of the United States, said in one of his recent addresses, among other things:

"While there have been many contributory causes, the most direct and powerful factor in bringing about the present prosperous condition of Japan has been the impartiality and good feeling shown by the government and people of the United States,

ROBERT MITCHELL FLOYD.
(Noted Boston Publicist and Authority on Trade Topics.)

who have at all times given every encouragement and assistance in and to the introduction of modern civilization."

So the opening of the twentieth century shows a welding of friendship between one of the oldest and most exclusive of nations with the youngest and most cosmopolitan of countries.

Names of seaports and commercial towns in Japan were formerly an unknown quantity to us, but Tokio, with its ivory, silver and inlaid works and bronzes; Kioto, with cloisonne and lacquer wares; Osaka, with cotton yarns, rugs, fabrics, glassware; Kobe, with rice, bamboo, screens, mattings, straw-braids; Nagasaki, with fishery products and noted as being the first port opened for foreign trade in Japan; Nagoya, with porcelain clocks and paper; Shidzuoka, with tea, mushrooms and artistic creations in bamboo; Ashikaga and Kiriu, with their silk fabrics, which have been in existence as manufacturing centers since a very ancient period—are now commonly known to the business world.

Of course there are many other large cities that are constantly referred to, such as Moji, a port through which all the coal passes from the numerous mines in that vicinity; and the Mecca of all travelers, Yokohama.

This port is the great commercial city of Japan, for here the traders meet to buy the products of the country, which are concentrated at this point. Besides the native dealers, business houses from every section of the world have their representatives, and the tongues that are heard on the thoroughfares are as numerous as leaves upon a tea plant.

There is a growing sale for the Japanese teas in the markets of the United States and Canada, and there seems no doubt, writes Robert Mitchell Floyd, in Trade Press List, that the abrogation of duties by the states will increase the consumption, and be of great assistance to the tea-raisers of Japan.

Our Latent Nomad Spirit.

In our work we get further and further away from the earliest types of civilization, but in our play we come at times very near to prehistoric life, says the People's Friend. Our picnics are an attempt to satisfy our latent nomad instinct, our games and races are a symbol of the fierce struggle for existence which was a very real literal conflict in those far-off days, but has been modernized under the name of trade competition. And our love of shooting and fishing and hunting has no doubt been inherited from those who long ago hunted not for pleasure, but for dinner.

MARRIED AT MIDNIGHT.

New Jersey Policeman, Sympathetic Justice and Obliging Jeweler Help Brooklyn Runaways.

Policeman Flanagan, of Jersey City, was halted on Grove street at 11 o'clock the other night by a well-dressed young couple, who at first appeared somewhat embarrassed.

"What is the matter?" asked the officer.

"Well," said the young man, "we want to find a minister or a justice of the peace. Can you direct us to one? The fact is," he added, becoming bolder after the ice had been broken, "we wish to get married and the ceremony must be performed to-night."

Flanagan said that he thought Capt. John Kelly could arrange the matter. He escorted the couple to the Seventh street police station and sent for Justice Martin D. Kelly. When he was told why his services were needed and that it would be necessary for him to provide witnesses, he called on Arthur McGraw and Miss Fanny Ludwig, two neighbors, who accompanied him to the police station.

Justice Kelly was about to perform the ceremony when it was discovered that the prospective bridegroom had failed to provide himself with a ring. Having taken the measure of the bride's finger, Capt. Kelly sent an officer to arouse a jeweler on Pavonia avenue and the ring was secured with little delay. After that the ceremony was quickly performed.

The bridegroom said he was Francis B. Riker, of Brooklyn, and the bride described herself as Ada M. Dunn, 22 years old, also of Brooklyn, employed as a stenographer by a New York firm. They said Miss Dunn's parents objected to her marrying on the ground that she was too young. Mr. Riker said he and Miss Dunn talked the matter over and finally concluded to go to Jersey City and be married. They had little doubt that the bride's parents would forgive her.

NEW ROOSTER STORY.

While Still in Egg State Bird Collided with Train and Now Whistles Like Locomotive.

The following story was published recently. It was attributed to Representative Flanagan, of New Jersey, a millionaire from Morristown. He told the story at a picnic of Patrons of Husbandry at Tuttle's Grove, near Morristown.

"I was riding from Baltimore to Washington on a fast train one day," said Mr. Flanagan. "The car window was open. As we passed another express train going in the opposite direction a hen caught in the vortex between the two trains was lifted in the air and slammed against the side of our car. As it struck, an egg was cast in the open window and fell in my lap.

"Of course it didn't break," said a cynic among the listeners.

"It did not break," went on the representative. "Because of its premature appearance the shell was not hard but tough and leathery instead. I took it home and put it in an incubator and in time hatched out a fine chicken."

"Did you observe in the early spring any evidence of premonitory influences?" asked the schoolmaster, shoving his glasses upon his forehead.

"Only this," said the representative, "the chicken was a rooster, and ever it tried to crow it whistled like a locomotive."

Fights with Black Bear.

Assessor H. B. Peterson, of the town of Atlanta, Wis., had an encounter with a large female black bear the other morning. The bear presented herself and three cubs at the home of Mr. Peterson and was in the act of taking possession of his bee hives when they were noticed. Mr. Peterson fired upon the bear, when she made a fierce fight. He fired again, this time wounding her. She then disappeared in the woods. He killed the cubs. They weighed [illegible] apiece.

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $300 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods. If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

A TENNESSEE SENSATION.

Man Supposed to Have Been Murdered Appears In Court.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 21.—While the supreme court was in session in this city a man claiming to be Silas Hulin entered the courtroom unannounced and, addressing Chief Justice Beard, said, "I am Hulin, who was not killed by Clarence Peak."

Young Peak's case was about to be called before the court.

Peak, who is the son of a prominent family, had been sentenced in the lower court to ten years in the penitentiary for the alleged murder of Silas Hulin at Clinton, Tenn. Peak is now in the insane asylum near here, a raving maniac, caused by this case.

Hulin claims that Peak shot another man, whose name is unknown, and that he (Hulin) escaped on the first train and went to Colorado, from which state he came back here to prove that he was not dead. Hulin was a stranger at Clinton at the time of the shooting.

New Cruisers to Be Powerful.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The naval board on construction has finally decided on the features of the armored cruisers authorized by the last congress. Speed has been sacrificed in a measure to power. By a vote of four against one Engineer in Chief Melville's proposition to give the big ships 25,000 horsepower and a speed of twenty-three knots at a minimum was rejected, and the horsepower will stand at 23,000, which, he estimates, will actually bring the speed down to about twenty-one and a half knots. The new boats therefore will be three and a half knots slower than the four famous English armored cruisers of the Drake class. To offset this lack of speed the Tennessee class will have more armor, the protective deck at its thickest part being four and a half inches, with six inch side armor.

Judge Gray at White House.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Judge George Gray, one of the members of the coal strike arbitration commission, took lunch with the president. He said he had called at the temporary White House merely to accept the appointment tendered to him by Mr. Roosevelt and to talk over with him the strike situation. He added that the president has requested the members of the commission to hold their first meeting in this city. That meeting he thought would be held the latter part of this week or the first of next week. Judge Gray left here this afternoon for his home in Delaware.

Fever Rages In State Hospital.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Oct. 21.—An epidemic of typhoid fever prevails among patients and attendants at the St. Lawrence State hospital, there being over thirty cases. There are no cases of typhoid in the city. It is believed the epidemic was started from the hospital ice, the supply of which was cut from the river back of the hospital grounds. Several deaths have occurred.

Arbitration Likely In Trolley Strike.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Oct. 21.—The Hudson Valley Railway company at a conference with the strikers' committee at Glens Falls has offered a new proposition that all matters in dispute be left to arbitration, agreeing to abide by the result. The proposition will be considered at a meeting of striking motormen and conductors.

ABBEY'S EARLY LIFE

Famous Artist Was an Indolent and Careless Youth.

Finished Sketches Only When Necessity Knocked at the Door—Always Was Abstemious, But an Extravagant Dresser.

That success does not alter inborn character is proved to the satisfaction of C. R. Kelley, of Chicago, at all events, when he reflects on the habits and customs of Edwin Austin Abbey, R. A., and compares them with that famous artist's recent utterances.

Years ago, before Mr. Abbey ever thought to be selected to paint the coronation scene by royal command, he and Mr. Kelley roomed together, and the latter consequently had ample opportunity to study the painter's many idiosyncrasies.

That was 25 years ago, a time long enough to win the one fame on two continents as a mighty wielder of the brush and to elevate the other to a high place in the ranks of Chicago republicans.

"I well remember Mr. Abbey as a youth of 18," said Mr. Kelley to a Chicago Chronicle reporter. "He was my roommate in Williamsburg then and seemed to spend more time in dreaming than in work. Often he would say to me: 'My board bill will be due to-morrow, and I must get out a sketch for Harper's to-night.' Then he looked over a pocket sketchbook in which he was continually jotting down what seemed to me to be mere lines, but to him incidents found in his daily life. Something would be selected and the next morning Harper's would hand him a check for $100 in return for it.

"Abbey found a sale for all the sketches he could do for Harper's Weekly, and much of his work found its way into the monthly. Yet while he was in receipt of a large income he seldom had any money and was indolent to the degree of being lazy.

EDWIN AUSTIN ABBEY.
(Appointed by King Edward to Paint Coronation Pictures.)

"His money, however, was not spent with evil companions or in saloons, for I do not remember that I ever saw him take a drink or smoke a cigar. Instead, any article of wearing apparel that pleased him would be purchased without regard to price. Silk underwear, hose and fine furnishing goods were his hobby.

"His particular forte was in facial expressions, and I imagine that this specialty will be well brought out in his work on the 15 panels depicting the 'Search for the Holy Grail,' which he is working upon for the new Boston public library.

"I can see Abbey now as he used to appear to me in the old boarding house, sketching on a piece of cardboard with some 50 faces traced out under his skilful hand and no two of them at all alike. When he had finished he would sit back and laugh at his work.

"Abbey could always see something worthy of his pencil in the serio-comic side of life and this little notebook was full of such eccentricities. The value of his work was shown in a roving commission given him by Harper's to go abroad on a salary of $10,000 a year. Specimens of his early work may be seen in the draperies for the Vanderbilt library, for which it is said he received $50,000. I was not surprised to learn that he had been selected to paint the coronation scene, for I always believed him to be destined to become the greatest painter of modern times.

"This further reminds me," continued Mr. Kelley, "of his early hopes to some day attain the fame and money necessary to become a member of the famous Artists' club in New York. His marriage to Miss Gertrude Mead, of Greenwich, Conn., whom I had known as a child and who I had no knowledge that he had ever met, is another link in our lifelong acquaintance. While he was indolent in his early career, possibly a characteristic of Philadelphia birth, I believe his objection to living in America is due to a desire to study English home life and obtain greater conveniences for his art studies, for he is thoroughly American."

In a recent magazine a notable tribute is paid the American artist in the following terms:

"Saturated with English literature, domiciled in an English village, fond of English rural life, Mr. Abbey stands out as more British in sympathy and manner than the British themselves. In the coronation is his great opportunity."

"Few Things Are Impossible to diligence and skill." That's so! Any man who really wants to carry Life Insurance to protect his family will find it possible if in good health, when he applies to

GRAND OFFICERS THERE.

Loyal Addition Received a Fraternal Visit Last Evening.

The Loyal Addition met last evening and received a fraternal visit from Grand Councillor Henry Bornaman, of Hoboken, Grand Recorder John Farrell, of Passaic, and Grand Chaplain John Bowman, of Scotch Plains. There were interesting remarks from these grand lodge officers and all the members entered into a discussion of the proposed "suicide clause" amendment to the constitution of the order. It is quite likely that in the near future a five-year limitation will be adopted.

After the meeting the members all adjourned to Warnock's bakery on West Front street, where a collation was served. On Thursday evening the grand lodge officers will visit the lodge at Scotch Plains and the Plainfield members have been invited to attend.

Suing Express Co.

Suit for $100 damages has been instituted in Justice Hand's court, by Jacob A. Fass against the United States Express Company. The plaintiff alleges that the company held goods belonging to him until they were out of season and could not be sold. The trial will be held next Tuesday.

MEREDITH HOMESTEAD SOLD

HISTORIC STRUCTURE, NEAR BRUNSWICK, GOES INTO NEW HANDS.

Lawrence Wells, of New York, Has Purchased It—Place is Easily Recognized.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, October 21—All those who have read the fascinating historial novel, Janice Meredith, will be interested in knowing that the beautiful home of the heroine of that story which is located three miles from the city line on the road between this city and Bound Brook has been sold to a wealthy New York man who will begin remodeling the house and grounds and will have the work completed so as to move to this city early next spring.

The sale of the premises took place during the first week in September. Lawrence Wells, the brother of Mrs. Sabine Wells, of Union street, is the purchaser. Yesterday he was in this city and brought with him an architect from the metropolis and together they visited the place.

The house is now occupied by H. W. Kline and family. They have owned the place for the last six years and have kept up the premises in a very attractive style. They take great pleasure in showing visitors about the place because of its historial associations.

There are places about the premises which one can identify by reading the well known book. Spots described in the novel on the road between Mr. Meredith's home and Brunswick town are easily recognized. Some people have been led to believe that the present site of the Ross Hall Golf Club House is the scene of the plot of the book but this is not believed to be correct as the description in the book tallies more clearly with the house on this side of the river.

It is the intention of Mr. Wells to spend between $50,000 and $75,000 in remodelling the house. The wide veranda and some of the old historical nooks in the house will be changed but its Colonial style of architecture will predominate. When it is completed the house will be one of the handsomest country homes in this locality. Mr. Kline, who, as has already been stated, now occupies the house, will move out shortly.

General George Washington at one time made this house his headquarters and in the hard wood floors the marks of the soldiers' bayonets can be distinctly seen.

WILL RESIDE HERE.

David Linbarger Married Mrs. Nellie Wagoner at Westfield Today.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Oct. 21—The marriage of Mrs. Nellie Wagoner, widow of the late Dr. Wagoner, county physician of Somerset county, of Somerville, and David Linbarger, formerly of Plainfield, took place this afternoon at the home of Rev. S. A. Frances, who performed the ceremony. The bride and groom left at once for Boston, Mass., where they will enjoy a wedding trip. Upon their return they will take up their residence in Plainfield.

The groom is associated with the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, of Newark, both he and his wife have many friends in Plainfield and vicinity.

BAPTIST WORKERS MEET

CONVENTION OF EAST NEW JERSEY BAPTIST SUNDAY-SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

Opening Session Held in the Scotch Plains Baptist Church This Morning.

(By Staff Correspondent.)

Scotch Plains, Oct. 21—The fifty-second annual convention of the East New Jersey Baptist Sunday-school Association began in the Baptist church, at 10 o'clock, this morning.

It opened with a prayer and praise service led by Rev. J. M. Stifler, Jr., and was followed by addresses from Superintendent Charles Vincent, Rev. J. W. Richardson and Rev. T. E. Vassar, D.D. The session closed with an open parliament upon the addresses of the morning.

Committees for the year were announced as follows: Nominations, G. W. Lawrence, M. C. Dobbins, L. D. Walker; resolutions, J. H. Parks, Rev. J. A. Cubberly, J. J. Coyne; place of meeting, Rev. C. S. Stanley, F. Shott, Rev. Frank Fletcher; enrollment, Mrs. G. M. Shott, C. R. Vincent and Miss Lydia Hays; auditing, G. E. Hall, A. J. Runyon and Rev. C. Gunther.

Adjournment was taken at noon for lunch and the convention will resume at 2 o'clock.

SAFE AT LAST.

Somerville's Wealthy Chinaman Will Stay Home Hereafter.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 21—Joe Gat, the wealthy Chinese laundry owner of this place, is back from a four years' sojourn in his native land.

Joe reached England about six months ago, but the officials would not let him come to America, not believing he was Joe Gat. So Joe went to Montreal to be nearer his friends here. Then he communicated with Josiah H. Tunison, of this place, and succeeded in establishing his identity.

Joe looks fat and fine and says the United States is good enough for him hereafter.

DINNER PARTY.

Given by Mr. and Mrs. George W. Edwards in Honor of Guests.

A brilliant dinner was given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton Edwards, of Franklin place, in honor of their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson, of New York. The decorations were carnations and lilies-of-the-valley. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Francis deL. Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. The Blood is the Life.

The circulatory system consists of the heart, the tireless blood pump; the arteries, which carry the blood to the system and to the lungs; the veins, which return the used-up blood to the heart, and the small capillaries which connect them. How many times do we find areas of the body striving for good blood, and as a consequence diseased, and this from some obstruction to its blood supply, or on the other hand, congested and inflamed because the blood cannot return properly through the veins. Neither bone, ligament, muscle or any other tissue can live without it.

Osteopathy does more, however, than simply remove obstructions to the flow. It controls the size of the blood vessels through the vaso motor nerves and relieves anaemia or bloodlessness of a part by direct stimulation to that part, and just as surely relieves congestion and inflammation by stimulating the flow from the part.

SLATE NAMED BY DEMOCRATS

Democratic City Convention Held Last Evening With a Big Display of Harmony.

J. P. HOMAN FOR MAYOR

H. W. Marshall Named for City Treasurer, and E. C. Perkins and E. M. Rodman for School Board —Only One List of Candidates Presented—Was Harmonious.

For Mayor,
James P. Homan.
For City Treasurer,
H. W. Marshall.
For Board of Education,
E. C. Perkins, (five years.)
Rev. E. M. Rodman. (two years.)
For Chosen Freeholders,
E. M. VanBuren.
Jeremiah Manning.

The above slate is the one prepared by the Democrats of the city at their convention held last evening, to be placed in the field for the coming city election. No opposing names were suggested for nomination and the selections were unanimously agreed upon. Perfect harmony prevailed and the delegates expressed satisfaction at the outcome of the convention.

It sufficed but very little time to transact the business of the evening The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by Andrew J. Nolan, in headquarters on East Second street, and V. L. Frazee was made secretary. When the name of J. P. Homan was proposed to head the slate it was received with enthusiasm and promptly seconded. The ballot was cast and he was unanimously accorded the nomination.

The remainder of the nominations were made quickly, all the names being proposed being staunch members of the party who have done much to advance its interests and some of whom have acquitted themselves creditably in office before. Prominent Democrats declare it to be one of the best tickets prepared and they are hopeful of success in more than one instance.

The only other business of the evening was the appointment of a committee, composed of V. L. Frazee, C. A. Startevant and A. J. Nolan, to fill any vacancies that should occur.

AUTUMNAL WEDDING.

Ceremony Performed This Afternoon Which Joined Miss Adelaide Flory and George W. Vroom.

Miss Adelaide Flory, daughter of Mrs. Eliza Flory, of Bangor, Pa., was married this afternoon to George W. Vroom, of Castleton Corners, S. I., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Martin, of Duer street, corner of Park place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. Meier, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Bangor, the home of the bride.

The ceremony was performed at 3:30 in the presence of a number of friends and relatives, many of whom were from Pennsylvania. The front room of the house was handsomely decorated with autumn leaves and flowers with potted palms arranged about the parlor. Under a huge bell of autumn leaves the knot was tied.

The bridal couple were unattended save by two little ribbon girls, Miss Dorothy Martin and Miss Marion Blair. Miss Martin is the niece of the bride.

The bride was attired in a gown of white Persian lawn and carried a large bouquet of flowers.

After the nuptial knot had been tied the bridal party enjoyed a wedding supper, following which they left for Castleton Corners, Staten Island, where a reception will be held this evening in their newly-furnished home.

The groom is a brother-in-law to N. K. Barnes, the well known merchant. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Martin, at whose home the wedding was held. The presents received by Mr. and Mrs Vroom were both handsome and numerous.

His First Sermon.

Rev. Edward Vicar Stevenson, who has accepted the call to Grace Episcopal church, will preach there next Sunday. He will assume the pastorate early in November.

—The Mocha and Java coffee sold by Neuman Brothers is the best on the market. Everybody who has used it says so.

Miss Lulu Brown, of Elmwood place, is seriously ill at her home.

PAPER FOR HIGH SCHOOL

PUPILS OF CITY HIGH SCHOOL ARE PREPARING A PUBLICATION.

Will be Under Control of Board of Board of Editors Assisted by the Faculty.

Much interest is being shown at the City High School in the attempt which has been made to start a school paper and it is probable that the initial issue of such a paper will appear before many weeks.

A number of the pupils, with the assistance of Prinicpal Travell, have drawn up a working plan for the paper and it has been unanimously approved of by the school. This plan places the control of the paper with a board of eight consisting of an editor-in-chief, a literary editor, a school editor, a corresponding editor, an assistant business manager and two faculty assistants. These officers will be elected by the school from a list of nominees proposed by the principal and will serve till March.

Aside from the board, two of whom shall be pointed from the senior class, two from the junior class and one from the sophomore class, there will be two reporters chosen from each of the classes whose duty it will be to gather news from all sources, social, athletic, battalion, personal, etc., and who shall be under the direct supervision of the school editor. Both members of the board and reporters will be chosen with regard to their excellency in writing and must attain a certain high standard of school work and the members of the board shall be excused from the presentation of one half of the required English work.

The meeting of the school for election of a board and reporters will be held in a short time and the board will meet for organization soon after election. The paper will be published the first Wednesday of each month.

A DEACONESS.

Women of the Monroe Avenue M. E. Church Contemplate Having One for That Congregation.

Through the efforts of Rev. John H. MacMurray, pastor of the Monroe Avenue church, it is proposed to install a deaconess in the congregation to devote herself to work generally borne by female members of the church. Mr. MacMurray has completed arrangements in the matter and it will be decided upon definitely at a meeting to be held by the women's societies of the church this afternoon.

The plan will be experimental for three months and if successful to a degree to warrant its continuance, the deaconess will be made a permanent fixture. Women doing this work have accomplished great good in Methodist domains and many have devoted their lives in the care of others.

EVANGELISTIC MEETING.

Series to be Started Under Direction of the Presiding Elder.

Commencing next week at Westfield, the first of a series of evangelistic services will be inaugurated under the direction of the presiding elder of the Elizabeth district, Rev. Dr. Halleron, of the Methodist church. This will be a means of awakening the interest of the members of the denomination and putting into action many weak churches.

Dr. Halleron has divided the district. That in which this city is situated, comprises the localities between Plainfield and Elizabeth, with Westfield as the central point. The first meetings will be held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass will be one of the speakers. It is expected that by this movement many persons who do not go to church may be reached.

Ward Stephens As Editor.

"Music and the Drama," is the name of a department published in The Tammany Times, of New York, and edited by Ward Stephens, formerly organist at the Crescent Avenue church, this city. One page is devoted to this department and it is arranged and edited most creditably by Mr. Stephens, whose knowledge and experience in music and the drama especially fits him for this work.

Will Resume Business.

Calvin H. Rugg, who went out of the coal business a number of weeks ago, after having disposed of his stock of coal, is preparing to resume again. He expects to receive coal in a short time.

Queen City's Anniversary.

The eleventh anniversary of Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., will be celebrated Monday evening in the lodge rooms. There will be a smoker.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL WAS ALL IMPORTANT TOPIC

Conclusion of Convention of East N. J. Baptist Sunday-School Association.

INTERFSTING SPEAKERS

TOLD OF VARIOUS METHODS IN USE AT SUNDAY-SCHOOLS.

J. D. Runyon, of Newark, Elected President—The Other Officers—Substance of Reports—Address by Rev. Dr. Henson in Evening.

The fifty-second annual convention of the East New Jersey Sunday-school Association, which opened yesterday morning in the Scotch Plains Baptist church, was continued in the afternoon and evening.

The afternoon session began at 2 o'clock, with a devotional session conducted by Rev. J. Francis Behrends, of Newark. This was followed by the first address of the afternoon, which was by Rev. Dr. Albert G. Lawson, pastor of the Clinton Avenue Baptist church, of Newark.

Dr. Lawson's subject was "The Value of Illustration in Sunday-school Work." He spoke very warmly in favor of the use of illustrations, by means of maps, pictures, object lessons, or blackboard work. He said that illsutrations should be simple, well chosen, and that they should not be overdone, in order to be successful.

An important part of the afternoon session was a series of talks on department work. The first of these was given by Miss Nettie J. Beeching, of Watchung, and Mrs. J. A. Powlison, of Plainfield, on primary work. Miss Beeching told of the value of the summer school of methods for primary teachers, and the help that Plainfield teachers had received from their Primary Union. Mrs. Powlison spoke of the good result of a divided primary department, giving the children of different ages teaching especially fitted for them.

"Work For Young Men" was the department of the topic assigned to Rev. O. F. Stanley, of the Fifth Baptist church of Newark. The principal point of his address was that the church which desires to gain and keep the young men must be one in which there is a deep and full spiritual life; without that, the most perfect machinery would be useless.

Mrs. J. F. Hill, of Newark, followed with the topic "Work for Young Women." Some of the points she brought out were that teachers must be sufficiently consecrated men and women to take time and pains to prepare the lessons in an interesting manner; that lessons must be taught with reference to the interests of every day life and be made practical; and the girls be led to take up definite Christian work.

The speaker on "Home Department Work" was Rev. J. V. Ellson, of the East Baptist church, Elizabeth. He said that this new department of Sunday-school work not only extended the influence of the school, but helped the home, by making this department a success, he went on to say, were appreciation of the needs of the home, sympathy, and true Christian life.

The offertory solo, which followed, was by Miss Elsie Giles, of the First Baptist church choir, of this city.

The closing address of the session, "A View of the Bible Lessons for the Next Two Months," was by Rev. W. G. Fennell, of the South Baptist church, Newark. He gave a brief but stirring resume of the period of Israelitish history to be covered by the International lessons during November and December, of great interest to the Sunday-school teachers prseent.

The afternoon closed with a brief business session. The treasurer's report was read by Rev. Frank Fletcher, of New Market, and announced a good balance in the treasury. Rev. Dr. Parks reported for the committee on resolutions, advocating, among other things, the holding of a regular teachers' meeting for the study of the lesson in every school. The committee on place of next meeting announced that an invitation had been received from the Fifth Baptist church of Newark to hold the next convention with them. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, J. D. Runyon, of Newark; vice president, C. Decker, of Westfield; secretary and treasurer, Rev. Frank Fletcher, of New Market. The committee of arrangement for next year's convention was also appointed, to consist of the officers, Rev. Charles F. Stanley, and Rev. J. P. Hunter, of the Emanuel Baptist church, Jersey City.

After supper had been served and the delegates were waiting for the time for opening the evening service, a short conference was held in which several ministers gave short addresses especially bearing on individual Sunday-school work. These divines also told of the work in their own Sunday-schools. At 7:15 o'clock the evening session opened with a prayer and praise service led by Rev. Charles F. Stanley, of Newark, followed with the reading of the Scripture by Rev. Percy Ferris, of Perth Amboy.

At this time Rev. Dr. P. S. Henson, pastor of the Hanson Place Baptist church, of Brooklyn, was introduced as the speaker of the evening. He is one of the best known Baptist divines and the fact that he was to speak attracted an unusually large number of people. Dr. Henson took for his subject the "Bible," as the book for the Sunday-school and he urged all Christian workers to take a fresh grip on the Word of God. He referred to the tendency of certain people these days to harshly criticise the Bible and make light of it, but before his address was concluded everyone present fully realized that this book is the foundation of all and the only book which can be used as a safe-guard for God's children.

Dr. Henson said he had no use for the higher critics and he did not believe that their opinions count for much. He said he firmly believed that the Bible is inspired and that when a person's intellect is opened by the Divine Spirit it will safely guide and lead that one in the right path. The speaker then went on to show how the Bible is strictly up-to-date, how it harmonizes with science, astronomy, etc., something which some very learned people do not want to believe. He said that some students had declared that the Word of God is imperfect and had attempted to prove it in their scientific research but they were finally compelled to acknowledge the divine authority of the Bible and admit the truth of its teachings.

Dr. Henson also referred to the so-called mistakes of Moses, but in words that were forcible he showed that Moses was a Godly man and that he persevered in his efforts to serve his Master, finally winning the desired goal in the end.

Through his address, Dr. Henson was very witty and he used many apt illustrations to prove his assertions which were based on the Word of God. The closest attention of all was held to the very end of the address, and frequently the audience would burst forth in hearty applause. This was especially true, when Dr. Henson referred to President Roosevelt. He said that he thanked God that there was a Chrisitian man at the head of the Nation who firmly, but quietly had the power to bring certain people to understand that the trouble in the mining regions must cease, that coal must be mined and brought to market.

After Dr. Henson's address, William Holmes, of Plainfield, sang an appropriate solo. He also sang during the service. The congregational singing was led by a mixed choir, composed of local singers and several vocalists from the Park Avenue Baptist church, Plainfield. The benediction was prnounced by Rev. Dr. Parks, of Scotch Plains.

FREQUENT CONFERENCES.

The Sunday-School Superintendents Will Meet to Compare Notes.

As a result of the Sunday-school Institute held Monday at the First Baptist church, it is quite likely that in the future conferences will be held once a month or a quarter by the various superintendents of the Plainfield Sunday-schools to compare notes and endeavor to help one another in this work.

The suggestion was made at the meeting by Miss Nettie Beeching and quickly taken up by David E. Titsworth and George E. Hall. The latter stated that he knew where there is an invitation waiting for the superintendents to meet. After the first meeting arrangements will probably be made for regular meetings during the winter. In this way the superintendents will be able to keep in touch with one another and thus advance the interests of each school.

Where Is It?

People who have occasion to travel along Madison avenue, between Front street and the borough, have noticed that the sidewalk on the west side of the street has not yet been laid. It is understood that the owner of the property was to lay it some few weeks ago.

Rapid Progress.

The contractors are making great headway in laying the foundations for Woodhull & Martin's new building on East Front street.

OPERATORS' SIDE IS TO BE REMEMBERED

Rev. Mr. McMurray Preached on That Side of the Coal Strike Question.

HIS VIEW OF SITUATION

SOME LINES ON WHICH THE PUBLIC SHOULD BE EDUCATED.

Every Man Has a Right to Employ Who He Will Without Outside Interferance — President Roosevelt's Action.

Rev. John MacMurray, in his sermon on "The Operators" delivered at Monroe Avenue M. E. church Sunday evening, said in substance as follows:

"The operators usually picked out for stigmatism have been the presidents of coal companies or coal carrying companies. The stockholders demand that the president and Board of Directors manage the affairs of the railroad in such a manner as shall yield the largest amount of dividends on the stock. The president whose administration displeases the stockholders is soon replaced. The president of a corporation is the hired servant of the men and women stockholders who put him in that position to manage their financial affairs. He is responsible to them for the best possible administration of the trust imposed upon him.

"There is no danger of too little sympathy for the workingman but there is danger of too little consideration for the welfare of the men and women and children whose living depends upon the income received from money which has been fairly earned and religiously saved.

"It is the duty of the coal operators to deal justly and fairly with all their employes—every man—workingman—either professional, business man, mechanic or laboring man ought to receive sufficient wages to properly clothe, feed and shelter himself and his family to educate his children and lay aside a little for the rainy day which is sure to come to himself or to his family. And if the miners' demands for increased wages or lessened hours of labor are just and fair the operators ought to grant them if this can be done without hardship and injustice to the capital invested. But if as is too often the case the ten per cent. or twenty per cent. increase of wages means ten per cent. or twenty per cent. increase in the revenues of the saloon keeper or some other debasing agent we may well be accused of lack of enthusiasm or apathy in the matter of increased wages.

"It is the duty of the coal operator to protest the right to work of every man who has the ability to work. When any labor organization insists upon the quine quo non, to the workman, you must be a member of our union else you cannot work, to the employer, you must employ only union men else we shall strike, destroy your property, cause you to break your contracts, then the labor union becomes tyrannical and a curse.

"Before I was born men left home, fireside, family all that they loved and cherished to fight on bloody battle fields for the American right of free labor in one of the greatest wars of history and the principle then established will never be repudiated by the people of this American republic. Men rejoiced when the proclamation of President Abraham Lincoln knocked the shackles from millions of black slaves. If the signs of the times be true the labor unions by narrow and tyrannical politics are forging shackles for millions of white slaves, a bondage more blind and despotic even than the accursed black slavery.

"It is the duty of the operators to insist upon the free right of every man to work and to have the opportunity for work. It is the duty of the coal operators to see that the non-union men at present employed about the mines are protected.

"There are some points up to which public opinions must be educated and they are first to the point of forbidding strikers to injure or hinder the scab, to the point of forbidding the striker to damage or delay the business he has abandoned, to the point of forbidding the striker to profess and maintain that he is still in a service out of which he has voluntarily broken himself. Public opinion at present seems to allow certain rights to college students and strikers if practiced by the ordinary citizen would speedily land him in jail.

"The fixed charges in anthracite coal mining—the amount of money in-

MUSICAL TREAT WAS GIVEN

VERY SUCCESSFUL WAS THE CONCERT OF MALE QUARTETTE.

Given at First Presbyterian Church —Programme Also Included Recitations.

Music, song and recitation entertained a large audience last evening at the First Presbyterian church where the first private concert of the male quartette of that church was held. The doors opened at 7:45 and by 8:15 o'clock when the concert began every seat was occupied.

Hung upon the choir railing were handsome clusters of autumn leaves while about the platform were placed large vases containing bunches of chrysanthemums.

The quartette consists of Elmer D. Cutting, first tenor; E. Maxwell Honeyman, second tenor; Sydney R. Titsworth, first bass, and R. Wilson Derby, second bass. They were assisted by Howard T. Lewis, bass, and Miss Etta M. Raybert and Miss Mary A. Luckey.

The first number on the programme was "Ave Maria" but a change was announced at the opening of the concert and the quartette rendered "Lucky Jim," a humorous song which was greeted with applause and laughter.

The rest of the programme as rendered was as follows:

"Captain January," a recitation by Miss Luckey; "On the Rhine," Mr. Derby and quartette; "Hearts Spring Time," Miss Raybert; "Please Won't You be My—H'm?" the quartette; offertoire, by Mr Braider.

Between the first and second parts of the programme a silver offering was collected to assist the Ladies' Aid Society in paying for a kitchen which has been recently added to the church. Most of the money needed has been raised and in order to secure the full amount the assistance of those present was asked. In response a very liberal collection was given by those present.

The second part of the programme opened with "Doan Ye Cry Ma Honey," by the quartette by request; "Aunt Peggy in High Art," a recitation, Miss Luckey; "Will O' The Wisp," a song, Mr. Derby; "Within a Mile of Edinboro Town," a song by Miss Raybert, assisted by the quartette, and "If I but Knew," a song by the quartette completed the programme.

Numerous encores were accorded Miss Raybert, the quartette, Miss Luckey and Mr. Derby. By special request Mr. Derby rendered "The Storm King," which was loudly applauded.

The musicale was a great success and to Clifford A. Braider, the church organist, who conducted the concert and who rehearsed the quartette, is due much credit for the success of the affair.

The quartette, which sang, was originally the church quartette choir but Mr. Derby recently left and his place in the choir is now filled by Howard T. Lewis, formerly of the Alfred University Glee Club. The original quartette has formed the Amphion Glee Club which will sing independently of the choir in concert work.

Primary Union Meeting.

The Primary and Junior Sunday-school Teachers' Union will hold its next meeting Monday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. building. The devotional exercises will be conducted by Mrs R. French, of Westfield, and Mrs. J. A. Powlison will teach the lesson, "Cities of Refuge." The topic, first period, will be "Mankind."

Forty Surprised Him.

Charles Conover, of West Fourth street, was given a surprise party, Monday evening, by forty of his friends. Music, both instrumental and vocal, and games, passed the hours until after midnight. The serving of refreshments brought the affair to a close.

Entertained Physicians.

Dr. M. B. Long, of Park avenue, entertained the Plainfield Clinical Society at his home, last evening. A topic of much interest was discussed, after which a social time was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

Filed Counter Suit.

Mrs. Madmeline Mack has filed a counter suit against her husband, A. W. Mack, who recently instituted divorce proceedings, charging him infidelity. She denies the charges preferred against her.

Miss Young to Return to New York.

Miss Young, matron at the hospital, who has resigned her position, will leave Plainfield about Nov. 8. She will return to the New York Hospital, where she was located prior to coming to Plainfield.

ST. MARY'S FAIR IN PROGRESS

The Fair Was Opened Very Auspiciously at Stafford Hall Last Evening.

UNIQUE DECORATIONS

Under the Combined Auspices of T. A. B. Society, Children of Mary and Sewing Society—Two Attractive Booths—Those in Charge of the Different Departments.

St. Mary's fair and bazaar, for which preparations have been going on the past month, opened in Stafford Hall, last evening. Three societies belonging to the parish, have united to make the affair a complete success and the initial attendance augurs its attainment. All evening the hall was crowded and patronage to the various features were not at all stinted.

The three organizations which are conducting the enterprise under Father Egan's supervision are the T. A. B. Society, the Children of Mary and the Sewing Circle. The two former have booths in the main hall while the members of the circle are in charge of the refreshments dispensed in the annex. It also has a candy table near the main entrance in charge of Miss Edith Boone and Mrs. D. J. Galbraith.

Two large booths are featured by the Children of Mary and the T. A. B. Society, of which the former is conceded to be one of the most attractive ever seen at a similar affair. Blue and white, the colors of the society, are used in the decorations while surmounting it all is the name of the organization in small incandescent lights. In the upper part of the interior is a field of blue with dashes of white to represent clouds and beneath it a large blue shaded electric light sheds a softening glow on the surroundings. The design was arranged and executed by Cornelius Guinee and they contemplate changes which will make the effect prettier still. This booth is in charge of the Misses Margaret Carney, May Merceir, May Culbert and Julia Day. It is occupied by scores of pretty articles which are to be chanced off in the course of the week.

The T. A. B. booth is also prettily decorated and contains many articles in pictures, bric-a-brac and furniture which will fall to the lot of lucky contestants. Members of the organization are working to dispose of all their holdings at a good price and the following are among those assisting: Thomas J. O'Keefe, Michael O'Keefe, John Hines, William Shaffer, Thomas F. O'Keefe, David Doyle, Patrick Sutton, Thomas Carty, James O'Keefe, Patrick Melvin, Richard Birmingham, John Walsh, Thelsphore Parent and Thomas Mack.

In the annex, refreshments are served to all comers by the Sewing Circle members, who are also assisting in various other ways. Those in attendance are the Misses Catharine Mack, chairman, Mamie Higgins, Winnie Kane, May McGauley, Annie O'Keefe, Lizzie O'Keefe, Lizzie Guinee, Laura Flynn, Margaret O'Keefe, Kate Gallagher, Lizzie Flynn, Margaret Reville, Bridget Reville, Margaret O'Connor, Mamie Mead, Theresa McGinley, Nora Doyle, Kittie McLaughlin, Margaret Whalen, Mamie Whalen, Josie Birmingham, May Birmingham, Nellie Meaney, Margaret Meaney, Julia Lutz, Tessie Lynch, Susie Lynch, Anastasia Taylor, Katie Ryan, Mary Ryan, and Lizzie Hickey and Mrs. William Shaffer and Mrs. Michael O'Keefe.

Dancing will be one of the major attractions during the week and O'Reilly's orchestra will be in attendance each night. The floor was crowded all last evening but the dancers suffered no inconvenience as the floor committee consisting of David Doyle and Thomas O'Keefe, looked after the comfort of all. On the succeeding nights different attractions will be on the programme, announcement of which will be made later.

Progressive Euchre.

The Retail Clerks' Mutual Aid Association will give a progressive euchre party Monday evening in the rooms on East Front street.

Social by Ladies' Aid.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregational church a social will be held in the church Frday evening.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

It is reported that after the coal strike is over, the Lackawanna Railroad Company, the Central Railroad Company and the Lehigh Valley Railroad will all erect coal chutes at all stations along their line and sell coal direct to the consumer. Don't expect if this happens that you will buy coal cheaper. No, you are a great deal more likely to have to pay more for it, and some of our business men will be put out of business.—Hunterdon County Democrat.

If former Governor Voorhees should be nominated for Mayor of Elizabeth by the Republicans and should accept the opportunity to make the race, this would not be an off year in politics in the county seat of Union. But how would it be possible for the ex-Governor to enter the canvass when he made the promise that hereafter he would be nothing but "a plain Union county lawyer?" He could only expect to keep his word by being defeated, and that is something out of his line.—Newark News.

THEATRICAL.

At Keith's Theatre, New York, the Fadettes woman's orchestra, of Boston, holds over as the headline attraction. The hit made by this organization is something immense and it is making a sensation more pronounced than anything which has appeared in vaudeville for the past five years. These people are real musicians and their success is not dependent upon mere beauty which, however, the individual members possess in abundant measure. The Ten Ichi Troupe of Japanese magicians, are expected to attract much attention. There are five members of this troupe and some of the tricks performed are nothing short of marvellous, particularly the "thumb" and the "fountain" tricks. Will M. Cressy and Blanche Dayne appear in a one act play called "Bill Biffin's Baby," which is about the best vehicle these clever people have ever had. As an artistic delineator of rural character, Mr. Cressy stands without a peer today, now that Arthur Sidman is no more a rival and his performance is sure to be enjoyable to everyone. Besides these, there are on the bill such well known names as Carroll Johnson, the refined minstrel; Sam Elton, the eccentric acrobatic comedian; Frances Piper, who presents an European musical novelty; the Flood Brothers, comedy acrobats; Wood and Wood, ring performers; Edwards and Ronney, sidewalk comedians; Elizabeth Knight, the vocalist; John Healy, the blackface comedian, and sixteen others, besides the biograph and stereopticon.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Henry Wise, of Regent street, has returned from a visit with relatives in Hoboken.

Mrs. Andrew J. Stiglitz, of East Front street, will entertain the Kaffee Klatsch, this week.

Mrs. B. C. Bentley, of Westerley, R. I., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. F. H. Smith, of Madison avenue.

The Misses Vina and Dora Wells, of Providence, R. I., will come to Plainfield tomorrow to visit Miss May Duckworth, of Duer street.

Miss Weild, of Boston, Mass., and Miss Emerson, of Cambridge, Mass., have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton Edwards, of Franklin place.

Miss Ella Conover, the trained nurse, has returned to her home in Elmwood place, after being engaged in her profession in Brooklyn for several weeks.

A. L. Brown, of Elmwood place, has been visiting his daughter at Seigfried, Pa., who recently met with an accident which resulted in the fracture of her leg.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Haney, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph

A CONGRESS OF MOTHERS

SECOND ANNUAL MEETING OF STATE ORGANIZATION AT CAMDEN.

Recording Secretary is Mrs. H. G. Phillips, of This City—The Programme.

The second annual meeting of the New Jersey Congress of Mothers will be held in the High School, Camden, today and tomorrow.

This morning the board of managers met at 10:30 o'clock. The afternoon session will begin at 3 o'clock with a prayer. Following a chorus of the school children, under the direction of Professor Powell Fithian, there will be an address of welcome by James E. Bryan, supervising principal of the Camden schools. Edward H. Griggs will speak on "The Influence of the Parent and the Teacher in Moral Education." There will also be a reception by the Women's Club of Camden to the delegates and officers.

At the evening session the topic will be "The Juvenile Court and the Probation Officer." Addresses will be made by Abraham M. Beitler, Philadelphia; Charleton T. Lewis, Morristown, and William H. Allen, Jersey City.

The programme for Thursday will be as follows: Morning session 10:30 o'clock, business meeting, reading of minutes, appointment of committee on resolutions, reports of officers, reports of committees, reports of delegates, election of officers.

Afternoon session 3 o'clock, prayer, chorus of school children under the direction of Professor Fithian, topic "Phases of Child Study;" addresses by Miss Mary A. Burrough, principal of N. E. School, Camden; Miss Lillian E. Williams, State Normal School, Trenton.

The officers of the congress are: President, Mrs. Edwin C. Grice, Riverton; vice presidents, Mrs. E. M. Thacher, Florence; Mrs. Harry Lambert, Salem; recording secretary, Mrs. Horace G. Philips, 935 Park avenue, Plainfield; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. Lawrence Lippincott, Riverton; treasurer, Mrs. A. O. Dayton, 203 Cooper street, Camden; auditor, Mrs. J. Mahlon Ivins, Camden; advisory board, Charles J. Baxter, Plainfield, State superintendent of public instruction; James L. Hayes, Newark, prseident State Board of Education; E. C. Stokes, Millville; Dr. James M. Green, Trenton, principal State Normal and Model schools; Edward Howard Griggs, Montclair; Herman L. Stees, Beverly, superintendent Burlington county schools.

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. Its attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquifies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures cough, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. F. S. McMahon, Hampton, Ga.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." L. LITERARY.

The first of The Century's series of expository papers on "The Great Business Combinations of Today," will appear in the November Century and will be devoted to "The So-Called Beef Trust." The writer is George Buchanan Fife, who has made an investigtaion of the subject from many points of view—the packer's, the local wholesaler's, the retailer's, the consumer's, and that of the Attorney General of the United States. The aim of this group of papers, as announced by the editor, is "not to present a partisan view of these organizations, either in attack or defense, but to supply in an interseting manner authoritative information as to the facts and claims which bear upon the subject." Mr. Fife's article deals with the organization of the great beef companies rather than with the processes of the transmutation of product, but has not a little to say on the by-products of the business. Among the topics considered are the understandings existing among the packers, the causes controlling the prices of beef, the kosher method of slaughtering, the influence of the refrigerator car, the growth and magnitude of the industry, and the credit and notification system by which the business is brought almost to a cash basis.

TEXTILE WORKERS MEET.

First Annual Convention Opened In Washington.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The first annual convention of the United Textile Workers of America, whose organization was perfected in this city a year ago, has begun here. About seventy delegates, representing every branch of the textile industry, are in attendance from New England, the middle and southern states and scattering ones from the west.

The annual reports of the officers of the organization showing the progress during the past year occupied the main position of the opening session. That of President Tansey of Fall River, Mass., recommended an increase of 5 to 10 cents per quarter in the per capita tax and also that the officers of the association be given authority to commission organizers to work in sections where the necessity therefor may be apparent. The report of the treasurer showed an income from all sources for the year of more than $12,000 and expenses of $10,800, of which $8,000 was spent in aid of the strikers at Augusta, Ga., several months ago. Other reports showed a total strength in the association of 185 unions and about 15,000 members.

President Samuel R. Gompers of the American Federation of Labor addressed the convention during the afternoon. He promised the help of the federation to the new organization in all ways in its power and said the federation always had tried to inculcate the spirit of unionism among the textile workers. Mr. Gompers said the federation aimed to stir up public feeling on the subject of child labor in southern textile mills and secure the passage of remedial laws. The coal miners' strike just about to end, Mr. Gompers said, was the greatest battle labor ever made.

TO DISCUSS TUBERCULOSIS.

Dr. Koch's Theories to Be Combated at Berlin Congress.

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—Dr. Koch's tuberculosis theories will come up for discussion again before the international tuberculosis congress, which opens this evening with a reception in the Prussian parliament house. Professor Koehler, who wrote a book last spring embodying six years' observations and tending to show that human and animal tuberculosis were intercommunicable, will state his present position in the controversy, and Dr. Rocard of Alfort, France, will speak of the transmission of consumption through milk. Whether Dr. Koch will take part in the subsequent discussion is uncertain. His name is not on the programme.

Other subjects to be discussed are the attitude of the various governments regarding the prevention of consumption, the obligation of physicians to inform the police of the occurrence of cases, protection for labor in factories and the methods of taking care of consumptives.

Most of the delegates are guests of private houses, for it is considered an honor by prominent citizens of Berlin to entertain distinguished foreign scientists. The American delegates are Dr. Welch of Baltimore and Dr. Charles Denis of Denver. The latter will read a paper on the most useful direction inquiries into tuberculosis can take.

To Raise Funds For Irish Cause.

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—At the convention of the United Irish league a resolution pledging the league to raise $100,000 within six months for the work in Ireland was adopted. The resolution was read by J. P. O'Connor of the New York state delegation. A constitution and bylaws were adopted by the convention declaring the chief objects of the league to be: Full national self government for Ireland, the abolition of landlordism, complete educational equality for all creeds in Ireland and the preservation of the Gaelic language.

Rain on the Pacific Coast.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—The first real rainstorm of the season is falling on this coast from San Francisco north to Tatoosh island and in the California valleys north of Fresno county. The weather bureau officials expect the storm will reach southern California later. Fruit growers and packers throughout California were warned of the approach of the storm, and it is believed that little or no damage will result.

French Pianist In New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Raoul Pugno, the French pianist, gave his first performance in this city last night at Carnegie hall before an encouraging and well pleased audience. He was assisted by the Damrosch orchestra. There were repeated demands for a repetition of the numbers on the programme, to which Mr. Pugno gave liberal and gracious response.

A TEXAS LYNCHING.

Mob Hangs Negroes In Public Square.

SHERIFF AND JAILER OVERPOWERED

Victims Had Been Legally Tried and Sentenced to Death For Criminal Assault—The Enraged People Would Not Wait.

HEMPSTEAD, Tex., Oct. 22.—After being tried with legal form and procedure for criminal assault and murder and given the death penalty in each case Jim Wesley and Reddick Barton, negroes, late yesterday afternoon were taken from the authorities and lynched in the public square by an infuriated mob.

The district judge asked the governor for troops to accompany the negroes here from the jail at Houston, where they were safe. At the request of a large number of citizens of Hempstead, who signed a written promise to aid the authorities in preventing any mob law, it is said Judge Thompson countermanded his request, and the troops did not accompany the negroes.

Barton was tried first. He pleaded guilty of criminal assault on Sunday, Oct. 12. The juries in each case, on which were several negroes, promptly returned verdicts assessing the death penalty.

Wesley pleaded guilty to the murder charge, but while the second trial was going on a mob broke into the courtroom and attempted to take him, having learned that the sheriff finally had asked for troops. The mob was dispersed, and the trial proceeded, the state putting through its testimony hurriedly in corroboration of the plea of guilty. The officers of the court sat about the room awaiting the coming of the troops, when there was a sudden movement on the part of several men in the room. The sheriff was overpowered, and Wesley was taken by the mob and hurried away.

Another part of the mob attacked the jail, and Barton was surrendered to them without a struggle. The two prisoners were hustled to the public square and there executed by hanging. Neither of them had been sentenced, and District Judge Thompson had positively refused to permit them to waive the thirty days of grace allowed them by law. It was the general desire that they die quickly.

The town is quiet. The jailer was badly hurt about the back by the rough treatment of the mob. During the first rush a shot was accidentally fired, and Sheriff Sparks of Lee county was wounded in the stomach, but was not seriously hurt. The governor was informed of the lynching, but as yet has had nothing to say.

President Loubet's Life In Danger.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—The Figaro this morning says a man was detected early Tuesday morning attempting to climb a wall of the Elysee palace. It is believed that he intended to hide in the palace garden in the hope of obtaining an opportunity to assassinate President Loubet. He was arrested, however, and was found to be armed with a poignard and a loaded revolver. He has been recognized as a dangerous anarchist who has already been convicted three times, and upon two of these occasions for manufacturing explosive machines. The police are trying to keep the matter quiet and refuse to divulge the man's name.

No Merger of Express Companies.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—According to a statement made by President Dudley Evans of the Wells-Fargo Express company, the persistent rumors of a proposed merger of the interests of the Wells-Fargo company, the United States, the Adams and the American Express companies are unfounded. "Those stories of a merger of the express companies are all in the air," said Presitlent Evans. "It has never been discussed by the presidents of the companies—that is, with a view to bringing it about."

Many New Kinds of Fish.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Dr. David Starr Jordan of the Stanford university has made a brief report to the United States fish commission on his recent voyage to the Samoan islands in the interest of the commission. He says that he succeeded in securing 600 species of fish, of which about 25 per cent are believed to be unclassified and unknown to science. The specimens are now being overhauled at the Stanford university.

Swiss Bicyclists In Canada.

COAL STRIKE ENDED

Miners Ordered to Return to Work.

PRESIDENT SUMMONS COMMISSION

Vote to Accept Arbitration of Committee Named by Roosevelt Unanimous Following President Mitchell's Closing Appeal.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 22.—The anthracite coal strike is ended. The convention of delegates representing the striking miners voted to accept arbitration by the commission of six men named by President Roosevelt and to order the strikers to return to work tomorrow morning.

It was shortly after 10 o'clock when the 700 delegates reassembled in the morning. The trend of the convention was apparent fifteen minutes after it opened, and an effort was made to have the session end with the adoption of the arbitration plan before noon.

The committee on resolutions reported in favor of accepting arbitration of the strike by the commission of six men named by President Roosevelt and of ordering the men to return to work tomorrow morning.

The convention received this resolution with appearance of overwhelming favor.

The first pertinent question asked was by a delegate who wanted to know if John Markle and other independent operators were included in the arbitration agreement and if they would also abide by the result of the arbitration finding.

JOHN MITCHELL.

"I so understand," said President Mitchell.

A delegate representing a large local union aroused the convention to a fury of applause when he said: "If this proposition had been offered on May 12, the strike would never have been called, and now that we have the concession we ought to go to work. Here we are fighting for reinstatement. We ought to go back to work and not delay about it."

A final appeal to the convention which ended the protests against the resumption of work was made by National Secretary W. B. Wilson.

The motion to close debate was then adopted, and before calling for a vote on the adoption of the report which would end the strike President Mitchell, amid deep silence, spoke as follows:

"Now, gentlemen, the chair is going to ask to be permitted to speak without being in order. It is quite apparent to every one here what the action of the convention is going to be. I do not think any one here has any doubt now as to the way this convention will vote. If it were otherwise, possibly it might not be quite in place for me to speak to you just before you vote, but I want to remind you of this, that when the arbitration proposition was accepted labor all over the land breathed a sigh of relief. That this strike has given labor new dignity no one can deny. Labor occupies a position now that it never occupied before. The fruits of your victory may not be as apparent to you as they are to those who have studied the labor question more thoroughly than you, and I do not want to have our achievement, your achievement, dampened by even one dissenting vote. I trust this convention will vote as our people struck. I hope you will all vote one way as you all struck one way."

The all important question was then put. There was one loud roar of approval, and the great strike was officially off. The delegates arose and cheered for fully a minute. President Mitchell came in for a share of the applause.

After the miners had called the strike off they unanimously adopted resolutions thanking all national, state and municipal governments, all organizations and individuals throughout the world for assistance rendered the miners during their great struggle.

All the delegates who attended the convention have left the city for their homes, and the strike headquarters present a deserted appearance. Reports from the small towns in the outlying regions are to the effect that celebrations of all kinds were held last night. Some of the larger towns will celebrate the ending of the strike today. The greatest celebration, however, will be reserved for Oct. 29, John Mitchell day. That day will mark the second anniversary of the ending of the big strike in 1900, when the men won a 10 per cent increase. The anniversary was observed last year with considerable enthusiasm, and the day this year will probably be more generally observed. President Mitchell has more than half a dozen invitations to speak at various places, but he will not accept any until he learns whether the arbitration commission needs his presence.

COMMISSION CALLED.

President Summons Board of Arbitration to Meet Friday.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Shortly before 3 o'clock in the afternoon President Roosevelt received a telegram from Wilkesbarre, Pa., informing him that the convention of miners had declared off the anthracite coal strike. The telegram was signed by John Mitchell, chairman, and W. B. Wilson, secretary of the convention, and was identical with that made public at Wilkesbarre. Immediately upon receipt of the information the following telegram was sent by Secretary Cortelyou to Mr. Mitchell:

"Upon receipt of your telegram of this date the president summoned the commission to meet here on Friday next, the 24th instant, at 10 a. m."

News of the termination of the strike was received by the president with great satisfaction. Already telegrams have been sent to the members of the commission notifying them of the first meeting to be held in this city on Friday morning and summoning them to be present.

It is understood that few meetings of the commission will be held in Washington. After the work of the commission has been mapped out the first step will be to take the testimony of the miners, who may be regarded as plaintiffs in the case. Notification will be sent to all interested parties that at certain specified times the commission will hear evidence to be presentd. The parties to the inquiry will be permitted to be present at the hearings either personally or by counsel.

It is probable that the first sessions of the commission at which testimony will be taken will be held in Wilkesbarre, as that city will be most convenient for the miners' representatives. Other meetings will be held in Philadelphia or New York or in both cities.

How long the hearings will continue nobody can foretell. At their conclusion each member of the commission will be supplied with a copy of the testimony adduced and will consider it at his leisure. Subsequently the commission will reconvene, perhaps in this city, to formulate its report for presentation to the president.

TWAIN ORDERS FUEL.

Humorist Evidently Thinks Uncle Sam Has Money to Burn.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—A humorous letter has been received at the treasury department, dated New York city, Oct. 3, and addressed, "The Honorable the Secretary of the Treasury, Washington, D. C." It reads as follows:

"Sir—Prices for the customary kinds of winter fuel having reached the altitude which puts them out of the reach of literary persons in straitened circumstances, I desire to place with you the following order:

"Forty-five tons best old dry government bonds, suitable for furnace, gold 7 per cents 1864 preferred.

"Twelve tons early greenbacks, range size, suitable for cooking.

"Eight barrels seasoned 25 and 50 cent postal currency, vintage of 1866, eligible for kindlings.

"Please deliver with all convenient dispatch at my house in Riverdale at lowest rates for spot cash and send bill to your obliged servant,

"MARK TWAIN."

"Who will be very grateful and will vote right."

Mrs. Dennis Dying.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Mrs. Ada Gilbert Dennis, the fashionable dressmaker who was so brutally assaulted at her home here during the night of Nov. 9 last, is reported to be in a dying condition. Mrs. Dennis has never been able to give the police any information which would lead to the identity and capture of her assailant. From the effects of the blows on her head she had become paralyzed and her mind impaired to such an extent that her talk most of the time was irrational.

A Great Dog Show.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Dogs of every description to the number of more than 1,200 were on exhibition at the opening of the annual bench show of the Ladies' Kennel Association of America in the Madison Square Garden. The aspirants for canine honors were divided into 266 classes, and their owners hailed from all sections of the country. A distinguishing feature of the show this year was the marked increase in the number of individual exhibitors.

Land Registry For Philippines.

MANILA, Oct. 22.—The United States Philippine commission has decided to enact a land registry bill which has been drafted by Commissioner Ide. The bill adapts the Torres registry system with modifications to fit the local conditions and creates a land title court. Land titles throughout the islands are at present clouded to such an extent that sales of land and its improvement are retarded. An enormous task is involved in the labor of clearing titles.

Big Gift to Princeton.

PRINCTON, N. J., Oct. 22.—It is learned here that the late Mrs. Susan Dod Brown named the university as the residuary legatee in her will and that her bequest to the university is $140,000. No announcement has been made as to how the money will be used.

The Government's Fish Business.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The United States fish commission distributed young fish during the last fiscal year to the number of 1,495,543,374 against 1,071,000,000 for 1901. The greatest demand was for whitefish, of which almost 600,000,000 were distributed.

BALKS SETTLEMENT

Member of Arbitration Board Breaks Agreement.

END OF TROLLEY STRIKE DEFERRED

Hudson Valley Railway Company and Its Striking Employees Had Agreed to Abide by the Decision of the Commission.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Oct. 22.—The strike on the Hudson Valley railway, which was expected to have been declared off this morning, threatens to continue for some time.

The board of arbitrators, consisting of General Manager R. S. Josselyn of the railway company and James H. Sheehan of the Albany division of the Amalgamated association, who have power to name a third arbitrator to avoid a deadlock, met at Glens Falls. Josselyn held that the company should be allowed the right to reinstate such of its employes as was deemed proper and employ whomsoever it thought best to operate the road. Sheehan, regardless of the agreement, failed to agree with the claim made by Josselyn and at once withdrew from the board, which was thus rendered inoperative.

The proposition on which the agreement was made was offered by President A. B. Colvin of the railway company and was accepted by the strikers. It was signed by President Colvin for the company, by Daniel J. Dilworth for the strikers and by James O'Neil for the Central Trades assembly of Glens Falls. Both sides agreed to abide by the decision of the board. The ignoring of the agreement by Sheehan will undoubtedly cause additional trouble.

Floods In Iowa.

KEOKUK, Ia., Oct. 22.—The fourth flood of this year has overflowed the territory at the mouth of Skunk river, putting 2,000 acres under water. A heavy rainfall in the upper counties caused the rise, which was very rapid. The water rose five inches in three hours yesterday and ten inches in ten hours. Heavy damage to property up the Skunk river has occurred, but the damage to crops in the bottoms is minimized by the completeness of the ravages of previous floods. A flood later than June is almost unknown here, and the conditions this summer have been entirely unprecedented. The Des Moines river also has overflowed its banks for miles above the mouth for the third time, and the country bordering the Egyptian levee again is overflowed. This is the result of rains near the city of Des Moines.

Episcopal Missionary Council.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—In the presence of two score of bishops and hundreds of clerical and lay delegates from all sections of the United States the missionary council of the Protestant Episcopal church in America has begun its sessions here. The opening services were held in St. James' church, when Bishop Haylor of Tennessee preached the sermon and Bishop Tuttle of Missouri conducted the celebration of the holy communion. Bishop Doane of Albany, N. Y., presented his report as chairman of the board of managers of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary society, showing the receipts for the year ending Aug. 31 to be $1,099,018. Of this amount $108,119 was contributed by Sunday schools, $329,687 by parishes and $70,967 through the women's auxiliary. In meeting appropriations there was a deficit of $119,143.

Federal Supervision For Insurance.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 22.—Among the most important matters considered at the sessions of the National Association of Fire Insurance Agents assembled here for their annual convention was the report of the legislative committee, which was read by Emmett Rhodes of Auburn, N. Y., and which, in addition to denouncing the so called "wildcat" fire insurance companies, urged a more general supervision of insurance interests by the federal government. The report also recommended the resident agents' law, the adoption of a standard policy law for each state and a more uniform system of levying taxes.

Great Gas Well Found.

WORTHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 22.—The greatest gas well ever struck in Armstrong county if not in Pennsylvania is now sending into the air more than 20,000 cubic feet of gas every twenty-four hours. It is defying all efforts to bring it under control. The well is on the Peter Kerr farm, a short distance south of here. The gas escaping, it is estimated, would supply a city of 10,000 inhabitants. In the eleven days that have elapsed since the sand was struck more than 220,000 cubic feet of gas, it is believed, has gone to waste.

Suicide In the Adirondacks.

UTICA, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Henry E. Nichols, who has been suffering from mental depression, committed suicide by shooting at Old Forge, where he had been with his family since last June in the hope that his health would improve. Mr. Nichols was prominent in the business life of Fulton, being treasurer of the Fulton Savings bank and a director of the Citizens' National bank.

Tablet Placed In Johnson Hall.

JOHNSTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 22.—The Colonial Dames of the state of New York visited this city yesterday afternoon and unveiled a bronze tablet in Johnson hall in commemoration of the services of Sir William Johnson. About forty members of the organization from all parts of the state were present.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair and warmer; light variable winds, becoming southerly.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE.

CERTIFICATE OF DISSOLUTION.

To All to Whom These Presents May Come Greeting:

Whereas, It appears to my satisfaction, by duly authenticated record of the proceedings for the voluntary dissolution thereof by the unanimous consent of all the stockholders, deposited in my office, that the Magnolia Springs Water Company, a corporation of this State, whose principal office is situated at No. 110 East Front Street, in the City of Plainfield, County of Union, State of New Jersey, (H. G. Kunkle being agent therein and in charge thereof, upon whom process may be served), has complied with the requirements of "An Act concerning corporations (Revision of 1896)," preliminary to the issuing of this Certificate of Dissolution.

Now, therefore, I, S. D. Dickinson, Secretary of State of the State of New Jersey, do hereby certify that the said corporation did, on the twentieth day of September, 1902, file in my office a duly executed and attested consent in writing to the dissolution of said corporation, executed by all the stockholders thereof, which said consent and the record of the proceedings aforesaid are now on file in my said office as provided by law.

In testimony whereof, I have hereto set my hand and affixed my official seal, at Trenton, this twentieth day of September, A. D., one thousand nine hundred and two.

SEAL

S. D. DICKINSON,
Secretary of State.

ON DECK AGAIN.

Welcome indeed is the news that the Board of Trade is preparing to wake from its recent slumbers. It has done so several times before and each time eventually fallen back into a state of lethargy. Each period of activity has had some excellent results and there is no reason why the present awakening should not bring about many more.

There is reason to believe that there is an excellent field for such an organization as the Board of Trade if all the local merchants could be interested in it. When it began to show signs of another nap, there were a number who withdrew but it is quite possible that they might be persuaded to come back if they were assured that the organization intended to be more than a figure head. Boards of Trade is other cities have done much to build up their material prosperity. Plainfield's board has also accomplished something. If all those who were interested in the material advancement of Plainfield would band together, the growth of this city, which has already been a healthy one, would be considerably increased.

It is proposed to hold a banquet as the first step toward reviving interest in the Board of Trade. A general invitation should be given to the local business men and every one should use their best endeavors to be present. A banquet will be an excellent thing in that it will get together those who should be interested in the organization. But it should not be allowed to stop there. Too many efforts along hat line have ended after the cloth was cleared away. Let the banquet be held but let it be followed up by concerted action which will bring the Board of Trade to the fore again and cause people to forget that it once belonged to the Rip Van Winkle class.

Great care should be exercised by the contractors who are rebuilding the Babcock building not to occupy any more of West Front street than is absolutely necessary. That is a very important corner with the postoffice and one of the largest department stores located there while the street, with its two trolley tracks, is ordinarily barely large enough to accommodate all the traffic that passes through.

Great is the relief all over the country now that the coal miners have accepted the arbitration plan of President Roosevelt and will return to work at once. While Plainfield did not feel the coal famine very seriously except in anticipation of what was likely to come, there is a happier look in hundreds of faces when it was known that a new and ample supply of coal would be here in the near future.

There will be an abundance of Democratic oratory flowing in Greater Plainfield tomorrow night. In the city, Congrsesman Flanagan is going to try to win votes with the assistance of several able speakers. In North Plainfield, the county candidates and James E. Martine are going to tell the borough voters why they should dump the Republican party in Somerset county this fall.

It may be late in the season for baseball but interest in the National sport does not seem to be on the wane. On the contrary, Saturday's game was only arranged at the request of many enthusiasts who are particularly anxious to see the question of supremacy between Plainfield and Westfield finally settled.

There are many who are wondering why the Republican leaders in Union county ever nominated William F. Hall for the Assembly when they must have known how strong was the feeling against him. It may have been the result of a promise. They have given him the nomination and now he must shift for himself.

PERSONAL.

William Cawley, of Somerville, called on friends in Plainfield yesterday.

Miss Sadie Hyler, of 732 West Front street, has recovered from a recent illness.

William Starr Bullock, of this city, is entertaining his aunt from Massachusetts.

Mrs. Joseph Bailey, of Manasquan, is spending several days with Plainfield relatives.

Dr. Allis, formerly of Plainfield but now of Montclair, visited his parents in this city, yesterday.

Mrs. Richard Stevens, of East Fifth street, is recovering from a recent severe sprain to her ankle.

DIGG'S UPRIGHT FIRE EXTINGUISHER.

The Best on Earth! We Challenge the World!

The Extinguishers that turn up-side-down to discharge are good of their kind, but this is far better. Read the following reasons:

Points of superior merit of the Diggs-Upright over any other machine—

1—A sealed acid bottle and an air-tight tank. No change in the conditions of the chemicals possible.

2—Can never be discharged by accident; absolutely under the control of the operator.

3—A 3-gallon machine of this type contains ONE QUART more of liquid than a reversible, because it does not require a handle underneath.

4—It does not need inspection and recharging as required for the reversible with its loose stopple.

5—The acid being released at the top of the tank, and the outlet being at the bottom, the mingling of the chemicals is so thorough before the acid reaches the outlet that it is completely neutralized, and no harm can be done to flesh or fabric. In the reversible type the acid is released within the two inches of the outlet.

6—Convenience in handling. The machine stands on its bottom, and all the operator has to do is to turn the screw in the cap, and the flow begins instantly.

7—The bottle is not broken, and no nuisance of broken glass.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

Much surprise is expressed in local political circles over the action of Rev. J. B. Cleaver, of East Bound Brook, in transporting his allegiance to the Democratic party. Mr. Cleaver has always been a Republican and a hard worker for his party and his action is therefore all the more surprising. Mr. Cleaver was a speaker at the recent Republican convention at New Brunswick and at that time expressed his intention to support the ticket.

A large number of chances have been sold on the articles which will be disposed of at the fair in Apgar's Hall to be held next month by St. John's R. C. church. Several hundred books containing chances have been distributed and most of them sold.

The Borough Council will have to elect a member to fill the place of F. K. Wilcox, who will be unable to serve on account of moving away. The selection will be made at the next meeting and the one chosen will serve until the next borough election.

Very little excitement is being caused by the approaching election. Neither party has shown much activity as yet.

Last night's frost brought the leaves down in quantities and on some of the streets a regular carpets formed.

A meeting of the Checker Club was held last evening, the first meeting in some time.

William Woodruff and family, of Jackson avenue, are moving to Jersey City.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wynkoop visited friends in Somerville yesterday.

Henry Mattox, of New Brunswick, spent yesterday with E. E. Bowen.

Prayer meeting will be held in the local churches this evening at 7:30.

A meeting of the Y. W. S. C. will be held this afternoon, as usual.

The Juniors met last evening and transacted routine business.

Dr. P. W. Brakeley enjoyed a drive to Pluckamin yesterday.

Mrs. P. W. Brakeley is spending today in New York.

Fred Vail spent yesterday in Trenton on business.

NEW MARKET.

Yesterday Rev. Frank Fletcher attended the fifty-second annual convention of the East New Jersey Baptist Sunday-school Association which was held yesterday in the Scotch Plains Baptist church. Mr. Fletcher is secretary of the organization.

A meeting of Friendship Council was held in Friendship Hall Monday evening.

Prayer meeting will be held this evening at 7:30 in the First Baptist church.

GRADING Y. M. C. A. GYMNASTS

THE GRADING EXERCISES WERE HELD AT Y. M. C. A. YESTERDAY.

Boys Given Trial in the Afternoon—Young Men Contested in the Evening Class.

Aiming to arrange the members in divisions according to ability, grading exercises were held at the Y. M. C. A., yesterday. In the afternoon, the boys assembled and were given a trial on the various apparatus while the grading exercises were held by the members of the evening classes at night. In both cases the attendance and showing made was very creditable.

It was a banner class of the boys which assembled in the afternoon. There were fifty of them, twenty-six new ones, twenty members of last years class and four leaders who assisted Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood in conducting the exercises. The leaders were T. O. Gavett, Francis Anderson, Edmund Templin, and Martin Stutsman. Out of a possible ninety points, Clark scored 60. The next in order were Millar, 48½; S. Fisher, 47½; Guinn and Gavett, 46½.

In the evening twenty-three young men took part, the contest being conducted by six of the leaders corps who acted as judges as well. Out of a possible thirty, the highest were Walter McNaughton and R. H. Collins, 23; George Creveling, 22½; Walter Sampson, 22.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Scotch Plains basbeall team has had a remarkable season in many ways, one of which was in the twenty-five games played, the team was not shut out in a single game. The closest to a shut out was with the Y. M. C. A. Labor Day morning, when the local were defeated by the score of 2 to 3.

The annual meeting and nomination of officers of the Epworth League was held in the Methodist church Monday night. The election and filling of vacancies will be held Thursday evening, October 30.

Horace Hand, who has been corresponding secretary of Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., for several years, has tendered his resignation on account of his removal to Elizabeth in the near future.

John Miller, who has been at Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield, for several weeks suffering with typhoid fever, is recovering very nicely and will be brought home this week.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Those in attendance at the Sunday-school Convention yesterday at Scotch Plains from the local Sunday-school were Mrs. O. Thorn, Mrs. W. H. Manning, Mrs. R. B. Manning, Miss M. Nevius, Mrs. L. Meeker, Mr. and Mrs. Bethune Dunham, Mr. and Mrs. Saumel Dayton, Mrs. Watson Payne, Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Cubberley, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Boice.

Fifteen or twenty men who have been laboring on the gravel train on the Lehigh Valley road were paid off yesterday in order that they might return to work in the coal mines.

Harry Weaver and family will move to Easton soon, where he has an appointment as assistant yard master on the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

John Geary is putting in a water line to his work house where his market stuff is prepared for market.

William Riley has not yet returned to work but is improving from his injury.

Mrs. Nora McDonough will move to Plainfield next week.

Samuel Johnson lately purchased a new horse.

TOLD OF SAVANAROLA.

Prof. E. H. Griggs Lectured on That Famous Florentine.

Before a large and appreciative audience of nearly three hundred people, Professor Edward Howard Griggs, M. A., last evening gave an interesting lecture on Savanarola the Italian reformer of the fifteenth century.

The lecture was given for the benefit of the Boys' Band of Earnest Workers of the Crescent Avenue church. This organization, which has been giving valuable aid to the missions in the east for many years, consists of ten boys who by lectures and entertainments strive each year to send off money to the Presbyterian Mission schools.

Prof. Griggs cleverly sketched the times in which Savanarola lived and related in interesting fashion the history of that remarkable man and the city of Florence which were so closely intermingled. He pictured the rise and fall of that powerful personality and wove into his picture some very interesting facts and incidents concerning the period of Italy's career in which Savanarola figured.

Mrs. David Bush, of West Second street, who was operated upon successfully last week by Dr. Buchanan, is able to be out.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

The great fire sale of Rogers' silverware at Woodhull & Martin's is attracting wide attention.

Specialties at John Wirth's bakery this week will be delicious Boston brown bread and all kinds of fancy pastry. All orders are delivered.

Dobbins' Nickel Yara cigar is one of the finest smokes to be had. Dobbins makes all his own cigars and guarantees them to be made of pure tobacco leaf.

To be stylish and wear the proper thing in men's furnishings you should consult J. R. Blair, of Park avenue. His line of furnishings is very attractive and up-to-date.

When you want first-class groceries call on W W. Dunn, the Park grocer, corner of Lincoln place and Duer street. He conducts one of the best grocery stores in this part of the State.

It has been demonstrated that people trading with S. Scheuer & Co., of West Front street, are able to save money and yet have the best goods that money can buy. A wise person will trade with this firm.

The Plainfield Art Gallery in the Y. M. C. A. building has decided to continue its cut rate on picture framing, but a short time longer. Those having pictures or photos they wish to have framed should take note.

There is never any question about the quality of meat or poultry kept by Smalley Brother, of North avenue. They have an established reputation for selling the best. They also sell fine sausage made from fresh Jersey pork.

L. Moraller & Son are numbered among Plainfield's leading jewelers and in the craft are rated as expert workmen. Take your watches and clocks to them and they will let you know whether they are worth being repaired.

There is economy in buying the best of anything. That is why it pays to trade with Charles E. Vail, the Park avenue jeweler. He carries nothing but the best gold and silverware, watches, etc., and he charges only what is fair for this kind of goods.

For this week the local store of the A. and P. Tea Company will give to purchasers of its famous goods, a large size China pitcher. This is only one of the handsome premiums which the company presents its patrons and many plain homes have been beautified in this way.

Dudley S. Miller, the Park avenue druggist, is gratified with his constantly increasing business. This is due to Mr. Miller's efforts to give the people pure drugs and the best service. He also carries a full line of toilet articles. Mr. Miller's long experience in this business insures only the best and prescriptions are compounded accurately.

The bargain offer of R. J. Shaw of a bath brush, a bath themometer and one cake of his famous hard water soap all for the price of one of the articles is being taken advantage of by the public. He has sold hundreds of them and most of the purchasers have returned for more of the hard water soap. It is made especially to be used with Plainfield water.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

CLEAVER IS A DEMOCRAT

HE DENIED ALLEGD INTERVIEW WHICH QUOTED HIM AS STILL REPUBLICAN.

Announced His Reasons for Becoming Democrat at Somerville Yesterday—At Harlingen Tonight.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 22—The report that became circulated about town yesterday morning to the effect that Rev. J. B. Cleaver, who is advertised to speak at all the Democratic mass meetings (some ten or a dozen in all) that are to be held throughout the county, had denied his newly-alleged fidelity to the Democratic party, fell like a bombshell into the ranks of the hosts of the Democrats.

Later in the day Mr. Cleaver came to town and denied reports that had been published in morning papers. He said he had left the Republican party because of the crime it would have committed, if it had been allowed, in dismembering North Plainfield from Somerset county. He said if anyone doubted his Democratic faith he should go to Harlingen tonight and hear him speak.

PRESIDENT JAMES INSTALLED.

Three Days' Exercises Closed at Northwestern University.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—The three days' celebration in honor of the installation of Dr. Edmund Janes James as president of Northwestern university culminated with the formal ceremony that made him the head of that institution. The occasion drew to the university the greatest assemblage of educators that it ever has entertained.

A feature of the closing exercises was a parade of 3,000 persons, including the trustees, officers, faculty and students of Northwestern university and the distinguished delegates, representing leading educational institutions in all parts of the world. The marchers were attired in cap and gown, and many of them wore the bright colors that marked the degrees of their special scholastic attainments. The parade proved to be the most picturesque of its kind ever seen in the west.

The installation exercises were held in the First Methodist Episcopal church of Evanston. The edifice was crowded, and a throng of people stood outside, unable to gain admission. The exercises began with the singing of a hym., and then Bishop Stephen M. Merrill offered prayer. To Judge Oliver H. Horton, first vice president of the board of trustees, fell the duty of the actual installation of President James. When Judge Horton concluded, President James took the oath of office and made a feeling response.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS.

Number of Persons Killed In Three Months 140.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The number of persons killed in train accidents during the months of April, May and June last, as shown by a bulletin issued by the interstate commerce commission, giving the reports made by the railroad companies, was 140 and the injured 1,810. Accidents of other kinds, including those sustained by employees while at work and by passengers getting on off cars, etc., swell the aggregate to 616 killed and 9,520 injured, or a total of 10,136 casualties.

The total number of collisions and derailments was 2,010, of which 1,094 were collisions. Of these 157 collisions and 101 derailments affected passenger trains.

Colombian Revolution Waning.

PANAMA, Colombia, Oct. 22.—Governor Salazar has received news from Barranquilla of another battle fought at La Cienaga, on the Magdalena river, which was attacked by the forces of Generals Uribe-Uribe and Castillo, who managed to gather together their previously defeated forces, with which they attacked the town. The battle lasted fourteen hours, and the revolutionists, according to official reports, were completely defeated and suffered great losses. The government thinks this battle means the pacification of the department of Magdalena, for Uribe-Uribe is now said to be without any important following and must either become a guerrilla leader or escape to the island of Curacao.

A Mother's Fatal Mistake.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 22.—Mrs. William E. Walter, wife of a telegrapher connected with the Western Union office at Baltimore, Md., is dead at the home of her mother in this city as the result of being given carbolic acid instead of sweet spirits of niter. The deadly poison was administered by Mrs. Lahr, mother of Mrs. Walters, who is almost frantic with grief. Mrs. Walters had been ill with scarlet fever, and her physician had small hopes for her recovery from that disease.

The Apple Crop.

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—The apple crop throughout the country this year, according to the estimate of the New England Homestead, will be 43,000,000 barrels against 27,000,000 barrels in 1901.

THEY LOVED THE NEGRO.

A Southern Father and Son Defend Their Former Slave, Who Is Wrongly Accused.

Gen. Barnum, of Abbeville, S. C., had a body servant before the war who aped him in everything. Peter so loved his master that he grew to talk like him, act like him and almost look like him. He lives to-day, the heart of hospitality, the soul of honor. One Sunday two white men drove up to the door of his cabin and asked if he had any liquor in the house. He said he had about a quart. They offered to buy. He refused to sell, but, just as his old master would have done, invited them to have a drink. Having drunk they handed him a half dollar. Of course, like his master, he declined the coin. The scoundrels went to town and swore out a complaint that he was violating the dispensary laws.

I happened to be in Greenville the other day when the trial took place, and saw a revelation. Peter's counsel was Gen. Barnum's son, adjutant general of the state under Gov. John Gary Evans, and the chief witness for the defense was the general himself, who had come over from Abbeville, distant about 100 miles, to say a word for his former slave. The general took the stand and his son said:

"What is your name?"

"I am Gen. Barnum, sir."

"Where do you reside?"

"In Abbeville, sir."

"How long have you known the defendant?"

"Sixty-five years, sir."

"What is his reputation?"

"As good as any man's in this courtroom, sir."

"Would you trust him?"

"Trust Peter? Why, I'd trust him with my life, my honor!"

The jury didn't leave their seats.

The scene "sorter touched me up." I met young Barnum and asked if he received anything for his services. "Accept a fee from Peter?" he said, in amazement. "Why, sir, I'd as soon think of charging my father."

"You and your father came 100 miles to clear this old negro?"

"Yes, and we would have come 1,000 or 10,000. Old Peter was a second father to me. He raised me. When I was well he played with me; when I was ill he nursed me. When I was a boy I'd rather sleep in Peter's cabin than in my own bed at home. I'd rather take a snack with Peter in those days than dine with the president."

I'm afraid we Yankees don't understand the "nigger" question yet.—N. Y. Press.

SUNSHINE PEOPLE.

They Are the Divinely-Appointed Promoters of Optimism Who Keep Others Sweet.

"Why do you hurry to catch the 8:30 train, when you know there's another that leaves at 8:45, which would get us into town in plenty of time?" asked one young lady of another, as the two were hastening toward a suburban railroad station.

"Because," replied the other, with a little apologetic laugh, "I always like to get in on the sunshine man's train."

"Pray, who is the sunshine man?" inquired her companion. "The conductor?"

"Oh, my, no!" was the laughing response. "He's the crossest bear that ever was. But there's the dearest little old gentleman who goes into town every morning on the 8:30 train. I don't know his name, and yet it does seem as if I knew him better than anybody else in town. He just radiates cheerfulness as far as you can see him. There is always a smile on his face, and I never heard him open his mouth except to say some kind or courteous or good-natured thing. Everybody bows to him, even strangers, and he bows to everybody, yet never with the slightest hint of presumption or familiarity. It just warms the cockles of one's heart to see his shining face, the twinkle of his eye, and the bright little flower he always wears in his buttonhole. If the weather is fine, his jolly compliments make it seem finer; and if it is raining, the merry way in which he speaks of it is as good as a rainbow. Everybody who goes in regularly on the 8:30 train knows the sunshine man. It's his train. There's nothing else to distinguish it from the 8:45, or any other. You just hurry up a little, and I'll show you the sunshine man, this morning. It's foggy and cold, but if one look at him doesn't cheer you up so that you'll want to whistle, then I'm no judge of human nature."

It was a sweet and genuine tribute of human sympathy which this young lady paid to the overflowing kindliness of the "sunshine man." There are a few such men—and women, too—in every community, and God seems to have set them there to keep the rest of the people from getting too sour and despondent and self-absorbed and unneighborly. They are the divinely-appointed promoters of optimism, these sunshine folk. Most people have a tendency to grow somber as they grow older—especially when they are abroad among strangers. One glance at the faces of people in any street car will prove this.—Standard.

Willie's System.

Mamma—Why is it, Willie, that you never care to play with boys of your size? You are always either with those that are much smaller or much larger than yourself.

Willie—'Cause I can lick the littler boys and it ain't no disgrace to git whipped by bigger ones.—Chicago Evening News.

In These Times.

Johnny—Pa, why is the pen mightier than the sword?

Fond Father—Because, my son, it enables the Spanish to claim an occasional victory.—Jewelers' Weekly.

DAINTY ACCESSORIES.

Neck Ruffles—Odd Belts, Collars and Stocks.

The fluffy neck ruffle or boa has come to stay, and these are now being made to match each gown. Perhaps the most popular are made of tawny Russian lace to match and harmonize with the ecru and brown gowns now so much in vogue. The ends are made quite long and slender in contrast to the capelike fullness over the shoulders.

Many of the new stocks follow the example of this summer's neckwear and are made in deep points in the front. In others this same effect is gained by the addition of deep points and tabs.

One of the newest collars is made of plain black silk and fastens in a double pointed effect with a medallion buckle a little to the left of the front. Another odd stock has an effect of two narrow silk ties, one fastened above the other. A belt and collar of folded silk both have the same long pointed effect in front and are finished off by a medallion of heavy lace in the back.

The bolero costume illustrated is of pale gray broadcloth. The little collar is enlarged by means of a frill of lace. The wide sleeves and the bottom of the bolero are trimmed with tiny black silk tassels. The skirt is perfectly plain with the exception of a fitted yoke.

WHAT WOMEN ARE WEARING

Novelties In Lingerie—A Long Fur Coat.

A pretty idea for the trimming of a silk nightgown is a collar finished with a deep hem of a contrasting shade of silk. Pinks, blues, mauves and yellows are all good colors to wash, but you must choose a good shade if you wish a fast dye. Imitation valenciennes lace is, after all, the best and cheapest trimming for silk or linen underwear, and it is almost impossible nowadays to tell the imitation from the real.

Nothing is better than twilled silk for nightgowns when something handsomer and warmer than linen is required. It is wise to invest in really good twilled silk, which will outwear three ordinary makes.

In the winter an extra slip of fine flannel, nuns' veiling or cashmere is made to wear under the thin nightgown. This gives a better effect than the unwieldy flannel nightgown, which, by the way, never launders well.

The three-quarter fur coat in the illustration is particularly smart. It can be made of either mink or sable, lined with white satin. The fullness of the back is belted in with a fur strap fastened down with steel buttons.

CHAPTER I.

"Has Mr. Hendricks returned from Boston?"

"Just this minute, sir," replied the office boy. "He's in the back room getting his mail."

Dr. Lampkin entered the office and sat down in one of the soft leather-covered chairs.

A moment later the detective entered, a package of unopened letters in his hand.

"Oh!" he ejaculated. "Hello, glad to see you!"

"I've been wondering what had become of you," said the doctor, as he rose and shook the disengaged hand of his friend. "Every time I dropped in your office boy told me he was expecting you on the very next train."

"Delayed from hour to hour for nearly two weeks," frowned Hendricks. Then he laughed. "The joke is on me, old man. I had really plumed myself on the reputation I was going to make over there to get even with the Boston papers for sneering at New York's 'big detective,' as they called me, but lo and behold! just as I was about to stir up the phlegmatic old village by showing my hand, my man made a clean breast and gave himself up to the police. Did you ever hear of such luck?"

Lampkin laughed as he took a cigar from the detective's box.

"Anything on hand here?"

"Not a blessed thing. I might forget my awful humiliation if I could plunge into work heels over head."

As the doctor smoked, Hendricks began to open his letters. He had cast aside three and was beginning on the fourth when his visitor saw him start, grasp his beard and pull on it excitedly.

"By Jove!" he cried, and his big gray eyes seemed to expand as they stared at the sheet before them.

"What's up now?" questioned the doctor, leaning forward.

The detective seemed not to hear. He folded the letter, leaned back in his revolving chair, and made a clumsy attempt to prop his feet up on the edge of his willow waste basket, but the frail thing turned over and his heavy heels struck the floor with a hollow sound.

Lampkin studied the strong features of his companion with pleasurable curiosity. He was almost sure that he had detected just the faintest suggestion of horror in his friend's expression, which was indeed a rare thing. Then Hendricks shrugged his shoulders, gave a half defiant dogged laugh and proceeded to open another letter. He had scarcely drawn it from its envelope, however, when he dropped it and musingly took up the other again. There was silence while he perused it. Then he asked:

"Lampkin, have you ever heard the name of Weldon Caruthers?"

"Haven't you?" returned the doctor, a note of surprise in his voice.

"It seems farmiliar to me, and yet I can't exactly place it."

"He is one of the ultra swell set," replied Lampkin. "I met him once; he is very well-to-do, a thorough society man—member of the Van Derwenter club and all that sort of thing. I know a lot of interesting gossip about him."

Hendricks fixed the speaker with his sharp eyes.

"I presume you heard of his being murdered in cold blood?" said the detective, tentatively.

"Murdered? Surely you don't mean it!"

"Yes, let me see," Hendricks deliberately consulted the date of the letter in his hand and even more slowly examined the postmark on the envelope. "Yes, this writer informs me that the crime was committed in Caruthers' apartments in the Palace hotel just a week ago to-night."

The doctor took a deep breath.

"Oh, it's a hoax—a mistake," he said, in relief. "I noticed in this morning's paper that Caruthers was in his box at the Horse Show last night. I was running over the list of men who had the most conspicuous places and remember seeing his name."

"What paper did you see it in?"

Lampkin thought he noticed the peculiar twitching about the corners of the detective's mouth which usually indicated suppressed excitement.

"The World, I think, yes, I'm positive. I was looking over it at breakfast."

Hendricks' features seemed to settle into rigidity.

"Are you quite sure?" he said, mechanically, and he leaned forward and tapped the bell on his desk. Lampkin saw that his thoughts were a thousand miles away, nevertheless he answered:

"As sure as I could be of anything; besides, you don't suppose a man of Caruthers' prominence could have been murdered in the swellest hotel in New York without its being known for a week."

"It does look that way," acquiesced the detective, but there was still a reserve in his manner and tone that puzzled his friend.

The office boy came in and stood at the end of the desk.

"Bring me this morning's World," the detective ordered.

"Not satisfied?" smiled the doctor.

Hendricks made no reply. He left his chair and began to walk back and forth across the room nervously stroking his beard. He turned when the boy laid the paper on the desk. He opened the paper, signaling to the boy to leave the room, and began to turn the leaves with fingers which seemed too clumsy for use.

"Hang it, find it for me!" he said, abruptly.

Lampkin opened the paper at the place devoted to society news, and put his finger on a paragraph.

"There you are," he said. "There's your man who has been dead a week. Now what are you frowning about? One would think Caruthers was a rival of yours that you want put out of the way."

Hendricks drew a deep breath, and handed the letter which had so disturbed him to his friend.

"Read it," he said.

What the doctor saw was a sheet of crisp blue linen paper, and on it the following typewritten words:

"Minard Hendricks, Detective, New York City:

"Astute Sir:

"If you will take the trouble to go to the Palace Hotel to-night after you receive this, and will inquire for Mr. Weldon Caruthers, you will be told that he is out of town, but if you will insist on going to his apartments on the second floor, you will find there his remains. He has been murdered and the job has been done so well that the chief actor in the game has not the slightest fear of detection, and takes this humble opportunity of pitting his wits against yours, now so celebrated. You are a great detective, Hendricks, and they say you have never failed. But this, my dear sir, shall be your Waterloo."

Lampkin laid the letter down and turned to Hendricks, who stood at his elbow.

"It is plainly an idle joke," he said. "I am astonished at your being disturbed over it."

"Do I look disturbed?" asked Hendricks, absent-mindedly, and turning to a large lounge he threw himself on it. "I am absolutely worn out for one thing, and then—"

He paused. It was plain to the doctor that the detective's mental excitement had crippled his faculty for putting words together.

"Look here," said Lampkin, drawing a chair near his friend and sitting down. "I say, what's the matter with you, anyway?"

Hendricks laughed.

"I may as well tell you the whole truth and unburthen myself," he began. "The fact is, doctor, I have never in all my experience had but one thing to really trouble me, and this letter, somehow, seems to be connected with that particular thing. I have never mentioned it to a single soul, except my mother, but she never talks of my affairs, although I really believe that happening has added ten years to her age. To make a long story short, about three months ago after Kola—that East Indian friend of mine—and I had been hard at work all day in my library over some papers connected with the Hilburn murder case, I sent him off and joined my mother at dinner. I always sat at the head of the table in a high-backed chair upholstered in soft leather something like the material on this lounge. That night when I sat down I heard in the deep seat of the chair a fizzing sound, like a rocket getting ready to mount, and smelt the odor of burning powder. With what little presence of mind the good Lord has given me, I sprang up and kicked the chair from me half across the room. It lay there and spluttered for a second and then the little cloud of smoke disappeared from it.

IT LAY THERE, SPLUTTERING.

PROPOSALS.

Proposals for grading and macadamizing Prospect avenue, from Willow avenue to Riverside avenue, in the Township of Cranford, will be received at the township rooms, by the Township Committee, at 8 p. m., on the twenty-ninth day of October, 1902.

The Township Committee reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and may award the contract as soon after the above named date as they may elect.

Each bid must be accompanied by a bidder's bond for the sum of one thousand dollars.

The work to be done, as nearly as can be estimated in advance, is as follows:

750 cubic yards of excavation.
1,790 square yard of macadam, 6 inches thick.
856 square yards of macadam, 4 inches thick.
3 manholes and flush tanks to be brought to grade.

Plans and specifications for the work may be seen at the office of the Township Engineer, 25 Dix Building, Elizabeth, N. J.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $300 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods. If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

A TRAGIC INCIDENT.

Two Days in a Country Town, Old Forepaugh, the Showman, "Squared Everything."

There is one country town in the west which does not believe that circus people are mercenary. The incident was recalled by a man who saw it. He said: "It was in 1872, in the town of Holden, Mo., a place on the Missouri Pacific railroad, where there is also a junction of one branch of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad. The circus opened on Saturday. As it was to show in a town in an adjoining county on the following Monday, it remained in Holden over Sunday. On Saturday morning a man who lived in the town killed his wife and himself. In a small town an occurrence of this character nearly paralyzes business. Everyone had access to the house of the double tragedy. Naturally, the crowd in town was greater than usual. The circus had drawn on the country. Wagons filled with people blocked the lanes early, and then filled the town. These people waiting for the show to open put in the intervening time looking at the dead. The bodies of the man and woman had been placed side by side. The pistol was picked up by the coroner, who found it under a small table near where the shots had been fired. And that is how he discovered two circus tickets that had been left on the table. Where they had been purchased was not known, as circuses do not have tickets on sale in small towns except at the wagon. Inquiry showed that these people had no money. Not a cent was found, and at the place where the man had been employed it was learned that he had overdrawn his earnings. The night before he pleaded with his employer for a dollar. He said he wanted it to buy tickets to the circus, and added that his wife threatened to leave him if he did not take her. On this plea he obtained the money. There was no other evidence at the inquest.

"The coroner was an honest man. He returned the circus tickets to the proprietor, old Adam Forepaugh, who learned the story of the double killing. I was present when the coroner told his story to the gruff old circus man, who put the tickets in his pocket and walked away without saying a word.

"Sunday was the day of the funeral. The circus people remained in their train, which was made up ready to pull out on the following morning. In the little house where the dead were coffined were less than a dozen persons. A few minutes before the dead were taken out a stranger called and asked for a friend of the victims. The only one who answered was the undertaker, and it is not likely that his friendship was entirely unselfish. The interview between the men was brief.

"'The little cortege on its way to the cemetery crossed the track on, which the circus train near by stood. An old man sat on the rear platform of his private car, smoking, as the hearse and three buggies went by. He took off his hat until the vehicles had passed. The undertaker was satisfied, and when the graves were rounded up and the undertaker left some flowers there, an unusual thing at a country burial, and the few who were with him wondered, he told them that old Forepaugh, the circus man, had 'squared everything.'"—N. Y. Sun.

SECRET LANGUAGE.

The Jargon That Children Make Up to Convey Their Momentous Secrets Among Themselves.

The secret language period is a thing of child nature. There are three distinct periods in language learning by the child. The first is the acquiring of the mother tongue. The second period comes shortly after the time of beginning to learn the mother tongue, and is a language made up by children who, perhaps, find themselves unable to master the mother tongue. Very few children have a complete language of this kind, but all children have a few words of such. Then comes the secret language period. Although in a very few cases the learning of secret languages began about the sixth year, and in some instances the period ran till after the eighteenth year, yet the vast majority of cases are covered by the period between the eighth and the fifteenth year, while the greatest use is between the tenth and the thirteenth year.

There are many reasons why children learn and use these languages. One lady confesses that she originated a language, and introduced it into a mysterious set of ten, in order to write notes in school; and she truly adds that had their teachers discovered the key, they would have learned many truths.

It can never be known whether these languages originated in the very first cases with children. The names would in many instances imply that children had to do with them, as they show things familiar to the child and loved by him. So in the secret languages, we find animals playing an important part in the naming. The hog, dog, goose, pigeon, pig, fly, cat and other animals are attached to these languages. The child in the old-fashioned school, where all sat together, hearing the (to him) senseless and unknown Latin, would naturally attach the name to his language, and thus give birth to Hog Latin, Goose Latin, etc. Seeing or hearing a language, one letter may strike the child's fancy, as in one the letter h is "hash," and so Hash language is the result. In another "bub" (b) finds the funny spot in child nature, and so Bub talk comes forth. The child in former days, so frequently hearing of the a-b-c's, would, upon the construction of an alphabet language, at once recur to such, and so name this the A-Bub-Cin-Dud language.—Oscar Chrisman, in Century.

FRIEND OF FARMERS

Mr. Newell, Chief Hydrographer of Geological Survey.

Author of the Great Scheme of Arid Land Reclamation in the West, Recently Indorsed by the Congress.

It seems odd that the man who is chiefly responsible for the great scheme of irrigation in the vast arid regions of the west should have learned his earliest lessons in irrigation in Massachusetts.

The man to whom, more than to anyone else, is due the credit for mapping out this great and expensive plan of reclamation is Frederick H. Newell, chief hydrographer of the United States geological survey, who, though born in Bradford, Pa., is descended from old New England stock, and was himself brought up on a Bay state farm, after taking a course of engineering instruction at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

His father before him was a civil engineer, and it is a curious circumstance that his grandfather, Artemus Newell, who once conducted a farm about 12 miles from Boston, was the first man north of Mexico and California, to introduce a practical system of irrigation.

This sturdy New England son of the soil during the early part of President Buchanan's administration had occasion to make a trip to southern France, and there had his eyes opened to the value of irrigation as a means of rendering fruitful otherwise unproductive wastes of sandy land.

Mr. Newell's interest in this system appears to have been transmitted to his son and grandson, for the latter, from the time he first set eyes on the original irrigation plant on the old Newell homestead, became an enthusiast.

By the time he was six, as a result of his boyish studies of the

FREDERICK H. NEWELL.
(Chief Hydrographer United States Geological Survey.)

Newell plant, he had mastered practically every detail of irrigation and could run the plant, with its ditches and sluice gates, about as well as his grandfather could.

After receiving the rudiments of his education at Needham, Mass., young Newell took a course in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and after graduation went to Colorado in 1882 to engage in mining.

Subsequently he entered the geological survey, where he proceeded to make a specialty of irrigation, and no man was more proud and delighted than was he when the last congress indorsed his ideas by making an appropriation of some $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 for the purpose of beginning this great work.

A recent statement by Mr. Newell, in the Boston Globe, concerning his course as a member of the geological survey, contains an important lesson for young men.

"When I first entered the service of the geological survey," said Mr. Newell, "I saw that there was very little chance for any one to forge ahead unless he originated something altogether new and aside from the general line of work as it was then carried on by the survey.

"Every department was filled by some person well advanced in years who had originated and built up his own particular line of work, and I determined, therefore, to turn my knowledge of irrigation to account. Running my eye over the map of the west, I saw whole states and sections of states, arid, unsettled and unfit for habitation.

"Unless something was done to convert these barren and arid tracts into fruitful and habitable lands, many of these territories could never gain populations large enough to become states, but would continue for all time to remain territories.

"I, therefore, inaugurated and developed plans for a complete hydrographic survey of the west, to ascertain the practicability of irrigation in those parts. This survey is still in progress, and has proven a complete success."

The areas in which the various regions to be treated on this vast scale extend from Canada to Mexico and from the Missouri river to the Pacific, and the work of survey has only just begun.

The reclaimed lands are to be sold to settlers, not more than 160 acres being allowed to one person, and in this way the work will soon be made practically self-supporting, the revenue derived from the first lands reclaimed being utilized to irrigate another section.

RECEPTION TO RECTOR.

Successful Social Affair at Church of Holy Cross—A Musical Programme Given.

The parish house of the Church of the Holy Cross of North Plainfield was the scene of an enjoyable affair last evening when the entertainment committee of the church gave a reception to the rector, W. Montgomery Downey and his wife. The congregation was well represented and a pleasant social time was enjoyed by all from 8 to 10.

The parish house was artistically decorated throughout in a manner extremely pleasing to the eye by a profusion of flowers and bunting.

During the evening an informal programme was rendered which included banjo solos by Fred VanEps and recitations by Mr. Hayden, of Brooklyn. Mrs. F. M. Ward rendered vocal selections and Miss Daisy M. Zerber, the church organist, gave several selections on the piano. Maurice A. Audsley played violin selection in the course of the evening. The programme was arranged by Wm. E. MacClymont.

The refreshment committee in charge of Mrs. Alexander E. Faber and Miss Ida Davis served refreshments in the latter part of the evening and the reception throughout was a grand social success bringing in touch, as it did, so many of the parishioners and encouraging in all a better acquaintance with their rector, Mr. Downey.

LITERARY.

The busiest people read The Youth's Companion because it is condensed, accurate and helpful. Its weekly summary of important news is complete and trustworthy. Its editorial comment on political and domestic questions is non-partisan; it aims to state facts in such a way that the busiest person can use them as the basis of an intelligent opinion. It reflects on every page the wholesome, industrious, home-loving, home-making side of American life, the life of noble aims and honorable ambitions. vested is very large—but a coal mine is not a railroad, coal lands for the most part are valueless when the supply of coal is exhausted.

"The commission appointed by the President will deal fairly with the situation. But I must confess that I belong to the minority who believe that it would have been wiser for President Roosevelt to have kept out of this affair—wiser for the sake of the precedent established—for the erroneous notions which will be formed of his authority in the matter, because it will seem to savor more of politics than of statesmanship or philantrophy. And if this last is not the impression to be gained why did President Roosevelt appoint as his own special selection on this commission of five a sixth man in the person of Bishop John L. Spalding, of the diocese of Peoria, Ill. Bishop Spalding's only qualification for this office lies in the fact that he is the spiritual head father of John Mitchell and his family—he is a psychologist and not a sociologist and is from his very place of residence unacquainted with conditions as they exist in the anthracite region. If a clergyman was necessary to the welfare of the commission why not appoint Bishop Talbot of the diocese of central Pennsylvania whose district covers the Pennsylvania anthracite region and who is acquainted with conditions on both sides, or appoint such well-known sociologists and friends of the workingmen as Lyman Abbott, Washington Gladden, or J. H. W. Strickenberg. Molly Maguireism is not an altogether dead issue in the coal regions and we may well tremble for the welfare of the protestant non-union men who have remained faithful at their post of duty in this crisis."

FUNERAL OF C. S. SMITH.

Masons Union Turned Out for Services Held Yesterday Afternoon.

Funeral services over the remains of Charles S. Smith were held from his late home on Church street, yesterday afternoon, with Dr. Cornelius Schenck in charge. Beside numerous relatives and friends who attended a delegation of sixty members from the local Mason's Union was present. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery to which the Union members proceeded by special trolley on the Arlington avenue line. The pall bearers were Bertram Tallamy, William Smith, Thomas Burns and John DeNise.

I. C. T. FAIR.

Plans Laid for One at Last Evening's Meeting of That Club.

At the regular meeting of the I. C. T. Club, held last evening, two new members, A. Kalleen and R. Chrysty, were elected. Arrangements were also completed for the second fall reception which is to be held Thursday evening. It was decided to hold a fair this winter and the following persons were appointed a committee: F. J. Huff, Geo. Apgar, Geo. Cose, Jos. Robinson, Geo. Morton, H. S. Humes, Ray King.

Wedded a Decade.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Fraleigh celebrated the tenth anniversary of their marriage Monday evening at their home on West Seventh street. Thirty guests were present from Bound Brook, New York, Westfield and Plainfield. Many pretty and useful gifts were received.

Look Out for Fever.

Biliousness and liver disorders at this season may be prevented by cleansing the system with DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These famous little pills do not gripe. They move the bowels gently, but copiously, and by reason of the tonic properties, give tonic and strength to the glands. L. W. Randolph.

SOCIETY YOUNG WOMAN WEDS

MISS ALICE A. BARLOW MARRIED AT HER HOME THIS MORNING.

Became Wife of Harry P. Henriques, of New York, at a Quiet Ceremony.

Miss Alice Adele Barlow, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Barlow, of Prospect place, and Harry P. Henriques, of New York, were married quietly this morning at the home of the bride's parents, in the presence of just the immediate relatives. The ceremony, which was performed by Rev. William Montgomery Downey, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, took place at 11:30 o'clock.

The home was prettily decorated with palms, ferns and autumn foliage, and the arrangement in the parlor, where the ceremony was performed, was especially attractive.

The bride was gowned in grey crepe de chine and carried lilies-of-the-valley. She was unattended. The best man was Benjamin Hart, of New York, a friend of the groom. After the ceremony a wedding repast was served and the couple left the city for Washington, where they will enjoy a honeymoon. Upon their return they will reside in New York, where the groom is engaged as a stock broker.

The bride has for some time past been prominent among society folk in the borough and this city and has attended nearly all of the social functions in this set. She received a wealth of handsome wedding gifts from her many friends.

GOOD YEAR FOR FARMERS

STATE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE IS ARRANGING FARMERS INSTITUTES.

Now That the Busy Season is Over and Farmers Have Time to Listen to Suggestions.

Twenty-six farmers' institutes for the months of November and December have been arranged for by the State Board of Agriculture, beginning at Hamburg and Branchville, Sussex county, on November 11 and 12 The State Board arranges the dates for these meetings thus late in the year and during the winter because at that time the farmer has gathered in and disposed of his corps and is enjoying some well-earned leisure. In the spring, summer and early fall he is too much occupied to give any attention to institutes.

These gatherings spread knowledge appertaining to agriculture and kindred subjects among the farmers. Experiences are compared and valuable suggestions are exchanged. The farmers have the benefit of the addresses of men skilled in the sciences, and they learn something about chemistry and its relations to the cultivation of the soil. There is also cultivated among the farmers a spirit of freemasonry, and they learn to co-operate with each other in promoting public objects sought for by agricultural interests.

The State Board of Agriculture is seldom heard of in the large centers of population, but within its important province the board does a valuable work for the material benefit of the State. It has greatly advanced the welfare of the New Jersey farmer by work that shows itself only in results. The board cannot insure against bad crop years or low market prices or individual mismanagement of a farm, but it can, and does, put the farmer in the way of utilizing all his opportunities, and it has done gerat work in helping him, by scientific methods, to overcome the natural enemies that assail him.

The institutes to begin next month will wear an air of cheerfulness for, generally, this has been an exceptionally good crop year in New Jersey, and the farmer has prospered. Many who work under mortgage debt will be able to clear it off, as well as improve their farming equipment, and others will add considerably to their bank accounts. There will likewise be a largely increased trade from the country for the tradesmen of the cities.

DEMOCRATIC MEETING.

Big Time Has Been Arranged for Borough Tomorrow Night.

The Democratic campaign will open in North Plainfield in Saengerbund Hall tomorrow night with a big ratification meeting. Senatorial candidate Samuel S. Childs, of Bernards, and candidate for surrogate, William J. DeMond, will attend. Colonel Lewis Perrine, of Mercer county, the Fourth Congressional district Democratic nominee, will deliver an address. Judge Woodruff and Frank S. Katzenbach, of Trenton, will also be present and speak.

COMMANDERY FORMED.

Knights of Golden Eagle of Freedom Castle Instituted a New Organization.

Grand Keeper of Records Clark, of Trenton, paid a visit last evening to Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, and organized a Commandery in connection with the Knights of the Golden Eagle. The proposition met with great favor among the members present and the organization was completed at once. The new order starts out with thirty-two charter members and promises to meet with great success as all the members are highly enthusiastic in the new branch of the order.

Dr. J. H. Buchanan was chosen commander, Dr. C. M. Lucky, first lieutenant, and H. J. Martin, second lieutenant. Other officers will be appointed when the charter arrives. Application was made for it last night and it is probable that it will arrive here in time for the next meeting.

The new regiment will be assigned to the First Regiment of New Jersey. It will be appointed to a battalion according to a selection which will be made by the colonel in command. It is probable that commanderies will be organized in Somerville and New Brunswick Castles.

The name of the new organization is Freedom Commandery. After several new members were initiated a smoker was enjoyed by the members

LOST ARM UNDER WHEELS.

John Kauffman Seriously Injured on Railroad at Bound Brook.

While trying to board a freight train on the Lehigh Valley Railroad at Bound Brook, at 1 o'clock, this morning, John Kauffmann, twenty years old, of Mauch Chunk, was thrown down. He was brought to Muhlenberg Hospital. He sustained a compound fracture of the right arm and a severe scalp wound. The arm was afterward amputated. Although the young man is resting easily his recovery is not yet assured.

Captured a Patient.

Wm. Coon, an inmate of the State Hospital at Trenton, was found on South avenue this morning at 3 o'clock by Roundsman Flynn. An attendant from the hospital will be sent for him today. He escaped from the institution several days ago.

Hallowe'en Social.

Mrs. Harry Gee entertained the social committee of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church at her home on Third place last evening. The committee met to arrange for a Hallowe'en social.

"I Never Knew Painkiller to Fail before, what can the matter be? Where is the bottle? There, I thought so: it is not Perry Davis' Painkiller at all, but something the druggist must have made himself and I did not notice it; I have used Painkiller for years for diarrhoea, cramps and stomach aches and it never failed."

PERSONAL.

Getting an Egg in China.

An English traveler who has visited every nation in the world is authority for the statement that one food is universal throughout all countries. "There is not a part of the world," he says, "where you cannot get an egg." While in western China, however, he at first had some difficulty in getting even eggs. The natives could not understand him and refused to recognize the pictures he drew as pictures of eggs. "The way I got out of the difficulty," he adds, "was that I squatted down on my haunches, flapped my wings and cock-a-doodle-doo'd until the entire nation grasped what I wanted, and I was simply provided with hundreds of eggs."—Chicago Chronicle.

New Material for Paper.

Among the vegetable products peculiar to Madagascar is the fibrous substance known as rafia, which the natives weave on hand looms into a variety of fabrics, used for sacking, for draperies, and occasionally for dress goods. Under the name "rabanas," a striped and colored variety of this material is sold for curtains in the American market. Recently a new use has been found for rafia fiber in the manufacture of cigarette paper, and our consul at Tamatave, Mr. Hunt, suggests it might prove valuable for making other kinds of paper. The rafia plant has long been grown for ornamental purposes in European gardens.—Paper Trade Journal.

THE DEMOCRATS WILL GATHER

Mass-Meetings Will be Held in the City and Borough This Evening.

THE SEVERAL SPEAKERS

The Congressional Candidates in the Fourth and Fifth Districts Will Appear Respectively at Saengerbund and Reform Halls—Both Plan Street Parades.

A double campaign will be inaugurated on both sides of Green brook this evening when city and borough Democrats will hold mass meetings. The Democratic campaign in North Plainfield will open this evening in Saengerbund Hall and from the list of speakers announced to be present the meeting will be an interesting one.

A band of twenty pieces will lead a parade of prominent Democrats to the depot where at 7:08 o'clock the delegates from Raritan, Somerville, Bound Brook and other places will join the procession and will be escorted across the brook where the parade will be held.

Red fire and fire works will be plentiful all along the route which will be as follows: Somerset to Craig place to Grove, to Prospect avenue to Washington to Myrtle, to the residence of S. St. John McCutchen where the Congressional candidate, Colonel Lewis Perrine, is visiting. Here Mr. Perrine will join the parade and the march back to Saengerbund Hall will begin.

The meeting will open at 8 o'clock. Judge Woodruff, Mayor Katzenbach, of Trenton, James E. Martine, William J. DeMond, the candidate for the office of surrogate, and Senatorial candidate Samuel S. Childs, of Bernards, will be among those who will speak. Other county candidates will make addresses.

The meeting in the city will be a continuation of Congressman DeWitt C. Flanagan's campaign through Union county which started Monday evening. Preparations have been made to give the Democratic candidates a rousing reception and a large audience is expected to gather at Reform Hall to welcome him. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock.

Edward F. Shepard, of New York, who was the Democratic candidate for mayor in Greater New York, will be the chief speaker. George R. Tennent, of Brooklyn, is also booked to say something. Of course Congressman Flanagan will address the meeting and a few words are expected from the county candidates, all of whom are expected to be present.

The members of the party in this city will proceed from headquarters at 7:30 headed by a band, to the Hotel Kensington, where the candidates will be met in carriages. A short procession will be formed which will move up North avenue to Watchung, to Front street, to Central avenue to the hall. Fire works will be set off along the route.

At the hall special seats will be reserved for women and every accommodation will be shown them. During the intermissions selections will be rendered by the band. A. H. Atterbury will be charirman of the evening.

TRIMMING TREES.

Borough is Doing the Work and Giving Wood Away to the Poor.

Councilman J. K. Arnold, of the borough street committee, has had a corps of men at work for the past few days trimming trees on some of the streets, notably Manning and Linden avenues. The trees hung down so low that the branches brush on the tops of carriages as they pass under them.

The men are cutting away these branches and are giving the wood away to the poor who come after it.

We Did It.

Mrs. Feury, of Berkley Heights, lost a blue Eton jacket and she advertised her loss in The Daily Press. The jacket was found yesterday by Mrs. J. P. Homan, of Hillside avenue, and it was returned to the owner through The Daily Press.

G. O. P. Mass-Meeting.

The Republican mass meeting will be held at Reform Hall on Thursday evening, October 30, at which time all the candidates will be present and have something to say. The committee of arrangements is planning for a big time.

END OF LONG COURT TERM

FINAL CASES TRIED IN THE SOMERSET COURT AT SOMERVILLE.

Two Justice Appeal Cases—Bail Fixed for Mulliner, But He Could't Get It.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 23—With the dismissal of all the petit jurors, except those drawn for the trial of Alphonse Behrer yesterday for illegal selling, the September term of county courts, which has been a long-drawn-out one, practically came to an end.

Monday the last two appeal cases were disposed of. The first tried was that of Dennis Wyckoff ads. Fernando Zanoni. Wyckoff, who is a constable here in Somerville, went to Raritan and levied on Zanoni's piano. Zanoni claimed he should be given the $200 exemption allowed by law and brought suit for damages. When the case was tried before Justice Brampton in Bound Brook the jury gave Zanoni a verdict for $175. Monday's verdict was in his favor for $100. J. J. Meehan was counsel for Zanoni and John A. Frech and A. A. Clark for Wyckoff.

The other trial was that of Bischoff Bros. ads. Edward P. O'Donnell. He sued for $46, wages due while employed in the shirt factory of the defendants, and got a verdict for the full amount, with interest. J. J. Meehan was his council and James L. Griggs represented the firm.

The bail of Frank Mulliner, charged with assaulting Ida Bolmer, a fourteen-year-old girl of Pottersville vicinity, was fixed at $1,000 by Judge Schenck. Nobody came to Mulliner's rescue and he was obliged to go way back of the iron bars again.

UNDERWOODS WON.

Defeated the Park Field Club Yesterday Afternoon by the Score of 11 to 0.

In a hard game, consisting mostly of line-bucking, the Underwood A. A. brought defeat to the football team of the Park Field Club by a score of 11 to 0, yesterday afternoon. While the Park's backfield was heavier than that of the Underwoods, the latter's line was the heavier of the two. During the entire game the Underwoods had little difficulty in piercing Park's line for large and continual gains, and because of this and the Underwoods' superior team play, the latter scored two touchdowns, Craig kicking one out of two goals.

In the first half, Underwood kicked off to Park who fumbled, and then began some fierce line bucking on the part of the former which soon ended in Daniels scoring the first touchdown. Park kicked off to Underwood who continued their style of play with a few end runs, one of which resulted in Miner crossing the line for the second touchdown.

In the second half, Park's defence was somewhat stiffer, and costly fumbles by Underwood prevented them from any further scoring.

Throughout the game, the Underwoods' goal was never in danger.

SIGNS OF HYDROPHOBIA.

Dr. Knott Gives the Symptoms That May be Noticed—Has Had Cases.

Having had several cases of hydrophobia in dogs during the last ten days, Dr. Knott asks The Press to make it known, as it may put owners of dogs on their guard should their animals show any unusual symptoms.

The cases in question have been those of dumb rabies, that is, rabies unaccompanied by any symptoms of excitement. The dog becomes dull and languid and seems to lose its individuality, the eyes wear a vacant expression and the lower jaw drops slightly, allowing the tongue to hang out in a half-helpless fashion. When offered food or drink it may make an attempt to take either but is unable to swallow.

Four Fingers Injured.

Robert Adams, of West Fourth street, sustained bad gashes on four fingers of his right hand, through an accident at the Pond Tool Works. With an apprentice he was engaged on an intricate job when the former let a weight slip which struck Adams. The hand was dressed at Muhlenberg Hospital.

More Hard Coal.

More hard coal passed through Plainfield yesterday on its way to New York. It is said that there are hundreds of cars of hard coal at the mines ready for shipment as soon as the railroads will move them. The local dealers expect to receive shipments of coal within a short time.

COLONEL DIDN'T COME.

So Inspection of Company K was Postponed a Week.

Company K assembled last evening in Saengerbund Hall and was drilled until 9 o'clock by Captain W. K. Browning. Colonel Dennis F. Collins was expected to be present to inspect the company but did not come. It was stated that he had been detained at Elizabeth but would be present to inspect the men next Wednesday night.

At 9 o'clock, when Colonel Collins had not arrived, the company held a special meeting when one new member, Hugh McGilvery, was elected.

The company is in excellent form at present and the inspection is looked forward to with eager anticipation by the members.

WEDDED AT COUNTY SEAT

HORACE G. HAND, OF THIS CITY, AND MISS FLORENCE BAKER MARRIED.

Pretty Home Ceremony at Residence of Bride's Sister—Couple Will Reside at Elizabeth.

Amid a bank of palms which was tastefully placed in a parlor bow window, Miss Florence Baker, daughter of Ralph P. Baker, of Elizabeth, and Horace G. Hand, son of Justice H. K. Hand, of this city, were married, yesterday afternoon, at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. Walter Leveridge, 548 Walnut street, Elizabeth. Seventy-five guests from this city, Newark, New York and Elizabeth witnessed the ceremony which was performed by Rev. Dr. Tomlinson, of the Central Baptist church, the bride's pastor.

Miss Lulu Baker, a sister of the bride, acted as bridemaid, and Edward Wade, of New York, was best man. Miss Ellen Leveridge, a niece of the bride, played the wedding march. The bride's gown was a blue travelling suit.

After the ceremony, a reception was held during which the young couple were showered with congratulations. It concluded with the serving of a repast. At its conclusion Mr. and Mrs. Hand left for a wedding trip which will include Philadelphia and Washington. On returning they will reside on Jefferson avenue, Elizabeth, where they have a furnished home awaiting them.

Among the many handsome and costly presents which were received by the young couple, was an elaborate solid silver set of thirty-six pieces from the groom's employers, Samuels, Cornwell & Stephens, insurance brokers, of New York. The young man has been connected with the firm for many years and has risen to the position of cashier.

DISTRICT MEEETINGS.

Arranged by Grand Chancellor P. Hall Packer, of Knights of Pythias.

Grand Chancellor P. Hall Packer, of the Knights of Pythias of New Jersey, has planned the following district meetings to be held during the remainder of this month, and in November: October 23, at Jersey City; October 29, at Lambertville; October 30, at Rahway; October 31, at Bayonne; November 7, at Jersey City; November 11, at Hackensack; November 12, at Clayton; November 18, at Newark; November 19, at Paulsboro; November 24, at Newark, and November 25 at Belvidere.

Since the last grand lodge meeting the net gain in membership has been 904, and the grand chancellor will institute lodges in Rahway, Bayonne, and one in Trenton before January 1 next. In all these official visits Mr. Packer is accompanied by from three to six members of his staff.

Reception for Boys.

Secretary Kenneth Robbie, of the boys' department of the Young Men's Christian Association, is busy arranging for the reception to be given to the boys at the Y. M. C. A. building Friday evening. This event will formally open the year's work in this department. The parents of the boys are invited to be present.

To Wed An Army Officer.

Invitations were issued yesterday for the marriage of Miss Grace Cooley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Martin I. Cooley, and Captain Mason Mathews Patrick, U. S. A., which will take place Tuesday afternoon, November 11, at 1:30 o'clock at "Glenoran," the home of the bride's parents in Washington Park.

In Justice Huff's Court.

Justice Huff has issued papers in the contract cases of Deuetch against Jeik Paroz, Ells against Evans and Ells against Werren, all returnable October 27; also the case of Annie Holmes against Frank Halenbeck, in tort, which is returnable the same date.

DUSS' BAND BOOKED FOR CONCERT TONIGHT

Failure to Secure Paterson Armory Gives Plainfield Another Concert.

ONE THIS AFTERNOON

HEAVY ADVANCE SALE HAD ALREADY BEEN MADE IN PATERSON.

But Couldn't Get Armory, and It Was Decided to Give a Second Concert Here Tonight—Entire Change in Programme.

A slight change in the plans of Duss, the incomparable band master, has rebounded to the advantage of musically inclined Plainfielders who were unable to make arrangements to hear his concert at the Casino, this afternoon. It has been decided to give a second concert in the Casino this evening, with an entire change of programme, seats for which will be on sale at the usual places immediately after the matinee. The same prices that govern the first concert will prevail.

In mapping out the route of the band before its second New York engagement, arrangements were made with Horace G. Wall, one of Paterson's leading music lovers, for its appearance in that city at the Armory building, this evening. It was to be under the auspices of the regiment but after an advance sale of $600 worth of tickets had been made and $300 had been expended in advertising, the army officials declared the building could not be used for the purpose.

Every influence was brought to bear upon those in authority by the city's leading residents, but they remained obdurate and broken-hearted Mr. Wall gave up the quest, yesterday. He did not let Manager Johnston know of the hitch until last evening, so rather than allow the sixty musicians remain idle it was arranged to have the second concert here. This will enable many to attend who would otherwise be kept away from the initial appearance by business.

TWO IN COURT.

A Varied Assortment of Offenders Haled Before City Judge Runyon This Morning.

William Richter, a small boy who has been in the police court before, was arraigned before City Judge Runyon, this morning, charged by Patrolman Saffron with loitering about the North Avenue station at 11:15 last night. The lad tearfully promised to stay indoors at night and sentence was suspended.

Gustav Zeller was found helplessly drunk on Westervelt avenue at 1:15 this morning by Patrolman McGinley. Sentence in his case was suspended also.

Nicholas Kirk, of nowhere in particular, was caught begging on East Fifth street, yesterday, by Patrolman McGinley. With several other hobos he alighted from a freight train and began working the neighborhood for fodder. He was let go on his promising to get out of town.

WILL RESIDE HERE.

Miss Helen Jacquelin Wedded to R. B. Potts, at New York, Yesterday.

Only fifty persons were invited to witness the marriage of Miss Helen Jacquelin, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Jacquelin, and Robert Brevoort Potts, which took place yesterday afternoon at the residence of the bride's parents, 34 East Thirty-eighth street, New York. Rev. Wm. M. Grosvenor officiated. The bride had no attendants. Herbert Ten Broeck Jacquelin, of New York, was best man. Upon their return from a wedding trip the couple will occupy the Loeser house at Netherwood. The groom is well-known in this city, having lived here on West Seventh street.

Creatore May Come.

The great leader, Creatore, and his Italian band, who were the sensation of New York City all summer, and still a feature of the amusements of Broadway, may be seen and heard here soon. The success in New York City has been so great that the season there was extended from two weeks to 100 nights, which will be completed at the end of October. Creatore will then go to Boston for a week, and will devote four weeks more to visiting other cities in New England and New York State, and this city is likely to be included.

LECTURE ON INDIA.

Missionary Will Speak Under the Auspices of Sunshine Band.

At a meeting of the Sunshine Mission Band, of the Crescent Avenue church, held yesterday afternoon in the chapel of the church, it was definitely decided and plans were perfected for a stereopticon lecture to be given in the chapel of the church Thursday evening, November 6. The subject of the lecture will be "India." Rev. C. A. R. Janvier, now of Philadelphia, but for many years a missionary in India, will give the lecture. This lecture has special significance as the Monday Afternoon Club is this year making a study of India. The proceeds of the affair will be used for foreign missions.

REINHART BEAT HIS MAN

BUT HARVARD WON INTERCOLLEGIATE GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP.

Reinhart, Baker and Glenney All Distinguished Themselves in the Contest.

The Intercollegiate Golf Association began its championship tournament Tuesday on the Morris County Golf Club course. Harvard met Columbia in the morning, and in the afternoon Princeton played Pennsylvania, while Harvard fought it out with Yale. Harvard won handily from Columbia, 22 to 1 by holes and 10 to 1½ by points. The great feature of this match was the defeat of H. Chandler Egan, champion of the Western Golf Association, by W. L. Glenney, of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, who made the course in 87.

The Princeton team put up a strong game and defeated the University of Pennsylvania easily. F. O. Reinhart competed with H. B. McFarland, runner-up at the last intercollegiate championship, and won by 5 up.

Harvard won the team championship yesterday by 10 points to 6½. The team outplayed the Princeton boys. Of the latter team, F. O. Reinhart scored 3½ and L. H. Conklin 3 points. Reinhart was obliged to forfeit one hole for moving his ball while brushing away leaves on the putting green. In his match in the afternoon with Hollins, he scored 164 to 172 for his opponent. Baker lost his lead of the morning and could only halve with Chick, his oponent. He went out in 39 and after being at one time 4 up was still 2 up at the twenty-seventh hole. Chick hung on desperately and squared the match by a par three on the home green. Reinhart scored heavily for Princeton. He and Hollins were the last to finish and although 5 up Reinhart did not look very happy on the home green, for he had learned how the team match stood and his efforts were all in vain.

The individual championship begins this morning with a qualifying round of eighteen holes. C. Hitchcock, Jr., of Yale, is the holder of the title.

DR. RICHARDS' INSTALLATION.

Services Will be Held at the Brick Presbyterian Church Sunday.

Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, who bade farewell to his charge at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Sunday, will be installed pastor of Brick Presbyterian church, New York City, next Sunday. The service will begin at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Rev. Daniel Russell will preside at the installation of Dr. Richards. The sermon will be preached by Rev. Dr. George Alexander and the prayer of installation will be made by Rev. Dr. Anson P. Atterbury. The charge of the people will be delivered by Rev. Dr. Wilton Merle Smith and the charge to the people by Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke.

Democratic Meeting.

The Democrats of this city will open the campaign this evening with a mass meeting at Reform Hall. It is expected that nearly all of the candidates will be present and among the speakers will be Edward M. Shepard, of New York, a prominent Democrat of that city.

Chance to Kick.

Any person having a kick against his or her tax bill should bear in mind that the Commissioners of Appeal will meet October 28, at which time they will receive all complaints. The commissioners will meet at the Council rooms on North avenue.

For Book Store.

Justice V. W. Nash has leased his store on Park avenue for a book store, and he will ocupy the small office adjoining, where he will continue his business, that of justice of the peace.

—The season for fruit is well advanced but Neuman Brothers are still receiving some choice lots. Low prices prevail.

PLANS FOR CHEAP COAL

CHANGE IN LOCATION OF DISTRIBUTING STATION.

Organized Aid Association is Daily Expecting Coal to Relieve Local Situation.

The Organized Aid Association of this city is daily expecting the arrival of the coal which has been promised it by the Central Railroad authorities. As soon as the coal arrives it will be distributed to wage earners and others of limited means in the city and borough at cost.

The distributing depot for the coal will be at the yards of the Consumers' Coal Company on Madison avenue directly across the railroad track from the electric light plant, instead of at Holmes' coal yard as first announced. George O. Stevens, of the Consumers' Coal Company, will have charge of the distribution and the coal may be either obtained in bucket quantites at the office or will be delivered to those who desire it, in hundred pound lots, to any address in the city or borough at a cost of five cents per hundred pounds. No more than 100 pounds will be delivered to one address at one time.

It is probable that the mines will shortly resume operations in the coal fields but in the meantime the present arrangements will be continued for the benefit of those unfitted to survive a period of high prices. The price at which the coal will be disposed of is not yet accurately known but it will be but little higher than that of former years.

SATURDAY'S GAME.

Final Meeting Between Plainfield Consolidated and the Westfield Nines.

To make sure that no delay might occur in Saturday's game between the local Consolidated and Westfield teams, through the catcher being hurt, the management will have Catcher Barnes, of the Y. M. C. A.'s in readiness if Allen should be retired. The accident to Allen, last Saturday, when he was forced to go in the field, caused many to think the shifting about would result in Westfield getting a run but the team was equal to emergencies of any nature. With Barnes at hand the confidence of the players will be doubled.

The game Saturday is to commence at 3 o'clock sharp and it is announced that the admission prices will be twenty-five cents for the grandstand and fifteen cents for the field. Division of the proceeds will be made among the members of the local team.

THREE YEARS OF SERVICE.

VanRensslear Schuyler Home From Duty in the Philippines.

After an absence of just three years and a day, VanRensslear Schuyler, son of Mrs. Schuyler, of LaGrande avenue, returned home last evening, honorably discharged from service in the Philippines as a member of Company K, Third U. S. Infantry. He enlisted from this city as a private but was successively promoted to corporal and sergeant. During most of his term he was in the isle of Luzon and a portion of the time he commanded a mounted detachment. He will remain in this city but ten days and will then go south to engage in business.

WATCH RETURNED.

Was Stolen From Chas. Harris at Football Game in Roselle.

While Charles Harris, of this city, was watching the football game played by the I. C. T. Club and the Roselle Club, Saturday, he had his watch and fob stolen. The person suspected of taking the watch was accused of the theft. At first he denied the charge, but when he was threatened with immediate arrest, he took the watch and fob from his pocket and gave it to the owner. No action will be taken, as Mr. Harris is glad enough to get his property back.

Class Work Begins.

The mechanical drawing class at the Young Men's Christian Association will meet in their regular class session tonight, when the work of this term will begin in earnest. George L. Eager and J. F. D. Fuller will be the instructors and it is especially requested that all those who have enrolled in this class will be present tonight.

OFFICER SHOT BY PRISONER

Policeman Neil Smith Shot Down Near Station at Elizabeth This Morning.

ASSAILANT CAPTURED

Posse of Citizens Pursued Him—He Hid in Mud Under a Bridge, But Was Captured by Edward Stives, Who Braved Smoking Revolver—Smith Not Fatally Injured.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Oct. 23—Neil Smith, a patrolman in the police department at Elizabeth, was shot and seriously wounded by a man named Neehan, alias George Everett, near the railroad depot this morning and caused much excitement for a time.

Neehan is a sailor and recently deserted from the United States Navy. He has been making his headquarters of late about a Morris avenue saloon. Thomas Tingley, the proprietor, requested Officer Smith to arrest the fellow when he became boisterous around his place. Smith put the nippers on the prisoner when he refused to go with him and then started for the police station.

When the two had gone about half a block Neehan suddenly put his left hand in his pocket and whipped out a bulldog revolver and fired three shots at the officer. One took effect in the shoulder, another barely grazed the jugular vein in the neck and third went wild barely missing a woman passing along the sidewalk.

As soon as Neehan had shot his captor he released his hand from the nippers and dashed up the street, a crowd of men and boys in pursuit.

He carried in his hand the revolver still smoking and pointing it at men and women who did not get out of his way. At Westfield avenue, he dodged down that street and then dodged under the Elizabeth river bridge where he lay down in the mud.

There were over twenty men in the posse which formed and when they came up with the man he drew his revolver and defied the citizens.

Edward Stives, a barber and a personal friend of Smith, dared the weapon and rushing upon the man dealt him a blow which felled him. He was then marched to the police station.

Smith was taken to the hospital where it was said he was in no immediate danger. He has been on the force fifteen years and was very popular.

TO GET MORE MEMBERS.

Y. M. C. A. Will Soon Announce Its Plans to Increase Membership.

A meeting of the membership committee of the Young Men's Christian Association was held last evening after the prayer meetings. Announcements will be issued later in which the plans for increasing the membership will be published.

The membership of the association has been growing steadily and it has become necessary to place in the gymnasium some new lockers. These will be installed shortly.

The Epworth Leagues and Christian Endeavor Societies of the different local churches are planning to tender a series of receptions to the members of the Young Men's Christian Association during November. The members will be at liberty to invite their friends.

PORTRAIT OF MITCHELL.

Next Sunday's North American Will Contain One Ready for Framing.

With an army of 170,000 men, John Mitchell has won a victory that ranks him among the greatest captains the world has known. Millions of his fellow-Americans to whom his name has grown daily more familiar are asking one another, "What manner of man is he?" Yet so quiet and modest is John Mitchell that very few have been able to gratify their natural curiosity to know more about his personal appearance and private life.

The Philadelphia North American is going to satisfy the public by issuing with its Sunday edition a full page color portrait of the great leader as he is today. Realizing that many readers will desire to preserve the picture The Philadelphia Sunday North American has decided to engrave it on heavy calendared paper suitable for framing.

With next Sunday's Philadephia North American, among a series of other valuable features, this big picture of John Mitchell is to be issued.

In order to secure one of them you ought to notify your newsdealer well in advance. Remember, The Philadelphia Sunday North American of Sunday, October 26.

NEW PENNSY FERRY.

Company Said to Contemplate a Line of Vesssels to Connect With 125th Street, New York.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Jersey City, Oct. 23—It won't be very long before the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will have running from the end of the Adams Express Company's pier ferryboats to One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, New York City. This information comes from a reliable source. The express company will move to other quarters, and the pier will be used exclusively for what will be uptown stations. It may be some months to come before anything is done, but that it will follow is said to be assured.

"The company's business is growing so fast that we need all the pier space we can get," said one acquainted with the facts. "As you know, the Harlem section is increasing enormously, and as a shopping and residential centre it has made more strides during the last five years than any other shopping districts around here put together. The Pennsylvania Railroad has a direct interest in it and it is proposed to open a communication as soon as possible."

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

The cold wave which passed over this section of the State Tuesday night formed ice in many places although not quite enough to harvest. In North Plainfield one quarter of an inch formed in buckets and on the sides of the brook there was also a thin crust.

Many persons have been attracted by the unique vehicle owned by William Schorb, manager of the Central Theatre on West Second street. Mr. Schorb has placed a horse in the rear of his wagon, hitching him to a pair of shafts which extend backward. In the front of the wagon a large wheel is connected with the axle and by this device the wagon is guided. The horse has easily been broken to travel at a good rate of speed and very little trouble is expected in getting about.

Inspection at Somerville.

The inspection of the Somerville fire department will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Somerville where the Mayor and Common Council will review the firemen in parade. J. J. Stahl, chief of the North Plainfield fire department received an invitation to be present in the parade.

ANOTHER TROLLEY LINE

MAY MEAN LINE FROM PHILADELPHIA TO NEW YORK.

Twenty-One Miles of Track Would Give Another Through Trolley Line.

The incorporation a few days ago of the Whippany and Passaic Railroad in this State is believed to mean that another railroad line between New York and Philadelphia will be built soon.

When the proposed road is completed it will connect the Erie Railroad at Essex Falls with the Whippany Railroad at the station from which the latter road takes its name. The proposed road will be seven miles long.

This road runs into Morristown, where it connects with the famous Rockaway Valley Road, which was built a dozen years ago by the farmers along the route traveled. The Rockaway Road has more curves to the mile than any other road in the east. The wishes of each individual farmer were consulted in constructing the line, and the result is a railroad that is a marvel to the engineering world.

The Rockaway Valley Road runs through Morris and Hunterdon counties to Whitehouse, where it connects with the Central Railroad of New Jersey. An extension of twelve miles will probably connect it with the Philadelphia and Reading Railway at New Hope, Pa., opposite Lambertville, N. J., from which point a direct line runs to the Quaker City. Only twenty-one miles of road are necessary to make another through line between the two big cities.

Among those said to be interested in the project are Herman Behr, Robert D. Foote and W. W. Cutler, of Morristown, and Edward M. Shepard.

JERSEY COPPER MINE.

An Ancient Warren County Lode Worked Anew by Stock Company —New Machinery Installed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Blairstown, Oct. 23—The Allentown capitalists who formed a company about a year ago to work the old copper mines in Pahaquarry township are meeting with unexpected success. These mines date back to the time when the Indians and afterward the early Dutch settlers worked the rich vein of ore in a crude way.

The Allegheny Mining Company was formed about fifty years ago, and worked the mine with hand drills. They secured a lot of ore, but finally abandoned the plant. The property, consisting of 1,800 acres, is now owned by the Allentown capitalists and a few Warren county men. Rich ore is being taken out in such quantitise that the prospectors are themselves surprised. The ore contains eighty per cent. of copper and 3.7 per cent. of silver, with a small trace of gold. A compressed air plant will be installed to operate the drills, and the company intends to erect at the mine a separator and crusher.

FLOWERS AND SCULPTURE.

Remarkable Exhibition Which Will be Held at Madison Square Garden.

Madison Square Garden will be worth a visit during the week beginning Thursday, October 30. Until Thursday, November 6, the New York Florists' Club and the National Sculpture Society will give their exhibition, and it will be the finest display that New York has ever seen. Visitors to the show will find a tan-barked arena, with an artistic arrangement of plants, shrubs and flowers that will surpass even the exhibition given last year. The noted gardens will give their best in everything. The gardeners will compete for seven thousand dollars in prizes; there will be special days and special exhibits, and from the entrance to the Garden, where there will be statuary and bay trees, to the end of the big arena, foliage, plants, flowers, orchids and ornamental designs will be shown, with the entire space occupied and the finest work of the noted sculptors in splendid centre pieces and single pieces as companions to the flowers. It will be a revelation such as only the skill and generosity in management of the Florists' Club and the Sculptors' Society can give. Each day with its changes will bring forward something new and all to be admired. Including Sunday, the show will be open from 10 a. m. until 10 p. m.

On the Coal Strike.

The Public Library has just received from the Department of Labor the valuable report of Commissioner Wright in the anthracite coal strike. This report may be seen on application.

FOREST RESERVES.

Six Million Acres In Northern California Withdrawn by Land Office.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Approximately 6,000,000 acres of land in northern California have been provisionally withdrawn from the public land area for the creation of forest reserves under orders just issued by Commissioner Hermann of the general land office.

The order was issued by the direction of the secretary of the interior. The segregation of these tracts was recommended after investigation by the geological survey. A further examination of the lands will be made, pending which final orders establishing the reservations are deferred. The land involved in the order, as now contemplated, is to be divided into four reserves, as follows:

The Klamath river forest reserve, embracing 3,780 square miles; the Mount Shasta reserve, 3,024 square miles; the Lassan park reserve, 1,692 square miles, and the Diamond mountain, 872 square miles. The location of the respective areas is indicated by their names. On these lands an immense rush recently has been made for timber land by speculators, and complaints have been numerous from men who settled under the mining laws that others were locating miners' claims under the forest lien land selections, claiming that the lands on which these mineral locations had been made were not mineral in character.

FATAL CHICAGO FIRE.

Five Known to Be Dead, Seventeen Missing, Loss $400,000.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Five persons are known to be dead, while seventeen are unaccounted for as a result of the fire which destroyed the plant of the Corn Products company, West Taylor street and the river.

Four of those unaccounted for are thought to be alive, as three men were seen escaping down the water pipe during the progress of the fire and one was seen to jump into the river, and it is supposed they will all be found at their homes.

The known dead are Otto Trapp, Edward Steinke, unidentified body at morgue and two unidentified bodies at County hospital.

Frank Rothenberg, the formean of the plant, who was reported as dead, was not in the building at the time of the fire, having gone home early. The loss to the building will be in the neighborhood of $400,000, fully covered by insurance.

Thanks For President Roosevelt.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Oct. 23.—An incident of yesterday's session of the legislature was the presentation and adoption by a unanimous vote of a set of resolutions thanking President Roosevelt for his efforts in settling the coal strike. The resolutions were presented by Rev. D. J. O'Sullivan of St. Albans, a Democrat and the first Catholic clergyman who ever sat in the Vermont legislature, and as soon as the clerk had finished reading the entire house broke into applause. The resolutions besides thanking the president express deep admiration for his patriotic manhood and brave humanity in dealing with the industrial crisis, grateful appreciation in restoring effectual peace in the great industrial circle and for restoring hope in the hearts of the people and securing comfort for their homes.

Hotel Fire In British Columbia.

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 23.—A special says that the Tepee hotel at Fairview, B. C., has been destroyed by fire. One body has been taken from the ruins, and seven other persons are said to be fatally injured. The fire started near the furnace room, and the flames, shooting up the stairway, quickly cut off escape except through the windows. The guests on the first floor escaped easily, but many of those above were badly hurt either by the flames or by leaping to the ground. The body of a schoolteacher was taken from the ruins. Mrs. Mathis, wife of a bartender, leaped from a second story window with her baby in her arms. The baby is safe, but the woman will die.

Miners Beat One of Their Number.

HAZLETON, Pa., Oct. 23.—Mistaken for a nonunionist, Camila Isabeck, a United Mine Worker, was badly beaten upon returning to his home at Cranberry from Pittsburg, where he had been employed since the strike began. His alleged assailants, two men from this city, were arrested by a detail of soldiers from the First regiment and brought to town, where they were placed under bail for court. A woman who witnessed the assault tried to prevent the soldiers from arresting the men by pointing a revolver at them.

A World's Trotting Record.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 23.—A world's record was made at the Memphis trotting track in the first race, a free for all pace to wagon with amateur drivers. Edith W., driven by Frank G. Jones of Memphis, and Fred S. Wedgewood, handled by C. K. G. Billings of Chicago, were the contestants, the former winning both heats, each being paced in 2:05¾. The judges announced that this was a new record for two heats for a mare.

Pennsy's Football Team Beaten.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 23.—In a hard fought contest here the naval cadets football eleven defeated the University of Pennsylvania by a score of 10 to 6. Except during a portion of the first half the middies played all around their famous Big Four rivals. The red and blue were never in the hunt and showed that they must improve wonderfully to keep in select company.

MINERS GO TO WORK

Only a Limited Quantity of Coal at Present.

MANY MINES IN A BAD CONDITION.

Machinery Rusted and Timbers Rendered Unsafe by Long Idleness. Some Applicants For Work Find Places Filled.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 23.—Rapid progress is being made by all the coal companies in the anthracite region toward a general resumption of coal mining. The suspension officially ended at 7 o'clock this morning, but the quantity of coal that will be mined this week will not be great. It is not believed 25 per cent of the normal production will be reached until some time next week. There are a number of mines that will not be in condition for several months, and there are others that will not be ready for the men under two or three weeks.

Yesterday was devoted to a general inspection at most of the collieries to see what was needed in the way of repairing before the men could cut coal. Every piece of machinery must be gone over to see whether it is in fit condition to be operated before the fans in most of the mines can be started to drive out the gas and other impurities in the air. In a great number of the collieries there will have to be much timbering done to prevent "squeezes." The nearly six months' idleness has in many instances rusted breaker machinery, which will cause some delay in starting. Notwithstanding the many drawbacks, however, the company officials are confident that there will be plenty of coal for distribution before real cold weather sets in.

Thousands of men of every class have made application for work. There were many disappointments, however, principally among the engineers and pumpmen. These two classes of mine workers struck on June 2 for an eight hour day and also to help the miners win their contest. Their positions are not so arduous as those of the miners and their laborers, and the wages paid are comparatively better. They want their old positions back, and in many cases they have failed. It is the opinion of the workers that the superintendents will find a way to re-employ all of them. The unionists say the companies will get rid of all incompetent men hired during the suspension.

One of the developments of the day was the great number of men who have been employed throughout the strike who left their places yesterday and returned to their homes. Hundreds were paid off by the several coal companies in this valley, and the same is true of the other regions. Among these were clerks, who returned to the offices of the coal companies; men who were employed in other occupations and were thrown out of work on account of the strike, men who were strikers, but went back to work in other parts of the region where they were not known and will now return to their own localities and try to get work in their old places, and some coal and iron policemen. It is expected that more of these men will quit work in the course of the next few days. They are disliked by the unionists, and it is probable that the relations between them will not be improved once they get working side by side in the mines.

The troops in this region have not yet received orders to leave for home, and none is expected now until after the collieries get well started. There has been no trouble in this region beyond a few fights, the result of pay day among nonunion men.

Three Italians Beaten.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 23.—Three Italians who have been working at the Dodge washery of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company during the strike were set upon by a mob as they were returning from work last evening and given a bad beating. Two of them were rescued by the city police and taken to the Lackawanna hospital. The third, Joseph Braun, got away from the crowd before the police arrived and ran to Bellevue. Four men set upon him again, and after beating him into insensibility they threw him over a fence into the yard of a dwelling, where he was found in a pool of blood. His injuries, while serious, will not prove fatal. No arrests have been made.

Would Not Sign Contracts.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Oct. 23.—The men who reported for work at the Mill Creek Coal company's Vulcan colliery were told that they would have to report at the company's store and sign a contract before being reinstated. A few of them signed the paper as requested, but many refused to sign and returned home. Superintendent Jones was called up on the telephone at his home at Hazleton and asked the nature of the contract which the men are requested to sign. He said, "We simply ask the men to sign an agreement to the effect that they will not interfere in any way with nonunion men or with the men now at work." A number of the men declared that they will not sign a contract of any kind.

Mrs. Dennis Dies.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—After hovering between life and death since last December, Mrs. Ada Gilbert Dennis, the victim of one of the most mysterious assaults in the history of the District of Columbia, died at the Garfield hospital in this city during the day. With her death the last hope of a solution of the mystery has disappeared.

REJECT ISLAND SALE

The Danish Landsthing Votes Against Treaty Ratification.

POPULAR SENTIMENT FAVORS IT.

Domestic Politics Chiefly Responsible For the Adverse Result—Antis Made a Great Effort to Compass Their Ends.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Oct. 23.—The landsthing has rejected the second reading of the bill providing for the ratification of the treaty between Denmark and the United States in regard to the cession of the Danish West Indies to the latter country. The vote stood 32 to 32, a tie. The announcement caused the greatest excitement in the house and demonstrations on the part of the spectators in the building.

The predominant sentiment throughout Denmark is undoubtedly prosale, and the rejection of the treaty is attributed chiefly to a domestic political effort to embarrass the government and bring about the resignation of the ministry. The question of the sale of the islands may not remain dead for any length of time. The inability of the rigsdag to agree on a policy for bettering the conditions of the islands is expected to be a factor in again forcing the sale question to an issue.

The result of the vote was doubtful until the last moment. One member had not taken a definite stand, and it was uncertain whether two sick members would be able to attend.

The ages of these men, Thygeson and Raben, are ninety-seven and eighty-seven years respectively. Both had been expected to die for several weeks past. They were both bedridden at their homes, 150 miles from Copenhagen, but they were brought to the city. Prominent antisale political leaders were sent to transport them here. The sufferers, who were accompanied by physicians, were carried into a saloon car, which was rolled on to a ferryboat, on which it crossed from Jutland. On their arrival at Copenhagen they were met by leading antisalers and were driven in carriages to a hotel. There the two old men were guarded and nursed overnight and were eventually carried to their chairs in the landsthing hall an hour before the meeting. They had a prompter on hand to assist them in voting.

Long before the hour fixed for the meeting of the house the streets outside the rigsdag building were crowded with excited seekers for admission. Thousands were turned away. The hall and galleries were packed. The vote was taken amid suppressed excitement, and the announcement of the result was greeted with a storm of cheers and hisses. The exhibitions of joy on the part of the antisale men were almost unbounded. The disorder was not suppressed for a considerable time.

Majority of Islanders Disappointed.

ST. THOMAS, D. W. I., Oct. 23.—The rejection by the Danish landsthing of the treaty providing for the sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States has been received quietly in St. Thomas, and up to the present time there has been no popular expression of feeling or demonstrations. A large section of the population of the islands is greatly disappointed at the reception of the news, believing that its hopes of prosperity have been shattered. A smaller but stronger section of the islanders is jubilant and hopes for a renewal of prosperity under the old flag.

Barnum's Bearded Lady Dead.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Barnum's bearded lady, who has shown her whiskers in almost every hamlet in America and in every city of the civilized world, has just died of consumption in her home, 187 Cornelia street, Williamsburg. She will be buried as she has lived, a freak, with her whiskers uncut. This was her dying request. The woman's name in private life was Mrs. Annie Donovan. She is said to have been married twice. She was a native of Virginia.

Governor Odell In Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 23.—An audience of fully 2,500, almost entirely voters, welcomed Governor Odell at the Alhambra last evening, as he opened his state tour in this city. The weather was lowering for hours before the meeting, and it rained as the people began to turn out, and the large gathering was gratifying to the governor. He was applauded heartily as he arose to speak and had the closest attention of the audience throughout.

Exclusion Rumor Scares Italians.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—In a dispatch from Rome the correspondent of the Daily Chronicle says the Italian government has been informed that the American senate is disposed to pass a bill excluding illiterate immigrants from the United States. This news has created much feeling here, says the correspondent, as such a bill would exclude three-fourths of the Italian emigrants to America.

Severe Cold In Northern New York.

HODSICK FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 23.—This section has experienced the coldest weather of this season, the frost being very heavy and ice forming on the smaller streams in the vicinity. Celery growers state that much of the crop was severely nipped. The apple and the pear crops remaining on the trees also suffered heavily.

A Buffalo Water Front Fire.

BUFFALO, Oct. 23.—The docks and freight sheds of the Union Steamship company have been destroyed by fire. The flames were prevented from spreading to adjacent property.

CARNEGIE'S NOTABLE SPEECH.

New Rector of St. Andrews Tells Englishmen Hard Truths.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, Oct. 23.—Andrew Carnegie yesterday afternoon was formally installed as rector of St. Andrews university in the presence of a large and brilliant assemblage, over which Principal Donaldson presided. His address consisted of a long study of the comparative growth of nations in the paths of industrial ascendency, with a striking commentary on their future.

In his speech, which was replete with notable statistics and important economic prophecies, perhaps the most remarkable feature was an appeal to Emperor William to use his influence toward the eventual creation of the United States of Europe under the form of a political and industrial union. In this way alone, Mr. Carnegie declared, can Europe conquer the foreign markets or repel the American invasion. France, Germany and Russia, which had already taken joint action against Japan, would suffice to insure a satisfactory union in Europe.

Dealing with the events which caused the industrial supremacy, "once yours, but now passed to your lineal descendant, who bears the industrial crown," Mr. Carnegie maintained that it was a physical impossibility for Great Britain to produce material things rivaling in amount those of countries the size of America, Germany and Russia, nor would a union of the empire change the situation, for "neither Canada nor Australia gave promise of much increase in population or industrialism. All thought of material ascendency, even with the British empire united, must therefore be abandoned."

Mr. Carnegie spared his Scotch audience no details. "America," he said, "now makes more steel than all the rest of the world. In iron and coal her production is greatest, and it is also so in textiles. She produces three-quarters of the world's cotton. The value of her manufactures is about triple that of your own. Her exports are greater, and the clearing house exchanges at New York are almost double those of London."

Germany, the speaker also said, now threatened to oust Great Britain even from second place.

New York Democrats Enthuse.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Many thousand people lined the route of the Tammany parade last night and filled the streets about the Fourteenth street wigwam, where the Democratic nominations for governor and other state and county offices were ratified. Ex-President Grover Cleveland's letter to the New York Democracy was read to the braves and received with immense enthusiasm. David B. Hill for the first time in ten years took part in a Tammany meeting and delivered an address. Charles N. Bulger, who two years ago denounced Tammany in the state convention, also made a speech and was given an ovation. Bird S. Coler spoke at the Manhattan club, where he dined with ex-Senator Hill and reviewed the parade of Tammany braves.

Three Children Burned.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 23.—While playing near a house on Hamilton street three children—Charles, Frances and Mary Ceccarelli—aged respectively nine, six and two years, were burned probably fatally by blazing oil. Mrs. Florinda Jado, who lives on the second floor of the house, was cooking on an oil stove when she attempted to refill the stove with oil while it was burning. The oil in the can took fire, and the woman threw it out of the window, the blazing liquid scattering over the children, who were playing beneath. They were removed to the New Haven hospital, where it is reported that their chances of recovery are slight.

A Cincinnati Railway Deal.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 23.—A deal has been practically closed here by which the Cincinnati, Dayton and Toledo Traction company will enter Cincinnati by loops through the business centers over the local tracks. M. J. Mandelbaum of Cleveland submitted the papers today to W. Kelcey Schoepf, president of the Cincinnati Traction company. Later Senator Foraker and Mandelbaum revised the agreement, which is now considered effective, as there is no doubt of the approval by the concerns interested.

Phosphate Mines Sold.

COLUMBIA, Tenn., Oct. 23.—The National Phosphate company has sold the Arrow mines, near Mount Pleasant, to the Virginia Carolina Chemical company for $450,000. The mine consists of 700 acres and is said to be one of the richest in the Tennessee phosphate fields.

Standard Oil Buys Gas.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 23.—It is learned that the Standard Oil has just closed a deal with the owners of the Wheeling Natural Gas company by which the Standard will take control of the gas company. The price paid is said to have been $2,500,000.

Antitax Riots In Spain.

MADRID, Oct. 23.—During an antitax riot at Val de Corro, in the province of Orense, the gendarmes were compelled to fire upon the rioters. One peasant was killed and two gendarmes were wounded before order was restored.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Generals Botha, De Wet and Delarey returned to London.

A falling girder killed three and injured several at Steelton, Pa.

The coal strike arbitrators notified President Roosevelt of their acceptance.

Chicago university was said to be planning a two million dollar building in the business district.

TO BANISH LADRONES

Taft Promises a Vagrancy Bill For Cavite.

LAWLESSNESS TO BE SUPPRESSED.

Discharged Soldiers and Other Foreigners Have Bad Influence on Natives—General Davis Urges Better Army Discipline.

MANILA, Oct. 23.—Governor Taft discussed the suppression of ladronism in Cavite at a conference held there with the presidentes of twenty-two towns of Cavite province. He told the assembled presidentes that they and their people must unite and work for the suppression and punishment of crime. The presidentes promised to organize volunteers for this purpose in each town. They asked Governor Taft to secure the passage of a vagrancy act that would reach ladrones and dissolute Americans and foreigners.

Many discharged soldiers and other foreigners make their homes with the natives, and the influence of these men is often bad. The government has been asked to secure the deportation of such persons, but up to the present time it has had no means of dealing with them. Governor Taft promised the presidentes to draw up a vagrancy bill covering these conditions.

General Davis has issued a general order drawing attention to the carelessness of officers and men of the army in the matters of dress and discipline and characterizing the neglect in these respects as extraordinary. The order also refers specifically to the carelessness in making reports and drawing up other records and directs commanding officers to insist upon reform in these matters.

The decline in silver has forced the insular government to advance the rate of exchange on a gold dollar from $2.40 to $2.46 in silver. This new rate means increased losses to the government and other holders of Mexican dollars.

General J. Franklin Bell will be relieved of the command of the American forces in Batangas province, Luzon, Dec. 1. He will be succeeded by General Jesse M. Lee.

General Bell purposes returning home via Europe and will stop at Carlsbad, Austria, to take treatment, as his health is not good.

Will Not Sell Old Warships.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Owing to the objections made in the past to the sale of the sloop of war Vermont and other condemned vessels which figured in the war of the rebellion Secretary Moody and Assistant Secretary Darling have reconsidered the plan of selling the monitors Nahant, Lehigh, Montauk, Canonicus and Jason, at the League Island navy yard, until after congress shall have had an opportunity to make special provision to that end. These vessels have been condemned as useless for naval purposes. The old iron gunboat Monocacy, whose cruising for many years past has been necessarily confined to the quiet waters of the Peiho, the river which connects Peking with the sea, has also outlived her usefulness and will undoubtedly be stricken from the naval list in a short time.

Indian Conference Opened.

MOHONK LAKE, N. Y., Oct. 23.—The twentieth annual Lake Mohonk Indian conference has opened here. Samuel J. Barrows, secretary of the New York Prison association, was elected president. Bishop Potter of New York made the opening address. General Whittlesey read a paper reviewing the work of the Indian bureau for the present year. It was shown by this report that the Indian service cost $700,000 less than last year. Of the amount expended 38 per cent had been for school purposes. In the matter of education it was shown that there are 28,610 Indians attending schools, an increase of 1,000 over the year 1901.

Trolley Strikers Obstinate.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Oct. 23.—The strike situation on the Hudson Valley railway has again assumed a menacing aspect. The strikers at Glens Falls have rejected a list of twenty-five leading citizens from which to select a board of arbitrators. The railway company's board of directors at a meeting in New York city today will have under consideration the recommendation of President Colvin and General Manager Josselyn in order to reduce expenses to a minimum to operate during the fall and winter months only the necessary cars to enable the company to maintain its railway franchise.

Georgia's Most Famous Sons.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 23.—The commission appointed by Governor Candler to designate two of Georgia's prominent citizens whose statues shall be placed in the statuary hall in the national capitol at Washington has agreed upon Alexander H. Stephens as one of the two to represent this state. At a former meeting of the commission Dr. Crawford H. Long, the discoverer of anaesthesia, was chosen as one of Georgia's representatives.

Objects to Bible Reading.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 23.—J. B. Billard of this city has brought suit against the board of education to compel the removal of the Bible reading from the public schools. Billard's son was expelled from school because, it is said, he refused to give proper attention during the opening exercises, when the Bible was being read. Leading attorneys are on both sides of the case, and it is causing much interest in legal circles.

Michigan Town Burned.

HOUGHTON, Mich., Oct. 23.—The business portion of Mass City has been destroyed by fire.

THE DEMOCRATIC CHOICE.

While the ticket nominated at the Democratic city convention Tuesday night may not win in the coming election, the local Democrats will certainly not lose any votes on account of the men they have put up as candidates. Unless the unexpected happens, the Republicans will win out in the fight for city offices. If by any chance, however, the Democrats should be successful with one or more candidates, the people of Plainfield could rest easily in the thought that men of honor and integrity had been elected to office.

J. P. Homan, who heads the ticket as candidate for mayor, has already taken part in the municipal government as a member of the Common Council to which he was elected by the Democrats. He is a local business man, conservative but accurate, and would undoubtedly fill the office of mayor with credit.

Of equally high standing in the community is H. W. Marshall, the nominee for city treasurer. The position is one which requires a man of ability and honesty and Mr. Marshall is both. He has capable running mates in E. C. Perkins and Rev. E. M. Rodman, candidates for school trustees, who are perfectly capable of doing their share in looking after the educational affairs of the city. Jeremiah Manning and E. M. Van Buren, as the Democratic choice for chosen freeholders, will also be available men for their places.

As far as the city election is concerned, it will practically settle down to an endorsement or a rebuke for the present municipal administration. The men on both tickets are reputable citizens and would undoubtedly look after their duties in business-like fashion. The Republicans happen to be vastly in the majority, however, and as the present administration has done nothing to turn any great number against it, there is every reason to believe that they will be endorsed at the coming election.

Several weeks ago a Newark policeman arrested a young man and his sweetheart who were found kissing each other in a secluded nook of the city park. The other night John Schmidt, of Pelham, N. Y., was taken for a burglar as he was leaving his fiance's home and a policeman chased him, and so it goes on. In Grandpa's days the swains were always on the alert for the bulldog or Pa's boot but in these modern times it looks as if leigslation will have to intervene to help the youngsters out.

The Bellevue Hospital surgeon who sewed up a gash in a woman's heart, the other day, has lots of work ahead of him. We know slathers of young women who don't see brightness in anything because their life organ has been broken through man's perfidy and such things, but would be willing to have something beside time to heal them.

SACRIFICE SALE OF DRESS GOODS

The repairing of the Babcock building is causing us great annoyance in the way of noise, dust, etc. The noise is bad enough, but the dust is far more serious. Rather than have our Dress Goods damaged by lime dust we propose to sacrifice the entire stock by cutting prices deeply in order to close out the store quickly. Beginning Thursday, Oct. 23, heavy reductions will be in force. Our stock consists of new and stylish goods only, and this sale is an unprecedented opportunity for obtaining rare bargains.

THURSDAY,
Sale of Oil Heaters.

Reg. $5.00

We have just received another shipment of the "Famous Banner Oil Heaters" and will sell them on Thursday at the above price. They are absolutely smokeless and odorless and at the same time the most economical and safest heaters ever made. Cost to operate them one cent an hour. Will heat a room 20 foot square in cold weather, only 65 to sell at $3.98.

FRIDAY,
Sale of Fine Couches.

We have too many Couches on our floor, so Friday we're going to give you a chance to buy one and at a saving of at least one-third. The styles are all new and the material and construction of the couches is first class. Note the saving.

DIGG'S UPRIGHT FIRE EXTINGUISHER.
The Best on Earth! We Challenge the World!

The Extinguishers that turn up-side-down to discharge are good of their kind, but this is far better. Read the following reasons:

Points of superior merit of the Diggs-Upright over any other machine—

1—A sealed acid bottle and an air-tight tank. No change in the conditions of the chemicals possible.
2—Can never be discharged by accident; absolutely under the control of the operator.
3—A 3-gallon machine of this type contains ONE QUART more of liquid than a reversible, because it does not require a handle underneath.
4—It does not need inspection and recharging as required for the reversible with its loose stopple.
5—The acid being released at the top of the tank, and the outlet being at the bottom, the mingling of the chemicals is so thorough before the acid reaches the outlet that it is completely neutralized, and no harm can be done to flesh or fabric. In the reversible type the acid is released within the two inches of the outlet.
6—Convenience in handling. The machine stands on its bottom, and all the operator has to do is to turn the screw in the cap, and the flow begins instantly.
7—The bottle is not broken, and no nuisance of broken glass.

DUNELLEN.

The Dunellen Banjo, Mandolin and Guitar Club will hold an entertainment in Apgar Hall, November 15. The entetrainment will be dramatic in form and three short plays will be produced. Musical selections will be given in between. Afterwards a reception will be held, with dancing and a general good time. The club will also hold another reception later in the season.

At the next meeting of the Board of Education a new teacher will probable be secured to fill the place made vacnat by the resignation of Miss Willguss. The place is now being filled very acceptably by Mrs. Richard Morris.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Maude Wilcox, daughter of F. K. Wilcox, to Edward Craig. The ceremony will take place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Craig, November 5.

Letters are advertised at the postoffice this week for Geo. Scheuman, Conrad Brodus, Axal A. Jorenson, Jos. Schwartz, Stephens and Sons, Mrs. Addie Egain and Mrs. Morris Coyle.

The apartments in Peters' new double house have already been rented by William Apgar, of Whitehouse, and J. E. Mitchell, of the borough.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Coriell are entertaining their daughter, Mrs. Sunduland, of New York State.

Harry Zimmerman, of Elizabeth, has returned after a visit at the home of Henry Weidenhaupt.

The Dunellen Dancing Club expects to start the series of winter dances before long.

The house occupied by Henry Garretson looks improved from a coat of paint.

George Giles' house on North avenue will be improved by a coat of paint.

Prayer meeting was held in all the local churches as usual last evening.

The local W. C. T. U. will hold a regular meeting this afternoon.

G. W. Churchill spent yesterday in New York on business.

Band practice was held last evening as usual.

John Dineen is recovering from a slight illness.

NEW MARKET.

Saturday evening, at the home of Mrs. Lina Dayton, of Piscataway, the marriage took place of her daughter, Miss Edna Dayton, to Roland Dunbar, also of Piscataway. The ceremony was a very quiet one only the immediate relatives of the couple being present, and was performed by Rev. Frank Fletcher. The young people are well known and popular around here.

The cornet band will hold regular weekly practice this evening in Recreation Hall.

Prayer meeting was held last evening in the First Baptist cuhrch.

A good deal of new work is being turned out at the new factory.

R. L. Pierce has secured a new spring wagon.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

With election day only a little over two weeks off, the political situation in town is very quiet. Neither side is making any demonstration, but it is said a great deal of work is being done quietly. But there is hardly any doubt but what the township will give the usual Republican majority, although some of the candidates may be scratched a little as is customary.

The marriage of Horace G. Hand, a former resident of the village but now of Plainfield, and Miss Florence Baker, was solemnized Thursday afternoon at the bride's home, 548 Walnut street, Elizabeth. A number from town attended the happy event. Mr. and Mrs. Hand upon their return from their wedding trip will make their home in Elizabeth.

Special Constable Henry Guerrier has returned his tax warrants to Judge Clark, the forty-five days limit having expired. The Judge has issued another pluvius warrant against the delinquents and a fair warning has been given that they must pay up or proceedings will be brought against them.

Manager Johnston, of the local ball team, is having trouble trying to arrange a game for Saturday afternoon. Owing to the lateness of the season all clubs are disbanded. He is in communication with several managers and will no doubt be able to secure some team to be on hand.

Glenside Park, which has become such a popular resort for a select colony of Newarkers, under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Molloy, has closed for the season, all the families having returned to their homes.

The annual convention of the East New Jersey Baptist Sunday-school Association held in the Baptist church Tuesday was one of the most successful conventions in the history of the association.

James Johnston has returned from Trenton where he has been attending the session of the Great Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., as a delegate from Twilight Council.

John Miller, who has been at Muhlenberg Hospital for the past month, suffering with typhoid fever, was brought home yesterday afternoon.

The total number of registered voters in the township is 304, a smaller number by from ten to fifteen, than there has been for several years.

The famous automobile case of the township against Herman Unger, of Newark, is expected to be called in the Supreme Court next month.

The much postponed benefit game of baseball for the benefit of Mrs. Frentz will be played Saturday afternoon if the weather will permit.

Miss Mary Dunn, of New Market, has been visiting her brother, Postmaster Norman Dunn, of Mountain avenue.

Miss Nancy Wade has returned from a week's visit with relatives and friends in Jersey City.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., hold a regular meeting in the Library rooms tonight.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Shepherd Randolph, of Piscataway, reports that a number of residents have been turned away from Cornell University because of lack of room. Mr. Randolph is a sophomore in Cornell.

Albert Manning is making great improvements in the buildings on the old Boice farm. Tinners and painters are also at work.

There will be a dance at Higgins' Hotel, this evening. Free stages will leave Plainfield at 8:30 and 9:15 o'clock.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Young has symptoms of whooping cough.

Camp No. 41, P. O. S. of A., will meet in Washington Hall tonight at 7:30.

Mrs. T. C. Laing called on friends yesterday afternoon.

Theodore E. Laing visited Plainfield this morning.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

The goods sold by Peck speak for themselves and anyone who wears them need never make any apologies. They are the best the market affords and as for the price, that will touch your purse lightly.

There is no question but the pianos sold by G. H. Kenyon, of West Front street, are standard makes and will stand years of wear. An inspection will convince you of this statement and may lead you to buy one.

The Belleview Avenue Nursery Company is now prepared to take orders for evergreens, herbaceous plants, flowering shrubs, rose bushes, vines, hedge plants and grape vines. Order early and get choice of stock.

All lovers of vegetables should not fail to see the display at the market of T. L. Walsh, of North avenue. Nothing that is in season is lacking and beside he has all foreign and domestic fruits. The best part of it all is that his prices are as low as those of city dealers.

A bank would naturally be the first place a man would look for money--if he had a check, and Rogers seafood market is the place the same man had ought to look for if he had a longing for fresh fish for breakfast. The Rogers' Company has made a reputation for selling nothing but strictly fresh seafood.

There is wisdom in trading at Woodbull & Martin's store on West Front street, where you will find so many bargains in every department. The new fall and winter goods are constantly being received and are now being shown. The carpet department, as well as the housefurnishing goods department, is offering many attractive bargains.

PURSUED BY TRAMPS.

Mrs. W. T. Woerner, of Piscataway, Injured While Trying to Escape.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Market, Oct. 23—Shortly after Mrs. W. T. Woerner, of the township, alighted from a New Brunswick trolley car to go to her home, Monday evening, she was pursued through the woods by a man, supposedly a tramp. In her fright she turned toward a neighbor's and in attempting to scale a fence, she fell and was badly bruised. It was with difficulty she raeched her home. No clue was obtained to the identity of the miscreant.

Deferred Action.

The Woman's Missionary Society, of the Monroe Avenue church, met yesterday but deferred action relative to the calling of a deaconess to work among the members of the congregation. The concensus of opinion was that the matter should be considered by all the women members of the church and this will be done at a meeting to be held later.

Tickets on Sale.

Tickets for the fifth concert to be given Thursday evening. Nov. 20, in Association Hall by the Young Men's Christian Association orchestra, have been placed on sale at Hodge's pharmacy. Martin Korff, the leader, is busy rehearsing the musicians and everything points to a most successful concert.

MADE NEAT SUM.

Earnest Workers of Crescent Avenue Church Heard the Results.

The regular monthly meeting of the Band of Earnest Workers of the Crescent Avenue church was held in the church yesterday afternoon.

On this occasion the treasurer reported the net sum of $57.30 cleared by the lecture on "Savronola" given Tuesday night by Prof. Edward Howard Griggs. Mrs. Isaac L. Miller, directress of the board, made a short congratulatory address to the members on their zealous effort to make the lecture a success and gave a very interesting talk on Persia, the subject of the meeting. The money cleared will probably be voted to some boys' mission school in the east within a few weeks.

Aside from the regular routine business, it was decided to hold the meetings on the third Thursday in each month instead of the third Tuesday as heretofore.

Miss Nellie Arnold, of Manning avenue, is in New York City visiting friends.

FEW FOREIGN BONDHOLDERS.

Nearly All of Our Government Securities Held at Home.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The report of Judson W. Lyons, register of the treasury, for the fiscal year ended June 30 last has been made public. The most interesting feature of the report is an analysis of the holdings of loans, showing the number of foreign holders of the United States bonds compared with domestic holders. This analysis shows that out of a total of $782,924,330 of bonds only $16,022,850 is held by foreigners, and of this latter amount $12,578,000 are held by insurance companies, and are on deposit with the superintendent of insurance in the various states of the Union. These deposits are required in order that the policy holders in the states wherein the companies do business may be secured from loss. This leaves the individual foreign holdings of United States bonds $3,444,850.

Discussing the willingness of American capital to invest in the national securities, the chief of the loans division, Mr. C. N. McGroarty, says, "Not a dollar of the bonds issued to maintain the expenses of the Spanish war went abroad, and almost $100,000,000, or half the amount issued, was in bonds, ranging in denomination from $20 to $500, the small subscribers being given the first option."

The report shows that during the year bonds amounting to $117,240,530 were issued and that bonds of the value of $174,881,270 were canceled. The payment of $13,000 of the bonds issued in 1865 on account of the Pacific railroads is noted. This payment completes the redemption of those bonds. The aggregate of bonds stored in the vaults of the division of loans is given at $1,254,219,340. These bonds cover all the loans of the government. During the year paper amounting to $367,179,978 was destroyed.

French Dockmen Unruly.

DUNKIRK, France, Oct. 23.—There were several encounters here yesterday between the police and dock laborers in which a commissary and four policemen were injured. The strikers raided several shops and smashed windows in newspaper offices. In the evening they invaded the docks and attempted to cut the moorings of British colliers. They set fire to bales of goods and threw cargo cranes and sentry boxes into the canal. Troops were summoned and finally succeeded in driving the strikers away. The town hall of Dunkirk and the newspaper offices are now guarded by soldiers. All the drawbridges have been opened in order to prevent the passage through the city of the striking laborers. The secretary of the National Federation of Dock Laborers of France recently notified Premier Combes of the decision of the federation to order a general cessation of work at the docks in sympathy with the striking coal miners.

Episcopal Missionary Council.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23.—Two important topics were discussed at yesterday's sessions of the missionary council of the Protestant Episcopal church. The first, which consumed the entire morning session, with the exception of half an hour set aside for the transaction of business, concerned the desirability of a change in the missionary canon of the church. The principal speakers on this subject were Right Rev. H. Y. Satterlee, bishop of Washington, Ind., and Rev. L. R. Brewer, bishop of Montana. The second referred to the need for additional mission workers and how to meet it, addresses being made by Right Rev. Cameron Mann, bishop of North Dakota; Rev. J. C. Roper of the General Theological seminary and Rev. L. B. Ridgely of Wuchang, China.

READ ALL OF THIS.

You Never Know the Moment This Information May Prove of Infinite Value.

It is worth considerable to any citizen of Plainfield to know the value and use of a medicine for if there is no occasion to employ it in the meantime frail humanity is subjected to so many influences and unforeseen contingencies that the wisest are totally unable to guage the future. Know then, that Doan's Ointment will cure any case of hemorrhoids, commonly known as piles or any other disease of the cuticle or skin generally termed eczema. One application convinces—a continuation cures. Read this proof from Vailsburg.

Mr. A. H. Woodruff., of Vailsburg, N. J. says: "For the benefit of those similarly afflicted as I was with hemorrhoids or piles, I want every reader of this paper to know, that I suffered with attacks of this tormenting nuisance for over fifteen years. During that time, I spent a lot of money trying 'sure cures' and exhausted all my knowledge about salves and ointments, and also the advice of my friends. One day while reading an advertisement about Doan's Ointment I concluded to make one more effort and I commenced the treatment. Greatly to my surprise the area of itching gradually contracted until it completed dried up. What is of considerable more importance to me, there is no indication of a recurrence."

Just such emphatic endorsement can be had here in Plainfield. Drop into L. W. Randolph's drug store and ask what his customers report. Doan's Ointment for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

WINTER FASHION HINTS.

Smart Costumes in One Color—Green and Black Combinations.

The old fashioned notion of the light blouse with the dark coat and skirt is only permissible for purely practical purposes. Even then it is better to have some sort of connection between the waist and the skirt. For instance, if you have a dark blue Russian blouse coat and skirt it is better taste to wear under it a waist of some blue material or white material figured in blue.

The craze this autumn among smart women is to dress entirely in one color from headgear down. This can be carried out particularly well in the browns and dark reds.

Red hats, red dresses and red costumes of all sorts are very stylish.

SCHOOL FROCK.

Gowns of red veiling are made up over glace silk and liberty satins of a darker or lighter shade in order to give a changeable effect.

A touch of green is both smart and pretty on an all black costume. One of the most recent Parisian importations is a black velvet princess dress, whose jet ornaments are mingled with grass green embroidery.

The child's frock in the illustration is very useful for school and everyday wear. The material is rough goods of an old rose shade. The waist is laid in clusters of three tucks, and the fullness is confined into a band of white silk worked with black French knots. Bands of this also trim the skirt and the wide collar of old rose tucked silk.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

VELVET POPULAR.

The New Metallic Weaves—Hats of Rough Felt.

All kinds of lace still retain their popularity, particularly Irish points and guipures.

Velvets will be worn as much as last season. The metallic velvets are the newest and are particularly effective in black and gray. Velvet hats will be somewhat supplanted by those of rough felt, but these will be trimmed and even faced with velvet. Burnt orange is very smart, especially when combined with white or pearl gray. There is a most becoming shape in felt known as the Marie Stuart. This has a low, broad crown, and the brim falls into a round point in front, showing the hair perfectly. It then rises into very much arched sides and fits close to the hair in the back.

Many smart hats are made of zibeline, especially in the dull red shades, and the hat is then trimmed with poppies in all shades of velvet.

The illustration shows a carriage cloak of putty colored cloth. It has the wide sleeves now so fashionable and a V shaped yoke and high collar of fur. The smart hat is of the same color of felt, trimmed with orange velvet and a black feather.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

COPYRIGHT 1898 BY A. N. KELLOGG NEWSPAPER CO.

"My mother almost fainted, and I had to look after her, but I returned to the chair in a few moments and carefully carried it out into the coal house. Lampkin, it contained the biggest, most deadly bomb you ever saw. It was a round, polished brass ball about three inches in diameter, of a make I have never seen before. My quick action and the warning the burning fuse gave me saved my life. I carefully drew out the upholsterer's brass-headed tacks, and saw the contrivance to fire the fuse—a spring affair to strike a match—when I sat down. Doctor, that thing sends a cold shudder up my spine every time I think of it, and I think of it too often for my peace of mind, I tell you."

"I should think it would worry you," said the doctor. "It certainly was a narrow escape."

"It showed that I had an enemy," was the detective's reply. "And this anonymous communication after three months of silence on his part shows he is still alive and—inventive."

"Ah, I see. You think that letter was a trick to lure you into a trap by some one."

"It has that appearance. The letter was delayed by my absence from town. As I was expecting every hour to get back I did not have my mail forwarded."

"And your absence perhaps saved your life again," added Lampkin.

Hendricks nodded, and gave a grim smile.

"That letter was not written by a fool, doctor, but I must not think of it. I must get to work. Keep your seat. I'll be through soon."

Hendricks, as he spoke, rose and went to his desk again. Lampkin smiled in admiration when he saw his friend's face clear as he plunged into his correspondence. Presently, however, he caught Hendricks' glance as it roved absently round the room.

"Come, come," chided the doctor, "you are thinking of that lettetr and the bomb again."

"Not that exactly," the detective said; "but all at once it has occurred to me that I haven't given my anonymous correspondent a fair showing. He says Caruthers has been murdered and we haven't really a bit of actual proof that he is lying."

"But," cried Lampkin, remonstratingly, "the letter was written a week ago, and to-day's paper says he was at the Horse Show last night."

"Papers are not infallible," said Hendricks, tapping his call bell. "Something in the general tone of this communication makes me think that the writer really meant to furnish me with a grewsome exhibition in Caruthers' apartments. My invitation comes late, but I am going to accept."

The office boy came in.

"Bring me to-day's Herald, quick!" Hendricks commanded with quite a change of tone.

This time, as the detective took the paper and began to open it, all his customary calmness and deliberate shrewdness seemed to settle on him. For a moment his penetrating gaze rested on the "Notes of the Horse Show." Then he grunted significantly as he took up a pencil and drew a circle around a short paragraph.

"There!" he ejaculated. "You see this paper says Caruthers did not occupy his box last night; that, as he was out of town, the box was courteously extended to Count Bantinni and his party—Miss Huntington, her aunt, and other ladies."

Lampkin rose, an incredulous expression on his face, and leaned over the paper. He started to speak, but Hendricks had suddenly dropped his hand on the call-bell with considerable force.

"What is it, sir?" asked the boy, from the portals of the door leading into the ante-room.

"To-day's Sun," said the detective, giving his friend a strange look.

When the boy had brought the paper Hendricks looked over the Horse Show news most deliberately.

"No mention of Caruthers here whatever," he said, finally. "Doctor, what time is it?"

"Eleven o'clock," said the doctor. "Do you want me to leave?"

The detective reached for his overcoat.

"Come walk over to the Palace hotel with me."

"Are you going to make inquiries there?"

"I shall at least find out if Caruthers has returned," rejoined Hendricks, reflectively, just a touch of evasion in his tone. "You see, he may have an enemy who really intended to harm him in some way, a week ago, and in such a matter a man ought to be put on his guard."

"Of course," answered Lampkin. "You are quite right."

The detective thrust his hand into his pocket for his gloves and drew them out in a disreputable wad.

"I'd like to ascertain, too, if this letter was written by my avowed enemy. You see, I'd go a good many lengths to get even the faintest clew to his identity."

CHAPTER II.

As the two friends turned into sight of the twelve-story hotel, they saw in front of it a long line of fashionable carriages from which were alighting men and ladies in evening dress.

"Swell blow-out," commented Hendricks. "Doctor, we ought to have on our swallow-tails and white neckties."

"I have almost given up that sort of thing," replied the doctor. "My principal amusement nowadays seems to be watching you at your work. If that eastern chap, Kola, hadn't won your heart so completely, I'd have given up my own aims and tried to become your right bower."

"You are that already, old man," returned the detective. "But Kola can't be depended on. When it suits him he works with me like a prairie on fire, but often when I have the most important matters on hand I find him in his old rat-hole of a den drugged to his eyes in the suffocating smoke and odor of incense, and moving about in his gray robe and cowl like a half-mummified monk. Ugh! he gives me the all-overs."

"You have never told me much about him," said the doctor. "The time I met him during your investigations of the Benton murder case he interested me greatly."

Hendricks shook his head.

"I don't go much on what can't be explained to my full satisfaction, and I can't explain Kola. When I ask him to turn the light on his queer mode of life he grins, shakes his head and says it would take 20 years of study and ascetic living in the east to comprehend even the rudimentary part of his outlandish philosophy. I didn't tell him I was going to Boston, and he may feel miffed at me, but he'll get over it."

By this time they had reached the side entrance to the hotel, and they went into the crowded office, from which, in several directions, ran spacious corridors, the walls of which were adorned with costly paintings and sculpture. Through an open door they had a glimpse of the white and gold ballroom. The music of a Hungarian orchestra swelled out from a balcony overhead, and throngs of men and women passed to and fro through the corridors. Hendricks sank into a big chair near the doorway leading into the Turkish smoking room, and by a downward motion of his hand signified his desire for Lampkin to sit beside him.

"You say you know Caruthers?" he asked.

"Very slightly."

"See if you recognize him in the ballroom."

Lampkin studied the throng for several minutes, then he went nearer, and standing behind a crowd of men and a bunch of palms he studiously surveyed the ballroom. He went back to the detective.

"See anything of him?" questioned Hendricks, taking his fixed gaze from the rug at his feet.

"No."

"Then we must ask for him at the desk."

They approached one of the active clerks behind the counter. Hendricks drew out a visiting card and fingered it, his name downward.

"I'd like to see Mr. Weldon Caruthers," he said.

The clerk glanced at the key-rack behind him and shook his head.

"He hasn't returned yet," he answered. "He is still out of town."

"Where is he?" asked Hendricks.

"I cannot tell you, sir," and the clerk turned to answer a question put by a man in evening dress on his right.

"I am very anxious to see Mr. Caruthers to night," resumed Hendricks, when he could get the clerk's attention again. "It is a very important matter."

The man in evening dress had overheard; he paused, interested.

"Are you looking for Caruthers?" he asked.

"I am," replied Hendricks.

"That's odd," smiled the man. "I've seen a dozen people to-night asking about him. We were just discussing his queer conduct and wondering what was the matter with him. He has broken several important engagements without a word of explanation. His valet told my man this afternoon that his master had been called by a night telegram to Philadelphia and had written him that he would be detained there for a couple of weeks. I presume it was some urgent business."

The speaker lighted a cigar and moved away to a group of men in the smoking-room. Hendricks drew the clerk aside.

PROPOSALS.

Proposals for grading and macadamizing Prospect avenue, from Willow avenue to Riverside avenue, in the Township of Cranford; will be received at the township rooms, by the Township Committee, at 8 p. m., on the twenty-ninth day of October, 1902.

The Township Committee reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and may award the contract as soon after the above named date as they may elect.

Each bid must be accompanied by a bidder's bond for the sum of one thou-and dollars.

The work to be done, as nearly as can be estimated in advance, is as follows:

759 cubic yards of excavation.
1,790 square yard of macadam, 6 inches thick.
896 square yards of macadam, inches thick.
3 manholes and flush tanks to be brought to grade.

Plans and specifications for the work may be seen at the office of the Township Engineer, 25 Dix Building, Elizabeth, N. J.

JACOB L. BAUER,
10 16 12 Township Engineer.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $300 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods. If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

Digests what you eat.

Many persons suffer frightfully from indigestion, and are in torture when they eat anything; the heart palpitates and they can't sleep. They try pepsin, soda tablets and almost everything else, and half-starve themselves, and still get no better. Isn't there anything to help them?

Many doctors know their patients suffer this way and don't know what to do. But here is how some doctors secure the gratitude of their patients;

"I suffered terribly from indigestion for fifteen years till my family doctor recommended KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE. The first dose relieved me, and I continued its use till now I am sound and well."—John H. Ellenberger, Helixville, Pa.

It can't help but do you good

"My family physician recommended me to use KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE for chronic indigestion that had tortured me for years. Formerly I couldn't eat anything or drink even a glass of water without distress. Now I can eat and drink whatever I want."—Mrs. R. F. Buffington, Xenia, Ill.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 26—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Treating a gracious invitation lightly.—Matt. xxii, 1-10.

The blessings of the gospel are often represented in the Scriptures by a feast. In the topical reference we have Christ's representation of them in this way in the parable of the marriage of the king's son, "The kingdom of heaven is like unto a certain king which made a marriage for his son." The invited guests were then called by the king's servants, but they would not come. "Again he sent forth other servants, saying, Tell them which are bidden, Behold I have prepared my dinner; my oxen and my fatlings are killed, and all things are ready. Come unto the marriage. But they made light of it and went their ways, one to his farm, another to his merchandise and the remnants took his servants and treated them spitefully and slew them." The king then punished his wicked subjects and invited other guests to the wedding, and the marriage feast was celebrated.

The king in the parable is God. The son is Christ. The wedding feast represents the present and eternal blessings of the gospel. The first invited guests were the Jews. They misused and even killed God's prophets and apostles who were sent unto them. God therefore severely punished them and extended the invitation to His gospel feast to all men.

The gospel invitation is therefore today a worldwide invitation. It is to all men. Salvation is offered full and free to all who will accept it, as it is offered in the gospel through Christ. What a gracious invitation it is! God has provided a feast of eternal joys and says to all men: "Come, for all things are now ready. Come, buy wine and milk without money and without price."

It seems incredible that any one could treat God's gracious invitation lightly, and yet many do. Men today, as of old, make light of it and go their ways, some to pleasure, some to business, and some even violently reject the proffered offers of mercy and in their rejection despitefully use the messengers. Such treatment of the most gracious invitation the world knows anything about is absolutely inexcusable. It is given in good faith. The benefits to be derived from its acceptance are all upon man's side. God has nothing to lose, but man has all to lose by lightly esteeming the salvation offered through Jesus Christ. Nor does God hold any man inexcusable. To accept is to live; to reject is to die. "He that despised Moses' law died without mercy, under two or three witnesses; of how much sorer punishment suppose ye shall he be thought worthy who hath trodden underfoot the Son of God?" (Heb. x, 28, 29.)

The Pledge.

The Christian Endeavor pledge, concerning which so much has been said and written, is often spoken of as "the backbone of the society." It is given herewith in its entirety: "Trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength, I promise Him that I will strive to do whatever He would like to have me do; that I will make it a rule of my life to pray and to read the Bible every day and to support my own church in every way, especially by attending all her regular Sunday and midweek services, unless prevented by some reason which I can conscientiously give to my Saviour, and that, just so far as I know how, throughout my whole life I will endeavor to lead a Christian life. As an active member I promise to be true to all my duties, to be present at and to take some part aside from singing in every Christian Endeavor prayer meeting, unless hindered by some reason which I can conscientiously give to my Lord and Master. If obliged to be absent from the monthly consecration meeting of the society, I will, if possible, send at least a verse of Scripture to be read in response to my name at the roll call." Charles M. Sheldon's famous book, "In His Steps," grew out of the Christian Endeavor pledge.

New York State Conventions.

An Endeavor Invitation.

Youth passes swiftly. Consider eternity.
Pray, brother, come to the foot of the cross.
Sweet be the smile of the dear, loving Saviour
Calmly entreating you. Count all else loss.
Eternity outweighs the world and its dross.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 26, "Treating a Gracious Invitation Lightly"—Text, Matt. xxii, 1-10.

"Many are called, but few chosen."

This parable of the marriage of the king's son is one which cannot lose interest so long as it is still in process of fulfillment. It has a bearing upon our times and an application to us individually which we do well to understand and heed.

The king has made a wedding for his son and has bidden many. Those first called refused to honor the invitation and were punished for their rebellion and high treason. Then a great mixed multitude of people is summoned and come. Some are good, some are bad.

This represents the actual history of the kingdom of God on the earth down to the present time. The kinsmen of Jesus rejected Him with insult and injury and were guilty of spiritual high treason. They were as a nation justly condemned and suffered the penalty which any individual or body of men must incur by the rejection of spiritual authority. The infliction is not the less authoritative because it is the inevitable result of the working of fixed laws. Whoever commits the crime of spiritual high treason and refuses attendance at the marriage of the Crown Prince when his Sovereign commands his presence deserves to lose and will lose his estates and title as peer of the realm and receive the punishment due his disloyalty. He shall not overthrow the realm nor the succession, but shall surely be overthrown.

What a mixed multitude, to be sure, has been brought into the kingdom of God on earth during the last nineteen centuries! How true the characterization of them in the parable as both bad and good! How keen the kingly scrutiny and how inflexible His etiquette of courtly requirements!

This reminds vividly of recent scenes in Westminster abbey at the coronation of King Edward VII. How important all peers of the realm considered it that they should be present, and what care was given to securing hereditary rights and privileges! What folly it would have been for any one to have treated with contempt the king's summons! To have refused homage and the oath of fealty would have justly worked political ruin and loss of rights which belong only to loyal subjects.

The condemnation and exclusion of one who had been admitted and was not robed are equally to be expected. What excuse could be made for one who had secured entrance to the abbey and had so little regard for himself, the king and the company as to disregard and disobey the regulations regarding his robes! King Edward is said to be very observing and particular regarding the medals and decorations worn by any one present at court functions, and any carelessness or error is called to the attention of the offender. God requires no less care as to the robes of His loyal ones. Ignorance and inability cannot be pleaded in excuse. The rules can be known and all can comply. Whoever refuses should be cast out. Are you robed as the King requires?

Melancholy Is Contagious.

Nothing is more subtly contagious than melancholy; therefore it is most unkind to inflict it on a neighbor or a friend. If one feels depressed, the first obligation is to fight against the infliction, seeking out its cause, which nine times out of ten is discovered to be in physical malaise. A man has worked day in and day out beyond his capital for daily effort and has finally drawn so lavishly on his reserves that some morning he wakes up a bankrupt in nervous energy, or he has dyspepsia, a fiend incarnate in the citadel of the body. A woman has been mending and sewing and cooking and doing church work till she has overtaxed her vitality, and she vainly tries to be cheerful. Let both try the virtue of rest, of outdoor life, of congenial company, but, most of all, let both live more continually with God.—Christian Intelligencer.

Pain as a Friend.

Pain is a friend rather than a foe. It stands between extremes of life and death, calling us ever toward life. It ceases when its warning has stirred the soul to thought and remedy and brought back health, or it ceases when the battle is lost. Like a fire bell, it stops when the fire is put out or burned out. Let us not resent it. It has a kind heart, though its hands hurt. That we may know the truth and so be made free from ignorance and peril is part of the mission of pain.—Sunday School Times.

Going to the Father.

The Christian life is a going to the Father. Some travel swiftly, some are long upon the road, some meet many pleasant adventures by the way, others pass through fire and peril; but, though the path be short or winding and though the pace be quick or slow, it is a going to the Father.—Professor Drummond.

To Be With God.

How beautiful to be with God
When earth is fading like a dream
And from this mist encircled shore
We launch upon the unknown stream!

No doubt, no fear, no anxious care,
But, comforted by staff and rod,
In the faith brightened hour of death
How beautiful to be with God!

How sweet to lay the burden by,
The task inwrought with toil and prayer,
Assured that He who calls will send
One better still the yoke to bear!

What peace when we have done our best
To leave the pilgrim path, long trod,
And in yon fields of asphodel,
Snow white, be evermore with God!
—Forward.

SPORTING NEWS

GOLF.

Baltusrol is to have all the intercity team golf matches this fall. The course there has just been chosen as the scene of the match between the Metropolitan and Philadelphia golf associations in which selected teams of ten representing the two cities will meet on Saturday, November 1. The women's intercity match among the New York, Philadelphia and Boston teams will take place there on October 29 and 30, while on October 31 there will be a four-ball foursome open to all women members of clubs belonging to the United States Golf Association. Louis Keller, the club's secretary, also announces that the Baltusrol championship for women will be started on October 28 and completed on November 1.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

The I. C. T. team is practising nightly for the game with the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. Saturday. The county seat people are somewhat heavier than the local team and it will have to be good work to down them.

FOR PRESS MEDAL.

School Boys Will Enter Events for All-Round Championship.

Herbert Munro, who has been taking charge of the entries for the closed field meet of the City High School, reports that the entries are coming in rapidly for the various events. The running events have the largest entries so far and will probably be hotly contested.

It is almost impossible to attempt to pick the winner of The Daily Press medal to be offered for all round championship of the school, as there is practically no one who can be depended upon to show up well in every event, it seems evident, however, that there are several anxious competitors for the championship and hotly contested events will be the order of the day.

The meet will take place at the Gentlemen's Driving Park on Park avenue, tomorrow afternoon, commencing at 2:30 o'clock.

Two New Houses.

J. B. Mills will commence on Monday the erection of two new houses on Webster place, west of Putnam avenue, for the owner who lives in Elizabeth. Each house will contain six rooms and the houses will be 18x30 feet and will be built on lots 35x100 feet and cost $2,500 each. The owner may decide to erect six houses in all.

Yearly Meeting.

It has been arranged to hold the yearly meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist churches of New York and New Jersey in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, this city, November 14, 15 and 16.

ON EVE OF TRIAL.

Phoebus' Suit Against Electric Light Company Was Settled.

The case of Francis C. Phoebus against the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company, was called this morning before Judge Vail, of Elizabeth, but a satisfactory settlement was effected without trial.

Mr. Phoebus is a veterinary surgeon living on East Front street, and on the night of February 21, 1901, while going home in a snow and hail storm, he was injured by coming in contact with electric wires. He brought suit through his lawyers, W. S. Angleman and W. G. DeMeza, against the Plainfield Gas & Electric Light Company for $10,000 damages. The company was represented by Lindabury, Depue & Falks.

CUTTER DECLINES.

Positively Refuses the Democratic Nomination for Councilman.

F. S. Cutter, who was nominated by the First Ward Democrats as councilman, has sent the following letter:

Oct. 17, 1902.

Democratic Executive Committee,
City of Plainfield.

Gentlemen:—I regret to learn that my declination to accept the nomination for councilman from the First ward was not made sufficiently strong to carry with it the conviction that I was in earnest.

I must respectfully, but positively decline to allow my name to be used at this time.

Thanking you for the honor of the nomination, which I trust you will not think I undervalue, I remain,

Yours most respectfully,
Fred S. Cutter.

Debate on Strikes.

A debate will be held tomorrow at the North Plainfield High School on the subject of "Strikes, their Right and Wrong Sides." Miss Mary Seal will take the side of the operators and Arthur Humble, the side of the miners. The general debate will follow when the entire government class will take part.

Willing Workers Will Meet.

The Willing Workers of Trinity Sunday-school will hold their first fall meeting at the home of Mrs. Rosensteihl on Somerset street tonight. It will be a business meeting followed by social. This opens the fall and winter meetings of this society and a social this evening will mark the event.

Hadn't Any Teacher.

The fifth grade at the Spencer School was dismissed this morning by Superintendent H. J. Wightman. Miss Anderson, the teacher, of this class, had not returned from her two days' leave of absence but a substitute was secured for the afternoon session.

Permit for Residence.

Chief Doane as building inspector yesterday granted a permit to W. J. Pearson, of the late firm of Pearson & Gayle, to construct a residence at 920 West Third street. He will be his own contractor and his own builder. He also drew the plans himself.

—The fire committee of the Borough Council will meet this evening to transact important business.

George R. Laird, of East Second street, who has been critically ill at Muhlenberg Hospital, had a turn for the better today and his physicians have hopes of complete recovery.

ONLY JERSEY HAS PRISON HAIR CUT

One of the Discoveries Made by Commission From the Charities Aid Association.

SIX IMPORTANT TOPICS

REFERENCE MADE TO THE PROBATION SYSTEM NOW BEING TRIED.

Great Progress Reported in Care for Discharged Prisoners—The Bureau of Identification of Prisoners Was Recommended.

The New Jersey delegation from the Charities Aid Association, consisting of Charlton T. Lewis, George O. Osborne and ex-Governor Voorhees, has prepared its report for publication, and in the meantime, has sent out a few advance sheets. In them the committee points out the following six prominent topics, with a bearing in New Jersey, which came out in general discussion and deserve special attention.

First. It was learned at the meeting of wardens that the New Jersey State Prison alone, of forty institutions represented, still persists in enforcing the prison short hair cut, the lock step and the prison stripes for ordinary wear.

Second. The congress seemed to approve without qualification the principle of the indeterminate sentence, as expressed in the law governing the Rahway Reformatory. Other States have gone further and commit without maximum sentences to State prisons under the indeterminate sentence, with excellent results.

Third. The probation system and the Juvenile Court were shown to have accomplished great good in Illinois, Massachusetts, Indiana and Pennsylvania. Wherever tried, this system has done much to prevent crime and to reduce the cost of penal administration to the taxpayer. While in certain cities special courts are constituted for juvenile offenders, other cities seek to accomplish the purpose of protecting the wayward child from criminal associations, by setting aside certain hours of the regular courts for hearing juvenile cases. The deliberations of the congress will throw much light upon practical problems which these reforms suggest.

Fourth. Great progress was reported in the care for discharged prisoners. It appears that in the Western States the free laborer is more ready to assist in the reinstatement of the laborer who may come from prison than is the case with us. In Indiana 1,133 prisoners have been paroled and set to work during the past five years. The delegation is impressed with the greatness of the problem which confronts the institutions in this State and the need for the co-operation of public spirited employers and humanitarians in offering to the ex-convict an opportunity to re-establish himself in life.

Fifth. A bureau of identification of prisoners and criminals was recommended, and a petition sent to the Congress of the United States urging its establishment. The Prison Association approved the Bertillon system of identification, which has already been adopted at Rahway and by some cities of New Jersey.

Sixth. Several States have reformatories for women, where, under the indeterminate sentence, women and older girls are taught useful branches and trained in self control. From these institutions they are paroled on probation, to such homes or such employers as are accepted by the authorities. A marked decrease in second imprisonments, as well as in crime by women is reported. It became known at the congress that New Jersey has no reformatory for women, unless it be the State Prison, in which the associations and influences are other than harmful.

Another Dance.

The Retail Clerks' Mutual Aid Association held a meeting Monday evening, when a committee, comprising A. Koch, chairman; Edward Baker, J. McLean, Prof. Charles Finnegan and Charles Greer, was appointed to arrange for another dance, which is to be held in the Casino Thursday, November 20.

Woodruff-Potter Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. William Alfred Woodruff, of East Second street, issued invitations today to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mabel Adele Woodruff, to Harry Sloat Potter, of Duer street, which will take place in Trinity Reformed church, Thursday evening, November 13, at 7:30 o'clock.

Contractors Built Shed.

The contractors at work on the Babcock building have erected a large shed in front of the building on Front street. This projects into the street and has shut off much of the light from the postoffice and Woodhull & Martin's store.

THOSE WHO COME AND GO

NOTES CONCERNING PLAINFIELDERS AND THEIR MANY GUESTS.

Some of Those That Go to Make Up the Day's Budget of Arrivals and Departures.

John Bowman is seriously ill at his home on West Front street.

Mrs. Osborn Bright, of New York, is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Shepard, on East Front street.

Michael Kennedy, the well known driver, has been ill with rheumatism at his home on Harrison street for the past week. He is being attended by Dr. Dundon.

Work on Carriages.

There are comparatively few people who take their daily drives in their highly polished and elegantly finished carriages and road wagons who realize or even give thought to the number of coats it takes to make carriages so beautifully shiny. There is, first of all, a coat of oily stuff called whiting, which is used to fill in the grain in the wood. Then seven or eight coats of rough material, and each of these coats is rubbed down with pumice stone, each having to dry before the other is put on. Then come two coats of crude coloring, then two fine powdered pumice. The last coat, fine black paint, which is followed by a coat of mixed color and varnish. Then comes more rubbing down, three coats of rubbing varnish, each polished off with fine powdered pumice. The last coat is one of the finest varnish. That makes 21 to 22 coats, and it takes five or six weeks to do the work.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Handicapped from the Start.

A young man who is now a model husband and father was celebrated in Philadelphia for his wildness and reckless gayety before his marriage, about six years ago. On one occasion, he hit on the idea of giving a midnight supper for 75, to be made up of a dozen of his intimate friends and six friends of each. The dozen were told to bring whomever they pleased, without regard for social standing, personal character, or anything of the sort. When all were seated, the host thought it a rare joke to ask a blessing, and cast about the table for somebody to pronounce the words. A clerical-looking stranger impressed him as a proper man; and he made known his wish. The stranger arose, and said: "From the direction of your glance, sir, I think you were speaking to me; but I am so deaf I couldn't hear a-d—d word you said."—Philadelphia Times.

You May Sleep in Halves.

Only those who are troubled with insomnia, and have experienced the sleepless fatigue of night after night of tossing upon a bed, are in a position to wonder how it is that, during the days that intervene, the brain seems able to do its work without showing undue signs of fatigue. Sir James Crichton Browne, the expert on brain diseases, holds that insomnia is not attended with such disastrous consequences as is commonly supposed. It is not so dangerous as the solicitude of the sufferer. He suggests that the brains of literary men, who are the most frequent victims, acquire the trick of the heart, which takes a rest of a fraction of a second after each beat, and so manages to get six hours' rest in 24. Some brains, in cases of insomnia, sleep in sections, different brain centers going off in turn.—London Answers.

A Coming Promotion.

"And what," asked the cannibal chieftain in his kindest tones, "what was your business before you were captured by my men?"

"I was a newspaper man," answered the captive.

"An editor?"

"No; merely a sub-editor."

"Cheer up, young man! Shortly after my chef has finished his perusal of the cookbook you will be editor-in-chief."

Laughing heartily at his bon-mot the cannibal chief wanted to know if the captive had a funny-bone.—Judge.

GREATER CITY DEMOCRATS HEAR SOME REASONS WHY

Two Big Mass-Meetings Were Held Last Evening, One in the City and the Other in the Borough.

THE CANDIDATES ON PLATFORM

CONGRESSMAN FLANAGAN AND HIS ORATORS DEALT WITH THE NATIONAL ISSUES.

Democrats First Paraded the City Streets and Then Marched to Reform Hall—A. H. Atterbury Presided—Chief Address Was Made by Edward M. Shepard, of New York—A Few Other Speeches Made.

Congressional nominee DeWitt C. Flanagan and his party of orators who are advocating the Democratic cause throughout the Fifth District reached this city, last evening, and were given an unsually rousing reception. With the party were most of the county nominations on the Democratic ticket who assisted in a mass meeting which was held in Reform Hall. The place was packed, both downstairs and in the gallery, and the majority of the crowd stayed until the last address.

Preceding the session at the hall, a short parade was held about town, a band from Elizabeth preceding the distinguished guests who were seated in carriages and the local members of the party who were afoot. Arrived at the hall the meeting was called to order by A. H. Atterbury and Joseph C. Blimm, Lewis G. Timpson, E. M. VanBuren and John F. Casey were made secretaries. The list of vice presidents was as follows: William Palmer Smith, John Rafferty, H. P. Talmadge, Peter Flynn, Sr., Otto Arens, J. F. McIntyre, E. C. Perkins, J. B. Guttridge, Joseph W. Yates, Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., Dexter Tiffany, C. A. Sturtevant, J. T. Scott, Frank Bacon, William H. Sterling, John Ross, W. E. Stewart, John Corey, DeW. C. Ivins, J. H. Hillmann, James Clark, Arthur Gallup, William A. Coddington, John O'Keefe, J. O. Stevens, N. J. Knolting, I. N. Fields, Howard Randolph, C. Leveridge, Joseph Ross, H. W. Stover, Clarence Teel, William T. Banks, John B. Brown, H. W. Marshall, Joseph Haynes, J. P. Homan, Louis M. Stover, Fred S. Cutter, J. H. Van Deventer, Dr. W. C. Boone.

A few introductory remarks were made by Chairman Atterbury in which he stated that the Democrats had taken up the principles laid down by Grover Cleveland and that they were prepared to sweep the county, that he hoped to see the time when all troops would be withdrawn from the Philippines and declared that if De Witt C. Flanagan was elected to Congress and served as long as Charles N. Fowler he would have more to show for it.

He then introduced Mr. Flanagan and the latter spoke very briefly. He stated that the sentiments expressed by Mr. Atterbury were his and now that his party had returned to the slogan which brought victory in 1892. He touched lightly on the question of tariff and in closing compared wages and prices of commodities at the present time with those of a few years

CANDIDATE PERRINE TOLD WHAT MIGHT BE EXPECTED OF HIM IF HE WAS ELECTED.

Meeting Was Preceeded by a Lively Street Parade Which Eventually Escorted Mr. Perrine to the Hall—S. St. John McCutchen Presided—Some Interesting Speeches Were Made Chiefly on National Issues.

The Democrats in North Plainfield, not to be outdone by the Democrats in this city, held a ratification meeting in Saengerbund Hall, last night, when all the county and borough candidates were present and made addresses. Besides those who are on the Democratic ticket, who were present, Judge Robert S. Woodruff and Mayor Frank S. Katzenbach, of Trenton, were among the speakers.

The most enthusiastic part of the night's events was the parade. At 7 o'colck the prominent members of the Democratic party across the brook assembled at the depot to welcome the delegates from Raritan, Somerville and Bound Brook. The train arrived here fifteen minutes late. The Raritan delegation brought with them the Crescent Band of fifteen pieces and they led the procession which started up North avenue as soon as the eighteen or twenty delegates formed in line. Flags and fireworks were freely distributed by David Carney and the supply held out until Saengerbund Hall was reached.

The route led up to the home of S. St. John McCutchen on Myrtle avenue, where, after a serenade by the band, Colonel Lewis Perrine, the Fourth Congressional District nominee, who was the guest of Mr. McCutchen, came out and joined the parade which escorted him back to the hall.

There were about 250 Democrats and Republicans in the hall when David Carney opened the meeting at 8:15 with the announcement that S. St. John McCutchen had been chosen as presiding officer of the meeting and the following were named as vice presidents: Dr. C. R. Thiers, Lorenzo Townley, Jacob Voehl, Charles H. Lyman, T. C. Kline, J. V. N. Willis, A. J. Winkler, W. J. Conroy, E. M. French, W. L. Saunders, A. E. Kenney, Samuel Townsend and J. H. VanWinkle.

Upon the platform were: Former State Senator W. J. Keyes, S. St. John McCutchen, of the State Board of Education; Former Mayor W. L. Saunders, Frank S. Katzenbach, mayor of Trenton, Judge Robert S. Woodruff, Senatorial candidate Samuel S. Childs, W. J. Conroy, Assessor Elston M. French, Lorenzo Townley, Dr. W. E. Mattison, J. C. Somers, Andrew C. Kenney, Walter C. Linbarger, Lewis C. Kline, candidate for surrogate W. J. DeMond, Assembly candidate S. S. Swackhamer and James E. Martine.

When President McCutchen stepped to the flag drapped table on the platform a burst of applause went up which did not subside for several minutes.

In introducing the first speaker, the Honorable Mr. Woodruff, the speaker said that in all his experience he has never seen as clean, commendable and admirable a ticket as that which is shown by the Democratic party this year, from the candidate for Congress to the lowest county officer. This, he said, was especially worthy of note as in this time of uncertainity in the borough it is very desirable to have such a good ticket in the field.

Mr. Woodruff came to the edge of the stage amid deafening applause. He said among other things that when a party was in power so long as to become careless in office it was time that that particular officer's place should be occupied by another person. He also sited as an illustration of his remark the doings of the Tweed ring in New York years ago.

The tariff issue was dealt with at some length by this able speaker and to illustrate that the Democrats would finally be called upon to deal with the trust problem he read extracts of interviews with prominent Republicans clipped from well known newspapers which showed, as he said, that the Republicans have divided opinions as regards the manner and who shall curb the trusts. He closed by recommending the candidates on the tickets as good reputable citizens with clean records.

Mayor Frank S. Katzenbach was introduced as the young Democratic mayor of a large Republican city. His address opened with some very complimentary utterances in favor of Mr. Perrine. He told something of Mr. Perrine's opponent and said that Lanning was a good man but was in very bad company. He said he was chosen to serve as a mask for those who could not boast of as clean a record.

The matter of tariff revision was touched upon by the speaker who gave a brief outline of its history and the changes which have been made and showed some of those changes which should be made. Trusts was a subject that came under discussion. He said that at first they were supposed to be a good thing as they would encourage competition and lower prices. The competition has been encouraged but the prices have gone up as is shown in the prices of commodities today.

Colonel Lewis Perrine, of Mercer county, was introduced but no one heard the introduction. The speaker's voice was lost in the resounding applause and cheers which greeted his name.

The Congressional candidate said that he was a candidate for office but he had made no effort to secure the nomination and only accepted it because, he said, it seemed to him that duty called him in this direction stronger than in his private affairs. His ideals of a public officer were very high. He quoted Grover Cleveland and said that a public officer was a public trust. He said that if elected he would make the office a public trust.

McKinley was a friend of the people and if he ever went astray it was in listening to politicians. It has been said that the only thing that worried McKinley was that he was unable to get both ears to the ground at once. That is a very high compliment to pay to any one and if any body says that his chief difficulty was in getting both ears to the ground he would consider it a great compliment.

He said that never were there so many questions before the public eye as at present and these should be attended to by statesmen rather than politicians.

Equal taxation will be his hobby, he affirmed, if the people place him in the office for which he is running. Trusts and tariffs were also discussed by Mr. Perrine to some extent. Labor was also discussed and during his speech he said he was in favor of bettering the condition of the labor community.

Senatorial Candidate S. S. Childs was accorded an ovation by the assemblage but owing to the lateness of the hour only made a few brief remarks. He endorsed all his fellow politicians on the ticket and made a plea for votes.

Candidate for Surrogate, W. J. DeMond, candidate for Assembly, S. S. Swackhamer, candidate for coroner, John C. Somers, also made brief speeches.

Before the meeting closed the audience applauded wildly and the name of Martine, Martine, rang out. Mr. Martine rose and made a short speech after which the meeting closed.

TWO CONCERTS GIVEN BY DUSS' GREAT BAND

The Famous Bandmaster Appeared at the Casino Yesterday Afternoon and Night.

AUDIENCE WAS PLEASED

THE PROGRAMMES WERE RENDERED WITH SPIRIT AND PERFECT TIME.

The Leader Was As Interesting As Was His Band—The Programme Included Some of the Leader's Own Selections.

J. S. Duss, the unique American bandmaster and his fifty skilled musicians, gave two concerts in the Casino, yesterday afternoon and evening, that equalled, if not surpassed expectation. A programme of ten numbers, embracing selections from such composers as Wagner, Gautier, Mendelssohn, Tschaikowsky and the conductor himself, was given each time, and without exception all were rendered with a swing that captivated the audience. The peculiar individualities of Duss were plainly manifest and excited as much interest from the attendants as the band itself.

In the afternoon, a march, "America Up-to-Date," one of Duss' compositions was the favorite and in the evening the overture "William Tell" was applauded vociferously. A pastoral fantasy, "Shepherd's Life in the Alps" from Kling, given in the afternoon programme, was remarkable for the time kept in all the intricacies of a descriptive piece. In other selections the excellent time was keenly perceptible.

The soloists at both concerts were Bohumir Kryl, cornet, and Miss Charlotte C. George, mezzo sorpano. Kryl's selections were remarkable for their sweetness of tone rather than technique which seems to be the goal all cornettists strive to reach, while Miss George's solos were treats in themselves. In the afternoon she was allotted one number "Non er Ver," by Mattei, but her listeners refused to be content with a single appearance and she was recalled twice. For encores she gave, "Violets," by Wright, and "Love's Old Sweet Song," by Malloy, each one surpassing its predecessor in sweetness. In the evening, she was also recalled.

I. C. T. RECEPTION.

That Club Added to Its Laurels by Another Successful Dance in Its Club Rooms.

The second fall reception of the I. C. T. Club attracted a large but select number of guests to the clubrooms last evening. From early in the evening until early this morning the merry dancers enjoyed themselves to the limit. The committee in charge left nothing undone toward making the affair a great success and nothing but praise was heard for its efforts.

At midnight there was an intermission and the club served its guests with refreshments, after which the dancing was continued. The programme was an especially attractive one and it was well rendered by Suhr's Imperial Orchestra, this being a feature of the affair. Prior to the opening of part second of the programme, the orchestra rendered a pleasing overture. Then followed the regular order of dance.

The committee in charge consisted of George L. Apgar, chairman; Hiram S. Humes, Charles Overbaugh, George Cose and William Waters.

FILLED VACANCIES.

Willing Workers of Trinity Church Getting Ready for Work.

The Willing Workers, of Trinity Sunday-school, held a meeting last evening at the home of Mrs. L. Rosensteihl on Somerset street where a business meeting preceeded a social gathering. The business of the meeting was to fill the several vacancies in the committees and in the various offices.

Mrs. Frank Plattes was elected a secretary to succeed Miss Lottie Wilson, who recently resigned to go to Willmington, Delaware. The vacancies in the different committees were filled as follows: Visiting committee, Mrs. Jacob Higgins succeeds Mrs. Harry Spencer who has moved to Paterson; Mrs. Charles Coddington was appointed Miss Lottie Wilson's successor on the social committee.

Refreshments were served and a social hour followed the business session. There were fifteen members and their friends present.

TIED NUPTIAL KNOT.

Marriage of Miss S. VanDoren and D. Olmstead at East Millstone.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

East Millston, Oct. 24—An event of much interest to the people of this place was the marriage of Miss Sadie VanDoren, daughter of Captain and Mrs. W. A. VanDoren, to David Olmstead, both of East Millstone, which was celebrated Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Henry Lockwood, pastor of the Reformed church. Miss Margaret Dunn was the maid of-honor, and William Swenson was the best man. The ushers were Charles Welsh and Oliver A. Swenson, Jr. There were guests present from New York, Brooklyn, Metuchen, New Brunswick and Plainfield. The happy couple was given a royal sendoff, and after a wedding trip they will reside in this place.

GREAT GATHERING.

Will be Annual Convention of Sunday-School Workers at Trenton.

A notable event in religious circles will be the great convention of Sunday-school workers, to be held by the New Jersey Sunday-school Association in the First Methodist Episcopal church of Trenton, Thursday and Friday, November 20 and 21. The programme is being sent by the general secretary, Rev. E. M. Fergusson, Trenton, to every pastor and Sunday-school superintendent in the State. Plans are being made to receive a thousand delegates.

In addition to the main convention, several special meetings of great interest will be held, notably the superintendents' annual banquet Wednesday night, November 19, and the Primary and Junior Institute, beginning Wednesday afternoon.

NAMED DISTRICT DEPUTY.

Chief Business of Odd Fellows District Convention Last Night.

William Wyckoff, James Perry and C. W. DeGraw were the delegates from Noah Dove Encampment, No. 28, I. O. O. F., of this city who attended the district convention at Columbia Encampment at Elizabeth last evening. Other members of the local lodge who attended the meeting were J. Kittenering and Simon Mantz. The convention met at 8 o'clock and among other important matters transacted was the nominating of a district deputy. The local members who attended the meeting left town at 7:15 and arrived home about midnight.

BAKER STILL IN.

Only Local Player Still in the Individual Intercollegiate Golf Championship.

Out of the thirty starters in the qualifying round of the individual championship of the Intercollegiate Golf Association yesterday morning at the Morris County Golf Club, twenty-seven finished. The low score in the qualifying round was made by Percy R. Pyne, 2d, who made the 5,911-yard course in 77. C. Hitchcock, Jr., intercollegiate -champion, played with J. Whitney Baker, of Princeton, and after a bruising match Hitchcok was 1 down with 2 to play. Baker's score was 81 and that of his opponent 82.

The next close match was between Chandler Egan, the Western champion, and Frank O. Reinhart. The latter had the better of it until the fifteenth green, when Egan squared the match. Egan won by 1 up.

In the first round match play, J. Whitney Baker beat C. Hitchcock, Jr., 1 up; Henry Hollins, Jr., beat W. L. Glenney, 4 up and 2 to play, and C. Egan beat Frank O. Reinhart, 1 up. Whitney Baker is the only Plainfield boy left for the second round play today.

SETTLED BEFORE TRIAL.

Willard M. Miner Won His Contention With Big Electric Company.

Settlement in the suit brought by Willard M. Miner, of LaGrande avenue, against the Telephone and Cable Company, of America, was made Tuesday, just previous to the case being called for trial in the First District Court, before Judge Crouse, at Jersey City. Francis J. Blatz, of this city, represented the plaintiff in the matter and Condit, Black & Drayton, of Jersey City, appeared for the defendants.

Miner sued to recover $150 for expert services furnished the company in the past three years. He was an examiner of instruments purchased by the concern but it differed over the price to be paid. Every preparation was made to fight the case but at the last moment the defendants' counsel realized it was best to settle.

SCORE SURPRISED HER.

Twenty Friends Walked in at Miss Bicknell's Home at Watchung.

A surprise party was tendered to Miss Minnie Bicknell, of Watchung, last evening, twenty of her friends being present. The evening was spent in playing games and listening to a programme of vocal and instrumental music. Among those present were the Misses Marie and Annie Kelm, Jennie and Mamie Dresselt, Louisa Ebel, Ada Higgins, Augusta Wawryn, Etta Gordon, Bertha Bicknell and Henry and Charles Dresselt, Elmer Ackor, Hugo and Paul Kelm, Leonce Texier, Owen Drive, Ernest, Alfred and Charles Bicknell.

DECORATIONS AFIRE.

Blaze at F. W. Dunn's Grocery Early Last Evening.

A quantity of decorative paper placed about the gas jets and ceiling of Fred W. Dunn's grocery store on North avenue, caught fire early last evening from a match in the hands of a clerk. In a trice the flames had spread to every part of the store, filling it with smoke. Patrolman Vanderweg sent in an alarm from box No. 13 and the department responding extinguished the blaze in few moments. The damage is trifling.

DR. HURLBUT TO SPEAK.

At Epworth League Anniversary at Monroe Avenue Church Tonight.

Recognition of the anniversary of its organization will be observed by the members of the Monroe Avenue Epworth League, this evening. An apporpriate programme has been prepared and among the speakers will be Rev. Dr. Jesse L. Hurlbut, of Morristown, former pastor of the First M. E. church. League chapters connected with other Methodist churches in this city have been invited to attend.

Why Did He Change?

In yesterday's issue of the Somerville Unionist-Gazette, serious charges are suggested in explanation of Rev. J. B. Cleaver's parting from the Republican party in Middlesex county. The opening of the Democratic barrel is hinted at as having been the real cause and the reverend gentleman is made the subject of a scathing two column article.

Wedded at Warrenville.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Jennie Squires, daughter of Mrs. Adam Huber, to Herbert VanFleet, of the borough, which took place Wednesday evening at the residence of Rev. George Bowers, of Warrenville.

John Martin, of this city, is spending a few days with Raritan relatives.

SILVER TRUST BEATEN BY LOCAL CONCERN

Wm. H. Rogers Corporation Won Its Case in Court of Chancery Over Trade Mark.

ITS OPINION JUST FILED

CRAIG A. MARSH, OF THIS CITY, REPRESENTED ROGERS CORPORATION.

Legal Fight Was Over Rogers Trade Mark, Which the Silver Trust Claimed to Control—The Case Has Been Hard Fought.

Vice Chancellor Stevens yesterday filed his opinion in the injunction suit brought by the International Silver Company against the Wm. H. Rogers Corporation of this city. The suit was brought by the International Company, popularly known as the "Silver Trust," to restrain the Plainfield company and also Wm. H. Rogers personally from stamping any silver-plated ware with the mark "Wm. H. Rogers" or any other mark of which the words Wm. Rogers are a characteristic part.

The International Company claimed to be the successor of all this so-called original Roger's concerns in the country and entitled to the exclusive use of all their trade marks, tradenames, etc. Their evidence and findings made a printed book of over one hundred pages. The Wm. H. Rogers corporation answered with pleadings and evidence of even greater length, claiming the right to the use of its tradename and trademark, Wm. H. Rogers, followed by a seal bearing on its face the capital letter R. They denied that they had in any way infringed the name or trade mark of the trust, and challenged the other side to produce a single person, dealer or customer, who ever mistook the defendant's goods for those of the trust. The Plainfield Company claimed that its good were of better quality than most of those sent out by the trust and equal to the very best in the market.

The motion for preliminary injunction was argued last July, the trust lawyers being Edward A. Day and Wm. T. Day, of Newark, and Mitchell, Bartlett & Brownell, of New York, and Hiram R Mills, of Hartford. The Plainfield company's lawyer was Craig A. Marsh. Mr. Marsh was successful in convincing the Vice Chancellor that the preliminary injunction applied for should not be granted. The opinion among other things says, that the defendant's statement is uncontradicted that its goods are equal in quality with the goods of the complainant, and that it is remarkable that complainant does not by its affidavits show a single instance in which any dealer or any customer has been in fact misled into purchasing defendants' wares as complainants.

The stockholders of the Plainfield company, "Wm. H. Rogers Corporation" are, Wm. H. Rogers, Mrs. Geo. H. Babcock, Howard P. Reynolds, Joseph A. Hubbard and John P. Mosher. These well-known citizens naturally are highly gratified over the result of the argument against preliminary injunction. They have felt confident from the outset, both in the justice of their case, and in the ability of their counsel, Craig A. Marsh, to see that justice was secured.

LOT SECURED.

Plans and Specifications for New Engine House Also Approved.

The fire committee of the Borough Council met last evening when the architect, Charles H. Smith, submitted the plans and specifications to the members for their approval.

Those present were the committee: J. J. Stahl, chief; George H. Fairchild and Harry Coddington, of Warren Engine Company and members of the Council, J. P. Northrop, Charles A. Lee, Robert Clark, Jr., and Mayor N. B. Smalley.

These men approved of the plans and specciflations of Architect Charles H. Smith for the $10,000 engine house after some alterations. Yesterday the deed passed for the lot at 105 Somerset street where the proposed building will stand. The lot was owned by the Alfred University.

MUSICAL TREAT.

Rendition of Oratorio of "Elijah" at Church of the Holy Cross Next Tuesday Evening.

There is a rare musical treat in store for the people of Plainfield Tuesday evening when the combined choirs of Holy Trinity church, New York, and the Church of the Holy Cross will render Mendelssohn's great oratorio of "Elijah."

When the last cantata, "The Holy City," was rendered it was said that it was one of the best, if not the best, cantata ever rendered here. It is the intention of William E. MacClymont, the organist and director, to make this well known oratorio even more successful than the cantata was.

There will be sixty voices in the chorus and the soloists will be selected from the New York and Plainfield choirs. They are: Mrs. E. W. Buckhout, soprano; Mrs. Katherine Hanford, contralto; F. H. Potter, tenor; and Edward H. Lockhart, basso.

The oratorio will begin at 8 o'clock at the Church of the Holy Cross. A collection to defray the expenses will be taken. The expense of a musicale of this calibre is very great and it is hoped that the attendance will be large.

BATTLED ON CAR.

Colored Folk Owned Bound Brook Line, But Couldn't Do It on This.

Six colored people, three of them women, who boarded the Dunellen trolley at Bound Brook, late Wednesday evening, took possession of the car soon after it started and drove the other passengers to the platforms. They fought furiously all the way to Dunellen and in the melee several were cut. The crew made no attempt to stop them or summon assistance.

When the Dunellen terminus was reached, the fighters boarded the Plainfield car and attempted to renew hostilities but were quickly squelched. The identity of several of them is known and arrests may follow.

Look Out for Fever.

Biliousness and liver disorders at this season may be prevented by cleansing the system with DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These famous little pills do not gripe. They move the bowels gently, but copiously, and by reason of the tonic properties, give tonic and strength to the glands. L. W. Randolph.

Five Contagious Cases.

The Board of Health of the borough reports five cases of contagion in the borough. These cases are scarlet fever and diphtheria. Most of them are now convalescent.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

Nasal CATARRH

In all its stages there should be cleanliness.

Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly.

Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents by mail.

The Blood is the Life.

The circulatory system consists of the heart, the tireless blood pump; the arteries, which carry the blood to the system and to the lungs; the veins, which return the used-up blood to the heart, and the small capillaries which connect them. How many times do we find areas of the body striving for good blood, and as a consequence diseased, and this from some obstruction to its blood supply, or on the other hand, congested and inflamed because the blood cannot return properly, through the veins. Neither bone, ligament, muscle or any other tissue can live without it.

Osteopathy does more, however, than simply remove obstructions to the flow. It controls the size of the blood vessels through the vaso motor nerves and relieves anaemia or bloodlessness of a part by direct stimulation to that part, and just as surely relieves congestion and inflammation by stimulating the flow from the part.

PROPOSALS.

Proposals for grading and macadamizing Prospect avenue, from Willow avenue to Riverside avenue, in the Township of Cranford; will be received at the township rooms, by the Township Committee, at 8 p. m., on the twenty-ninth day of October, 1902.

The Township Committee reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and may award the contract as soon after the above named date as they may elect.

Each bid must be accompanied by a bidder's bond for the sum of one thousand dollars.

The work to be done, as nearly as can be estimated in advance, is as follows:

750 cubic yards of excavation.
1,790 square yards of macadam, 6 inches thick.
896 square yards of macadam, 4 inches thick.
3 manholes and flush tanks to be brought to grade.

Plans and specifications for the work may be seen at the office of the Township Engineer, 25 Dix Building, Elizabeth, N. J.

DIGG'S UPRIGHT FIRE EXTINGUISHER.

The Best on Earth! We Challenge the World!

The Extinguishers that turn up-side-down to discharge are good of their kind, but this is far better. Read the following reasons:

Points of superior merit of the Diggs-Upright over any other machine—

1—A sealed acid bottle and an air-tight tank. No change in the conditions of the chemicals possible.

2—Can never be discharged by accident; absolutely under the control of the operator.

3—A 3-gallon machine of this type contains ONE QUART more of liquid than a reversible, because it does not require a handle underneath.

4—It does not need inspection and recharging as required for the reversible with its loose stopple.

5—The acid being released at the top of the tank, and the outlet being at the bottom, the mingling of the chemicals is so thorough before the acid reaches the outlet that it is completely neutralized, and no harm can be done to flesh or fabric. In the reversible type the acid is released within the two inches of the outlet.

6—Convenience in handling. The machine stands on its bottom, and all the operator has to do is to turn the screw in the cap, and the flow begins instantly.

7—The bottle is not broken, and no nuisance of broken glass.

MANY MINES IDLE.

Resumption of Work Somewhat Disappointing.

STATUS OF THE VARIOUS COMPANIES

A Little Less Than Two-thirds of the Collieries In Operation and Coal Output One-half the Normal Amount.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 24.—The resumption of mining throughout the anthracite region has not been as general as was expected. Unlooked for difficulties were encountered in the shape of water and accumulated gas, and dangerous roofs which threatened to fall and entomb the workers were also discovered in many of the collieries. The mine superintendents would take no chances, and the mining of coal was put off until all parts of the underground workings can be made safe. This will take a few days yet, and in some cases it will take weeks before some of the mines can be put in full operation.

Although work is being carried on in some mines which are not considered in the best of condition, no accidents have been reported. In quite a few of the collieries the machinery and everything else connected with the hoisting of coal acted badly, and it was found necessary to close down after steam had been raised and the miners were ready to go to work.

From reports received from the entire anthracite region the number of mines in operation is given as a little less than two-thirds of the total number, but the output of coal is less than half the normal.

The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company take the lead in the production. Their collieries are in better shape than the mines operated by the other large companies. About one-half the mines of the Delaware and Hudson company are working, and the output of those in operation are light. The mines of the Susquehanna Coal company at Nanticoke are in operation, but only the upper levels can be worked, as the lower levels contain considerable water. In three days, however, it is expected that the output of coal will reach the full quota.

The Lehigh Valley Coal company is operating about one-half of its mines with a full force of men. The Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company is mining coal in several of its big mines, but all of its collieries will not be in condition to resume before Monday.

The Kingston Coal company has started up two of its collieries. The other two will start on Monday. The Parish company will not resume until Monday.

As was to be expected, there was more or less dissatisfaction among the old employees over the reopening of the mines. Where it was decided not to resume work for a few days the men took it that the coal companies did not want their services, and many complaints reached President Mitchell's headquarters. Until all the collieries do resume there will be more or less idle men airing their discontent.

It looks as though the union engineers were going to have some difficulty getting back their old places. At nearly every mine where the striking engineers made application for work they were told that there were no vacancies. A large number of carpenters are also out in the cold.

President Mitchell believes that when general resumption takes place there will be few of the mine employees idle. The firemen are being taken back in larger numbers than any of the other steam men. That is because they are experienced, and they take the places of men who are not so capable. The only friction reported between union and nonunion men was at several collieries in the Wyoming region, where the miners objected to be lowered into the mines by nonunion engineers.

Nonunionists Scarce.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 24.—As predicted, the nonunion man is already a scarce article around the collieries. True to their declarations, the companies did not dismiss them, but with the stockade living quarters gone and the almost impossible task of securing boarding houses confronting them the imported nonunionists packed up and left for other and more congenial climes. At about half the collieries a practically full force of men has been put to work.

To Boycott Hard Coal.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—President Morton of the International Association of Stationary Engineers and Firemen says that all members of the association all over the country will be ordered to refuse to handle any anthracite coal until every member affected by the anthracite strike is reinstated on the basis on which the miners returned to work. The brotherhood has a membership of 14,000 and has local unions in 114 towns and cities.

Furnaces Close Down.

SHARON, Pa., Oct. 24.—The Alice and Sharpsville blast furnaces at Sharpsville have gone out of blast on account of the shortage of coke and other materials. Two additional furnaces at Sharpsville will likely close down for the same reason. About 250 men are affected.

Four Lost In Two Shipwrecks.

SOUTH SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 24.—The steamer Centennial, from Alaska, reports the loss of two vessels, the schooner Courtney Ford and the ship Louis Walsh, both of San Francisco, and the death of four men. The Ford went ashore on Izen Island Sept. 7, and the Walsh was lost on the spit near Dutch Harbor during a gale on Oct. 14.

PRICE OF COAL PUT UP

Cost of Mining Greatly Increased Because of Strike.

GRASPING DEALERS TO BE CURBED.

President Baer Says No Advance Was Charged the Retailers During the Scarcity—Orders Public Served Direct if Necessary.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—In view of the resumption of mining of anthracite coal the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad company tonight has issued the following statement, which is signed by President Baer:

"The reports of the superintendents in charge of the mines show that, as a result of the strike, the mines and mining plants have sustained considerable injury and their respective working organizations have been impaired. For some time to come the collieries cannot be worked to produce their average quantity of coal. This will increase the cost of production. Estimates have been submitted showing the probable increase in cost per ton at the several groups of collieries. The general average exceeds 50 cents per ton.

"You will therefore add to the circular price 50 cents per ton, this additional price to continue till the 1st of January, 1903, by which time we hope to reach a normal condition of mining and production.

"Notwithstanding the fact that during the strike no coal was sold by our company at an advance over the circular price, the price has been unreasonably advanced to the public by some retail dealers. In the distribution of the coal, therefore, you will, so far as practicable, supply the dealers willing to sell coal to the public at reasonable prices. Where dealers seek to obtain an unfair profit from the public you will promptly take steps to supply the reasonable demands of the public directly."

In pursuance of instructions contained in the above letter circulars have been issued, taking effect Oct. 24.

An effort will be made to arrange the distribution of coal so that parties in need may at least receive a small portion of their wants, and, with this purpose in view, dealers will be requested to restrict the amount which will for the present be sold to any consumer within the limits of his reasonable immediate requirements.

The opinion is expressed by Manager Henderson that the prices for white ash, egg, stove and chestnut coal, delivered to householders in the city of Philadelphia, should not in any case exceed $6.75.

Many of the dealers have already expressed a willingness to comply with the wishes of the Reading company in this respect.

Carnegie Clerk Pleads Guilty.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—L. H. Greig, until recently a bookkeeper in the London offices of the Carnegie Steel company and charged with forgery and abstracting checks aggregating $81,265 from the correspondence of the Carnegie company, pleaded guilty to forgery and was sentenced to five years' penal servitude. Counsel said the irregularities had been going on for three years. The total amount of the forged checks was $290,000, of which Greig had in his possession $125,000. The balance had been transferred from one bank to another in order to hide his defalcations.

Farm Hand Inherits Fortune.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 24.—H. J. Haviland, a Chicago attorney, administrator of the estate of J. T. Wills, came to Toledo two weeks ago in search of J. J. Smith, nephew of Wills, who is heir to $70,000. Haviland found Joseph James Smith employed as a man of all work on the farm of Hiram Worden, three miles from here. Smith fully established his identity and his right to the fortune, and he and Haviland left for Chicago.

Trolley Road Indicted.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Oct. 24.—The Fulton county grand jury has handed up an indictment against the Mountain Lake Railroad company of this city with three counts, charging the company with manslaughter in the second degree as a result of an investigation into a fatality on the road on the night of July 4 last, in which fourteen people were killed and over fifty injured.

Cresceus Failed Again.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 24.—Cresceus in his attempt to reduce his record of 2:02¾ failed at the Memphis Trotting association, covering the mile in 2:04 flat. Onward Silver went against his two mile record of 4:29½ and amid much enthusiasm covered the distance in 4:28¼, reducing his record one and a quarter seconds.

Troops Still Guard Railway.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Oct. 24.—The strike situation remains unchanged, and the railway is still under military protection. Chairman Dilworth of the national executive committee of the Amalgamated association states that the railway company will never again have a chance to arbitrate all the questions at issue.

Miss Roosevelt's Engagement Denied

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—It is authoritatively stated that there is absolutely no foundation for the report from Little Rock, Ark., regarding the engagement of Miss Alice Roosevelt, daughter of the president, to Mr. John Greenway of Hot Springs.

Boer Prisoners Returning.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Oct. 24.—The British transport Sunda has sailed for Cape Town with 430 former Boer prisoners on board.

Filipino En Route to Washington Tells of Islands' Troubles.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24.—Raimon Reyes Lala, a native Filipino, graduate of Oxford and a naturalized American, has arrived here on his way from Manila to Washington to tell something of the present urgent needs of the Philippines.

"Legislation is much needed for the Philippines," says Lala. "We poor Filipinos need a stable currency. We cannot do business with the United States without a fixed standard of money. In the old days silver was generally worth three-fourths as much as gold and at the worst two for one, but now silver—and it is a silver country, though the government demands all its payments in gold—silver is lower yet. $2.37 for every dollar in gold.

"To secure $400 in gold when I was leaving for the United States I had to pay something like $960 in silver. The worst of it is that there is no established ratio. The commission can make it anything they see fit.

"The islands need railroads. They need more reliable labor for my country, for the laboring class is very uncertain. If they make a few dollars, they don't care to work till the money is spent."

THE PREMIER TELLS WHY.

Defeat of the Island Measure Explained.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Oct. 24.—In the course of a speech in the folkething the premier, Dr. Deuntzer, expressed regret at the fact that the decision of the landsthing in rejecting the Danish West Indies treaty made it appear that Denmark was a country which did not keep its word.

The present ministry, he explained, was not responsible for the negotiations relating to the Danish West Indies. These had been started and kept up by various Rightist ministries.

"If we now had a Rightist ministry," said Dr. Deuntzer, "the attitude of the landsthing would have been different. We take no responsibility for the attitude of the landsthing nor for the future of the islands."

"Beggar King" Eludes Police.

VIENNA, Oct. 24.—The police of Agram, capital of Croatia-Slavonia, Hungary, have received complaints from the Croatian colony in New York concerning Peter Modries, who is familiarly known as "The Beggar King of Hoboken" and who was believed to be visiting Agram, his birthplace. The Croatians of New York asked the Agram authorities to help them take steps against their countryman on the ground that the fair name of their colony was disgraced by Modries' questionable way of making a living. The police made investigations and discovered that Modries, accompanied by a young woman, had just sailed on a fast steamer for the United States. They ascertained that "The Beggar King" owns two valuable houses in Agram and that he claims to own two tenement houses in Hoboken.

Successful Wireless Tests.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 24.—Successful experiments have been made between the Naval academy and the auxiliary cruiser Prairie with the Slaby-Arco, or German, system of wireless telegraph. The Prairie was anchored seventy miles down the Chesapeake, and signals were exchanged with her with facility from the station here. The experiments are said to have given entire satisfaction to the naval experts who are conducting the tests at the academy station. A corps of representatives of the Slaby-Arco company is on hand to assist in the experiments, which will be continued until the extreme limits of the system are determined.

Faith Healers Held.

WHITE PLAINS, Oct. 24.—Coroner Banning has decided that there is enough evidence to hold John C. Lathrop, the Christian Science "healer," and Mr. and Mrs. John Quimby for the grand jury of Westchester county in connection with the death of seven-year-old Ethel Quimby from diphtheria. Lathrop and the parents of the girl are accused of negligence in failing to summon medical aid for her during her illness, in consequence of which neglect she died. The case will go to the grand jury at once.

Fire on Battleship Oregon.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24.—The Bulletin says that a fire has been burning in the coal bunkers of the battleship Oregon for three days. A board of survey has been summoned to examine the vessel, and it will be some time before she will be able to depart for Manila. Repairs will have to be made and a new supply of coal put on board before the battleship can sail.

OIL MAGNATE'S GIFT

Rockefeller Offers $500,000 to Teachers' College.

SAYS IT IS A THANK OFFERING.

Like All Contributions to Educational Institutions Made by This Man, There Is a Contingency.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Mr. John D. Rockefeller has given $500,000 to the Teachers' college of Columbia university. This is the largest amount he has ever given at one time to any single institution outside of the University of Chicago.

Mr. Rockefeller makes the donation, he said in a letter to James Earl Russell, dean of the college, "as a thank offering to Almighty God for the preservation of his family and household on the occasion of the destruction by fire of his country home at Pocantico Hills, N. Y., on the night of Sept. 17, 1902."

Like all of the oil man's gifts to educational institutions, this one is contingent. The college must pay off its debt of $190,000. Then it is to get $250,000, or half the Rockefeller donation. Then the college must raise $250,000 more for endowment funds. To this Mr. Rockefeller will add $250,000, making the total gift of $500,000. The second half of the fund will be paid by Mr. Rockefeller in twenty-five thousand dollar installments, as the treasurer of the college receives the contingent money in equal amounts. There is no time limit attached to any part of the endowment.

None of the Teachers' college trustees or officials has any doubt about their ability to raise the contingent money. The board of trustees met yesterday and accepted Mr. Rockefeller's gift. There were only eight of the trustees at the meeting, and after the gift was accepted they subscribed $20,000 toward the payment of the college debt of $190,000. There is on hand $20,000 which can be turned toward paying the debt, so the college has only to raise $150,000 in order to secure the first $250,000 from Mr. Rockefeller.

As for raising the second $250,000 the college officials have less doubt than they have about raising the amount of their indebtedness. In fact, they have already subscribed about $100,000 for their endowment fund. They say it is much easier to raise $250,000 for endowment purposes than $50,000 to pay indebtedness.

Dean Russell, who made public the announcement of Mr. Rockefeller's gift, said that Mr. Rockefeller is very much interested in the education of the poor children of the southern states. During the last year the normal colleges of the southern states have sent to the Teachers' college of Columbia university eighteen pupils to be educated for teachers in the south.

Governor Odell in Rochester.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Governor Odell was given an enthusiastic welcome on his arrival in the Flower City last night. He came from Auburn, arriving at 6 o'clock. He was escorted to the Powers hotel, where, after dinner, an informal reception was held. Fitzhugh hall, where the meeting was held, was crowded to its capacity, admission being by ticket. Senator Depew accompanied the governor as well as a number of prominent Republicans of western New York.

Judge Harlan Ended Class Fight.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Justice Harlan of the United States supreme court, who is a member of the faculty of the Columbian university law school in this city, interfered and prevented a class fight between the freshmen and sophomores. Justice Harlan is a giant in stature, and, although sixty-nine years of age, he is still vigorous and active, golf being one of his daily exercises. The youngsters were no match for him when he entered the arena.

Two Killed at a Crossing.

GREENFIELD, Mass., Oct. 24.—Joseph Wallace and James Moriarity, two Guilford (Vt.) farmers, each about sixty-five years of age, were instantly killed at the Allen street crossing of the Boston and Maine railroad, just outside of this town, their vehicle being struck by the northbound Montreal express. The men were driving home. The express was stopped and the bodies brought back to Greenfield station.

A Successful Convention.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 24.—The Disciples of Christ have just ended one of the most encouraging and best attended religious conventions ever held. More than 7,000 delegates were registered, and probably 5,000 others were visitors to this city. Probably no session was attended by less than 2,000, and several attendances saw from 10,000 to 12,000 persons gathered at the Coliseum.

Will Try to End Strike.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—It has been semi-officially announced that Premier Combes in deference to the desire of the chamber of deputies and the government will use his influence to secure a pacific solution of the coal strike. He will open negotiations with the mine owners and the striking miners with the view of having the matter arbitrated.

Dockers Vote to Resume Work.

DUNKIRK, France, Oct. 24.—At a meeting held here the striking dock laborers voted to resume work and by acclamation agreed to unload the cargoes of all vessels now here, including coal. The general commanding the First army corps, together with four guns, has arrived here. Soldiers are guarding all public buildings.

THE SITUATION.

From an impartial viewpoint it cannot but be seen that the Democracy has come to the fore in North Plainfield this year as it never has in many years past. From the general trend of conversation, such a state of affairs has long been suspected but it required last evening's demonstration to show that the Democrats are out in unusual force this year.

Last evening's meeting really opened up the active campaign in North Plainfield. There has been some quiet work going on but the Democrats fired the first gun and have opened up their regular headquarters with the idea of continuing the campaign so auspiciously begun last evening. Other meetings will probably follow and the activity continued right up to election day.

The heartiest reception for any of the county candidates was undoubtedly that given to Samuel S. Childs, who is the Senatorial rival of J. S. Frelinghuysen. Mr. Frelinghuysen is not a remarkably popular candidate in North Plainfield even in the ranks of his own party and, from present appearances, it is there that the Democrats will make their greatest fight. Mr Childs has made a good run before but his reception last evening gave evidence that it will be better this year than before.

Somerset county has a normal Republican majority if the Republicans all vote for the Republican candidates but, as has happened several times in the past, they occasionally drift away in sufficient numbers to allow a victory for their opponents. It seems hardly likely that the entire Democratic ticket will be victorious this year although such a thing is possible. It is, however, the best opportunity the Democrats have had for many years and an impartial view of the situation looks like a close fight with an equal chance either way.

The man who shot down a policeman at Elizabeth as the latter was escorting him to police headquarters and tried to escape in broad daylight, must have had supreme confidence in himself and a singular disbelief in the bravery of the rest of his fellow men. How he could have expected to escape is incomprehensible. This fact should not interfere with his swift punishment, however. The cold-blooded attempt to kill an officer of the law in such fashion deserves condign punishment and without delay.

The Plainfield High School is the last of the local schools to make its entry into journalism but, from the plans made for its coming publication, it promises to be a more elaborate entry than that made by any of the others. There seems no reason why the City High School should not support a bright little paper and its efforts in that direction will be watched with much interest.

The State Fair which has been an annual institution at Syracuse, New York, for many years, has this year surpassed all records as to attendance, remarks the Philadelphia Record. In one day 50,000 paid admissions were registered. The managers explain that this was due to the heavy advertising in the newspapers all over the State, which was tried for the first time.

There was an abundance of Democratic oratory loose in city and borough last evening. It might have done more good for the cause of Democracy if it had been distributed a trifle more evenly. It furnished Greater Plainfield with at least one lively night in the campaign, however. Think of it, two street parades!

There will be a miniature carnival of sport at Hope Common tomorrow afternoon when the baseball game between the Plainfield Consolidated and Westfield teams and the football match between the Alis A. A. and the Corinthian A. C., of Staten Isalnd, will both be played on the same field at the same time.

The local Republicans really do not feel the need of any meetings here but they are going to give the people a peep at Congressman Fowler and the county candidates. It is said that Assemblyman Hall has actually decided to be of the party even if the weather is cold up in Plainfield.

Duss, the builder of Economy and the leader of one of the greatest bands in the world, paid a visit to Plainfield yesterday and was well received. He is the first of a number of celebrities who are booked to make their appearance at the Casino this fall and winter.

William E. MacClymont has been responsible for a number of delightful musical affairs which have been held in this city in the past and he is now planning for another which promises to be fully as enjoyable as any of the others.

SMASHED WINDOWS.

So Marshal Campbell Relieved Small Boys of Dangerous Toys.

There have been a number of complaints received lately from people residing in the vicinity of the school building in North Plainfield on account of the large number of windows which have been broken by small boys and catapults.

Yesterday morning when the boys were on their way to school Marshal William Campbell met them and relieved a number of youngsters of their dangerous toys.

Cafe Service on Jersey Central.

Arrangements have been perfected by the New Jersey Central for a cafe service on several of its Philadelphia hourly trains. The trains leaving foot of Liberty street at 7 a. m., 1 p. m. and 6 p. m., will have this new cafe equipment, and steaks, chops, broilers and hashed brown potatoes will be added to the a la carte bill of fare. The 8 a. m. and 12 m. and 5 p. m. trains from Philadelphia will have the same service and the details will be perfect in every respect. c

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

At a meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church, held Tuesday evening at the home of Charles Dunham, the following officers were elected to serve for the year: President, Frank E. Touzeau; recording secretary, Charles C. Dunham; treasurer, Miss Eva Schneider; corresponding secretary, Joel DeGroff. Appointments were also made to heads of the various departments. Some time was passed socially afterwards.

The Board of Directors of the Building Loan met last evening for their regular monthly session. Routine business only came before the meeting.

Tomorrow the members of the Middlesex Bowling Club will hold their first meeting for the season, on their greens at Christian Schepflin's place.

The personal effects of the late Henry Gaskill will be disposed of at public auction this afternoon. George W. Day will act as auctioneer.

Miss Nellie Vail has entirely recovered from her attack of diphtheria and the quarantine will be removed from the house tomorrow.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Methodist church, met with Mrs. Arthur Vail on Wednesday afternoon.

Court Dunellen, I. O. F., will hold its regular bi-weekly meeting on Monday evening.

Mrs. Clement Dixon, of Plainfield, is spending the week with Mrs. B. Siriski.

Mrs. O. M. Mitchell is spending a few days with friends in Whitehouse.

Dr. P. W. Brakeley is Republican committeeman for the coming year.

The macadamization of Chestnut street will be commenced shortly.

The Board of Register will meet in the borough hall next Tuesday.

W. J. Winges and W. H Taylor have left on a trip to the west.

Fred Wilcox, of Westfield, spent yesterday with friends in town.

Sydney Craig has been confined to his home by illness.

Charles Gaskill is enjoying his vacation this week.

NEW MARKET.

As usual the township was the purchaser of all the land disposed of at public sale Friday by Collector W. J. Nelson.

Rev. Frank Fletcher will exchange pulpits with Rev. G. M. Shott, of Scotch Plains, on Sunday.

Mrs. Foster Sofield is entertaining Mrs. Frank Sofield, of Port Richmond, this week.

The driveway of Abram Nelson's place has been improved by crushed stone.

George Leonard is confined to his home by a slight illness.

James Butler has rented one of the Hollin houses.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Friday evening prayer meeting of the Baptist church will be held tonight. If the weather is cold, the meetings will be held at the parsonage. This change has been made necessary by the recent coal strike. The church was among the majority who were left without coal and are anxiously awaiting for the local dealers to procure a needed supply.

Mrs. John L. Spencer, who died at Westfield, Tuesday, was a former well known resident of the village, having occupied the Loftus Hollingsworth property on Johnston's Drive for years.

Miss Sadie Reger, of the corps of teachers in the public school, entertained the pupils of the high and grammar grades of the school at her home yesterday afternoon.

Miss Ruth Hendrickson will give a lecture on "Posters" in the Fanwood fire house, Tuesday evening, for the benefit of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Episcopal church.

The members of the kindergarten department of the school enjoyed a pleasant outing on the mountains near the town Thursday afternoon in search of autumn leaves.

L. L. Block and family, who have been residents of the village for the past year, have removed to Dunellen where Mr. Block has secured a position.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., held an interesting meeting in the Library rooms last night. Considerable routine business was transacted.

A number of the Democratic voters from town attended the Democratic rally at Reform Hall last night.

A number from town attended the Duss band concert at the Casino, Plainfield, yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Chas. Bennett and son, of Rahway, were the guest yesterday of friends in town.

Miss Osborn, of Westfield, was the guest Thursday of Miss Little.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Rev. L. E. Livermore, of New Market, will preach at the Baptist church here, Sunday morning, at the regular service. The pastor will supply the Park Avenue Baptist church, Plainfield.

A horse belonging to Mr. Delafield took fright while standing at the depot yesterday noon and ran as far as Plainfield. Fortunately no damage was done.

The quarterly business meeting of the Baptist church will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. The attendance of members is desired.

Charles Brantingham and George Smith attended the fair held by the P. O. S. of A., at New Brunswick, Wednesday evening.

William H. Clawson met with an accident yesterday from the flying of a piece of wood in his eye, while cutting wood.

J. A. Cubberley will conduct the meeting at New Durham chapel tonight.

TenEyck & Harris are carting considerable coke for fuel.

PROGRESS ON DRAW.

Changes to Newark Bay Bridge Going Forward Without Interruption.

Despite the unfavorable weather conditions the work incident to the raising of the tracks on Newark Bay draw has progressed witnout interruption. The labor has been performed by the employes of the bridge department of the New Jersey Central, and the time involved in raising the westbound track was two weeks and two days.

The length of single track across the bridge has been reduced to one quarter of its former distance, or just sufficient to accommodate the work of building the piers. The piling upon which the piers will be founded are being driven, and upon the completion of which the caissons will be placed in position, and the concrete foundation built.

The caissons are constructed of solid 12x12 timbers four feet in thickness. A tremendous amount of difficult labor is attached to this work, and notwithstanding the difficulties encountered, everything has progressed without a hitch and traffic has not been delayed, as every possible precaution has been taken by the New Jersey Central management to avoid delays and hindrances.

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. Its attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquifies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures cough, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. F. S. McMahon, Hampton, Ga.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." L. W. Randolph.

THEATRICAL.

The reappearance of Carl Hagenbeck's trained animals from Hamburg, Germany, after an absence of eight years, has proved of general interest to the amusement-lovers of New York and vicinity. As a consequence the New York Theater, Forty-fourth street and Broadway, has been doing a land office business. What at first was intended as a limited engagement promises to be extended many weeks. Carl Hagenbeck, the pioneer animal dealer, and today the most successful man in that line in the world, has trained many groups, but none that approach his latest importation to America. The collection embraces nearly 200 lions, tigers, leopards pumas, panthers, Polar bears, dogs, monkeys, goats, seals, sea lions and birds. The exhibition is divided into six parts and furnishes over two hours solid entertainment, with more thrills than a melo-drama and as much comedy as the best of farces. Of particular interest is Herman Boger's exhibition with three lions, three tigers, two pumas, two leopards, two Polar bears, five German boar hounds and one hybrid (half lion and half tiger). The last named animal, Prince, has attracted much attention and been the topic of much scientific discussion. He is the first of his kind ever brought to this country and one of the three known to natural history. All of the animals are perfect specimens, and have been marvelously well-trained. The exhibition taken as a whole, is a well-rounded and meritorious entertainment. No pains have been spared to make it the most unique thing of the kind in the world. Special care is given the women and children attending the Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

Another House.

In addition to the two houses on Webster place, which J. B. Mills will build for the owner, he will also erect a $4,500 house on Johnston avenue, near Second street. Work will begin next week.

THE PANGS OF LOVE.

Many Men Have Been Driven by Them to Madness.

Romances in the Careers of Hermits Who Led Sordid and Secluded Lives—Driven to Despair by Bitterness of Failure.

Not many years ago there died in a western village a man of the name of Newman, who for more than half a century lived entirely alone in a small cottage, never mixing with his fellows unless absolutely compelled. In his old age, from personal neglect, he became a singularly repellant man, from whom the village children ran away in fright; and when at last he died the only feeling expressed by his neighbors was one of gladness and relief.

And yet this most wretched of old men had had his romance and days when life seemed a glad thing and full of promise. Suspended from his neck was found an ancient locket containing the portraits of a sweet-faced girl and a frank, handsome young man, and hidden away at the bottom of a trunk was a bundle of faded love letters tied with a ribbon. From these pathetic memorials it was clear that the hermit had in his youth known all the thrills of loving and the pains of losing; but the secret of his romance lies buried with him.

In the early '70's there was living in a town in eastern Pennsylvania a well known miser of the name of Nicholls a sour faced shrunken man, of whose history nothing was known beyond the fact that he had come to the town when the oldest inhabitants were children, and that he was rarely seen outside his cottage, where his simple wants were attended to by a woman as old apparently as himself. It was only at his death that something of his early history became known. When he was a young man, studying for the law in Philadelhia, he had fallen in love with the daughter of the attorney to whom he was articled, and his suit so far prospered that an engagement was entered into. After he had qualified and had commenced practice in a neighboring town the day for his wedding was fixed.

All the preparations had been made for the event which was to crown his happiness, when on the eve of his wedding day he received a note from his fiancee saying that she loved another more than himself and declaring that she could not marry him.

This unexpected shock so seriously affected him that brain fever supervened, and for a time his life was in danger, and on his recovery he retired from his practice and the world into the hermitage where he spent the remainder of his life. With a perverse loyalty he cherished to the last the memory of the girl who had deceived him, and directed that her portrait and the letters he had received from her should be buried with him.

There is something strangely pathetic about these love stories of hermits. A singularly touching case of loyalty came within the knowledge of the writer when he was living in a small English town. One of the inhabitants of the town and a near neighbor was an old gentleman who for over 40 years had lived alone in the same house, rarely leaving it except once a day for a pilgrimage to a churchyard in an adjacent village. During all these years, in the heat of summer and in the storms and cold of winter, Mr. M— had never once been known to miss this daily journey or fail to take with him a few flowers to lay on the grave of the girl who had won his heart so long ago. She had died tragically within a few hours of the day appointed for their wedding and during all those years, the lover had shut himself as far as possible from the world and had lived only for her memory. Every room in his house had its memorials of the ill-fated girl, from portraits and her favorite books to the veil and wreath which she was to have worn as a bride.

Busy Town in a Crater.

About 20,000 people live in the crater of an extinct volcano, 30 miles from Kumamoto, Japan. They dwell in this pit-like town, surrounded by a vertical wall 800 feet high. The inhabitants rarely make a journey into the outer world, and practically form a little community all by themselves.

THE WOMAN IN BLACK.

Weird Apparition Startles the Superstitious Residents of a Philadelphia Suburb.

Wilkie Collins' famous "Woman in White," who has thrilled thousands of readers by her strange adventures, has a fair rival near Willow Grove, Philadelphia. The stranger who has terrorized scores of pleasure-seekers in Montgomery county is described as a stately woman of prepossessing appearance, who dresses in deep black. Overlook avenue, near Willow Grove, is the thoroughfare selected by the supposed mysterious shade for her phantasmagorical perambulations.

The mysterious female wears a long black cloak, falling to her feet, and the hood of this garment is always drawn close about her head. Her dress, according to eye witnesses, is like that worn by the stately dame of generations long since gone. The cloak and hood are of decided colonial cut and pattern.

On Friday night, according to witnesses, the beautiful phantom appeared on Overlook avenue, meandering slowly and apparently in deep contemplation. On one side of the thoroughfare is a thickly wooded tract of land belonging to W. W. Frazer, and on the other side a blacksmith shop. George Dray and Clayton Hawks, who work in the smithy, allege that they have seen the woman many times before. When she passed the blacksmith's shop Dray stepped up to her and politely raising his cap, said: "Madam, you must enjoy walking the road late at night." The alleged shade vouchsafed no reply, but scurried into the darkness.

Determined to fathom the mystery, Dray fearlessly pursued the woman. In relating his experience he stated that he pursued the figure for half a mile, when it mysteriously disappeared in Frazer's woods. With cold beads of perspiration on his brow Dray returned to the smithy and related his experience to Hawks. Calvin Beck, a resident of Overlook avenue, says he saw the woman a few nights before. Frank Frease, another resident, also encountered the beautiful shade. He says that he discerned the faint outlines of the figure on his lawn. Frease alleges that she remained in one position for nearly three-quarters of an hour, gazing pensively into the sky.

HE COULDN'T BREATHE.

Rope Choked Him and Consequently Pat Declined to Finish a Job of Suicide.

Pat had come over to America with the expectation of finding money lying around loose, only waiting for some one to pick it up. Of course, says the

"SURE AN' I THRIED THOT."

New York Sun, this was long ago. Pat had soon become disillusioned and was always glad to get hold of odd jobs which would net him a little something to help him keep body and soul together. Finally, becoming tired of the struggle, he decided to end it all, and was industriously tying a rope around his waist when his landlord happened in on him. After watching him curiously for a few minutes, he asked:

"What's up, Pat? What are you trying to do?"

"Troyin' to choke meself, av coorse," was Pat's answer.

"Choke yourself? You can't do it that way. You'll have to put the rope around your neck."

"Sure an' I throied thot, but I couldn't breathe."

Lubricated the Infant.

The other day, says the Liberty (Mo.) Advance, Paul Hunt saw his mother oiling her machine. He asked her why she did it. She told him she oiled the machine to keep it from screaking. Soon afterward she heard the baby crying, and Paul had poured oil in its eyes, nose, mouth, and ears. She asked him why he did it, and he replied: "To keep it from screaking."

USEFUL COSTUMES.

What to Wear When Automobiling. Street Costume.

Very chic costumes are being made for automobile wear. The most useful have skirts that clear the ground a couple of inches. With these suits a flannel waist is a necessity, and over this should be worn one of two long coats, a light one lined with silk or a heavier one lined with serviceable fur.

The prettiest hats for automobile wear are made of glace silk, for the dust can easily be wiped off without injury to this fabric. Some of the smartest models are made after the fashion of a yachting cap, with the ends tying under the chin.

A gauze or chiffon veil is a necessity, as dust or wind are ruin to the complexion. It is well to remember that one cannot be too warm on an automobile, and the fun of rushing through air counts as nothing when one's teeth are chattering with cold. The cap should, if possible, match the long coat.

The illustration shows a pretty brown tailor made. It is made with a double breasted Eton jacket and is worn over a full waist of lace. The skirt has a graduated flounce. The entire costume is trimmed with strappings of a lighter brown. The hat is light brown trimmed with dark brown velvet and cherries. JUDIC CHOLLET.

MILLINERY NOTES.

White Hairy Felt All the Style. Flower Hats.

Hats of rough white felt are all the style. These hats are not only worn with tailor mades, but even with very dressy gowns. The felt is hairy, and the shapes are wider than last year and turn up a little all the way round.

GOWN OF HELIOTROPE CLOTH.

They are trimmed with white wings and wide panne ribbon wound around the crown carelessly.

Hats of rough white felt trimmed with ermine will be among the winter novelties.

Hats all made of sable are trimmed very simply with scarfs of reddish tan lace. The ends hang a little over the brim in the back.

Hairy beavers of all dimensions, but principally wide, are smart, as are also hats of cut plush. While white predominates, pale gray and black are also being worn in these felt hats. Some of them are trimmed with scarfs of Persian panne run through a jeweled buckle.

Flower hats, principally in reds and pale blues, are very pretty and have for their sole trimmings a knot of velvet ribbon.

The gown in the cut is of heliotrope cloth, trimmed with white cloth and braid. JUDIC CHOLLET.

COPYRIGHT 1898 BY A. N. KELLOGG NEWSPAPER CO.

"I am a detective," he said, in a low voice. "Hendricks is my name."

"Minard Hendricks?" exclaimed the clerk, in astonishment, his tone and manner suddenly apologetic. "I had no idea—"

"It is most important that I should have a look into Caruthers' apartment," broke in the detective. "Don't say a word to anyone, but get a pass key, and show my friend and myself up there right away."

The clerk nodded, a flurried expression on his face. Getting a key, he came from behind the counter and started towards the elevator.

"Not that way," objected Hendricks, detaining him. "Can't we go up the rear stairs?"

"Sure," said the clerk. "It's only one flight." And he piloted them to the stairs behind the cloakroom. "You'll find the apartments just as Mr. Caruthers left them. His valet said that his master had written him that the room must not be disturbed by anyone."

Hendricks paused on the stair.

"Did Mr. Caruthers not inform his man that he was going away?" he asked.

"No; you see Mr. Caruthers' man is married and lives on the west side. He happened to have a day off and did not know what had become of his master till he got the letter."

"I see," remarked Hendricks, and he started on again.

Reaching the door opening into Caruthers' apartments, the clerk unlocked it and led them in. The first chamber was a private sitting-room, the dainty pieces of French furniture, draperies and rugs being in perfect order.

"The gas is burning," observed Hendricks, looking up at the cut-glass globes.

"As I said, no one has been in the rooms since Mr. Caruthers went away."

"Not even his valet?" asked the detective.

"It looks so, or surely he would have extinguished the gas. It seems to be burning in the next room too."

This chamber was a large luxurious bedroom, and as they entered it Lampkin's imagination prepared itself for a horrible spectacle. To his great relief, however, everything here was also in perfect order. The white lace coverlet lay as smoothly as newly fallen snow, and the sheets and pillows looked as if they had never been used. The clerk now with a look of growing curiosity, if not of incipient horror, stooped down and looked under the bed.

"Nothing there," he said. Then his attitude grew more serious, as he went to the large closets one by one and opened the doors. "There is the bathroom yet," he remarked, with a shudder, his mind perhaps busy with a bit of French history or some recent American horror. "It's getting mighty common nowadays to commit bloody crimes in bathrooms. Do you suspect foul play, sir?"

"You are going entirely too fast," said Hendricks, in a curt tone. "Every matter I choose to investigate need not necessarily be a bloody one." He smiled and added to Lampkin: "My reputation among the people is as red as cranberry sauce."

The clerk bore the reproof with becoming humility. He made no reply and hung back till the detective had opened the door leading to the bathroom. Here the gas was burning also, and the small chamber, with its polished tiled floor and glistening porcelain walls, revealed no hint of bloodshed.

The face of the clerk fell; his appetite for sensation was not to be fed on this occasion.

"What time did Mr. Caruthers leave the hotel the night he left?" Hendricks asked him.

"I really don't know, sir," said the clerk. "I am pretty sure he did not mention it at the office, and that is customary among our guests. That is why I thought there might have been some underhand—"

"Leave your pass key with me," interrupted the detective, coldly. "My friend and I want to have a little private talk. When you go down, don't mention our being here."

The clerk reluctantly laid the key on a table.

"I'll not give it away, sir." He moved slowly towards the door. "If you want anything, ring. I'll be on the lookout, and will run up myself."

"Good," said Hendricks, "you are very kind."

The detective followed him to the outer door and closed it after him. Then he came back into the bedroom.

"I hope this is only a hoax, after all," observed the doctor. "What are you going to do next?"

Hendricks shrugged his broad shoulders; it amounted to a shudder.

"We are going to look through those trunks—for a trunk and the rest."

"Is it really so bad as that?"

"My blasted premonition—which faculty in my make-up has always been a mystery to me—has hold of me with its four claws," said Hendricks. "I can't explain it, doctor, but the minute I entered that door and saw the gas burning so brightly I felt murder in the air. Sometimes on a day like this—at a crisis like this—I imagine that the spirit of the murdered man lingers round the spot where he lost his life to try to give me a clew."

Lampkin shuddered as the detective laid hold of the nearest steamer-trunk and began to unstrap it. It was empty save for some clothing in the bottom. The next trunk was a large square one, and its lock for several minutes resisted the efforts of the detective to unfasten it. Finally, however, aided by a key of his own, and no little experience in such matters, Hendricks released the brass hasp and it fell down with a sharp click.

This trunk, also, contained nothing of a suspicious nature, and the same results were produced by a careful examination of two other trunks stored in the bathroom and a dress-suit case of heavy leather which was found in one of the closets.

"Ah, I certainly feel better," cried Lampkin, a triumphant ring in his voice.

"I don't," ejaculated Hendricks, with one of his massive frowns, which always made his great brow resemble a miniature jutting crag.

"And why?"

"Because my anonymous correspondent says I shall find the remains of Weldon Caruthers in these apartments, and I believe on my soul he meant what he said."

"But that man downstairs said Caruthers' valet has received a communication from his master in Philadelphia."

"I'll bet my life it was forged."

Lampkin started, and then he gazed into the detective's eyes steadily.

"I can't follow you, and I won't try. Your mind darts out after things I never would dream of. Do you think you may find a trace of the missing man here?"

"If my thinker would operate smoothly." This with a forced grin. "My trip to Boston has fagged me out. I am not normal. But it will not surprise me to find out that the same man wrote to the valet that wrote to me."

"If so you have a deep villain to deal with."

"As deep as the crucible of hell can turn out."

The detective sat down in a chair near the bed and, taking from his pocket the anonymous letter, he studied it in silence. After a minute he said, reflectively:

"You will observe he does not say I shall find the body of Caruthers here, but the remains, and he has underscored the word heavily. Furthermore, he boasts of the skill with which the crime has been accomplished; that, old man, means something."

"But it seems to me that you have looked into every possible nook and cranny," said the doctor.

As if under a sudden inspiration Hendricks sprang up, and going to the bed he pushed aside the silken curtains of the canopy, turned down the sheets and doubled up the mattress. Then he drew himself up and began to examine the bric-a-brac about the room. He thumped with his knuckles a marble statue of Venus de Milo in a corner, and then stood still in the center of the room and stared at the articles of ornament on the mantel-piece. He walked slowly backward to the doctor and laid a hand on his shoulder, and pointed to a large covered Japanese vase, shaped like an ancient urn.

"Doctor," he said, "the man who selected all the bric-a-brac in this room did not select that vase."

"It does seem a little out of harmony," admitted Lampkin. "Rather cheaper than the rest, don't you think?"

"It is a disgrace to such a collection," returned the detective, "besides it has been crowded in between those beautiful bronze pieces. Old man, I have an idea."

Lampkin said nothing as he watched his friend place a chair near the mantel-piece and mount it. The chair raised the detective so high that the cover of the vase was on a level with his chin. Hendricks removed the cover and looked into the vessel.

Lampkin saw him pick up something inside the vase, examine it and lay it back. For a moment the detective stood, his back to the doctor, a hand on either side of the vessel. Then he lifted it, cautiously stepped down to the floor, and placed it on the table.

"Prepare to be horrified, old man," he said, grimly. "It is here."

Lampkin started. "You don't mean—"

"You needn't look unless you want to," frowned the detective. "But our arch fiend has actually cremated the body of Caruthers, leaving only the jeweled hand of his victim to prevent there being any doubt as to the identity of the ashes. It was cremation; I know bone ashes when I see them."

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $300 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods. If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

THE RAILROAD BROTHERHOOD PAY.

Southern Pacific Railway Roads Are Dissatisfied.

OAKLAND, Cal., Oct. 24.—According to interviews with heads of railroad unions and union members, a demand will be made upon the Southern Pacific within the next thirty days for increased wages which will affect more than 30,000 employees. Both the men and union officials are loath to speak of their plans and purposes, but admitted that a concerted demand is being made not only upon the Southern Pacific company, but upon twenty-two other roads west of Chicago, for increased wages. During the last six months the membership of the United Brotherhood of Railway Employees among Southern Pacific employees has increased more than 100 per cent.

It is estimated that before the first of the year on the Southern Pacific system alone there will be 25,000 members.

The chief cause of the demand is the increased cost of living. They also recite that all the railroads are doing from one-fourth to one-third more business now than formerly and that their profits are correspondingly larger.

The third reason given is that owing to the heavier equipment in use by nearly all the railroads the employees are compelled to do more work than formerly.

Munsey Buys Boston Journal.

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Frank A. Munsey of New York has bought from Stephen O'Meara and his associates all the stock of the Journal Newspaper company, which owns and publishes the Boston Morning, Evening and Sunday Journal. Mr. Munsey will develop the property extensively in all departments and directions, the new Journal building, which is almost ready for occupancy, aiding materially to that end. Mr. Charles M. Palmer, the newspaper broker of New York, who also represented Mr. Munsey in his purchase of the Washington Times and the New York News, says that this purchase is in line with Mr. Munsey's policy of establishing a chain of strong newspapers under one ownership at important points throughout the country. Mr. O'Meara's relations to the Journal will remain unchanged except in respect of ownership.

Prince Chowfa at West Point.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 24.—The government steamboat Dolphin, carrying the crown prince of Siam and his suit, anchored off West Point early yesterday afternoon. The prince's party was immediately brought ashore in a small boat. As the craft left the Dolphin a salute of twenty-one guns was fired from the ship's deck, and the Siamese colors were run up. At the wharf the prince was met by Colonel Mills and his staff. General Fred D. Grant also was with the receiving officers. A troop of cavalry acted as escort, and as the guests started across the plain a salute was fired. The battalion of cadets was drawn up in line in front of the barracks, and a grand review followed. The prince was conducted through the academic buildings, the library and other departments.

New Spanish Minister Presented.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Senor Don Emilio de Ojeda, the recently appointed minister of Spain to the United States, has formally presented his credentials to President Roosevelt. Accompanied by the first secretary of the Spanish legation, Minister Ojeda was received at the White House by Secretary of State John Hay, who conducted him directly to the president. After the usual exchange of felicitous addresses the president and Senor Ojeda chatted pleasantly for a few minutes.

BOER LEADERS QUARREL.

De Wet, Botha and Delarey Slight Lady Cook's Invitation.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Lady Cook (who was Tennessee Claflin) gave a dinner here last night in honor of the Boer commanders now in London. Generals De Wet, Botha and Delarey were not able to be present, but Lady Cook's guests included General Malan, Commandants Fouche and Kritzinger and Sir Hiram Maxim.

The failure of Generals De Wet, Botha and Delarey to attend Lady Cook's dinner is supposed to be connected with quarrels which have arisen between them. They were all sightseeing in London during the day, and up to the last moment they were expected at Lady Cook's.

It is reported that General De Wet wants the tour of the generals, including the trip to the United States, to be abandoned and that all three are disappointed at the financial results so far obtained. General Botha, however, is said to be anxious to make a further effort to collect funds. A warm discussion on this point is believed to have occurred between Generals De Wet and Botha. General Delarey is said to have remained neutral in the matter. General De Wet's presence is considered necessary for the success of the tour, and if he persists in returning to South Africa it is not unlikely that the whole tour will be abandoned.

TO GET OUT OF SHANGHAI.

Powers Agree to Evacuate the City Soon.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—It is learned that France, Great Britain and Germany have concluded an agreement providing for the military evacuation of Shanghai by their forces. The negotiations have also brought about an important extension of the open door policy, as urged by Secretary Hay. The agreement affects not only Shanghai, but the entire Yangtsekiang valley, which the powers are seeking to develop for commercial purposes.

The date of the evacuation is still open, but a leading official of the foreign office expressed the belief that it will undoubtedly be accomplished by Jan. 1. About 12,000 troops will participate in the evacuation, each power having furnished about an equal number of troops since the Chinese crisis became acute.

Large Sum For Missions.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 24.—The sum of $300,000 was raised in the Methodist missionary convention last night for mission work. The contributions were made in the auditorium of the convention hall, the Grays' armory. The scenes during the raising of the money were of the greatest enthusiasm. The subscriptions were called for at the end of two fine addresses by S. Earl Taylor, field secretary of the Epworth league, New York city, and John R. Mott, leader of the student movement throughout the world. Immediately afterward Bishop Thoburn arose and, speaking from a chair, said that he was authorized to state if the conference would subscribe $150,000 that he had $100,000 pledged by a gentleman whose name he would not disclose. Thereupon the collectors began to receive the returns from the cards, and it was a fusillade of contributions that was heard from the recording secretary's desk. Amounts ranging from $5,000 (the gift of an unnamed woman in Boston) down to small sums of money were heard for nearly two hours.

Merger Hearing Adjourned.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 24.—The hearing in this city by Special Examiner F. G. Ingersoll, appointed to take testimony in the suit of the United States against the Northern Securities company, the Great Northern Railway company, the Northern Pacific Railway company and others under the Sherman antitrust law, was concluded late yesterday and an adjournment taken to New York Nov. 10, when the examination of several witnesses residing in or about that city will begin. The hearing in this city has lasted four days, Presidents Hill of the Great Northern, Harris of the Burlington and Mellen of the Northern Pacific being the principal witnesses.

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE GRIDIRON.

Rain or shine, there is going to be a football game on Hope Common tomorrow afternoon. The Alis A. A. has been particularly unfortunate this season on account of so many rainy Saturdays and the consequent postponement of games. Manager H. A. Chandor now declares that there will be no disappointment this week even if it is necessary to charter a fleet of boats to navigate the field. He has arranged with the Corinthian A. C., one of the strongest teams on Staten Island, to play and a good game is assured. It will start at 3:30 o'clock. While the Alis boys have had no chance to play, they have been practising regularly and will meet for that purpose again tonight. Several changes have been made in the lineup which promises to increase the effectiveness of the combination.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Manager McLaughlin, of the Consolidated team, announces the batting order for tomorrow's game with Westfield as follows:

Barnes, rf.
Lederer, lf.
Bolsterli, ss.
Martin, 2b.
Montross and McLaughlin, p.
Allen, c.
Cooney, 3b.
Taylor, cf.
Egan, 1b.

The game will be twenty-five cents to the grandstand and fifteen cents field.

FOR THE BOYS.

Reception Given to Members of the Boys Department of the Y. M. C. A. Last Evening.

A reception was tendered the members of the boy's department of the Young Men's Christian Association last evening by the secretary, Kenneth Robbie, which proved to be a very enjoyable affair.

Francis A. Anderson presided. The Boys' Musical Club was present and rendered several very excellent selections as did Martin G. Stutsman. L. H. Biglow, Jr., of the boys' work committee, announced that F. A. Anderson had won the prize of $2 for the best design of a badge for the members of that department. The design submitted by Weston Gavett won favorable mention.

Stephen Cahoone, the president of the association, made a short address on the work of the department and also spoke of the work of the future. Secretary Robbie made a few brief remarks along these same lines.

After the exercises the visitors inspected the rooms of the boy's department on the top floor which were handsomely decorated for the occasion. Refreshments were served during the evening

A special committee was appointed to receive the guests and comprised: Arthur Lambert, Ray Woodhull, Fred Martin and Edmund Templin.

MASS-MEETING IN THE CITY

ago before the Republican party gained control.

He was followed by one of the principal speakers of the evening, Edward M. Shepard, of New York, who was Mayor Low's opponent in the recent municipal election. He is a forceful speaker and presented his arguments with a vim that commanded close attention. After getting his audience into good humor by several jocular remarks, he plunged deep into the question of tariff and this formed the greater part of his theme. He quoted figures relative to its merits and demerits, referring in particular to the rebates given big shippers, and the exemption of coal and beef. Andrew Carnegie came in for some attention and he was referred to as "the man who was making donations to the people after he had taken it from them in other ways."

A typical southern orator, Congressman John Williams, of Mississippi, followed and gave what was considered to be the best talk of the evening. It was replete with humorous ancedotes but withal he spoke clearly on the tariff subject, laying stress on the fact that American made goods could be imported from England cheaper than they could be purchased direct from the manufacturers in this country. He quoted shoes, steel rails and machinery as some of the products of America that were being sold to foreigners cheaper than dealers in the United States could buy them. He appealed to the voters to change such laws which allow it and also predicted a great victory for the Democrats the coming fall and also in 1904.

Owing to the lateness of the hour George R. Tennent, of Jersey City, who was slated to speak, merely introduced himself to the audience after Congressman Williams concluded and refrained from making an address. Brief remarks were also made by candidates Chas. H. Moore, for sheriff, LeRoy A. Gibby, for surrogate, and Charles L. Moffett, for assembly.

PERSONAL.

Miss Margery Hart, of Duer street, went to Castleton, Staten Island, this morning, for a few days.

Mrs. Seymour G. Smith has just returned from Franklin, N. Y., where she has been to attend the marriage of her niece, Miss Emma Proctor Smith, to Seymour N. Marsh, of Brooklyn, formerly of Plainfield.

Mrs. H. C. VanEmburgh, who has been detained at the home of her parents in Elizabeth for some time past on account of an operation, has returned to Plainfield. With the assistance of a cane she is able to walk exceedingly well and with little difficulty.

UNIFORMED COMPANY.

Captain Moore, of City High School Cadets, Put in Command.

The City High School Battalion met for drill today in the school yard. A uniformed company has been formed and placed under the command of Captain A. E. Moore and this company is rapidly becoming proficient in the manual of arms and in the company movements which took up most of the time today. The warrants of the noncommissioned officers were assigned, and Major Murphey drilled the battalion in the manual of arms.

ODD HUNTING STORY.

Tales of the Extraordinary Fate of a Wild Turkey.

Burney's Intelligent Dog Not Deceived, Though Its Master Was —A Discovery Which Surprised the Nimrod.

A good deal has been said about the extraordinary intellect of the wild turkey. Some men think that it has so much sense that it would die but for its strong constitution. A story sent to the New York Sun from Paragould, Ark., goes to show that Homer occasionally nods in turkeydom.

Dick Burney, a gunman, of Paragould, started after turkey one day, taking with him his Irish setter Bess. Bess was what he called a cracking good turkey dog. That is, she would find the trail of the bird and follow it by scent as if she were a hound, finally running upon it and flushing it into a tree, barking at it and diverting its attention while her master made a stealthy approach and used his double-barrel.

On this occasion there was slight snow on the ground and trailing promised to be good. The pair hunted for two hours without finding anything, then struck a turkey-track. It led them for two miles.

Sometimes the dog lost it on hard bare ground, but always picked it up. Because of these delays the work was slow and the turkey, which may have known that it was followed, was able to keep well ahead.

Finally the trail ran out into an old field and stopped. There was bare ground ahead, no cover on either side, and no turkey. Burney concluded that the bird had flushed here and flown a half mile.

The setter, however, who had gone on for 20 feet or so, suddenly came to a dead stop, tail, legs and head rigid, a strong point. Burney walked up to her with his gun cocked, though there was nothing to indicate the presence of game.

Five yards further on a couple of small bare trees had been felled and one lay across the other, forming a sort of V of the two trunks. They were bare of limbs. At the intersection of the trunks a hen turkey had squatted.

Its head was poked under the bottom trunk and it crouched in the blissful belief that because its head was hidden it could not be seen, as much like an ostrich as if it had been hatched in South Africa. Burney could have blown the bird to bits. He walked forward, and hearing him close behind the hen finally jerked its head back and flushed not ten feet away.

To avoid breaking it in two Burney waited until it had gone 25 yards, then held directly on it and pulled the trigger. Not a feather fell. Hastily he fired the left barrel with a like result. The turkey sailed on for a half mile and whizzed into some woods on the far side of the field.

Shoving new shells into his gun and saying things, Burney followed. The setter got to the woods before he did and disappeared. Three minutes afterward the dog was lost as well as the turkey.

Burney whistled and searched to no purpose. Concluding that the dog had become bewildered and had taken the back track for home, he gave up the chase.

Fifty yards distant was a brushy tree top that had been severed from a fallen trunk, and Burney thought that he might as well have a look into it on the chance that the turkey had hidden in it and he might get another shot. He approached the tree top, went half way around it and started into it.

There, completely shielded by the branches, was the setter, rigidly pointing, and five feet from her, on its breast, with its wings folded much as if it were crouching, was the turkey, stone dead. It had died as soon as it reached the tree top, having been hard hit with the first barrel, and the dog, strangely believing it to be alive, had not attempted to retrieve it.

LITERARY.

The November (Thanksgiving) issue of "Success' has arrived, with a long list of good things that are quite appropriate for this season. It opens with a new poem by Alfred J. Waterhouse, entitled, "An Old Thanksgiving Day," which is illustrated in an elaborate fashion by George Varian. The chief feature, however, is the first installment of a stirring fiction story by Henry Wallace Phillips, entitled, "Hiram Bennet's Gold Mine." It is the story of a young man who went west to investigate a "salted" mine. If Mr. Phillips's story holds out as entertainingly as it has begun, he will have written a thoroughly good narrative. Henry M. Stanley tells the aspirants for African fame what is still awaiting the explorer in the "Dark Continent." William Davenport Hulbert furnishes another of his fascinating animal stories in "The Mink Who Left His Native Stream." John Gilmer Speed's article, on "The Pace That Costs," a clever account of the extravagances of rich Americans, is full of interest. Burton J. Hendricks gives a goodly amount of necessary information in "The Meaning of the 'Sky-Scraper' Trust," and the women readers will find much to interest them in "When Betty Entertained," "A New Profession for Women," and "If I Were a Girl Again," the last mentioned article from the pen of Mrs. Edwin Markham. There are a number of new fiction stories, among them being "Billy Bowlegs," by Howard Fielding," "An Exploder of Excuses," by William Hamilton Osborne, and "Some Letters," by George Ethelbert Walsh. An interesting feature is "The Villain in the Nursery," a severe criticism of "Mother Goose," by La Touche Hancock.

MEETING AND SOCIAL.

Missionary Society of Grace M. E. Church Held a Meeting.

The Missionary Society, of the Grace M. E. church, held a meeting last evening at the home of Mrs. H. DeMott on Somerset street where a social time was enjoyed by the members. THOMPSON WON PRESS MEDAL

Harry G. Thompson Won All-Round Championship at City High School Field Day.

Closed Meet at Gentlemen's Driving Park Brought Out Some Hotly Contested Events—Finishes in Runs Particularly Close—The Seniors Won Relay Race.

Harry G. Thompson is the winner of the silver medal offered by The Daily Press to the all-round champion athlete of the City High School. He scored thirteen points in the closed field meet held by the High School at the Gentlemen's Driving Park yesterday afternoon. Leon Walters did next best scoring nine points, and Herbert Munro scored six points.

There were thirty-five entries for the various events, and by far the greatest number of these were for the runs. Walters, VanAuken, Munro, Miner and Conant are all runners and each race was hotly contested. Thompson, however, made all his points in field events and did especially fine work in the running broad jump, the shot put, and the hammer throw.

An interesting event was the relay race run by teams picked from the senior, junior and sophomore classes. These relay teams consisted of four men each running 220 yards, making a half mile race. The event was won by the senior class which ran a team composed of Arthur F. Conant, Alden E. Moore, Fred T. VanAuken and Vincent B. Miner. The sophomore class team, consisting of Harry G. Thompson, Howard Craig, Adam Scott and Herbert Munro finished second and the juniors' team, Francis K. Anderson, Edwin Weseman, E. Douglass Murphy, and Harold Fenno was third.

The list of events followed in order.

One hundred dash, won by Leon Walter; Herbert Munro, second; Vincent B. Miner, third. Time 11 3-5 seconds.

Running broad jump, won by Harry G. Thompson; Arthur F. Conant, second; Francis K. Anderson, third. Distance 16 ft. 2 in.

Four hundred and forty yard run, won by Leon Walters; Fred T. VanAuken, second; A. F. Conant, third. Time, 1 min. 7 3-5 sec.

Running high jump, tie between F. K. Anderson and A. F. Conant; H. G. Thompson, third. Height, 4 ft. 5¼ inches.

Two hundred and twenty yard run; won by Vincent B. Miner; Herbert Munro, second; Leon Walters, third. Time, 26 seconds.

Putting the twelve-pound shot; won by H. G. Thompson; C. C. Rocap, second; Herbert Munro, third. Distance 33 ft. 7¼ inches.

Sixty-yard run for boys of fifteen years of age or under, won by Howard Craig; Harold E. Lavelle, second; John Loizeaux, third. Time, 7 2-5 seconds.

Half mile run; won by F. T. VanAuken; Leon Walters, second; H. C. Fenno, third. Time, 3 minutes, 36 seconds.

Throwinng the hammer, won by H. G. Thompson; C. C. Rocap, second; G. A. Brakeley, third. Distance 43 feet 8 inches.

Pole vault won by H. G. Thompson, Carl Ulrich, second, Herbert Munro third. Height 5 feet 8 inches.

Class relay race, won by 1903, 1905 second, 1904 third. Time, 2 minutes 45 seconds.

Judges, Ira W. Travell, Cora Ryno, and Robert W. Meeker. Timers, Charles B. Morse and Lindsey Best. Starter, Harold W. Davis.

Following is the standing in points: H. G. Thompson, 13; L. Walters, 9; H. Munro, 6; A. F. Conant, 5½; F. T. VanAuken, 5; V. B. Miner, 4; C. C. Rocap, 4; F. K. Anderson, 3½; H. Craig, 3; C. Ulrich, 2; H. E. Lavelle, 2; G. A. Brakeley, 1; H. G. Fenno, 1; J. Loizeaux, 1.

EPWORTH LEAGUERS AT ANNIVERSARY SERVICE

League of Monroe Ave. M. E. Church Celebrated Its Birthday Last Evening.

SPECIAL SERVICE HELD

CHIEF SPEAKER WAS REV. DR. JESSE L. HURLBUT, OF MORRISTOWN.

After the Exercises, the Guests Were Entertained in Epworth House, Where Speeches of Congratulation Were Made.

Epworth Leaguers from many churches and many places gathered in the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, last evening, as the guests of the chapter connected with it. The object was to assist that organization in the observance of its twelfth anniversary and the event was noteworthy enough to fill the edifice to overflowing. Among the chapters represented were those from Somerville, Bound Brook, Dunellen, Scotch Plains, Westfield and Cranford and also the First M. E. and Grace M. E. churches, of this city.

An address of welcome from President E. H. Beekman, of the Monroe Avenue chapter, opened the exercises and prayer by Rev. John MacMurray and scripture reading by Henry A. McGee followed. An excellent solo was rendered by Miss Bertha VanNuis Willis, accompanied on the piano by Miss Saidee Mae Howell, after which the speaker of the evening was introduced in the person of Rev. Dr. Jesse L. Hurlbut, of Morristown, former pastor of the First M. E. church, of this city.

As a speaker, Dr. Hurlbut's forcefulness of tone is such as to always command attention and in his address, last evening, he threw much of the charm which always makes him interesting. His theme related to the formation of character and the importance of high ideas. It was particularly appropriate to the occasion as its object was to impress these facts upon the minds of young people who constitute the Epworth Leagues represented. His talk was greatly enjoyed.

The second part of the evening's programme commenced at the close of Dr. Hurlbut's address when President Beekman invited all to the Epworth House, where light refreshments were served. During their disposal speeches of a congratulatory nature to the Monroe League were made by prominent representatives.

SURPRISE FOR DAUGHTERS.

Charming Affair Given by Mrs. John Martin, of Harmony Street.

Mrs. John Martin, of Harmony street, tendered a surprise party last evening to her daughters, Misses Jennie and Anna Martin, at the home of Mrs. Henry M. Seader, at 18 Lincoln place. The surprise was in honor of Miss Jennie Martin's birthday.

There were fifty people present from Somerville, Dunellen, Plainfield and North Plainfield. Phonographic selections, games and other forms of amusement were the features of the evening's entertainment. Refreshments were served just before the guests departed for their homes. Miss Jennie Martin received a large number of pretty presents from her friends.

MISSED AN EXPLOSION.

Gas Was in Power's Cellar, But the Match Was Not Lighted.

A narrow escape from a serious explosion was experienced Thursday by F. G. Finigan at Powers' Pharmacy on Somerset street. Mr. Powers has been making some alterations in his store and some one left a gas jet turned on in the cellar. The basement was filled with the gas when Mr. Finigan descended the steps an hour later. He was about to strike a match when the strong odor of gas blew in his face. Fortunately he noticed the smell before the match was struck, otherwise there might have been a serious explosion.

W. C. T. U. WORK IN JERSEY

INTERESTING REPORTS PRESENTED AT NATIONAL CONVENTION.

What Mrs. Thatcher and Mrs. Tomlinson Had to Say at Portland.

Among the most interesting reports presented at the National W. C. T. U. convention recently held at Portland, Me., none were more so than that of Mrs. Ella M. Thatcher, of New Jersey, National supreintendent among the soldiers and sailors. Mrs. Thatcher said that New York was entitled to the banner for the greatest amount of work done, Pennsylvania for the most spiritual work, Alma Preston to the Loyal Temperance Legion banner for the most comfort bags. Four unions have been organized among soldiers and sailors, the fourth being organized at Fort Williams recently, with fifteen members.

Mrs. Thatcher said she wanted a room in every city near the forts where the soldiers can meet She has spoken in forty barracks and Portland is the only city out of this number where the saloon is not open. Mrs. Thatcher urged the members to send comfort bags to the soldiers and sailors, and she believes that a rest room with free literature, ice water and cheerful surroundings will do more to offset the saloon than preaching.

"Never have I had so much encouragement as during the past year," said Mrs. Mary D. Tomlinson, of Plainfield, who attended the convention, and who is superintendent of social meetings and red letter days; "7,176 social meetings have been held, 2,082 red letter days, 4,923 members have been gained, 369 L. T. L. members and 1,280 honorary members have been secured."

CLEAVER COMING.

The Republican-Democrat is Booked to Speak Here Monday.

Rev. J. B. Cleaver, whose sudden change from the Republican ranks to those of the opposite party has raised a storm of comment on both sides of the political rail fence, will be in North Plainfield Monday evening and will make an address in Saengerbund Hall. There will be many other speakers present who will show up the weak sides of the Republicans.

Mr. Cleaver formerly resided in North Plainfield and it is very probable that many of Mr. Cleaver's friends will take advantage of this opportunity of learning from Mr. Cleaver why he changed his political views so suddenly.

David Carney announces that there will probably be a number of other prominent speakers present at that time.

Plans for the Winter.

The committee meeting of the East Third Street chapel Christian Endeavor Society was held Thursday evening at the chapel. The regular consecration meeting will be held Sunday. At the committee meeting plans for pushing the work for the coming year were discussed.

WHAT FOWLER HAS BEEN DOING

Republican Summary of His Work Since He Has Been in Congress.

IT IS WELL SUMMED UP

Elizabeth Journal Reviews His Achievements for New Jersey and the Republican Party—As It is Viewed From a Repubcan Standpoint.

National issues seem to be the opes on which the present Congressional campaign is being fought. Plainfield has seen and heard Congressman DeWitt C. Flanagan and he and his band of orators have outlined his course in Congress if elected. Congressman Fowler is going to be here next week to tell what he has done and what he is going to do. He has already served eight years in Congress and a resume of his career there will not be out of place at this time. The Elizabeth Journal prints the following summary of his work since first elected. While it is naturally of a highly commendable nature, it sums up very well what Mr. Fowler has done during the time he has represented this district in Congress.

The Republican view of Congressman Fowler's achievements, as summaried by the Elizabeth Journal, is as follows:

"Mr. Fowler was first elected to Congress in the fall of 1894. At the opening session of the 54th Congress he attracted general attention to himself as a new member, by a speech in favor of the single gold standard—a courageous position then to assume and maintain, as there were only two other Republican members at that time who had the courage to boldly declare themselves.

"In the following year he introduced a general financial and currency bill, in which he sought to attain the following objects: The establishment of the gold standard, the retirement of the demand obligations of the government, the funding of the debt into two per cent. gold bonds, a system of credit currency and branch banks.

"Nothing is slower or more difficult than financial and currency reform; yet this measure, the pioneer of its kind, has already produced two concrete results. An attempt was made to establish the gold standard by statute and the debt has been funded into two per cent. gold bonds—Mr. Fowler's influence in this legislation being clearly shown by the fact that the act funding the debt followed his plan in precise terms.

"When the Presidential election of 1896 drew near, Mr. Fowler, recognized as an authority on the financial question, was called upon to do yeo-

TOLD OF VACATION TRIPS

NOVEL SORT OF SOCIAL GIVEN AT THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

Was Arranged Under the Auspices of the Woman's Association—Those Who Talked.

A vacation social was enjoyed by many members of the Congregational church in the chapel on West Seventh street, last evening. The social was arranged by Mrs. John V. Beekman, Mrs. C. L. Goodrich and Mrs. Eugene M. Laing, who comprised a committee chosen by the Woman's Association of the church.

The evening's entertainment had many novel features which made the social all the more enjoyable. Many of the members of that congregation traveled quite extensively during their summer vacations and some of these gave their experiences while away from home in interesting descriptions.

George W. Fuller, who has resided in South America for several years but who is visiting in this city at present, told of the peculiarities of South America and of the people who live there. He had numerous photographs which he passed around among his hearers showing the most picturesque scenery and quaint people.

Miss F. F. Clark spent her vacation in Colorado and she entertained with some interesting descriptions of that scenic country. Miss I. S. Arnold, the principal at the Plainfield Seminary, was the only Plainfield person who was in Venice at the time of the fall of the Campanile. Her interesting narrative of the course of the fall of this magnificent monument of the architecture of centuries past and of the great pile of ruins, coming as it did, from one who saw the collapsed tower was a rare treat.

Miss Hariett Filmer was another interesting speaker. She told of her vacation experiences in an interesting manner. Outing songs were sung, accompanied upon the piano by Miss Alberta E. Waterbury.

Refreshments were served during a social hour which followed the speaking after which the social came to a close.

PRACTICALLY NEW.

Proprietor of Hotel Rosell Has Made Extensive Alterations.

A. B. Rosell, the proprietor of the hotel of that name, announces that the alterations there will be completed by November 15 and that the house will be open for business. He intends spending $10,500 on improvements and when completed he will conduct the establishment on both the European and American plans.

A first class restaurant will be conducted in conjunction with the hotel. The Park avenue front of the dining hall will be knocked out and a fine entrance built. Woolston & Buckle are the contracting painters and R. H. McCullough is the contractor for the carpenter work.

DEMOGRATS COMPLETE THEIR CITY TICKET

Vacancies Filled by Committee Appointed to Perform That Part of the Work.

A FEW CHANGES MADE

A. J. NOLAN WILL RUN FOR COUNCILMAN IN THE FIRST WARD.

A. H. Atterbury is Now Candidate for School Trustee and J. B. Guttridge for Chosen Freeholder—The Complete Ticket.

Several changes have been made in the Democratic city ticket. The retirement of F. S. Cutter who declined to run caused a change to be made in the councilmanic candidate in the First ward. Andrew J. Nolan will be the candidate. There were other changes.

The city ticket is now as follows: For mayor, James P. Homan; for city treasurer, Harry W. Marshall; for school trustees, Rev. E. M. Rodman and Albert H. Atterbury; for chosen freeholders, Jeremiah Manning and James B. Guttridge. Councilman, First ward, Andrew J. Nolan; Second ward, Charles A. Sturtevant; Third ward, no nomination; Fourth ward, Lewis M. Stover.

The committee on vacancies was V. L. Frazee, Charles A. Sturtevant and Andrew J. Nolan.

TRIANGULAR LEAGUE.

Leal's School Drops Out, But Basket Ball League Will Continue—A Constitution Adopted.

Feeling themselves outclassed, the Leal's School boys withdrew from the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League at a meeting of the executive committee last evening and the result will be a triangular contest between the Y. M. C. A., Hope Y. M. A. and Alis A. A. The resignation of the Leal's School A. A. was presented and accepted but the league will continue on the same lines and it is possible that the vacant place may be filled by Company K before the schedule begins.

At last night's meeting, a constitution was adopted and the league put in running order. On account of the change in numbers a new schedule had to be prepared.

CIRCLED THE GLOBE.

Walter B. Rittenhouse Returned Last Night From Eventful Trip.

G. M. Rittenhouse and his eldest son, Walter B. Rittenhouse, of Sandford avenue, returend last evening from Duluth. Walter B. Rittenhouse has now completed a trip around the world. He left New York December 31 last on the English steamer Maristow, going through the Mediteranean Sea, the Suez Canal, the Indian Ocean to Manila and then to China and Japan. He spent some time in the latter country and enjoyed a cruise on the inland sea. He crossed the Pacific to Portland on a sailing ship and then went to Duluth where he met his father and they returned together.

Y. M. C. A. CONFERENCE.

Boys' Deyartment Held Conference at Orange Yesterday.

Kenneth Robbie, the secretary of the boys' department of the Young Men's Christian Association, together with several boys, attended the State conference of Y. M. C. A. boys in the new association building at Orange yesterday. He will return today. Addreses were made both yesterday and today by prominent workers in the association, including Charles T. CHEAP COAL IS READY FOR SALE

Supply Obtained by Organized Aid Association Reached Here This Morning.

TO BE SOLD MONDAY

Can be Purchased for Ten Cents a Bucket at Yard or Thirty-Five Cents a Hundred Weight Delivered—Aid is to Supply Only Those in Actual Need.

The coal obtained by the Organized Aid Association for the working people arrived today and will be put on sale Monday.

Through the courtesy of George B. Stevens, the association has arranged to have the coal delivered from the yard of the Consumers' Coal Company, 225 Madison avenue, and it has employed Mr. Stevens to take full charge of the sale.

The coal will be sold at cost. This enables the association to make a price of ten cents per bucket, in the yard or thirty-five cents for one hundred pounds delivered at any address in the city or borough. No more than one hundred pounds will be delivered at one time for use of the same family. Orders must be placed between the hours of 10 a. m. and 3 p. m.

The aim of the association is to relieve those who are most in need; it is therefore requested that those who have any other resource will not apply for coal until the association is assured of a more plentiful supply. As soon as a second carload arrives, it will be announced in the papers.

The purpose of the plan is to make it possible for the small wage earner to buy his fuel with his own earnings without appeal to charity and since work is plentiful in the city and the price at which the coal is sold is no more than the normal price paid by small consumers, no coal will be given away but it will be sold for cash only to all who apply. There will doubtless be the usual need for assisting the poor this winter, but nothing more than usual if fuel is furnished at about the usual price, and all who are charitably inclined should give their money to the Relief Association which supplies those unable to buy and which, with the many demands on its treasury, is in need of assistance.

THEY MET.

And the Automobile Came Out Second Best With Truck.

While W. T. Kirk was driving his oldsmobile down Park avenue, near Second street, early last evening, the machine attempted to crowd one of Captain Hand's big trucks out of the way. The horse vehicle wasn't affected in the least but the dashboard of the machine was crushed in with a report that could be heard a block. The steering geer was not affected and the driver proceeded on after selecting a new course.

W. C. T. U. Service.

A helpful Gospel meeting was held Thursday afternoon in the W. C. T. U. rooms, where a number of the members and friends gathered for the weekly service. Mrs. M. C. Dobbins conducted the devotional exercises and other members took part in the meeting.

Meeting at Cranford.

James E. Martine and Congressman DeWitt C. Flanagan were speakers at a large political meeting at Cranford last evening. Edward M. Shepard, of New York, and the county candidates were also speakers at the meeting, which was an enthusiastic one.

Benefit of Nurses' Home.

A tea for the benefit of the Nurses' Home will be given at the home of Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy on West Eighth street, Thursday afternoon, October 30, from 3 to 6 o'clock. Home-made candy will be on sale and a silver offering will be received.

Trio to Speak.

The Bible study rally at the Y. M C. A. Hall tomorrow afternoon will be a meeting of special interest. Brief addresses will be given by a clergyman, a physician and a bussiness man. George E. Garretson will render pleasing handbell solos.

Won a Piano.

Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, met last evening and received several propositions. The tribe's piano, which was chanced off, was won by Thomas Burke, of West Fourth street.

man's work by his party. At the invitation of the Republican State Committee of Wisconsin he opened the campaign in that State, speaking there for four weeks. He then, in response to a similar invitation from the State organization of Indiana spoke in that State for one week. His effective work is well remembered in these states, and did much toward piling up the magnificant majorities by which they repudiated the heresies of free silver.

"In 1897 the Indianapolis Monetary Conference met in answer to the demand of the country for the best thought on the financial and currency situation. There Mr. Fowler, representing the Elizabeth Board of Trade, held his place as a leader of reform. His views were adopted as those of the conference; and through the wide dissemination given them by the executive committee have, day by day and year by year, slowly but surely been educating the people in right thought.

"In 1898 at the Omaha Exposition a monetary congress was held, and three days were devoted to a discussion of gold, silver and paper currency. Mr. Fowler was selected to debate in favor of bank currency against Hon. A. J. Warner, of Ohio, who spoke in favor of fiat paper money; and it was generally conceded that his facts and arguments for sound money were unanswerable.

"In the second national fight, that of 1900, against free silver and Bryanism, Mr. Fowler took a conspicuous part. He was among those who opened the campaign in Maine. He spoke repeatedly throughout the eastern and central states, and particularly throughout New Jersey, disregarding the interests of his own campaign in order that he might advance the public welfare. As a result of McKinley's re-election the so-called "Gold Standard" act of 1900 was passed; and another step taken towards the goal of national honor for which Mr. Fowler had labored so assiduously from his very entry upon public life.

"Thus, in Congress and out, he was ever faithful to the cause, preparing the way for the time when the country would be ready to consider and finally adopt a comprehensive financial and currency system, founded upon principles, tried and found true by all the civilized nations of the earth.

"All this time Mr. Fowler had been continued as a member of the banking and currency committee of the House of Representatives of which he was conceded to be the leading member. December last he became the leader in fact; being selected as chairman of the committee by Speaker Henderson. Committee work in Congress does not show for much in the public light, but it is the work that counts. After months of hard, unremitting labor, calling alike for statesmanlike tact and the knowledge of an expert, Mr. Fowler, by the unanimous direction of the Republican members of the committee, being eleven out of seventeen, reported the new financial bill, which has made his name known and famed throughout the land.

"This, in itself, was a notable achievement, a notable advance. So sensitive is thought on financial subjects, so set in their convicions are the advocates of various plans of reform, that hitherto it had been impossible to obtain the concurrence of more than three members of the committee to any particular measure.

"The Fowler bill straightway became one of the most important measures of the session, attracting quite as much comment and discussion as any one of the other prominent measures introduced. The press of the country considered it gravely and at large; and its verdict is written in the leading editorials of all the prominent newspapers, which, with not more than a half dozen exceptions, praised its principles, scope and method, and called upon the representatives of the people to enact it into law.

"All the bankers' conventions of this year have considered this bill almost exclusively; criticising unfavorably, it is true, the branch bank feature, through the fear that local institutions would be hurt seriously by a rate of interest uniformly lower than that now prevailing; yet giving assent to many of its features. Only recently Mr. Fowler received invitations from the bankers' associations of both Pennsylvania and Illinois, urging him to be present at their annual meetings to advocate and expound the principles of the measure.

"Mr. Fowler's recent speech in the House of Representatives on this measure will aid materially in the work of financial and currency reform. Through a broadcast distribution of it, at his own expense, he had the people as an audience; and their final judgment — intelligent, deliberate— will control Congressional action.

"The Republican National Committee has shown its appreciation of Mr. Fowler's ability in matters of finance and currency reforms by soliciting his aid as a speaker, and, in company with Secretary of the Treasury Shaw he opened the campaign in Vermont the first part of this month.

"Representatives, who through their enthusiasm and industry, thus become identified with a great issue, have always been recognized as the most useful members of Congress. McKinley and Dingley were returned again and again; their constituents believing that they in that way contributed worthily to the public prosperity and welfare. And such confidence is always reciprocally advantageous; for the more prominent a member becomes in the eyes of the nation, the more influence he has for the advancement of his district and state.

"But Mr. Fowler has never been a specialist in the narrow sense of the term. All the multitudinous requests and claims which make the routine life of a Congressman a busy one have received his prompt and careful attention. Such matters may well be left to the verdict of his constituents of both parties who have sought his kindly and faithful assistance. But in two instances of local improvement Mr. Fowler's record merits more than passing notice.

"During the 56th Congress Mr. Fowler gave his persistent effort in securing a resurvey of the Kill von Kull and Arthur Kill, convinced that the prosperity of his district would be enhanced by the deepening of this great waterway. He then secured the favorable action of the river and harbor committee, who reported an appropriation of $696,000. This appropriation was passed by the House in the spring of 1900 by the 56th Congress, but the bill failed of passage in the Senate.

"As soon as the 57th Congress convened, last December, Mr. Fowler renewed the fight; with the result that the river and harbor bill, which became a law, carried an appropriation, now available, of $696,000 for this much-needed improvement.

"Mr. Fowler, from the beginning of his Congressional career, advocated a public building for Elizabeth. When Mr. Howell became a member of the committee on public buildings and grounds, he realized that New Brunswick would be favored before other New Jersey cities; still he did not relax his efforts. As a result an appropriation of $135,000 was secured at the last session of Congress for the construction of a public building and postoffice, and $60,000 was made available, and covered into the sundry civil bill.

"In 1897 Mr. Fowler introduced a bill for the creation of a tariff commission in order that the very inequalities about which so much is heard today might be gradually adjusted and the country escape any shock to general business. In a word the object was to secure the evolution of tariff rates without a revolution in business interests which invariably follows a general revision of duties.

"At the beginning of the last session, the bill being number seven, he introduced a far more important measure of the same character, since, if enacted into law, it would have given the commission power to examine any of the officers, attorneys or agents of any corporation doing an interstate business or manufacturing any goods protected by tariff duties, and would also have given them power to compel such corporations to make regular statements of their business and accounts, the very thing now so strenuously urged by the President as the matter of greatest importance in dealing with the trust problem.

"Nor is Mr. Fowler content with his efforts in the halls of Congress, but treats his Legislative duties as if they were his own private affairs, it being well known in Washington that he has already expended more than ten thousand dollars in sending out upward of one million copies of the report upon the financial and currency bill reported from his committee, to the bankers, newspapers, lawyers, teachers, preachers, wholesalers, merchants, manufacturers and 400,000 farmers, and when the present arrangements for circulating his last great speech have been carried out the amount expended within six months will reach nearly $20,000.

"To the thoughtful and candid consideration of every voter in the Fifth Congressional district Mr. Fowler's high standing as a man, his place among the economic scholars of the country, his achievements since he entered the public service and his patriotism and devotion to the public welfare are submitted."

DIGG'S UPRIGHT FIRE EXTINGUISHER.
The Best on Earth! We Challenge the World!

The Extinguishers that turn up-side-down to discharge are good of their kind, but this is far better. Read the following reasons:
Points of superior merit of the Diggs-Upright over any other machine—
1—A sealed acid bottle and an air-tight tank. No change in the conditions of the chemicals possible.
2—Can never be discharged by accident; absolutely under the control of the operator.
3—A 3-gallon machine of this type contains ONE QUART more of liquid than a reversible, because it does not require a handle underneath.
4—It does not need inspection and recharging as required for the reversible with its loose stopple.
5—The acid being released at the top of the tank, and the outlet being at the bottom, the mingling of the chemicals is so thorough before the acid reaches the outlet that it is completely neutralized, and no harm can be done to flesh or fabric. In the reversible type the acid is released within the two inches of the outlet.
6—Convenience in handling. The machine stands on its bottom, and all the operator has to do is to turn the screw in the cap, and the flow begins instantly.
7—The bottle is not broken, and no nuisance of broken glass.

METHODISTS MILITANT.

Cleveland Conference Closes With Bright Prospects For Missions.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 25.—The closing session of the first general missionary convention of the Methodist Episcopal church was held in Gray's armory. Three thousand people were present. There was much devotional feeling shown, and the exercises were characteristic of that great body of church people. After prayer and a hymn by the quartet Robert E. Speer, one of the secretaries of the Presbyterian board of foreign missions, spoke. His subject was "Christ Our Living Leader."

The closing address was by Bishop Thoburn of India. It was a hopeful though brief statement of the outlook for mission work among the faroff people. He referred to the raising of the sum of over $300,000 on Wednesday night for mission work and said that nineteen days remained to raise the wished for sum of $500,000.

The bishop said he thought the Methodist Episcopal church was about to enter upon a revival of missionary work that would exceed any similar work in its history.

The bishop will soon return to India to his field of labor.

Twelve thousand dollars additional was added to the missionary fund by subscriptions. Bishop Thoburn announced that a resident of Cleveland stated that he would support fifty teachers in the Indian field for five years, a task involving the expenditure of $7,500. The announcement was received with applause.

Mohonk Conference Closed.

MOHONK LAKE, N. Y., Oct. 25.—At the concluding session of the Indian conference last evening speeches were made by G. H. Perris, a London journalist, and John Hobson, the well known English writer on political economy, relating to British colonial experiments and policies so far as they were applicable to the new dependencies of the United States. Both of these speakers took the view that British rule in India had been an absolute failure so far as it has been directed to imposing European civilization upon an Asiatic stock. Referring to the Kaffirs of South Africa, it was said that the method there, now favored by the most liberal and enlightened English administrators, was akin to our reservation system, the natives being kept under supervision, while all agencies were set at work for their education and gradual elevation to a higher order of life.

The Merger Hearings.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 25.—The attorneys for the state in the Minnesota suit against the railroad merger have sent out notices that the first hearing of testimony before the referee will take place next Wednesday. The state has about seventy days yet in which to take the testimony, but the work will be completed as soon as possible. Attorney General Douglas said that in order to save time and expense as much as possible of the testimony taken in the government case and also in the Peter Power case will be stipulated. It is said that the Minnesota case will be taken up by the United States circuit court in January.

BUFFALO, Oct. 25.—Governor Odell was given a cordial reception in Buffalo yesterday. A public reception at the Iroquois hotel between 4 and 6 o'clock, at which a large number of citizens paid their respects to the governor, and two mass meetings, the first on the east side and the second at Convention hall on the west side, were the features of the governor's first visit to Erie county since his renomination.

Hung For Wife Murder.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 25.—John Evans, colored, was hanged at Lawrenceville in the jailyard for wife murder. The drop fell at exactly 12:30, and the man was pronounced dead by the jail physician in sixteen and a half minutes. His neck was broken. He mounted the scaffold unsupported. His crime was a most cold blooded one.

Scout Horn Guilty of Murder.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 25.—Tom Horn, a famous scout and stock detective, has been found guilty of murder in the first degree. The trial of Horn for the murder of Willie Nickell, fourteen years old, a son of Kels Nickell, on July 18, 1901, at his father's ranch in the Iron mountain country, was begun Oct. 10.

COMMISSION MEETS.

Judge Gray to Preside Over Coal Strike Arbitration.

THE PRESIDENT GIVES INSTRUCTIONS

Taking of Testimony to Be Begun at Once—All Formal Meetings of the Board Will Be Open to the Public.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The commission named by President Roosevelt to settle the coal strike met and organized by selecting Judge Gray as chairman. It was decided that the board should officially be called the anthracite coal strike commission. It was also decided to hold the next meeting here on Monday afternoon.

Invitations will be sent to the presidents of the coal carrying roads who signed the proposition submitted to the president, to John Markle, the independent operator, and to John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers' union, and the district presidents in the anthracite region who are regarded as parties to the agreement, inasmuch as they signed the proposition which Mitchell submitted to the president on Oct. 3.

"You will endeavor to establish the relations between the employer and the wage workers in anthracite fields on a just and permanent basis.

"You will endeavor, as far as possible, to do away with any causes for the recurrence of such difficulties as those which you have been called in to settle.

"You will hurry your inquiries in order to render your decision at the earliest possible time."

These were the instructions, written and oral, which the president gave the commission when the members called upon him at the temporary White House at 10 o'clock.

The commission was with the president just seventeen minutes. The commission went to Mr. Wright's office to organize and to map out a general plan for meetings in Wilkesbarre, New York and Philadelphia. The public will be admitted to all formal meetings of the commission.

The testimony of the miners will be heard first through the medium of President Mitchell and his associates, they being regarded in a certain sense as the plaintiffs in the case. Mr. Mitchell will be examined first, to clearly set forth the grievances of the miners and their demands.

VOTE TO STAY OUT.

Action Taken by Employees of the Markles and Coxes.

HAZLETON, Pa., Oct. 25.—Employees of the G. B. Markle & Co.'s collieries and the men working at the Drifton mine of Coxe Bros. & Co. have voted to continue on strike until the conditions under which they are to be taken back by these firms are changed. One of the officials of Coxe Bros. & Co. said during the day:

"We insist that all the men formerly employed at our mines who went on strike shall apply to the respective foremen as individuals if they wish to return. If we have room for them and they committed no acts of violence during the strike, they will be taken back with the understanding that the nonunion men must not be molested. Every man who struck is considered by us as having left our employ, and that is why we will not resume operations by permitting the men to return to work in a body."

At Silver Brook colliery, operated by J. S. Wertz & Co., the men must also make applications as individuals before operations are resumed.

Troops Ordered Home.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 25.—General orders for the withdrawal of the troops in the anthracite coal regions have been issued by Governor Stone to Major General Miller. The orders do not state the time and manner of withdrawing the troops, but it is expected by the state authorities to send all of them home, with the possible exception of two or three regiments, before election day.

Large Shipments of Coal.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Oct. 25.—Thirty thousand tons of coal were shipped from local collieries yesterday to Philadelphia and New York markets, and 3,000 additional men went to work here. A few more nonunion men resigned and left the region.

New Line to England.

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—A new steamer service between this port and Bristol, England, has been perfected, and fortnightly sailings will begin next month. The steamers will berth at the Hoosac docks. The initial sailing on the new line will be made about Nov. 10, when the British steamer Inkum will take her departure. The other steamers assigned to the line are the Ikbal, the Inkum and the Iman. J. B. Welsford & Co. of Liverpool are owners of the new line.

PERSONNEL ACT BAD

Recent Naval Changes a Failure, Says Engineer Melville.

A REVOLUTION, NOT PROGRESSION.

As a Result of Exhaustive Experiments the Report Recommends Use of Oil For Fuel on Certain Vessels of the Navy.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The annual report to the secretary of the navy of Engineer in Chief George Melville is of unusual interest this year. Mr. Melville says with the greatest frankness that the personnel act has proved to be a failure as it is administered, and he declares that one-half of the officers of the navy are yet to be convinced of the benefits of amalgamation. To use his own words in referring to the personnel act, "It was rather a revolution than progression in naval development when congress enacted a law whereby every naval officer of the line had in the future to become a fighting engineer."

European experts declared that either their own navies were not properly organized or that the United States had made a mistake from which it would not recover for at least twenty years. Still, Admiral Melville thinks that if the law were administered with a desire to make it a success it would give the most efficient navy in the world. To that end he wants an engineering laboratory at Annapolis like that at Charlottenberg, Germany, for experimentation and the education in engineering of young line officers. He also asks the establishment of a post graduate course in engineering at the academy, the detail of a junior line officer as understudy to engineer officers on shore duty, such junior officers to be placed in charge of the machinery of torpedo boats and auxiliary craft; that promotion be denied line officers who do not take their turn at engineering work, that graduates of technical colleges be permitted a chance to compete for naval commissions, that a hundred additional warrant officers be appointed, that naval training be had at every naval station, that the pay of the boilermen be increased and, finally, that the name of the bureau of steam engineering be changed to that of engineering and that it be given charge of all machinery on shipboard except that pertaining to the guns.

The proposed use of petroleum as a substitute for coal on shipboard is treated at a length and in such detail as thoroughly to meet the innumerable demands that have come to the navy department for the special information collected by the engineering board composed of Lieutenant Commanders Edwards, Parks and Bailey. For months this board has been working with a big 2,000 horsepower boiler on the water front in this city testing a multitude of oil burning devices, and the great manufacturing concerns in the United States and even abroad have been seeking to learn the results of the board's work.

The details of the report on this subject will be of great interest to special classes. For the public perhaps they are summed up, as far as the navy is concerned, in the following extract from the report:

"The more this question is investigated the more intricate seems the problem of successfully installing an oil fuel appliance on board a battleship. It ought to be successfully used on the torpedo boats as well as upon auxiliary naval vessels that steam between regular ports. For the army transport service it might prove very desirable, since a supply of oil could be maintained at the several calling ports. In regard to the installation on the large powered battleships and armored cruisers there are three distinct features which must be considered—viz, the mechanical, commercial and the structural. Regarded from two of these viewpoints, it seems as if it would be some time before 'coaling ship' ceases to be an evolution upon the war vessel. While both the naval and mercantile vessels traverse the ocean, there is a wide difference in their construction as well as in the nature of the duty performed, and this must be taken into account in designing the motive plant."

"The bureau has no hesitation, however, in declaring that in view of the results already secured by the liquid fuel board an installation should be effected without delay on at least a third of the torpedo boats and destroyers."

Killed by Lightning.

UTICA, N. Y., Oct. 25.—Early last evening while harvesting apples on the farm of H. H. Wood on Lake Canadarago, near Richfield Springs, a bolt of lightning killed Henry Stanton and severely shocked Dorr Getman and another workman. The vicinity has been visited by several severe electric storms, something unprecedented in local history at this season of the year.

Famine Threatened In Sweden.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail in Stockholm says the utter failure of the harvest in the Torneå valley has caused great distress in northern Sweden. Famine is approaching, adds the correspondent, all the stocks of grain from previous years having been exhausted, and an early and severe winter aggravates the destitution.

Five Men Drowned.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 25.—Another marine disaster has been reported here. Five men were drowned by the foundering of a craft off Fogo during a recent gale. The total of the casualties among the fisher folk during the past few weeks is extremely large, and the total of lost fishing vessels for the year promises to reach an abnormal figure.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Inadequate Transportation Hinders. Labor Generally Employed.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

No better evidence of industrial and commercial activity is needed than present inadequate transportation facilities. Every form of railway equipment from track to rolling stock has been increased and perfected during the past few years to an extent that appeared almost excessive, yet the nation's business has more than kept pace. Unseasonably mild weather has retarded retail trade at many points, yet the movement of goods is fully sustained by undiminished preparations for future sales. Distribution delayed by high temperature is not lost, while the agricultural community will profit very materially by the tardiness of frost, increasing its ability to consume the products of factories and mills. Labor is more fully employed than at any recent date, only a few small controversies interrupting.

Pig iron is in great demand, imports promising to continue large, and, as the higher duty on steel may not be exacted, there is reason to anticipate a liberal movement from Germany. The demand for rails is so great that large purchases abroad are being negotiated, while practically all railway supplies find an eager market.

Exceptionally favorable weather has prevailed for developing the top crop of cotton, securing late grain and getting all farm products to market. Another week without killing frost added materially to the yield.

A better movement of corn brought more rational prices, but the level is still far above normal, and material concessions will have to be made before foreign buyers will exhibit their customary interest.

Wheat comes to market freely, interior arrivals for the week aggregating 8,689,483 bushels, against 6,182,393 last year, while exports from all ports of the United States, flour included, were 5,005,515 bushels, compared with 4,894,988 bushels last year.

Failures for the week numbered 232 in the United States, against 240 last year, and 22 in Canada, compared with 29.

Murder of the English Missionaries.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The China inland mission has received a report of the murders of the two English missionaries, Bruce and Lewis, in August last at Chenchoufu, in Honan province, from a missionary who investigated the crimes. The rioters posted placards urging the destruction of the chapel and the annihilation of the foreigners. Mr. Bruce sent a remonstrance to the local magistrate, who proceeded to the mission, accompanied by troops, but he was too late. Mr. Bruce had been murdered when the magistrate arrived there. Mr. Lewis was startled by a rock crashing into his study, and he escaped to a neighboring house, the occupants of which thrust him out. The military force on duty at the yamen slammed the door in his face, and Mr. Lewis was murdered in the street. Of thirty persons arrested in connection with these crimes only two were beheaded.

Carnegie Library Cornerstone Laid.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Andrew Carnegie was the principal figure in a series of functions held at Dundee, Scotland, yesterday, which included the laying of the foundation stone for the first of five branch libraries to which Mr. Carnegie has contributed $185,000.

Conductor and Brakeman Killed.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 25.—Conductor J. W. Turner and Brakeman J. F. Brennan were killed near here in a rear end collision of two Choctaw, Oklahoma and Gulf railroad freight trains.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

Digests what you eat.

Fat People and Thin People are Offered a Word of Caution.

Many persons worry because they are too fat, and many more worry because they are too thin. In both cases the food eaten is not properly digested.

Fat persons digest fat producing foods and do not digest foods that give muscular and nervous strength. They are not as strong as they look, and deserve more sympathy than they get.

Thin persons cannot digest fat producing foods. Sometimes they digest nerve and muscle foods and become nervous and wiry; but usually they do not properly digest anything, and lose health and steength.

Nature has made provision for the digestion of all classes of foods; and when our digestion becomes impaired, it is wisdom to take steps at once to remedy it. Many thousands are using with marked success the preparation known as KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE. As it contains all the digestants, it digests all kinds of foods and restores the digestive organs to health.

It can't help but do you good.

Prepared only by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. The $1. bottle contains 2½ times the 50c. size.

Fresh From the Sea.

Fishes of many kinds and various sizes are to be found here, and lovers of

MORE MINES OPENED.

Daily Output of Anthracite Now About 100,000 Tons.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 25.—There are twenty-two more mines in operation in the anthracite region than on the opening day, and the output will be close to 100,000 tons. When in full operation, the mines employ in every capacity above 145,000 men and boys. Of this number it is estimated that 82,000 are now at work. A more amicable feeling prevails between employer and employee, and the excitement over the commencement of work has worn off somewhat. In other words, there is more work and less talk. The nonunion men, despite what may be said to the contrary, are slowly being displaced at many of the mines and the old employees fast taking their places.

The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company continues to lead in production. There are two reasons given for this—the mines are in good condition and there is less friction between the district superintendents and the men who have returned to work. The work of clearing up those mines that are filled with debris from falls is pushed forward as rapidly as possible, and the fact that they are not in readiness to operate is a great disappointment to the mine owners. Ex-Congressman M. B. Williams, one of the largest individual operators in the Wyoming region, says his mines will not be in readiness to resume until some time next week, but he will take all his old employees, including steam men, back because they have served him faithfully in the past.

The trouble with the individual operators in the Lehigh region is expected to blow over in a day or two, and it is said here on good authority that all collieries in the Lehigh and Schuylkill regions that are in condition to mine will resume next Monday and that all the union miners will be re-employed. The mine inspectors are quite vigilant, and they have refused to give permission to the starting up of mines where the superintendents cannot furnish satisfactory proof that the underground workings are perfectly safe.

Situation About Scranton.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 25.—All of the mining companies in this region report that large additions are being made to their working forces and that by Monday a start will have been made in all the collieries except those at which extensive repairs undertaken during the strike will not be completed. The imported workman is a decidedly minus quantity. Superintendent Rose of the Delaware and Hudson company, which operates thirty places, says he does not know of a single "import" still in the company's employ. Other superintendents say very few remain.

Dr. Griswold a Bishop.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25. — The Rev. Dr. Sheldon Munson Griswold, rector of Christ church, at Hudson, N. Y., in the diocese of Albany, has been elected missionary bishop of Salina, the western district of Kansas, by the house of bishops, which met in the parish house of the Church of the Holy Trinity. There were several nominations. Dr. Griswold is fifty-one years of age and is a graduate of Union college, at Schenectady, N. Y., and of the General Theological seminary. He has been rector of Christ church at Hudson for a number of years.

The McKinley Memorial.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Postmaster General Payne and Secretary Cortelyou have gone to Canton, O., to attend a meeting of the trustees of the William McKinley Memorial association to select a site for the memorial. Of the $650,000 which the association desired to raise it has in hand in cash and pledges about $550,000. New York contributed $150,000 of this amount and Ohio a little more than $100,000. It is likely that the memorial will be placed on the most commanding site in the Canton cemetery, not far from the present tomb of Mr. McKinley.

Yale Awarded Championship.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Yale university was awarded the intercollegiate track and field championship at an executive meeting held in the Fifth Avenue hotel. The members of the executive committee of the Intercollegiate Athletic association who were present were George H. Hooker, Cornell, chairman; J. G. Willis, Harvard; Edwin K. Lodge, Princeton; Charles Gould, Yale, and Gilpin, Pennsylvania. Gustavus V. Kirby, Columbia, and Thornton Gerrish, Harvard, members of the advisory committee, were also in attendance.

Probable Gift to Loyal Transvaalers.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The Daily Mail this morning says it understands that the government will next week ask parliament to vote a grant of $10,000,000 for the benefit of those residents of the Transvaal who remained loyal to Great Britain during the war in South Africa in addition to the $15,000,000 granted under the peace treaty.

Chemical Works Burned.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The chemical works of George Leuders & Co., located in South Elizabeth, N. J., have been totally destroyed by fire. The fire was caused by an explosion of chemicals. The buildings were of wood and three stories high. The loss is estimated at from $30,000 to $50,000 and is partly covered by insurance.

Plot to Kill Europeans In Fez.

MADRID, Oct. 25.—A dispatch received here from Tangier, Morocco, says: "The sultan's vigorous action in dealing with the murderer of Missionary Cooper was due to the discovery of a plot to murder all the Europeans in Fez. This plot would have been carried out by a mob rising had the sultan shown any weakness or hesitation."

ONE MAN ROBS TRAIN

ESCAPES SAFELY WITH PLUNDER.

A Holdup on the Northern Pacific In Montana by One Who Boasts of a Former Robbery—Bloodhounds on the Trail.

MISSOULA, Mon., Oct. 25.—An eastbound passenger train on the Northern Pacific was held up during the night near Drummond, Mon., forty-five miles from this city, and Engineer Dan O'Neill was killed.

The train, which included mail, baggage and express cars and nine coaches, arrived at Missoula at 10:20 p. m. and proceeded eastward after a short delay at this station. It arrived after midnight at a place two miles west of Drummond. Here the train was signaled to stop, and the engineer slowed up. While doing so he saw a man creeping toward him over the tender. The man, who was armed, called to O'Neill to stop the train instantly.

The engineer took in the situation at once and, pulling open the throttle, tried to start the train at full speed. The robber divined his purpose and fired at him. The shot took instant effect, and the engineer fell dead at his post.

The robber then proceeded to rifle the express and mail cars. He plundered the regular mail and blew open the safe in the express car, which was wrecked by the explosion.

The amount of plunder which he secured is not known at present, but it is supposed to be large. The excitement on the train was intense. The sudden stoppage of the train, followed soon by the explosion, spread alarm among the train hands and the passengers. The darkness of the night and the loneliness of the place added to the general scenes of terror.

Word of the attack was sent to Drummond, whence it was telegraphed to Deer Lodge, about fifty miles away. Bloodhounds were sent out at once, and steps were taken to keep vigilant watch for the robbers.

It was assumed that at least eight men were engaged in the holdup, but the latest advices are that one man alone perpetrated the murder and robbery.

Dan O'Neill, the dead engineer, lived in this city and had a wife and five children. He had been in the service of the Northern Pacific company longer than any other engineer.

The robber boasted that he was the man who took part in the holdup of the Southern Pacific train near Portland, Ore., about a year ago. He made this boast to the train hands to terrorize them while he employed them to run the train four miles to a point two miles east of Drummond. He declared that he would be hard to catch, as he had a horse in the timber.

The Northern Pacific has offered a reward of $5,000 for delivery, dead or alive, of the train robber who killed O'Neill.

The mask worn by the bandit was found on a mountain trail two miles from the scene of the holdup, and after giving the hounds the scent of the mask the animals immediately took up the trail, which was then about eight hours old.

Dan Patch Failed.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 25.—Dan Patch, the famous pacer, driven by McHenry, failed in his attempt to lower the world's mark of 1:59¼ for one mile at the Trotting park here. The champion got away after scoring once, accompanied by a runner, and stepped the first quarter in 0:29¾. Up the back stretch he moved like a machine, and the half was passed in 0:59½. A shout of approval went up from the big crowd, and the next quarter was watched with anxious interest. The time, 1:30, was disappointing. Turning into the stretch, McHenry urged the pacer on, but Dan Patch tired perceptibly, and the wire was reached in 2:01 flat.

The Isthmian Situation.

COLON, Colombia, Oct. 25.—The situation on the isthmus remains unchanged. Small bands of so called Liberals are seen daily along the line of the railroad. Some of these men make bold to collect taxes, levy dues, patrol villages, etc., as there are no government troops stationed on the line. The death rate among the soldiers of the government now at Panama and Colon is very high. A good many of these troops come from the higher provinces and are not accustomed to the climate of the isthmus.

Priest Sent to Prison.

BREST, France, Oct. 25.—Abbe Salaun, parish priest at Lesneven, Finistere, has been sentenced in court to four months' imprisonment, and several other persons, including three women, were given various terms in prison for acts committed in connection with the resistance to the closing last August of unauthorized congregationist schools at St. Meen and other places in Brittany. All the prisoners were granted the benefit of the first offense law.

A Year Without Yellow Fever.

HAVANA, Oct. 25.—Dr. Finlay, chief of the sanitation department, commenting upon the health conditions of Havana during the month of September, says the death rate here was then 17.86 per thousand. With the end of September a full year was completed since a case of yellow fever originated in this city. This is an event which stands unparalleled in the memory of the oldest physician here.

THE CONGRESSIONAL FIGHT.

If one may judge from the fact that the Democratic party has turned loose in New Jersey some of its very best campaign orators and that the new Fifth Congressional district, of which this city forms a part, has had its full share of these dignitaries, it looks as if the Democrats believed that they had a chance of winning out in part of Jersey at least. Under the old division, the Democrats had two out of eight Congressmen. Under the new arrangement, it seems quite certain that the Democrats will land two out of ten and there are several districts which cannot be counted with certainty in either column. It is among the latter that the Fifth district is included. Here the Republicans declare they will win while the Democrats are hopeful.

Plainfield is to have an opportunity of comparing the two candidates in this district. Thursday night, Congressman DeWitt C. Flanagan appeared at the Democratic mass meeting here and made a brief address. Mr. Flanagan is not an eloquent speaker but he seems to be a man of worth and ability and the band of orators, who are accompanying him on this campaign tour, declare that he will do some good things if elected to Congress.

Congressman Charles N. Fowler is not a stranger to Plainfield and his voice has been heard from the rostrum in several campaigns. He is booked, however, to appear here again Thursday evening of next week at the only Republican mass meeting to be held in Plainfield this campaign. While Mr. Flanagan can only tell what he will do if elected, Mr. Fowler has a record of eight years in Congress. There seems to be some difference of opinion, however, as to his achievements there, depending upon whether they are viewed through Republican or Democratic glasses.

While the public at large has heard of him more or less during his service in Congress, there are few who have kept well enough informed to give any adequate idea of what he has done there. For the information of the public at large, therefore, we publish in another column today, a summary of Congressman Fowler's work as prepared by the Elizabeth Journal. It is a partizan view, of course, but that fact may be taken into consideration and a fairly good idea obtained which will be not far from the truth.

This long drawn out baseball season is expected to come to a close this afternoon provided either Plainfield or Westfield can win.
